OTHER VICTIMS OF THE DISASTER

Fragments of Bodies Found and Some Identified

Debris Sent Miles Into the Air—Phenomena of the Explosion That Caused Discussion—The Funerals of the Victims—Sufferers at the Hospitals—The Search for Bodies

...TWO MORE NAMES ARE ADDED TO THE LIST OF EXPLOSION VICTIMS, MAKING THE TOTAL NUMBER TWENTY-ONE. THREE HUMAN HANDS WERE FOUND YESTERDAY, ONE OF WHICH WAS IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF THE GRADY BOY AND ONE THAT OF LOUIS RICHARDS. EIGHT OF THE VICTIMS WERE BURIED YESTERDAY AND OTHERS WILL BE BURIED TODAY. STILL THE SEARCH CONTINUES FOR THE BODIES OF THOSE WHO WERE BLOWN TO PIECES. THERE IS LITTLE HOPE OF EVER FINDING MORE THAN MINUTE FRAGMENTS OF THE BODIES. BESIDES THESE PARTS OF BODIES ARE SO BLACK AND CHARRED THAT IDENTIFICATION IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE.

ADDITIONAL FRAGMENTS OF BODIES.

Yesterday the searchers at the scene of the explosion in South Lowell found additional fragments of human bodies.

HUMAN HAND IDENTIFIED.

The finding of a human hand that was later identified as that of Louis Richards was the most important development yesterday afternoon. Louis Richards, was an employe of the Cartridge Co., and was at work at the magazine at the time of the explosion. His brother, George Richards, identified the hand.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind," he said, "that that is the hand of my brother. So positive am I of it that I have ordered Undertaker Archambeault to take possession of it. When he went to work Wednesday morning he wore a $.0 diamond ring. That ring has gone but I suppose it may have been blown off. However, the ring mark is there and I know it must be Louis' hand. The most convincing proof that it is his hand, though, is that big callous on the thumb which was caused by a cut made some time ago. Then, again, a pair of trousers which I know he wore was found within a few feet of the hand. They were the same as these I have on. We bought them at the same time."

Mr. Richards said his brother had told his family on Tuesday night that he was afraid of the job at the magazine.

THE WRECK AREA.

The area covering the immediate scene of the explosion contains about twenty or twenty-five acres, but the wrecked district is fully twice as large.

The district known as Riverside park is covered over with wreckage. Some places this debris is several feet deep, in others not so deep, but everywhere within a radius of a quarter of a mile of where the magazines stood is covered with wreckage.

Some houses are reduced to splinters or to ashes, others are torn to fragments, showing gaping holes, protruding timbers and framework upturned as if the whole had passed through the fury of a cyclone.

What is remarkable about the debris is that it is almost as fine as gravel, the brick from the magazine being reduced to small pieces, the lighter timbers of the destroyed houses to splinters and even the largest foundation timbers broken up like penstalks.

WENT MILES IN THE AIR.

It is quite probable that the bricks from the magazine and portions of the wagons and even the flesh of the horses and mayhap of some of the human bodies, were sent miles up in the air, torn more and more as they went.

Part of the material fell miles from the scene. Part of it fell in the form of gravel at the Moody school on High street; and Mrs. Grady, wife of William Grady, corner of High and Rogers streets, was struck on the head by material like gravel or small pebbles some moments before she heard the sound of the explosion.

This demonstrates that the material from the explosion traveled faster through the air than did the sound of the explosion. This is nothing new. It is illustrated in the firing of a gun when seen at a distance. The shot will have reached its destination before the report is heard. So it was with the great explosion to those at any considerable distance.

ANOTHER PHENOMENON.

Another phenomenon that has caused much comment and discussion is the cause of the breaking of glass in parts of buildings turned away from the direction of the explosion.

This may be explained in two ways. The pressure caused by the sudden expansion of the air when the explosion occurred was exerted in all directions same as in the pressure in a barrel of water. It is exerted against the sides as well as the bottom, increasing of course towards the bottom of the barrel.

But it was not the pressure exerted in this manner that broke windows on the sides of buildings opposite the direction of the explosion, although it may have caused some of the breaks.

When the explosion occurred there was a terrific pressure outward and then nearly an equal pressure back towards the centre of the explosion. This was the reaction of the effort of the atmosphere to regain its equilibrium. It is another illustration of what is known as "Nature's horror of a vacuum."

When it is considered that the pressure of the air upon every square inch of surface is about fourteen pounds it may easily be imagined what the effect will be when it is suddenly subjected to an explosive force sufficient to lift the largest navy in the world wholly out of the water. Powder is a strong explosive but dynamite or nitro-glycerine is about fourteen times as strong.

Experts could compute the number of foot tons, viz, the number of tons which could be lifted one foot high by all the dynamite and gunpowder in the magazines. The number if known, would be utterly amazing.

MORE DYNAMITE FOUND.

Dr. Thomas F. Carroll this morning made perhaps the most important discovery since the explosion occurred.

While searching amid the ruins with others he came across a can of unexploded dynamite in a hole in the ground where thousands have been passing to and fro.

Upon learning of the deadly nature of his find Dr. Carroll dropped the can into the pool of water in the hole where the dynamite magazine had stood.

Selectman Blaisdell ordered the guards to let no one through the ruined district for the present while Mayor Howe ordered the fire department to remove the water from the pool.

PATHETIC SIGHT

THREE HEARSES ABREAST TOLD SAD STORY.

The bodies of the three little McDermott boys who were killed in the explosion were buried from the chapel at Undertaker C. H. Molloy's establishment in Market street yesterday afternoon.

The sight of the three white caskets side by side was a pathetic one. The chapel was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends and the heart-broken parents of the children whose years were quickly counted, could not abate the tide of their terrible grief.

Just before the coffins closed on the bodies of her dead children Mrs. McDermott threw herself on the caskets and wept bitterly. Her great grief so affected everybody that even the men present could not suppress their tears.

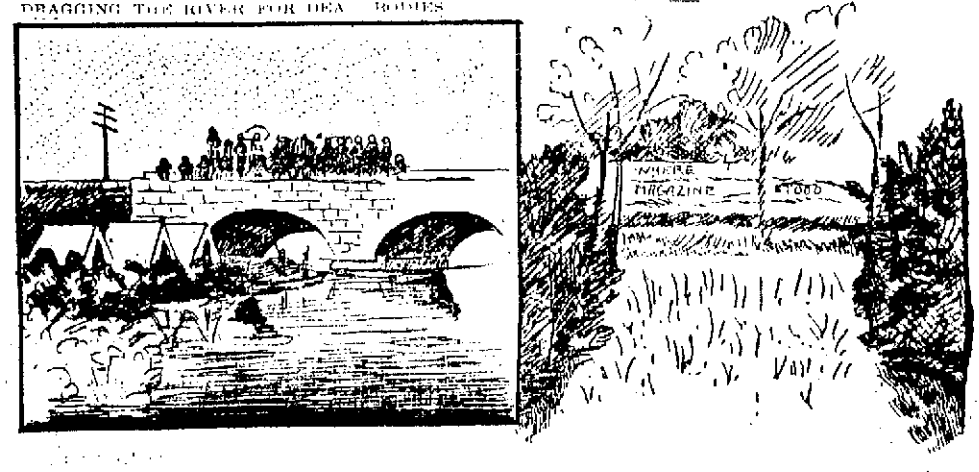

The caskets were placed in three white hearses that moved down the street three abreast and were followed by a long line of carriages.

The streets were lined with people whose sympathy, in many instances, was manifested by tears.

The interment in St. Patrick's cemetery was witnessed by at least 300 people. Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., of the Sacred Heart church officiated. The bearers were four cousins of the dead boys.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

JOSEPHINE PERUSSE AND HER MOTHER BURIED YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Vitaline Perusse and her daughter, Josephine, victims of the terrible explosion, were buried in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday afternoon. The double funeral took place from Mr. Hector Hamelin's house, 96 Andover street, where the bodies had been taken on the previous night.

The bodies were taken to St. Joseph's church where a Libera was sung with the full choir in attendance. Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., officiated at the church and at the cemetery.

The bearers for Mrs. Perusse were Messrs. Edward Brochu, Alex. Brochu, Louis Lantaigne, Benjamin Lajeunesse, Peter Desmarais and Clement Surprenant.

The bearers for Josephine were four young boys, her three brothers, Jerry, Joseph and Albert Perusse, and her cousin, Master Geo. Lantaigne. There were also four honorary bearers, young girls dressed in white and wearing veils, schoolmates or friends of the dead girl and all of them Children of Mary. They were Misses Augustine Dancause, Maria Albert, Blanche Brunelle, Marie Anne Chouinard.

Undertaker Albert had charge of the funeral. At 7 o'clock this morning funeral services were sung for the repose of the souls of both victims of the accident.

THE OULIGHAN BOYS BURIED.

Thomas Ouilghan and Joseph Ouilghan, the two brothers who were in swimming and were killed as a result of the explosion were buried yesterday afternoon. A double funeral took place from the home of their parents, 5 Wamesit court, off Cushing street, and the two little white hearses going side by side from the home of the deceased to the Catholic cemetery presented a very tearful sight.

The interments were in the Catholic cemetery and were under the direction of Undertaker Peter Davey.

MRS. RIGG'S FUNERAL.

The remains of Mrs. Catherine Rigg, wife of William, whose body was one of the first to be found, were consigned to their final resting place in the Edson cemetery yesterday afternoon. The remains reposed in a black broadcloth casket at the funeral parlors of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck in Middlesex street, but were so badly disfigured that they were not exposed.

The funeral cortege wended its way to the Edson cemetery chapel where services were held at 3 o'clock, Rev. N. W. Matthews, of the First Primitive Methodist church, officiating. The reverend gentleman spoke in an eulogistic manner of the life of the deceased and the unfortunate death which she met. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings, among them being a beautiful pillow, bearing the inscription "Mother," from the family of the deceased; mammoth wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rigg; basket of flowers, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitworth, and a spray of pinks, Mrs. Poole.

The interment was in the family lot in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck

PAID DEATH BENEFIT.

Despite the fact that nothing of the body of George Flynn, one of the victims, has been located as yet, one of the local insurance companies in which the victim was insured, has paid the death claim.

While this system of paying death benefits is rather rare, the company was satisfied beyond a doubt that Flynn was killed. The insurance company is worthy of much praise for its prompt payment.

TWO MORE VICTIMS.

The list of dead which reached 19 yesterday has been swelled to 21. The names of William Flynn and James Reynolds having been added. Both of these boys were about 16 years old and were in swimming near the Six Arch bridge at the time of the explosion.

Not a trace has been found of the bodies though some of the fragments of limbs and other parts of bodies now in several of the local undertaking establishments may be from their bodies. It is hoped, however, that their bodies may be found in the Concord river.

MAYOR HOWE ARRIVES.

His Honor, Mayor Howe, arrived in Lowell last night and was driven to the scene of the explosion where he found that Acting Mayor Miskella had ably represented him in his absence. Mayor Howe had a conference at midnight with Selectman Blaisdell and talked over the situation.

THE TWO POWDER WAGONS.

A morning paper in criticizing the alleged attempt on the part of a Boston paper to show that the explosion was due to carelessness, says in what purports to be a statement made by a "responsible party," that the wagons for the removal of the gunpowder had not arrived and that nitric acid was not used. The Cartridge company says the powder was all loaded. Two large holes mark where they stood.

It is believed that parts of the wagons were driven into the ground and what would seem to be good proof of that is the fact that Captain Kew yesterday unearthed a portion of the hub of one of the wagons.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

Of the three patients who were at the Emergency hospital yesterday, one, Jeremiah McCarthy, left and went to stay with a friend of his. He was not discharged from the institution as it will be a matter of several months before he will have recovered. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the left arm, there being a large hole below the elbow.

George Perusse and Zephrin Perusse, father and son, are the only patients now remaining at the Emergency hospital. George has an abrasion on the thigh which makes it impossible for him to walk and Zephrin has three fractured ribs and is badly burned. They are recovering rapidly though and may be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

Mr. Perusse and his son attended the funeral of Mrs. Perusse and her daughter yesterday afternoon. They desired to be present at the last said rites and a hack was ordered and both patients were made as comfortable as possible in the conveyance and taken to the cemetery. After the funeral they were returned to the Emergency hospital.

FINGER CUT OFF.

Annie Daly, residing at 75 Summer street, while at work at the Lowell Weaving Co.'s mill late yesterday afternoon, cut the top of the right little finger off. She was removing a bly of yarn which had been placed on the machine wrong when the little finger was caught in the machine and badly lacerated. She was attended at the Emergency hospital.

THE WEATHER

By Associated Press to The Sun

Fair and cooler tonight; fair Saturday.

WOMAN LEFT HIM

And Richard Wood Turned on the Gas

Because the woman whom he called his wife left him, Richard Wood, a member of the Lowell Military band, turned the gas on in his room at the Wheeler block, corner of Merrimack and Tilton streets, last night, and lay down to die.

Roomers in the block detected the odor of gas in the halls this morning and traced it to room 3, occupied by Wood. They called and receiving no response, pushed the door in.

Wood's body, cold in death, was lying half dressed across the bed.

Wood, according to the story told the officers by persons in the block, quarreled with the woman whom he called his wife and she left him.

The quarrel occurred yesterday morning and she left the room some time during the day.

She told Wood that she would never see him again and he evidently believed that she meant what she said.

He told a roomer, with whom he was quite friendly, that his wife had left him. "She's gone for keeps," he said, "and I'm done for."

That Wood intended to make death certain was evidenced by the methodical manner in which he arranged for the deed.

He pulled the curtains down, plugged the cracks about the doors and windows and turned the gas on full blast.

Wood's parents live in England and he has relatives in Peterboro, N. H.

HIS FINGERS BURNED.

Frederick R. Tay, residing at 33 Fay street, while at work at the Talbot mills in North Billerica last evening, burned the third and fourth finger of the left hand by escaping steam. He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where his injuries were dressed.

HAD HAND JAMMED.

John Stocks, aged 19 years, residing at 26 Burns street, while at work at the Lowell Machine shop this morning had the middle finger of his left hand jammed. The ambulance removed him to the Lowell hospital where his injury was dressed.

RIGGS FAMILY

The Hand of Fate Fell Heavily Upon Them

John Riggs, whose father's house was completely demolished and whose mother was killed, says that his father had over $100 in a desk in the house and no trace of it can be found. Mr. Riggs is left penniless and it is to be hoped that if the money has been found it will be returned to his son, who resides at 35 Newhall street.

Mrs. Riggs seemed to have a presentiment that something was going to happen. For three nights before the explosion she could not sleep and at 3 o'clock the morning of the explosion she remarked to her husband that she felt she wasn't long for this world. When her husband started off in the morning with his horses and dump cart to work in Wigginville she cautioned him to hurry home. At the time of the explosion he was loading his team not more than 500 yards from the scene. His horses jumped into the air and trembled.

Mr. Riggs' first thought was of his home, and exclaiming "The magazine." "My poor wife," he started home, only to find his house completely demolished, his wife gone and his son pinned under the debris shrieking and writhing in agony.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

The Emergency hospital did good work for the wounded yesterday. It had 16 cases, one of which, Josephine Perusse, died from wounds. The doctors worked hard to relieve the injured.

LOUIS RICHARDS

DREADED THE JOB OF MOVING DYNAMITE.

Louis E. Richards, whose body is still missing, was 28 years of age. He was employed as second hand for the United States Cartridge company for six years. He had charge of a gang of men loading and unloading explosives.

Yesterday was the first time for several months that Richards had been assigned to duty at the magazine and he seemed to feel a presentiment that something was going to happen. He was not in the habit of talking of his work at home, but Tuesday night he told his family that he dreaded the task of the morrow. He said he did not want to refuse to go to work at the magazine, but he dreaded it.

"There is terrible danger lurking there," he said, "and if ever an explosion occurs it will shake the whole city. There is nitro-glycerine and dynamite on the floor and it is dangerous to even walk in the place."

His family tried to chase the thought of pending danger from his mind, but it was there to stay and it was with a reluctance peculiar to him that he left home Wednesday morning.

THE LATE LOUIS E. RICHARDS WHO HAD CHARGE OF THE GANG OF MEN.

Richards in speaking of the danger in the magazine said there was 150 pounds of dynamite in the magazine where the new floor was being laid and that was enough, he said, to make the earth tremble for miles around.

Richards was a member of L'Association Catholique, of Rochambeau Council, Royal Arcanum, of which he was secretary; of La Garde d'Honneur and of the Club Fleur de Lis. He was very popular in French circles.

He was born at Pointe Aux Roches, N. Y., 28 years ago, and had been a resident of Lowell for 11 years.

His father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Richards, reside at 794 Merrimack street, with his three brothers, William, Edward and Joseph, and five sisters, Lillian, Ethel, May, Annie and Georgiana.

The three brothers of the missing man went last evening to O'Donnell's where the arm of a man, covered with the shirt sleeve, had been taken from the scene of the disaster. This was thought to belong to Louis Richards' body. Messrs. Richards, however, could not identify the arm as being that of their brother, not being able to say positively whether it was or not. The arm was badly maimed, and the cloth so soiled as to be unrecognizable.

GOOD WORK BY POLICE.

The police who responded to the call for duty a short time after the explosion occurred did grand service during the day.

Lieut. Towsley and the men of the late night shift who had been relieved only half an hour before the explosion occurred donned their uniforms and went at once to the stricken section. They remained at their post until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They got about five hours sleep and reported for regular detail work at 12.30 this morning. It is not generally known that on such occasions as that of yesterday the policemen received no compensation whatever regardless of what time they may spend at the scene.

THE INSURANCE QUESTION.

The question of insurance is a matter that is causing great discussion. An insurance agency has notified The Sun that for any damage caused by the explosion no insurance can be claimed. But for damage that was caused by fire after the explosion occurred claims are valid. For instance if the roof was blown off a certain house and then fire started in the remaining portion of the structure the assessment of damages would be made on the estimated value of the part of the house not damaged by the explosion.

In the case of windows that were smashed by the shock no insurance can be recovered as it is expressly stated that the company will not be liable for any injury done to glass by an explosion.

A CHARITABLE DEED.

Yesterday, just before noon, a woman went to Coburn's store on Market street and said that every window in her house was blown out and that she had no money with which to buy glass and have it set. The woman was perfectly honest in the matter and Mr. Coburn at once sent one of his men to her house and panes of glass were set wherever needed.

THROWN OUT OF BED.

Fred A. Hennessey, a conductor on the Pawtucketville line who lives at 65 Cosgrove street, was thrown out of bed and on awakening found himself lying on the floor of his room.

REV. FR. KERWIN FIRST ON SCENE.

The Sun yesterday stated that Fr. Flynn of the Sacred Heart church in Moore street was the first priest at the scene of the explosion, and in the modesty becoming his calling that good priest telephoned The Sun office last evening and stated that Fr. Kerwin was the first priest on the scene, and Fr. Flynn added, "Fr. Kerwin did all that a servant of God could do."

THE GALLOWAY FAMILY.

William Galloway, a barber at 718 Lawrence street and his young son, Robert Galloway, were among the dead and they were residents of the ill-fated locality only a few weeks. For years the family resided in the rear of the shop on Lawrence street but a few weeks ago Mr. Galloway bought a home of his own in Riverside park.

THE LATE ALEXANDER LAYER.

The boy Robert was found lying dead on the road with his breast torn open by Capt. Joseph Jennings of the Lawrence street fire company. The father was found terribly injured and was placed in a wagon and taken to St. John's hospital where he died in the arms of Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I.

BELANGER'S STORY.

Almeda Belanger, aged 18, of 500 Central street, who was one of the Cartridge company employes at the magazine, is in a critical condition, but able to talk.

In an interview he said:

"I was working at the powder magazine with Goodwin and the rest of the squad which was sent out yesterday morning. I don't know a great deal about how it happened or how I got hurt. I simply remember being in the powder house with Goodwin and we saw smoke coming from the floor. We both ran out and were about 50 feet away when I heard an awful noise. I don't know anything about what happened after that.

"Did you see Goodwin pour the contents of a bottle onto the floor while you were in the magazine?" he was asked.

"No," came the reply. "I didn't see Goodwin with anything in his hand. I saw smoke coming from the floor and Goodwin was standing near me so we both ran."

"Where were the other men who were working with you, all this time?"

GEORGE FLYNN, EMPLOYE OF CARTRIDGE CO., WHO IS MISSING.

"I don't know where they were. I didn't notice."

COL. BUTLER AMES' STATEMENT.

Col. Butler Ames when seen about the disaster said:

"I have not the slightest idea what caused this terrible calamity. I do not know what caused the explosion. Our company had two magazines located in South Lowell and men were at work there yesterday morning removing powder for the purpose of removing the same to our factory on Lawrence street.

"There were eight men. Two were injured and sent to the hospital. The other six I have not heard from and they have not been accounted for. I do not know their names.

"Mr. Davis will probably be able to tell you. Oh no, we have as yet no idea of the loss we have sustained and will not know for three or four days. Our sole concern now is to look after the homeless and injured and try and locate the missing."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

OF THE UNITED STATES CARTRIDGE COMPANY.

The following statement was given out by the United States Cartridge company yesterday afternoon: "The land on which the powder magazines were situated was owned, one half by the Nichols & Fletcher estate and one half by the U. S. Cartridge company. There were two brick magazines, one owned by the Cartridge company and leased to the Du Pont Powder company in which none of our own powder was stored, and another that was owned two thirds by our company and one third by the estate of Nichols & Fletcher. It was built in 1875, at a time when there were no buildings in the vicinity.

"We understand that the American Powder company were using the part of the magazine belonging to the Nichols and Fletcher estate, under what agreement we do not know. In that part of the building dynamite has been stored for some time and recently we discovered that some of the nitro-glycerine had leaked out of the dynamite boxes and was visible in a streak on the floor, under the open partition between the two sections of the magazine.

"We brought the matter at once to the attention of the Thompson Hardware company, assuming at the time that they were the occupants, and were referred to the American Powder company, to whom we immediately explained the situation and the danger that it might involve. We asked that it be remedied at once and they concluded to relay the floor, and later they made arrangements with the Cartridge company to furnish men for the carpenter work and men and teams for the removal of the powder at the expense of the powder company. They were to remove their dynamite at the same time and were to furnish their own teams for that.

"Our powder had all been removed and was loaded upon three of George L. Stanley's drays when the explosion occurred. The other teams had not arrived. We had six of our own men there and Mr. Stanley had three. There were probably one or more men in the magazine when the dynamite exploded. As to the immediate cause of the explosion we have no knowledge. We know that the first explosion was in the dynamite magazine, for smoke was seen issuing from the building and one of the men was heard to shout 'run.' The men were in the act of running when the magazine blew up, presumably causing the explosion of the loaded wagons and the second powder house."

CLEAR ACCOUNT

BY C. ALBERT LYBRAND, ONE OF THE INJURED.

A report which for several hours was generally believed, had C. Albert Lybrand, the popular messenger employed by the U. S. Cartridge Co., as among the dead. Such happily was not the case and Mr. Lybrand was found at St. John's hospital by his wife. His right side was badly torn by nails but his injuries are not serious and he will be able to leave the hospital in a short time.

Mr Lybrand was not at the magazine at the time of the explosion. He was driving toward the magazine when he saw smoke coming from the little building. He attempted to turn around and go back and while turning the explosion occurred. He was thrown under lumber and the walls of a house and in crawling out from under the debris was badly torn by nails.

"Just how it occurred," said Mr. Lybrand, "is known only to those who were in the magazine and they were blown to atoms."

He says further that none of the cartridge shop employes were within the magazine at the time.

ROLEAU STILL MISSING.

There is absolutely no trace of Alexander Roleau, one of the Stanley teamsters, and there is but one sad conclusion; he was blown to atoms.

Roleau is also known as Alexander Layer. He was 30 years old, 5 feet, 11 inches in height, weighing 152 pounds. He was married and resided at 12 East Merrimack street. It is supposed that he was seated on a wagon loaded with powder which exploded, demolishing man, horses and wagon. James Sullivan was the only one of the three to survive the explosion even for a brief period. He died yesterday at the hospital.

GOVERNOR BATES

SENT UP 11 STATE OFFICERS THIS MORNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Gov. Bates promised to have 11 state police officers send up in the morning and Gen. J. H. Whitney arrived last evening to arrange with the Tewksbury selectmen for the detail of police today.

After the dead and injured had been removed, the three selectmen of Tewksbury devoted themselves to taking care of the homeless.

Chairman Blaisdell, with Mr. Phelps and Mr. Catherwood, each took a section of the stricken district. Wagons with sandwiches and coffee were sent about, and the selectmen made personal inquiry of every one who had survived the loss of his home to see if he and his family had a place to sleep.

Many of them have relatives in Lowell and they found a refuge with them. Others were provided for by sympathetic residents of Tewksbury, who were thankful that their homes were intact.

"There is no case of need here today," said Selectman Albert Catherwood. Mr. Catherwood pays especial attention to Wigginville, as this is the district he assesses, the selectmen being the assessors, also.

The Late CHARLES W. MOORE.

"We have seen that everyone whose home has been destroyed or injured has something to eat and a place to sleep," said he. "You cannot put it too strongly that, although it is a disaster to us, the town will take care of its people.

"Many generous neighbors have come forward and men and women have traveled across the town to offer shelter to the afflicted families."

Mr. Catherwood was asked for an estimate of the damage.

SETTLEMENT WIPED OUT.

"The houses that are burned, demolished and injured right near here cannot be replaced for less than $75,000," said he. "Then the damage to others further away in Wigginville will be about $25,000 more. Many of these houses that are still standing will have to be torn down, as it will be impossible to repair them.

"It is a very hard blow to this settlement, as most of the men were poor workingmen, who had saved enough to build a small home."

LUCKY PAINTER.

A man named McLean, a painter, was painting a house near the scene of the explosion and was thrown from the ladder but escaped with slight injuries.

Dave Barry, a slater, was at work on a house in Wigginville and was thrown off the staging and broke his arm.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Stephen Flynn's family, living at 46 Billerica street, had a miraculous escape. His house was almost completely ruined. His furniture and household effects were destroyed. His mother, wife and child were at home at the time and all escaped with slight injuries. A large brick came through the side of the house into the room within a yard of where his wife and child were sitting.

ASSISTED THE POLICE.

Michael J. Reidy, an employe of the Lowell cemetery was one of the first on the scene after the explosion. He assisted the police in caring for the injured and searching for victims.

WAS KNOCKED DOWN.

Frank Ranchase, agent for D. J. Ring, was in a house in the vicinity of the explosion and was knocked down and rendered unconscious for several minutes.

ACTING MAYOR MISKELLA

HOLDS A CONFERENCE WITH SELECTMAN BLAISDELL.

Acting Mayor Blaisdell held a conference Chairman Blaisdell of the Tewksbury selectmen this forenoon in regard to caring for the poor. It was the acting mayor's intention to act upon The Sun's suggestion and call a public meeting to devise ways and means to aid th homeless if the town of Tewksbury would accept such aid.

The Sun reporter was admitted to the conference and Selectman Blaisdell after thanking the acting mayor for his kindness and aid said: "at present the town is caring for its own and is hardly in need of help. We are aiding the homeless and injured in a systematic manner. The homeless have been put in with friends and relatives about the town, a caterer has been engaged to feed them and a corps of physicians and surgeons to attend to the suffering ones. The town is bearing all the expense.

If the charitably inclined and the newspapers care to raise funds for the needy, the selectmen will gladly accept them and distribute them where they will do the most good, or if those raising the funds care to distribute the money themselves, the town will gladly send its officials with them to the houses where the homeless are being sheltered. I am having a complete list of all in the town who were injured. There are many in the houses in the vicinity whose injuries have not been made public as yet. Some physicians state that the number of injured will aggregate nearly 500."

Acting Mayor Miskella then decided that a public meeting in Lowell will not be necessary and hence will not issue a call for such a meeting.

MR. FLYNN'S OFFER.

Joseph Flynn of 137 Gorham street telephoned The Sun office this morning that he will contribute $25 to the sufferers.

CARTING DYNAMITE

EXPLOSIVE TRANSPORTED LIKE CORDWOOD.

Some idea of the magnitude of the explosion can be gleaned when the fact that 600 cans of powder, making a total of about 30 tons, was taken to the magazine last week, is taken into consideration.

Relative to the transportation of the explosives to and from the magazines a man who was once engaged in the business said to a Sun reporter today that handling dynamite is subject to the application of the old saw that says: "Familiarity breeds contempt."

"When I was engaged in carrying dynamite to and from the magazine we used to exercise the utmost precaution.

"In those days we used to "muffle" the barrels. That is, we used to arrange them so as to prevent any jarring. We used to put horse blankets on the bottom of the wagon and on the top of each barrel we would put a horse blanket folded three times, so that there would not be any grating between the barrels, when we would put one on top of the other.

"Lately, so far as I have been able to discover, the precaution of early days has been thrown to the wind and the company has been transporting dynamite to and from the place in practically the same manner as cord wood is carted.

"Within the last few weeks I have seen dynamite taken to the magazine in barrels that were piled on top of each other in such a way as to get the benefit of any shock that might occurr en route. I tell you it is pesky dangerous stuff but as the carelessness of transportation had nothing to do with the death rimmed disaster it is hardly pertinent.

"It was the leaking nitro-glycerine that did the trick. Somebody blundered and while those in fault will move heaven and earth to keep the truth from the public I hope and trust that the press will get at the truth even though it should have to squeezed it from the lips of the blundering criminals. My language is good and strong, but it is excusable. I stood within the police ropes in the afflicted village yesterday and I witnessed the saddest sight that I ever witnessed in my life and I thought then that the men responsible for the heart-rending spectacle deserved no better fate than that which their negligence brought upon others."

DRAG THE RIVER.

It is a growing conviction that there are bodies of men and horses in the Concord river, and the suggestion has been made that the river be dragged. The bank of the river is strewn with bits of horseflesh and clothing.

ARMED MEN

Demand Payment of Members of Revolutionary Army

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVANA, July 30—In spite of the assertion yesterday by Senor Yero, secretary of the interior, that the killing of three men and the capture of the fourth man, who had attempted to cause an uprising in the vicinity of Bayamo, province of Santiago, effectually ended the only semblance of an uprising in Cuba, the rumors of uprisings in eastern Cuba were fully confirmed today in the government's reports received from the governor and other officials of Santiago province. These said that since Sunday last, 81 armed and mounted men have appeared near outside villages in the Cauto river district, proclaiming a revolution and demanding the payment of the former members of the revolutionary army. No acts of violence have been reported, but the inhabitants of the Cauto region are excited. The leader of the revolutionary party is named Papo. He is a brother of one of the bandits killed by the rural guards Tuesday.

General Rodriguez, commander in chief of the rural guard, has ordered the mobilization of all the rural guards in eastern Cuba and the governor of Santiago province has been instructed to enlist as many volunteers as may be deemed necessary to co-operate with the mounted troops.

Secretary of the Interior Yero says there is no doubt that the authorities will be able to cope successfully with the situation, as all reports, he adds, agree that peaceful sentiment is with the government of President Palma and that those who have risen in rebellion mostly belong to the wanton, lazy class of Puerto Principe.

It is reported that many volunteers are offering their services to the government.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WALL STREET—10.10 a. m.—The majority of stocks showed narrow and irregular opening changes. Pennsylvania rose about a point and New York Central fell 1-2. Chicago Terminal pfd jumped 2 1-4. Des Moines and Fort Dodge rose 1-2 and then ran off over a point and Evansville & Terre Haute rose a point. There was a decline of a point in Wheeling & Lake Erie second pfd and of 3-4 in Louisville & Nashville.

NOON.—The market was suppressed by the continued sales of Atchison, which touched 61 5-8. Southern Pacific lost a point. Declines in the general list were moderate. Pullman rose 5, St. Paul preferred 2 1-4 and Distillers Securities, the Railway Investment preferred and Chicago Great Western preferred 1 to 1 1-2. Des Moines and Fort Dodge rallied 1 1-4 on rumors of the passing of control. Evansville & Terre Haute reacted 1 1-4 and the preferred dropped 12, with a rally of 3. Westinghouse Electric first dropped 5 Hide & Leather preferred 4 1-2, Realty preferred 3 3-4, the Common 1 3-4 and Alton preferred and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred, 1 and 1½. Bonds were irregular.

1 p. m.—Standard stocks were unable to withstand the pressure aroused by the severe declines in the low-priced specialties and yielded sharply in the early afternoon.

2 p. m.—Buying orders were met at the low level of the leaders and the list made a slight rally. Later on Amalgamated was forced down to 40 and selling was resumed elsewhere, putting the market back to the lowest.

MURDERED

Man Killed in a Duel Fought at Revere

By Associated Press to The Sun

REVERE, Mass., July 30—A murder, believed to have been the outcome of a duel, occurred here early today, Joseph Corsel of Boston being the victim and Anthony Montanino, the alleged murderer.

The deed was committed according to the Revere police at about eight o'clock this morning, on the flats off Park avenue at a spot some 500 yards from the nearest dwelling. It is believed that the men, who are said to have quarrelled three or four days ago at the New England Gas & Coke company's works in Everett where they were employed, came out here early today to settle their differences.

Montanino, who also lived in Boston, is under arrest and two negroes, Thomas Pope and Joseph Monroe, who, it is said, were present, have been held as witnesses. The murdered man was 28 years of age and married, but had no children. The accused is about the same age. The man who was killed was terribly cut. Montanino had only one wound and that is not considered serious.

Just after 8 o'clock, a boy ran into the Central Police station here and notified House Officer McChristal that two men were fighting in a field off Park avenue. This was about three quarters of a mile from the station. House Officer McChristal started at once for the scene and met Charles Murphy, on the hook and ladder truck of the fire department. On reaching the spot, he found a man lying on the ground with five terrible stab wounds, one of which had nearly disemboweled him. The man was dead.

In the right hand of the corpse was an open blood-stained knife.

Investigation showed that Montanino had been seen according to the story of the two negroes, Pope and Monroe, fighting with Cors in Revere and that when Cors fell, Montanino fled. The negroes pursued as far as Chelsea and when near the house occupied by Hose 4, secured assistance and arrested Montanino. Afterwards it was found that Mortanino had a deep cut over the heart, but the house physician did not consider it dangerous. The police also learned that Cors and Montanino were employed at the works of the New England Gas & Coke company in Everett and that they had a quarrel there one day this week. From the locality in which this morning's affair occurred, the police believe that the men had decided deliberately to go there and settle the difficulty.

LICENSE BOARD

Issues a Statement on the Charges Made

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICOPEE, July 30.—License Commissioners Patrick F. Murphy and Joseph T. Lodge issued last night an extended statement on the charges made against them in the aldermanic investigation of alleged corruption on the part of Chicopee city officials.

"A vagrant dog caught with the bone in his mouth would be entitled to a fairer trial than our accusers had planned for us," the commissioners assert. The statement is in part as follows:

"At the outset, we assert our absolute innocence of the allegations made, so far as they impute criminal conduct in the discharge of our official duties. But let it not be supposed that we looked with levity upon the accusation that we have received bribes for a liquor license. The offence alleged is a most serious one, of which we should be glad to prove our unquestioned innocence.

"But the manner in which the charge was brought, the tribunal before which it was made and the proposed method of hearing it led us, after careful consideration and conference with our counsel, to the belief that it would be folly to seek vindication at the hands of the aldermen.

"Under our scheme of government the place for trying serious offences like this, is the courts of the commonwealth. But, though our accusers were armed with what they deemed to be damning evidence, they avoided the court as they would a pesthouse and proclaimed their evidence through the press.

"Our political opponents rose to the occasion and joined in the noisy demand for a public hearing by the board of aldermen. Several aldermen actively participated in gathering the so-called evidence and in preparing the charges.

"Though not guilty, and ready to face our accusers before a tribunal properly constituted and properly conducted, we have been subjected to wanton insult and libel and pronounced guilty, though not one word of legal evidence has been uttered in support of the allegations against us.

"It is doubtful if a similar instance of hasty and ill-considered judgment can be found in the files of the respectable press of this country; and as we value the good opinion of our neighbors too highly to permit such a judgment to pass unchallenged, we ask the newspapers which have assumed our guilt to open their columns to our side of the case."

SENSATIONAL PHASE

CAME NEAR LEADING TO BLOODSHED.

(By Pacific Cable.)

HONOLULU, July 30—The proceedings in the Supreme court yesterday in the disbarment cases of Attorneys Geo. A. Davis and J. A. Magoon, assumed an exciting and sensational phase at one stage and hostilities, with probable bloodshed in open court were imminent.

Attorney General Andrews has vigorously prosecuted the charges against the defendants and has thereby created some personal enemies. The feeling ran so high today between Davis and Andrews that pistol talk was indulged in and intimations made of the possibility of settling the differences of the men outside the court room. The friends of both men are greatly concerned over the future. The case of Attorney Magoon was submitted and taken under advisement.

The people living in the vicinity of the federal camp have been greatly annoyed recently by the depredations of the mischievous element among the soldiers and complaints have been made to the civil and military authorities. A strict watch will be maintained with a view to prevent trouble.

Mrs. Kate Crowe of 81 Chapel street and Mary Crowe of Gorham street, left today for a vacation at Revere beach.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITIONS

LOADED SHELLS

Were Also Stored in Powder Magazines

Until the explosion occurred it was not generally known that dynamite was stored in one of the ill-fated powder magazines and up to this time no mention has been made of the fact that loaded shells were also stored there.

George Druce, who lives alone on a small farm in South Lowell, adjoining the grounds of the Bunting Cricket club was at work in his potato patch yesterday when the explosion occurred. Immediately after the shock he heard a screeching in the air and looking up saw a large projectile whirling through the air with a stream of fire following it. He started to run and as he did the shell exploded and a shower of bullets poured down around him making indentations in the rocks and in the ground. He is quite positive that the projectile was a shrapnel shell. Immediately afterward a huge chunk of brick and mortar dropped in his potato patch. It weighed 28 pounds and had been carried a good quarter of a mile. Upon going into his house Mr. Druce found his doors and windows gone and all his clocks broken. He is positive about the shell.

MIDDLESEX MILLS

WILL CLOSE TOMORROW FOR REPAIRS.

The Middlesex mills will close down tomorrow night to make the repairs in the different departments, and portions of the mill will open two weeks hence, while some of the employes will have a three weeks' vacation.

Agent Saunders in communication with a representative of The Sun said: "The mills will close down tomorrow night for two weeks to make needed changes and repairs such as putting in new machinery of different kinds, and changing over some old machines. Also the repairing of wheels, etc., which cannot be done while the wheels are in motion.

"The wool sorting, dyeing, sewing, wet and dry finish, designing, and some parts of the dressing and spooling and drawing departments will open on August 17th. From day to day thereafter we shall start such departments as we can as fast as possible, and expect to have every department running by August 24th."

CAPTAIN HOFFMAN

RETIRED FROM BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—There were three general orders numbered 8, 9 and 10, read at all the station houses at roll-call last night.

Capt. Frederick G. Hoffman of division 12, South Boston, and three patrolmen were retired on pension. In the case of Capt. Hoffman the order reads:

"Capt. Frederick G. Hoffman having performed faithful service in the police department for 31 years and 2 months, being an honorably discharged veteran of the civil war and having requested to be retired from active service under the provisions of chapter 172 of the acts of 1898, it is hereby

"Ordered, that the said Capt. Hoffman be retired from active service, and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll, with pay at the rate of $1250 per annum, said sum being one-half of the amount of compensation received by him at the time of his retirement."

The three patrolmen retired are: Henry R. Jenkins of division 14, John E. Philbrick of division 16 and John H. Connor of division 11.

PATROLMAN SHOT

Killed While Trying to Capture Boy

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUFFALO, N. H., July 30—Patrolman Michael Dowd was shot and fatally wounded by a 16 year old boy early in the day today. One bullet entered the patrolman's breast just above the heart. Dowd discovered the boy attempting to remove some plants from in front of a house. He made a rush in an effort to capture him. The lad eluded his grasp and ran. Dowd chased him through the back yards and was almost upon him when the lad turned and fired two shots. Dowd fell fatally wounded. Sergeant Vogt, who had joined in the chase, was not far behind when Dowd fell. The boy fired a shot at him but it went wild. Vogt went to assist Dowd and the boy escaped.

MAKING RUBIES

THAT RIVAL THE NATURAL GEMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—In connection with recent decisions by the general board of appraisers regarding duty on millions of precious stones, a well-known jewelry expert of this city through whose hands millions of dollars worth of precious stones have passed, declares that rubies, beautiful in color and rivalling natural gems are today easily produced from the chemists crucible. The method of their production which he says was known in France years ago but was kept secret, lies in the manner of fusing a number of small, cheap stones into a single large one. It is said the manufacture is now being carried on extensively in several European countries and only the most experienced examiners can detect the difference between the real stones and those from the crucible.

THE OBSTRUCTIONISTS

LEFT THE HOUSE SINGING NATIONAL ANTHEM.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUDA PEST, July 30.—The third session of the lower house of the Hungarian diet (after two suspensions due to disorderly houses) insted until the early hours this morning. At midnight, the obstructionists withdrew singing the national anthem and declaring that any further sitting would be illegal as Wednesday's session ended at midnight and Thursday's had not been called in form. The majority after having cheered the departing members, adopted Premier Hedervary's motion providing for the reading of the indemnity bill. The house subsequently adjourned until Friday.

It is understood that the public prosecutor has instituted proceedings against Deputy Dieues who is charged by Deputy Papp in the court yesterday with attempting to bribe him with 10,000 kronen in cash to desert his fellow-obstructionists and leave Buda Pest.

PHILIPPINE CUSTOMS REVENUES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30—A statement prepared by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department shows the custom revenues in the Philippines for the first four months of 1903 to have been $2,931,782 against $2,900,011 in the same period of 1902 and $1,215,657 in 1899. A comparison of the customs revenues under Spanish administration from 1885 to 1895 with the period from August 20, 1902, under American occupation, shows the volume of business to have increased about fourfold.

TO QUASH INDICTMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30—Notice has been filed by council before District Attorney Jerome of a motion to quash the indictments against Robert L. Martin and Harry Velthusen, of the Delaware Surety company. Martin is a brother-in-law of F. A. Heinze, of Montana. The indictments, which have been pending two years, charge false swearing in regard to the capital of the surety company. They are an incident of the litigation between the big Montana Copper companys.

LAST TRIBUTE

Has Been Paid to Pope Leo XIII

INTERNATIONAL MONUMENT WILL BE ERECTED

In Memory of Deceased Pontiff

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 30.—The last tribute was paid to the late Pope Leo this morning with the third great requiem mass celebrated in the Sistine chapel of the vatican. The function was no less ceremonious and imposing than the two others. While there was perhaps a lesser concourse of people present, there was a greater display of gorgeous uniforms. There were 61 cardinals present (only Cardinal Cretonia being absent, owing to ill-health).

In the churches of Rome today began the offering of prayers to the Holy Ghost to assist and enlighten the cardinals to choose the right man to sit in the chair of St. Peter.

During the conclave the Blessed Sacrament will be exposed in several churches for the special prayers of the faithful, with the same object in view.

The mayor of Carpineto, the birthplace of Pope Leo, who proposed to erect with local contributions a monument to Leo XIII on top of the Lepini mountains, surrounding the village of Carpineto, finding that his project was checked by the large amount of money required, intends to make it an international tribute to the late pontiff and will ask all countries to join in the movement. He says he expects considerable contributions, especially from America.

People are now recalling a prophecy which at the time it was made produced considerable talk among the superstitious who held it to be an indication of who will be the next pope, so much so that several large bets were mad in favor of the cardinal indicated by the prophecy. Many years ago the late Cardinal Parocchi, who was not then even a bishop, one day met an old woman in the country. She was a typical witch in appearance and planted herself before Parocchi saying: "The bishop of Santa Rufina will be the next pope."

The woman refused to say anything more. Parocchi repeated the tale, which gained added circulation when he was appointed to the see and before his death he was considered to be the most likely successor of Pope Leo. When Parocchi was dying he repeated the story of the old woman's prophecy. The famous bishopric of Santa Rufina was afterwards given to Cardinal Zerafino Vannutelli and now people are asking themselves will the prophesy come true after all?

ACCORDING TO SIZE

PRICE OF GARMENTS MAY BE FIXED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 30.—At the convention of the union-made garment makers' association, which ended last night, it was decided to adjust prices to accord with the size of the garment. Thus, a man weighing 130 pounds might be able to buy his suit for $10, while the man whose avoirdupois would measure 250 pounds might be charged $15.

WORLD'S BEST CLOCK

BEING MADE FOR THE ST. LOUIS FAIR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30—The greatest clock in the world, the dial of which will be 120 feet in diameter, is being built here for use at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition next year. Only the hands and machinery are being made, for the dial is to be a brilliant bed of flowers. The clock will be placed on the side of the hill north of the Agriculture building.

The minute hand will be 60 feet long. At night the time piece will be illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights.

SECRET STAIRWAY

THAT WAS USED BY THE TWEED RING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.- In removing a large oil painting of Andrew Jackson from its place in the old council chamber in the west wing of the city hall, preparatory to renovating the room, an old secret stairway leading from the upper floor of the city hall to the basement has been uncovered. An old employe was able to explain the use of the municipal exit. When the "Tweed ring" was in control of the municipal government, the stairway, he said, was often used by aldermen as a means of escape from the building when angry constituents were awaiting them outside and was used on other occasions to escape the service of legal papers in suits brought by the tax payers to prevent the grants of franchises.

RIGGS FAMILY

The Hand of Fate Fell Heavily Upon Them

John Riggs, whose father's house was completely demolished and whose mother was killed, says that his father had over $300 in a desk in the house and no trace of it can be found. Mr. Riggs is left penniless and it is to be hoped that if the money has been found it will be returned to his son, who resides at 38 Newhall street.

Mrs. Riggs seemed to have a presentiment that something was going to happen. For three nights before the explosion she could not sleep and at 3 o'clock the morning of the explosion she remarked to her husband that she felt she wasn't long for this world. When her husband started off in the morning with his horses and dump cart to work in Wigglnville she cautioned him to hurry home. At the time of the explosion he was loading his team not more than 500 yards from the scene. His horses jumped into the air and trembled.

Mr. Riggs' first thought was of his home, and exclaiming "The magazine." "My poor wife," he started home, only to find his house completely demolished, his wife gone and his son pinned under the debris shrieking and writhing in agony.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

The Emergency hospital did good work for the wounded yesterday. It had 18 cases, one of which, Josephine Perusse, died from wounds. The doctors worked hard to relieve the injured.

LOUIS RICHARDS

DREADED THE JOB OF MOVING DYNAMITE.

Louis E. Richards, whose body is still missing, was 28 years of age. He was employed as second hand for the United States Cartridge company for six years. He had charge of a gang of men loading and unloading explosives.

Yesterday was the first time for several months that Richards had been assigned to duty at the magazine and he seemed to feel a presentiment that something was going to happen. He was not in the habit of talking of his work at home, but Tuesday night he told his family that he dreaded the task of the morrow. He said he did not want to refuse to go to work at the magazine, but he dreaded it.

"There is terrible danger lurking there," he said, "and if ever an explosion occurs it will shake the whole city. There is nitro-glycerine and dynamite on the floor and it is dangerous to even walk in the place."

His family tried to chase the thought of pending danger from his mind, but it was there to stay and it was with a reluctance peculiar to him that he left home Wednesday morning.

THE LATE LOUIS E. RICHARDS WHO HAD CHARGE OF THE GANG OF MEN.

Richards in speaking of the danger in the magazine said there was 100 pounds of dynamite in the magazine where the new floor was being laid and that was enough, he said, to make the earth tremble for miles around.

Richards was a member of L'Association Catholique; of Rochambeau Council, Royal Arcanum, of which he was secretary; of Le Garde d'Honneur and of the Club Fleur de Lis. He was very popular in French circles.

He was born at Pointe Aux Roches, N. Y., 28 years ago, and had been a resident of Lowell for 11 years.

His father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Richards, reside at 794 Merrimack street, with his three brothers, William, Edward and Joseph, and five sisters, Lillian, Ethel, May, Annie and Georgiana.

The three brothers of the missing man went last evening to O'Donnell's where the arm of a man, covered with the shirt sleeve, had been taken from the scene of the disaster. This was thought to belong to Louis Richards' body. Messrs. Richards, however, could not identify the arm as being that of their brother, not being able to say positively whether it was or not. The arm was badly maimed, and the cloth so soiled as to be unrecognizable.

GOOD WORK BY POLICE.

The police who responded to the call for duty a short time after the explosion occurred did grand service during the day.

Lieut. Downey and the men of the late night shift who had been relieved only half an hour before the explosion occurred donned their uniforms and went at once to the stricken section. They remained at their post until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They got about five hours sleep and reported for regular detail work at 12.30 this morning. It is not generally known that on such occasions as that of yesterday the policemen received no compensation whatever regardless of what time they may spend at the scene.

THE INSURANCE QUESTION.

The question of insurance is a matter that is causing great discussion. An insurance agency has notified The Sun that for any damage caused by the explosion no insurance can be claimed. But for damage that was caused by fire after the explosion occurred claims are valid. For instance if the roof was blown off a certain house and then fire started in the remaining portion of the structure the assessment of damages would be made on the estimated value of the part of the house not damaged by the explosion.

In the case of windows that were smashed by the shock no insurance can be recovered as it is expressly stated that the company will not be liable for any injury done to glass by an explosion.

A CHARITABLE DEED.

Yesterday, just before noon, a woman went to Coburn's store on Market street and said that every window in her house was blown out and that she had no money with which to buy glass and have it set. The woman was perfectly honest in the matter and Mr. Coburn at once sent one of his men to her house and panes of glass were set wherever needed.

THROWN OUT OF BED.

Fred A. Hennessey, a conductor on the Pawtucketville line who lives at 65 Cosgrove street, was thrown out of bed and on awakening found himself lying on the floor of his room.

REV. FR. KERWIN FIRST ON SCENE.

The Sun yesterday stated that Fr. Flynn of the Sacred Heart church in Moore street was the first priest at the scene of the explosion, and in the modesty becoming his calling that good priest telephoned The Sun office last evening and stated that Fr. Kerwin was the first priest on the scene, and Fr. Flynn added, "Fr. Kerwin did all that a servant of God could do."

THE GALLOWAY FAMILY.

William Galloway, a barber at 719 Lawrence street and his young son, Robert Galloway, were among the dead and they were residents of the ill-fated locality only a few weeks. For years the family resided in the rear of the shop on Lawrence street but a few weeks ago Mr. Galloway bought a home of his own in Riverside park. The boy Robert was found lying dead on the road with his breast torn open by Capt. Joseph Jennings of the Lawrence street fire company. The father was found terribly injured and was placed in a wagon and taken to St. John's hospital where he died in the arms of Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I.

BELANGER'S STORY.

Almeda Belanger, aged 18, of 500 Central street, who was one of the Cartridge company employes at the magazine, is in a critical condition, but able to talk.

In an interview he said:

"I was working at the powder magazine with Goodwin and the rest of the squad which was sent out yesterday morning. I don't know a great deal about how it happened or how I got hurt. I simply remember being in the powder house with Goodwin and we saw smoke coming from the floor. We both ran out and were about 50 feet away when I heard an awful noise. I don't know anything about what happened after that.

THE LATE ALEXANDER LAYER.

"Did you see Goodwin pour the contents of a bottle onto the floor while you were in the magazine?" he was asked.

"No," came the reply. "I didn't see Goodwin with anything in his hand. I saw smoke coming from the floor and Goodwin was standing near me so we both ran."

"Where were the other men who were working with you, all this time?"

GEORGE FLYNN, EMPLOYE OF CARTRIDGE CO., WHO IS MISSING.

"I don't know where they were. I didn't notice."

COL. BUTLER AMES' STATEMENT.

Col. Butler Ames when seen about the disaster said:

"I have not the slightest idea what caused this terrible calamity. I do not know what caused the explosion. Our company had two magazines located in South Lowell and men were at work there yesterday morning removing powder for the purpose of removing the same to our factory on Lawrence street.

"There were eight men. Two were injured and sent to the hospital. The other six I have not heard from and they have not been accounted for. I do not know their names.

"Mr. Hoxie will probably be able to tell you. Oh, no, we have as yet no idea of the loss we have sustained and will not know for three or four days. Our sole concern now is to look after the homeless and injured and try and locate the missing."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

OF THE UNITED STATES CARTRIDGE COMPANY.

The following statement was given out by the United States Cartridge company yesterday afternoon: "The land on which the powder magazines were situated was owned, one half by the Nichols & Fletcher estate and one half by the U. S. Cartridge company. There were two brick magazines, one owned by the Cartridge company and leased to the Du Pont Powder company, in which none of our own powder was stored, and another that was owned two thirds by our company and one third by the estate of Nichols & Fletcher. It was built in 1875, at a time when there were no buildings in the vicinity.

"We understand that the American Powder company were using the part of the magazine belonging to the Nichols and Fletcher estate, under what agreement we do not know. In that part of the building dynamite has been stored for some time and recently we discovered that some of the nitro-glycerine had leaked out of the dynamite boxes and was visible in a streak on the floor, under the open partition between the two sections of the magazine.

"We brought the matter at once to the attention of the Thompson Hardware company, assuming at the time that they were the occupants, and were referred to the American Powder company, to whom we immediately explained the situation and the danger that it might involve. We asked that it be remedied at once and they concluded to relay the floor, and later they made arrangements with the Cartridge company to furnish men for the carpenters' work and men and teams for the removal of the powder at the expense of the powder company. They were to remove their dynamite at the same time and were to furnish their own teams for that.

"Our powder had all been removed and was loaded upon three of George E. Stanley's drays when the explosion occurred. The other teams had not arrived. We had 50 of our own men there and Mr. Stanley had three. There were probably one or more men in the magazine when the dynamite exploded. As to the immediate cause of the explosion we have no knowledge. We know that the first explosion was in the dynamite magazine, for smoke was seen issuing from the building and one of the men was heard to shout 'run.' The men were in the act of running when the magazine blew up, presumably causing the explosion of the loaded wagons and the second powder house."

CLEAR ACCOUNT

BY C. ALBERT LYBRAND, ONE OF THE INJURED.

A report which for several hours was generally believed, had C. Albert Lybrand, the popular messenger employed by the U. S. Cartridge Co., as among the dead. Such happily was not the case and Mr. Lybrand was found at St. John's hospital by his wife. His right side was badly torn by nails but his injuries are not serious and he will be able to leave the hospital in a short time.

Mr. Lybrand was not at the magazine at the time of the explosion. He was driving toward the magazine when he saw smoke coming from the little building. He attempted to turn around and go back and while turning the explosion occurred. He was thrown under lumber and the walls of a house and in crawling out from under the debris was badly torn by nails.

"Just how it occurred," said Mr. Lybrand, "is known only to those who were in the magazine and they were blown to atoms."

He says further that none of the cartridge shop employes were within the magazine at the time.

ROLEAU STILL MISSING.

There is absolutely no trace of Alexander Roleau, one of the Stanley teamsters, and there is but one sad conclusion; he was blown to atoms.

Roleau is also known as Alexander Layer. He was 30 years old, 5 feet, 11 inches in height, weighing 152 pounds. He was married and resided at 12 East Merrimack street. It is supposed that he was seated on a wagon loaded with powder which exploded, demolishing man, horses and wagon. James Sullivan was the only one of the three to survive the explosion even for a brief period. He died yesterday at the hospital.

GOVERNOR BATES

SENT UP 11 STATE OFFICERS THIS MORNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Gov. Bates promised to have 11 state police officers sent up in the morning and Gen. J. H. Whitney arrived last evening to arrange with the Tewksbury selectmen for the detail of police today.

After the dead and injured had been removed, the three selectmen of Tewksbury devoted themselves to taking care of the homeless.

Chairman Blaisdell, with Mr. Phelps and Mr. Catherwood, each took a section of the stricken district. Wagons with sandwiches and coffee were sent about, and the selectmen made personal inquiry of every one who had survived the loss of his home to see if he and his family had a place to sleep.

Many of them have relatives in Lowell and they found a refuge with them. Others were provided for by sympathetic residents of Tewksbury, who were thankful that their homes were intact.

"There is no case of need here today," said Selectman Albert Cather-

The Late CHARLES W. MOORE.

wood. Mr. Catherwood pays especial attention to Wigginville, as this is the district he assesses, the selectmen being the assessors, also.

"We have seen that everyone whose home has been destroyed or injured has something to eat and a place to sleep," said he. "You cannot put it too strongly that, although it is a disaster to us, the town will take care of its people.

"Many generous neighbors have come forward and men and women have traveled across the town to offer shelter to the afflicted families."

Mr. Catherwood was asked for an estimate of the damage.

SETTLEMENT WIPED OUT.

"The houses that are burned, demolished and injured right near here cannot be replaced for less than $75,000," said he. "Then the damage to others further away in Wigginville will be about $25,000 more. Many of these houses that are still standing will have to be torn down, as it will be impossible to repair them.

"It is a very hard blow to this settlement, as most of the men were poor workingmen, who had saved enough to build a small home."

LUCKY PAINTER.

A man named McLean, a painter, was painting a house near the scene of the explosion and was thrown from the ladder but escaped with slight injuries.

Dave Barry, a slater, was at work on a house in Wigginville and was thrown off the staging and broke his arm.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Stephen Flynn's family, living at 46 Billerica street, had a miraculous escape. His house was almost completely ruined. His furniture and household effects were destroyed. His mother, wife and child were at home at the time and all escaped with slight injuries. A large brick came through the side of the house into the room within a yard of where his wife and child were sitting.

ASSISTED THE POLICE.

Michael J. Reidy, an employe of the Lowell cemetery was one of the first on the scene after the explosion. He assisted the police in caring for the injured and searching for victims.

WAS KNOCKED DOWN.

Frank Ranchage, agent for D. J. Ring, was in a house in the vicinity of the explosion and was knocked down and rendered unconscious for several minutes.

ACTING MAYOR MISKELLA

HOLDS A CONFERENCE WITH SELECTMAN BLAISDELL.

Acting Mayor Blaisdell held a conference Chairman Blaisdell of the Tewksbury selectmen this forenoon in regard to caring for the poor. It was the acting mayor's intention to act upon The Sun's suggestion and call a public meeting to devise ways and means to aid th homeless if the town of Tewksbury would accept such aid.

The Sun reporter was admitted to the conference and Selectman Blaisdell after thanking the acting mayor for his kindness and aid said: "at present the town is caring for its own and is hardly in need of help. We are aiding the homeless and injured in a systematic manner. The homeless have been put in with friends and relatives about the town, a caterer has been engaged to feed them and a corps of physicians and surgeons to attend to the suffering ones. The town is bearing all the expense.

If the charitably inclined and the newspapers care to raise funds for the needy, the selectmen will gladly accept them and distribute them where they will do the most good, or if those raising the funds care to distribute the money themselves, the town will gladly send its officials with them to the houses where the homeless are being sheltered. I am having a complete list of all in the town who were injured. There are many in the houses in the vicinity whose injuries have not been made public as yet. Some physicians state that the number of injured will aggregate nearly 500."

Acting Mayor Miskella then decided that a public meeting in Lowell will not be necessary and hence will not issue a call for such a meeting.

MR. FLYNN'S OFFER.

Joseph Flynn of 137 Gorham street telephoned The Sun office this morning that he will contribute $25 to the sufferers.

CARTING DYNAMITE

EXPLOSIVE TRANSPORTED LIKE CORDWOOD.

Some idea of the magnitude of the explosion can be gleaned when the fact that 600 cans of powder, making a total of about 30 tons, was taken to the magazine last week, is taken into consideration.

Relative to the transportation of the explosives to and from the magazines a man who was once engaged in the business said to a Sun reporter today that handling dynamite is subject to the application of the old saw that says: "Familiarity breeds contempt."

"When I was engaged in carrying dynamite to and from the magazine we used to exercise the utmost precaution.

"In those days we used to "muffle" the barrels. That is, we used to arrange them so as to prevent any jarring. We used to put horse blankets on the bottom of the wagon and on the top of each barrel we would put a horse blanket folded three times, so that there would not be any grating between the barrels, when we would put one on top of the other.

"Lately, so far as I have been able to discover, the precaution of early days has been thrown to the wind and the company has been transporting dynamite to and from the place in practically the same manner as cord wood is carted.

"Within the last few weeks I have seen dynamite taken to the magazine in barrels that were piled on top of each other in such a way as to get the benefit of any shock that might occur en route. I tell you it is pesky dangerous stuff but as the carelessness of transportation had nothing to do with the death rimmed disaster it is hardly pertinent.

"It was the lashing nitro-glycerine that did the trick. Somebody blundered and while those in fault will move heaven and earth to keep the truth from the public I hope and trust that the press will get at the truth even though it should have to squeezed it from the lips of the blundering criminals. My language is good and strong, but it is excusable. I stood within the police ropes in the afflicted village yesterday and I witnessed the saddest sight that I ever witnessed in my life and I thought then that the men responsible for the heart-rending spectacle deserved no better fate than that which their negligence brought upon others."

DRAG THE RIVER.

It is a growing conviction that there are bodies of men and horses in the Concord river, and the suggestion has been made that the river be dragged. The bank of the river is strewn with bits of horseflesh and clothing.

ARMED MEN

Demand Payment of Members of Revolutionary Army

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVANA, July 30.—In spite of the assertion yesterday by Senor Yero, secretary of the interior, that the killing of three men and the capture of the fourth man, who had attempted to cause an uprising in the vicinity of Bayamo, province of Santiago, effectually ended the only semblance of an uprising in Cuba, the rumors of uprisings in eastern Cuba were fully confirmed today in the government's reports received from the governor and other officials of Santiago province. These said that since Sunday last, 61 armed and mounted men have appeared near outside villages in the Cauto river district, proclaiming a revolution and demanding the payment of the former members of the revolutionary army. No acts of violence have been reported, but the inhabitants of the Cauto region are excited. The leader of the revolutionary party is named Pupo. He is a brother of one of the bandits killed by the rural guards Tuesday.

General Rodriguez, commander in chief of the rural guard, has ordered the mobilization of all the rural guards in eastern Cuba and the governor of Santiago province has been instructed to enlist as many volunteers as may be deemed necessary to co-operate with the mounted troops.

Secretary of the Interior Yero says there is no doubt that the authorities will be able to cope successfully with the situation, as all reports, he adds, agree that popular sentiment is with the government of President Palma and that those who have risen in rebellion mostly belong to the wanton, lazy class of Puerto Principe.

It is reported that many volunteers are offering their services to the government.

CAPTAIN NICE

PLACES BLAME FOR DISAPPEARANCE OF SEALS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Captain H. H. Nice, agent of the North American Commercial company at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, who is here charges the fishermen on the Japanese vessels with the disappearance of seals on the Pribiloff Islands. He says American and Canadian fishermen masquerade under Japanese flags and shoot seals instead of spearing, which causes the bodies to sink so rapidly that many are killed to no purpose while the shooting disturbs the breeding.

GOVERNOR DOLE

By Pacific Cable.

HONOLULU, July 30.—Governor Dole has appointed T. F. Lansing to be commissioner of immigration. This office was recently created for the purpose of encouraging the coming to the Islands of tourists, farmers, laborers and other desirable people.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WALL STREET—10:10 a. m.—The majority of stocks showed narrow and irregular opening changes. Pennsylvania rose about a point and New York Central fell 1-2. Chicago Terminal pfd jumped 2 1-4. Des Moines and Fort Dodge rose 1-2 and then ran off over a point and Evansville & Terre Haute rose a point. There was a decline of a point in Wheeling & Lake Erie second pfd and of 3-4 in Louisville & Nashville.

NOON.—The market was suppressed by the continued sales of Atchison, which touched 61 5 8. Southern Pacific lost a point. Declines in the general list were moderate. Pullman rose 5, St. Paul preferred 2 1-4 and Distillers Securities, the Railway investment preferred and Chicago Great Western preferred 1 to 1 1-2. Des Moines and Fort Dodge rallied 1 1-4 on rumors of the passing of control. Evansville & Terre Haute reacted 1 1-4 and the preferred dropped 12, with a rally of 3. Westinghouse Electric first dropped 5 Hide & Leather preferred 4 1-2, Realty preferred 3 3-4, the Common 1 3-4 and Alton preferred and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred, 1 and 1½. Bonds were irregular.

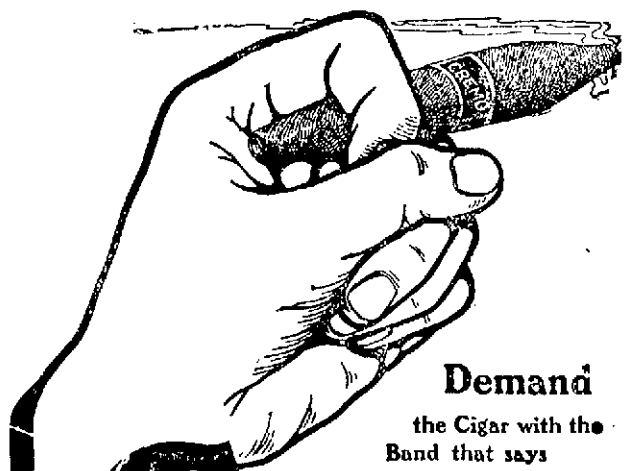

1 p. m.—Standard stocks were unable to withstand the pressure aroused by the severe declines in the low-priced specialties and yielded sharply in the early afternoon.

2 p. m.—Buying orders were met at the low level of the leaders and the list made a slight rally. Later on Amalgamated was forced down to 40 and selling was resumed elsewhere, putting the market back to the lowest.

MURDERED

Man Killed in a Duel Fought at Revere

By Associated Press to The Sun

REVERE, Mass., July 30.—A murder, believed to have been the outcome of a duel, occurred here early today, Joseph Corset of Boston being the victim and Anthony Montanino, the alleged murderer.

The deed was committed according to the Revere police at about eight o'clock this morning, on the flats off Park avenue at a spot some 500 yards from the nearest dwelling. It is believed that the men, who are said to have quarrelled three or four days ago at the New England Gas & Coke company's works in Everett where they were employed, came out here early today to settle their differences.

Montanino, who also lived in Boston, is under arrest and two negroes, Thomas Pope and Joseph Monroe, who, it is said, were present, have been held as witnesses. The murdered man was 28 years of age and married, but had no children. The accused is about the same age. The man who was killed was terribly cut. Montanino had only one wound and that is not considered serious.

Just after 8 o'clock, a boy ran into the Central Police station here and notified House Officer McChristal that two men were fighting in a field off Park avenue. This was about three quarters of a mile from the station. House Officer McChristal started at once for the scene and met Charles Murphy, on the hook and ladder truck of the fire department. On reaching the spot, he found a man lying on the ground with five terrible stab wounds, one of which had nearly disemboweled him. The man was dead.

In the right hand of the corpse was an open blood-stained knife.

Investigation showed that Montanino had been seen according to the story of the two negroes, Pope and Monroe, fighting with Cors in Revere and that when Cors fell, Montanino fled. The negroes pursued as far as Chelsea and when near the house occupied by Hose 4, secured assistance and arrested Montanino. Afterwards it was found that Mortanino had a deep cut over the heart, but the house physician did not consider it dangerous. The police also learned that Cors and Montanino were employed at the works of the New England Gas & Coke company in Everett and that they had a quarrel there one day this week. From the locality in which this morning's affair occurred, the police believe that the men had decided deliberately to go there and settle the difficulty.

LICENSE BOARD

Issues a Statement on the Charges Made

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICOPEE, July 30.—License Commissioners Patrick P. Murphy and Joseph T. Lodge issued last night an extended statement on the charges made against them in the aldermanic investigation of alleged corruption on the part of Chicopee city officials.

"A vagrant dog caught with the bone in his mouth would be entitled to a fairer trial than our accusers had planned for us," the commissioners assert. The statement is in part as follows:

"At the outset, we assert our absolute innocence of the allegations made, so far as they impute criminal conduct in the discharge of our official duties. But let it not be supposed that we looked with levity upon the accusation that we have received bribes for a liquor license. The offence alleged is a most serious one, of which we should be glad to prove our unquestioned innocence.

"But the manner in which the charge was brought, the tribunal before which it was made and the proposed method of hearing it led us, after careful consideration and conference with our counsel, to the belief that it would be folly to seek vindication at the hands of the aldermen.

"Under our scheme of government the place for trying serious offences like this, is the courts of the commonwealth. But, though our accusers were armed with what they deemed to be damning evidence, they avoided the court as they would a pesthouse and proclaimed their evidence through the press.

"Our political opponents rose to the occasion and joined in the noisy demand for a public hearing by the board of aldermen. Several aldermen actively participated in gathering the so-called evidence and in preparing the charges.

"Though not guilty, and ready to face our accusers before a tribunal properly constituted and properly conducted, we have been subjected to wanton insult and libel and pronounced guilty, though not one word of legal evidence has been uttered in support of the allegations against us.

"It is doubtful if a similar instance of hasty and ill-considered judgment can be found in the files of the respectable press of this country; and as we value the good opinion of our neighbors too highly to permit such a judgment to pass unchallenged, we ask the newspapers which have assumed our guilt to open their columns to our side of the case."

SENSATIONAL PHASE

CAME NEAR LEADING TO BLOODSHED.

(By Pacific Cable.)

HONOLULU, July 30—The proceedings in the Supreme court yesterday in the disbarment cases of Attorneys Geo. A. Davis and J. A. Magoon, assumed an exciting and sensational phase at one stage and hostilities, with probable bloodshed in open court were imminent.

Attorney General Andrews has vigorously prosecuted the charges against the defendants and has thereby created some personal enemies. The feeling ran so high today between Davis and Andrews that pistol talk was indulged in and intimations made of the possibility of settling the differences of the men outside the court room. The friends of both men are greatly concerned over the future. The case of Attorney Magoon was submitted and taken under advisement.

The people living in the vicinity of the federal camp have been greatly annoyed recently by the depredations of the mischievous element among the soldiers and complaints have been made to the civil and military authorities. A strict watch will be maintained with a view to prevent trouble.

Mrs. Kate Crowe of 81 Chapel street and Mary Crowe of Gorham street, left today for a vacation at Revere beach.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITIONS

LOADED SHELLS

Were Also Stored in Powder Magazines

Until the explosion occurred it was not generally known that dynamite was stored in one of the ill-fated powder magazines and up to this time no mention has been made of the fact that loaded shells were also stored there.

George Druce, who lives alone on a small farm in South Lowell, adjoining the grounds of the Bunting Cricket club was at work in his potato patch yesterday when the explosion occurred. Immediately after the shock he heard a screeching in the air and looking up saw a large projectile whirling through the air with a stream of fire following it. He started to run and as he did the shell exploded and a shower of bullets poured down around him making indentations in the rocks and in the ground. He is quite positive that the projectile was a shrapnel shell. Immediately afterward a huge chunk of brick and mortar dropped in his potato patch. It weighed 28 pounds and had been carried a good quarter of a mile. Upon going into his house Mr. Druce found his doors and windows gone and all his clocks broken. He is positive about the shell.

ASKED NOT TO TALK

IT IS STATED ON GOOD AUTHORITY THAT THE INJURED EMPLOYES OF THE U. S. CARTRIDGE CO. WERE ASKED BY COUNSEL AND OTHER REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMPANY NOT TO TALK ABOUT THE ACCIDENT FOR PUBLICATION. THIS ACCOUNTS FOR THE CONFLICTING STORIES AND THE DIFFICULTY IN GETTING AN ACCURATE ACCOUNT OF THE CAUSE OF THE EXPLOSION. THE COMPANY IS EVIDENTLY AFRAID THE TRUTH WILL COME OUT.

MIDDLESEX MILLS

WILL CLOSE TOMORROW FOR REPAIRS.

The Middlesex mills will close down tomorrow night to make the repairs in the different departments, and portions of the mill will open two weeks hence, while some of the employes will have a three weeks' vacation.

Agent Saunders in communication with a representative of The Sun said: "The mills will close down tomorrow night for two weeks to make needed changes and repairs such as putting in new machinery of different kinds, and changing over some old machines. Also the repairing of wheels, etc., which cannot be done while the wheels are in motion.

"The wool sorting, dyeing, sewing, wet and dry finish, designing, and some parts of the dressing and spooling and drawing departments will open on August 17th. From day to day thereafter we shall start such departments as we can as fast as possible, and expect to have every department running by August 24th."

CAPTAIN HOFFMAN

RETIRED FROM BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—There were three general orders numbered 8, 9 and 10, read at all the station houses at roll-call last night.

Capt. Frederick G. Hoffman of division 12, South Boston, and three patrolmen were retired on pension. In the case of Capt. Hoffman the order reads:

"Capt. Frederick G. Hoffman having performed faithful service in the police department for 31 years and 2 months, being an honorably discharged veteran of the civil war and having requested to be retired from active service under the provisions of chapter 172 of the acts of 1898, it is hereby

"Ordered, that the said Capt. Hoffman be retired from active service, and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll, with pay at the rate of $1250 per annum, said sum being one-half of the amount of compensation received by him at the time of his retirement."

The three patrolmen retired are: Henry R. Jenkins of division 14, John E. Philbrick of division 16 and John H. Connor of division 11.

DRIVEN FROM TOWN

LABOR UNION OFFICIALS MARCHED FROM CITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo., July 30.—After a meeting of business men last night, 500 citizens of Idaho Springs went to the city jail and took 14 of the men arrested in connection with the blowing up the Sun & Moon mine buildings and marched them to the city limits and told them to leave the place and never return. The men driven out include the president of the local union, the vice-president, secretary and treasurer and two or three members of the executive committee. All the others are prominent members of the union.

PATROLMAN SHOT

Killed While Trying to Capture Boy

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUFFALO, N. H., July 30—Patrolman Michael Dowd was shot and fatally wounded by a 16 year old boy early in the day today. One bullet entered the patrolman's breast just above the heart. Dowd discovered the boy attempting to remove some plants from in front of a house. He made a rush in an effort to capture him. The lad eluded his grasp and ran. Dowd chased him through the back yards and was almost upon him when the lad turned and fired two shots. Dowd fell fatally wounded. Sergeant Vogt, who had joined in the chase, was not far behind when Dowd fell. The boy fired a shot at him but it went wild. Vogt went to assist Dowd and the boy escaped.

MAKING RUBIES

THAT RIVAL THE NATURAL GEMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—In connection with recent decisions by the general board of appraisers regarding duty on millions of precious stones, a well-known jewelry expert of this city through whose hands millions of dollars worth of precious stones have passed, declares that rubies, beautiful in color and rivalling natural gems are today easily produced from the chemists crucible. The method of their production which he says was known in France years ago but was kept secret, lies in the manner of fusing a number of small, cheap stones into a single large one. It is said the manufacture is now being carried on extensively in several European countries and only the most experienced examiners can detect the difference between the real stones and those from the crucible.

LEFT THE HOUSE SINGING NATIONAL ANTHEM.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUDA PEST, July 30.—The third session of the lower house of the Hungarian diet (after two suspensions due to disorderly houses) lasted until the early hours this morning. At midnight, the obstructionists withdrew singing the national anthem and declaring that any further sitting would be illegal as Wednesday's session ended at midnight and Thursday's had not been called in form. The majority after having cheered the departing members, adopted Premier Hedervary's motion providing for the reading of the indemnity bill. The house subsequently adjourned until Friday.

It is understood that the public prosecutor has instituted proceedings against Deputy Dienes who is charged by Deputy Papp in the court yesterday with attempting to bribe him with 10,000 kronen in cash to desert his fellow-obstructionists and leave Buda Pest.

PHILIPPINE CUSTOMS REVENUES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A statement prepared by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department shows the customs revenues in the Philippines for the first four months of 1903 to have been $2,931,782 against $2,800,011 in the same period of 1902 and $1,215,657 in 1899. A comparison of the customs revenues under Spanish administration from 1885 to 1895 with the period from August 20, 1902, under American occupation, shows the volume of business to have increased about fourfold.

TO QUASH INDICTMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30—Notice has been filed by counsel before District Attorney Jerome of a motion to quash the indictments against Robert L. Martin and Harry Vellhusen, of the Delaware Surety company. Martin is a brother-in-law of F. A. Heinze, of Montana. The indictments, which have been pending two years, charge false swearing in regard to the capital of the surety company. They are an incident of the litigation between the big Montana Copper companys.

LAST TRIBUTE

Has Been Paid to Pope Leo XIII

INTERNATIONAL MONUMENT WILL BE ERECTED

In Memory of Deceased Pontiff

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 30.—The last tribute was paid to the late Pope Leo this morning with the third great requiem mass celebrated in the Sistine chapel of the vatican. The function was no less ceremonious and imposing than the two others. While there was perhaps a lesser concourse of people present, there was a greater display of gorgeous uniforms. There were 61 cardinals present (only Cardinal Cretonia being absent, owing to ill-health).

In the churches of Rome today began the offering of prayers to the Holy Ghost to assist and enlighten the cardinals to choose the right man to sit in the chair of St. Peter.

During the conclave the Blessed Sacrament will be exposed in several churches for the special prayers of the faithful, with the same object in view.

The mayor of Carpineto, the birthplace of Pope Leo, who proposed to erect with local contributions a monument to Leo XIII on top of the Lepini mountains, surrounding the village of Carpineto, finding that his project was checked by the large amount of money required, intends to make it an international tribute to the late pontiff and will ask all countries to join in the movement. He says he expects considerable contributions, especially from America.

People are now recalling a prophecy which at the time it was made produced considerable talk among the superstitious who held it to be an indication of who will be the next pope, so much so that several large bets were mad in favor of the cardinal indicated by the prophecy. Many years ago the late Cardinal Parocchi, who was not then even a bishop, one day met an old woman in the country. She was a typical witch in appearance and planted herself before Parocchi saying: "The bishop of Santa Rufina will be the next pope."

The woman refused to say anything more. Parocchi repeated the tale, which gained added circulation when he was appointed to the see and before his death he was considered to be the most likely successor of Pope Leo. When Parocchi was dying he repeated the story of the old woman's prophecy. The famous bishopric of Santa Rufina was afterwards given to Cardinal Zerafino Vannutelli and now people are asking themselves will the prophesy come true after all?

ACCORDING TO SIZE

PRICE OF GARMENTS MAY BE FIXED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 30.—At the convention of the union-made garment makers' association, which ended last night, it was decided to adjust prices to accord with the size of the garment. Thus, a man weighing 130 pounds might be able to buy his suit for $10, while the man whose avoirdupois would measure 250 pounds might be charged $15.

WORLD'S BEST CLOCK

BEING MADE FOR THE ST. LOUIS FAIR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30—The greatest clock in the world, the dial of which will be 120 feet in diameter, is being built here for use at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition next year. Only the hands and machinery are being made, for the dial is to be a brilliant bed of flowers. The clock will be placed on the side of the hill north of the Agriculture building.

The minute hand will be 60 feet long.

At night the time piece will be illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights.

SECRET STAIRWAY

THAT WAS USED BY THE TWEED RING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—In removing a large oil painting of Andrew Jackson from its place in the old council chamber in the west wing of the city hall, preparatory to renovating the room, an old secret stairway leading from the upper floor of the city hall to the basement has been uncovered. An old employe was able to explain the use of the municipal exit. When the "Tweed ring" was in control of the municipal government, the stairway, he said, was often used by aldermen as a means of escape from the building when angry constituents were awaiting them outside and was used on other occasions to escape the service of legal papers in suits brought by the tax payers to prevent the grants of franchises.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITIONS

JUDGE S. P. HADLEY

Insists on District Attorney Conducting Investigation

THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE HORRIBLE DISASTER THAT HAS CAST A GLOOM OVER THIS CITY AS WELL AS SOUTH LOWELL MUST BE PLACED.

MEDICAL EXAMINER IRISH SAID THIS FORENOON THAT HE WOULD HOLD POST MORTEM EXAMINATIONS THIS AFTERNOON.

JUDGE HADLEY HAS TWICE VISITED THE SCENE OF THE ACCIDENT AND THE HORROR OF IT HAS MADE HIM SAD AT HEART. TO THE SUN REPORTER THIS AFTERNOON HE SAID HE PRESUMED THAT DR. IRISH WOULD MAKE A REPORT TO THE COURT RELATIVE TO HIS FINDINGS, AND THAT INVESTIGATIONS WOULD FOLLOW.

"THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY," SAID JUDGE HADLEY, "HAS NEVER CONDUCTED AN INQUEST IN THIS COURT SINCE MY TIME AS JUDGE, BUT IN THIS INSTANCE I SHALL INSIST UPON HIS PRESENCE. IT IS HIS DUTY TO ACT FOR THE GOVERNMENT IN SUCH CASES AND HE WILL HAVE TO COME.

"THERE MUST BE CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE INVOLVED AND THE EXAMINATIONS CANNOT BE TOO THOROUGH. I PRESUME THAT DR. IRISH'S FIRST REPORT WILL INVOLVE ONLY ONE CASE. THAT WILL BE A STARTING POINT. IT IS IMPOSSIBLE AT THIS TIME TO SAY HOW MANY CASES WILL BE EXAMINED.

"IT WILL BE THE MOST IMPORTANT CASE THAT THIS COURT HAS EVER HAD TO DEAL WITH AND THOSE WHO WILL HAVE TO DO WITH IT WILL FEEL THEIR RESPONSIBILITY RELIGIOUSLY.

HAND WITH RING

IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF JAMES LEO GRADY.

A very important discovery was made this afternoon when a badly shattered left hand with a ring on one of the fingers was found. At first it was not known to whom the hand belonged, but later it was identified as the hand of James Leo Grady, son of Police Officer Grady, who was at work in the magazine.

The hand was identified by the ring on one of the fingers.

ARM AND EYE FOUND.

Early this morning workmen who were digging among the debris found a man's left arm and hand that had been torn from the body at the shoulder. Dr. O'Connor took charge of the arm. No no could identify it. The Grady and McDermott families both identified the arm found yesterday and until the question of identification is settled the arm will be kept by the undertaker.

Quite near where the arm was found the workmen discovered a human eye embedding in a circular rock about the size of a small cobble stone. The pupil of the eye is black and the ball of the optic is blue. Both were found at a considerable distance from the scene of the explosion amid the ruins of a house. The workmen continued digging in the vicinity in hope of finding other parts of the body.

SAW A HEAD.

While the physicians were examining the arm and eye a boy reported that he had seen a human head in the ruins near where the other members were found. A search was then instituted for the head.

MORE OF THE INJURED.

Below appears a partial list of those injured who are being cared for in their homes and whose names have not been published heretofore:

MRS. DAVIS, Gilman hill, thrown out of second story window, suffering with sprained back.

MRS. REGAN, 1145 Lawrence street, badly bruised.

MRS. BURKETT, Warwick street, cut and bruised.

MRS. QUADE of 15 Whitehead street, who had given birth to a child a few days before, bruised and eyes injured by mortar.

DIANA GAGNON, 15 Warnock street, thrown into cellar and injured.

MRS. LAYCOCK, 1146 Lawrence street, thrown over a barrel and bruised.

MRS. MORSE, 26 Epping sreet, thrown through a window and badly cut.

MRS. ORTEL, 1256 Lawrence street, thrown down a flight of stairs and back sprained.

A daughter of Joseph Morrow of Billerica street had 10 stitches taken in his hand.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL SUE.

Several property owners in the vicinity have announced their intention of bringing suits to recover for the loss of their property. At present they are trying to determine whether to make the Cartridge company, the Powder company or the town of Tewksbury the defendants.

BURNED HOGS SHOT.

This morning several badly burned and injured hogs which had disappeared at the time of the explosion appeared upon the scene in a half-dead condition. They were shot by Officer Hamilton.

MAGAZINE IN ANDREWS STREET.

Since the explosion the residents of Lawrence, Andrews and Agawam streets have been much disturbed by the presence of a retort or magazine belonging to the Cartridge company which is located in the company's yard in Andrews street near the junction of Lawrence and Agawam street directly behind a tenement block. It is very probable that an attempt will be made to have it removed without loss of time.

WANTED MAGAZINES REMOVED.

Several times since South Lowell became thickly settled attempts have been made to have the magazines removed.

Stephen Flynn, whose home is wrecked on Billerica street beyond hope of redemption, said to The Sun reporter that for several years the residents of Riverside Park have stirred up the matter as best they could, in the hope of moving the selectmen or the town to make their homes safe by the removal of the magazines, or at any rate of their explosive contents.

"But we never could get a sufficiently united pull," remarked Mr. Flynn. "It is a pretty hard thing to do, you know, where such interests are involved, to get the town or the selectmen to do anything. But it is a fact that many of us here on Billerica street have been living in fear of what might happen, though none of us for an instant imagined that it could be anything so awful as this. I am very happy that all my family are alive and safe and that, beyond a scratch on the nose of one of them, there have been no injuries to either of them."

ARMY TENTS

TO SHELTER THOSE WHO WERE MADE HOMELESS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Adjutant General Dalton has ordered sent to Lowell a supply of army tents to be used for shelter by those who were made homeless by yesterday's disaster.

FINGERS IN GLOVE

A CHILD'S RIB ALSO FOUND IN THE RUINS.

While poking through the ruins this afternoon a glove was found with the fragments of a hand and fingers in the glove. The glove with the portions of the hand were found in the ruins of a house where all the people escaped, therefore it is possible that the hand belonged to a man who was working at the magazine and was blown some hundred yards away.

A rib which looked to be that of a child, was also found in the corner of a yard of a dismantled house.

Both the glove with the portions of the hand and the rib were turned over to Dr. J. B. O'Connor.

MILITIA MAN HURT.

Forrest G. Weeks, a member of Company C, who was on picket duty at the scene of the explosion, met with a painful injury bout 2.30 o'clock this morning. He was walking through the ruins when his foot went into a hole and he was precipitated from the top of a pile of debris.

He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and the ambulance was summoned. Upon the arrival of the ambulance Weeks was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the left cheek bone.

The wounds were dressed by the attending physicians and the injured man was afterwards taken to his home, 10 Nichols street.

MR. TURNER'S GENEROSITY.

Joseph Turner of Broadway has offered one of his tenements free of charge to Charles Hamel and family, whose house was destroyed by the explosion.

CHIMNEYS BLOWN OFF.

Bessie Gartland called at The Sun office this forenoon to state that the chimneys on her house in Abbott street were knocked down by the explosion. The bricks tumbled about a woman who was passing at the time but she escaped injury.

MILITIA ON GUARD.

It has been decided to keep the militia on guard for another day and a militiaman was placed at every house. About one dozen members of the state police are also guarding property.

Fire Marshal Casey of Haverhill is expected during the day and he and Charles Brigham of the fire marshal's office will begin an investigation at once. They will report their findings to the deputy fire marshal and then a hearing may be held on the matter.

A powder expert from New Haven visited the scene of destruction this morning and took copious notes on the existing conditions.

In response to a query by Chairman Blaisdell of the board of selectmen the expert stated that there is absolutely no danger of other explosions when the ground upon which the magazines stood shall have risen up.

MRS. GOYETTE SAVED $100.

Mr. Joseph Goyette though he lost his house and some of his furniture, has yet much to be thankful for. Before going to his work in the morning he gave his wife $84 he had drawn from the bank and told her to put it in a bureau drawer until he returned at night.

Mrs. Goyette placed the roll of bills in her bosom, intending to place it in the bureau drawer later in the morning.

As soon as Goyette heard of the explosion he ran home to find his house a heap of blazing ruins. His wife and three children were nowhere to be found and as no one could give him any information regarding them poor Goyette was well nigh distracted. Some one suggested that he make a visit to the hospitals and he did so. At St. John's hospital he found his wife slightly injured and the $100 safe and sound, for while Mrs. Goyette was still carrying the money the explosion occurred and she was knocked senseless. When the nurses at the hospital loosened her clothing they found the money.

Then Goyette started back to the scene of the disaster to look for his children and when he got there he found all three without a scratch on them.

Later Capt. Jenkines of the Lawrence street fire company pulled Goyette's trunk containing all his valuable papers out of the ruins, the contents of the trunk being unharmed.

JOHN W. McEVOY

SAYS THE COMPANIES ARE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES.

John W. McEvoy, Esq., gave it as his opinion that the U. S. Cartridge company and American Powder company would be held liable for the damages to persons and property occasioned by the explosion. Mr. McEvoy said that the only question involved was whether the companies in storing the explosives were guilty of maintaining a nuisance. That would be a subject for determination by a jury under proper instructions from the court. But Mr. Evoy stated that the storing of highly dangerous explosives, such as gunpowder, nitroglycerine, etc., in large quantities in poorly constructed or carelessly guarded buildings near a populous community would be sufficient to satisfy any jury that the companies were guilty of maintaining a nuisance and consequently negligent and liable to respond in damages.

If the circumstances were as reported that there was a leak in one of the buildings which exposed some of the nitroglycerine and that there was carelessness in doing the work there would be additional material to establish the company's negligence and its resulting liability.

ACTING MAYOR MISKELLA

OFFERS ASSISTANCE TO PEOPLE OF STRICKEN DISTRICT.

Acting Mayor James F. Miskella went to South Lowell this morning and had a long conference with Chairman Blaisdell of the board of selectmen of Tewksbury. The acting mayor told Mr. Blaisdell that the city of Lowell and its people stand ready to give any assistance in their power to the people who have suffered from the explosion. He assured Mr. Blaisdell that whatever service could be rendered would be gladly performed. Mr. Blaisdell stated to the acting mayor that the authorities of the town have the relief work pretty well systematized now and that should there be occasion where they could not cope with the situation they would be thankful for the assistance that the people of Lowell and the officials might render. He told Mr. Miskella that Lowell has already done a great deal for the stricken district and that the prompt attention given the matter by Acting Mayor Miskella will not be forgotten.

OTHER PROPERTY DAMAGED.

In addition to the list of property damaged in the vicinity of the explosion as published in yesterday's Sun the home of Joseph Bruce and Thomas McKee on Billerica street were both practically demolished, for the interiors were all ripped out.

Along upper Lawrence street considerable damage was done. The Waterhead and Faulkner mills had damaged sash and window lights in large numbers. The tenement property owned by the Jenkines family in South Whipple street lost by actual count 50 panes of glass. All the down town mills were more or less affected, but could not reckon the number of panes lost. In many of the buildings the windows were open and hence the breakage was not as great as if they had been closed.

RESTAURANTS BUSY.

The restaurants are doing a land office business today. The number of visitors to Lowell, bound for South Lowell, is great. The street railway company put on extra cars this forenoon but even with an addition of cars the accommodation was not as good as it ought to be.

MISS WELCH'S HOUSE DAMAGED

The windows in the house of Miss Elizabeth Welch on the High street extension were nearly all smashed and a canary bird in a cage was instantly killed.

STONE FROM EXPLOSION.

A stone from the magazine fell a short distance from the house of William Grady on High street.

WINDOWS SMASHED.

The windows in Ed. Cawley's office on Rogers street were broken and Miss Crotty, the bookkeeper, was badly shocked.

There was a general wreck of windows at the Hooper Knitting company. Some of the girls were badly scared.

ARCANUM BUTTON

ON PIECE OF CLOTH, FOUND BY OFFICER CLEMENTS.

All doubt as to the fate of Louis Richards was removed this morning when Officer Horace Clements found a piece of cloth on which was a Royal Arcanum button. The cloth was shown to a brother of Richards who immediately identified it as a piece of the coat worn by his unfortunate brother. Richards was secretary of Rochambeau Council, R. A., and always wore the button.

ADJT.-GEN. DALTON PRESENT.

Adjt. Gen. Dalton came to Lowell this noon and inspected the military arrangements provided. He found everything satisfactory and agreed with Acting Mayor Miskella that the guards should remain on duty another 24 hours.

MILITARY APPEARANCE.

The cordons of military men encircling the district devastated by the explosion, the tented headquarters of the militia captains and the commissary department, the silent guards pacing to and fro at the entrances give the appearance of a military camp and as one soldier remarked it well might be called "Camp Misery." It was a thoughtful act of Acting Mayor Miskella to get out the militia for so great was the territory covered that the police, numerous though they were could not keep back the immense crowds which came from all directions. The militia did its work well and was at its post throughout one of the most severe thunder storms of the season.

MRS. GUTHRIE'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Guthrie, a friend of the Riggs family, and her infant child had a most remarkable escape from the horrible fate that met Mrs. Riggs.

The woman with her child visited the home of Mrs. Riggs early yesterday morning. It was her intention to remain at the house for dinner, but about 8.45 o'clock the baby became troublesome and she decided to return to the city with the intention of returning in time for dinner. She had boarded the electric car and had just passed Stott's mill when the terrible crash came.

AN ARREST MADE

"Sheeney Mike" Caught by State Police

State Detectives Rhodes and Griffin arrested Michael Planstier, better known as "Sheeney Mike," who, it is alleged, is a well known pickpocket residing in Somerville.

It is alleged that he was "working" the crowded cars that were going to the scene of the devastation and that he was discovered by a man wo knew him, but "Mike" as soon as discovered jumped off the car and made his escape.

It was while poking through the ruins about 2 o'clock that State Officers Rhodes and Griffin spied him and immediately placed him under arrest. He denied that he was known as "Sheeney Mike" and said that he had just come to have a look at the ruins. He could not explain how he got through the lines, and as the whole story was very thin and the officers sent him to the local police station.

FUNERALS

FLOOD—The funeral of Henry F. Flood took place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home, 15 Lombard street and was largely attended. The bearers were John J. Dolan, John Harrington, Daniel Murphy and John Mullsey from Post 42, G. A. R., and John H. Barry and Charles Cotter. There was also present a delegation from Post 42, G. A. R. Taking Part in Haverhill Muster

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL Mass., July 30—Today was veteran firemen's day in this city and the parade which was held this forenoon before the principal streets of the city, was a big success and was witnessed by thousands of people. There were 18 tubs and companies in line, with a dozen bands and drum corps, and the companies participating were as follows:

Neptune of Newburyport, L. V. Spaulding of Haverhill, White Angel of Salem, Nonatum of Newton, Gardner No. 4 of Gardner, Deluge of North Cambridge, Hancock of Brockton, Columbia of Winchendon, City of Lawrence of Lawrence, Protector of Amesbury, City of Lowell of Lowell, City of Somerville of Somerville, Protector of East Haverhill, General Taylor of Everett, Red Jacket of Cambridge, Fountain of Exeter, N. H., Paul Revere of Revere, Twentieth Tiger of Newburyport.

WOMEN JUMPED

FOUR OF THEM IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Two speedy horses attached to a hack owned by Henry Dyer of Chelsea took fright in that city yesterday afternoon and ran away and the four women occupants of the hack had a thrilling experience. Two of them jumped out while the horses were going at full speed and sustained painful though not serious injuries. The other women remained in the hack and escaped without injury, though they were terribly frightened.

The team was driven by Henry Welch and was returning from a funeral service at Woodlawn cemetery. When Garfield avenue, Chelsea, was reached one of the horses kicked, pulling the reins from Mr. Welch's hands. Immediately Welch jumped from the seat and attempted to secure the reins, the ends of which were trailing on the street. He missed his footing, however, and fell to the ground. He was not injured and picked himself up and started after the horses, but they were too speedy for him and he had to give up the chase.

The animals sped down Garfield avenue, and when the women occupants—Mrs. Dearborn of the Waverley house, Charlestown; Mrs. George F. Knowlton of 29 Pearl street, Charlestown; Mrs. George P. Whitney and Mrs. Elizabeth Dickinson, the two latter of Groton—realized that the horses were without a driver they became frightened. Mrs. Dearborn and Mrs. Knowlton jumped from the hack. Mrs. Dearborn sustained injuries to her nose and wrist, and after the wounds were dressed she was assisted home by friends. Mrs. Knowlton was badly shaken up and was attended by a physician, after which she was removed to her home.

Along Garfield avenue the horses continued and rounded into Washington ave., where they were stopped by Motorman McLean of the Boston & Northern street railroad.

SHIRLEY'S BIG DAY

SPORTS, PUBLIC EXERCISES AND BAND CONCERTS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SHIRLEY, Mass., July 30—This was the principal day of the old home week celebration in Shirley. It was observed especially because it was the 150th anniversary of the town and a program including sports, a dinner, public exercises and band concerts had been prepared.

The anniversary dinner was served in the town hall. Melvin W. Longley, president of the Old Home Week association, presided. After singing by the school children, Hon. George J. Burns of Ayer delivered an historic address. Congressman Charles O. Tirrell of Natick, A. S. Pinkerton of Worcester, James Wilson Grimes of Reading also spoke.

NO RETALIATION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 3.—The statement published in the American papers to the effect that there has been a change in the method of viseing passports for travelers intending to visit Russia is untrue.

The rule which has always been in force, and remains unchanged, is that ambassadors and consul generals may vise passports, but that honorary consuls may not.

HAVERHILL MAN APPOINTED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—At the meeting of the executive council today, Governor Bates made the following nominations:

Daniel W. Hammond of Haverhill, to be member of the district police, detective department.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Charles Applegate of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 68 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Goodale's Drug Store.

TALK OF STRIKE

Not So Prominent in Miller Case

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The talk of a strike against the reinstatement of W. A. Miller, the bookbinder, has entirely ceased.

There is great fear among the thousands of employes of the government printing office that if they go on strike they will be prosecuted on the charge of conspiring and interfering with the operations of the federal government.

There is a statute on the books, passed during the reconstruction period, which imposes heavy penalties, some as high as five years' imprisonment, for any interference with the operations of the government.

It is a dragnet statute and was intended for the protection of the officers of the federal government in the southern states. To a layman the law seems to cover conspiracies such as a strike would probably be held to be if a court were asked to pass upon it.

Additional charges were filed today against Miller. They are called additional although Secretary Cortelyou and Public Printer Palmer regard them were as reiterations of those filed heretofore.

President Barrett of the bookbinders' union took occasion to say that the criticisms of the action of the president in reinstating Miller credited to individual members are not to be taken as representing the attitude of the union.

"We recognize the fact," he said, "that the president merely did his duty, and that if there is any reason for criticising what has occurred, it is the law-making body that is entitled to receive it."

The civil service commission is going over its records for the purpose of showing, if called upon, that the unions, in times past, have practically compelled the public printer to violate the spirit, if not the letter of the classified service law, by having men dismissed for no other reason than that they had incurred the enmity of a majority of their fellow workmen who, all being members of the union, first expelled them and in that way made it appear to the public printer that they were no longer fit to be in the public service.

President Proctor will take a synopsis of what is found to Oyster Bay, where he will probably arrive before the end of the week. He left the city today.

JUMPED INTO RIVER

HARRY FREEMAN TRIED TO END HIS LIFE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Harry Freeman, aged 25 years, residing at 939 Harrison avenue, while suffering from delirium tremens about 3.30 yesterday afternoon, attempted to commit suicide by jumping off the Charlestown bridge into the Charles river, a distance of about 25 feet.

The attention of Thomas B. Pollard, one of the drawtenders at the bridge, and Charles Bishop of 48 Henley street, and Charles DeRocher of 96 Monument street, Charlestown, was attracted to the scene and the three jumped into the bridge boat and went out to Freeman, whom they pulled out of the water. He was removed to the city prison in the police wagon.

RICHARDS DISCHARGED

CHAUFFEUR NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR GIRL'S DEATH.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, July 30.—Coroner Mix yesterday concluded his investigation into the death of Catarina Vellecn, a little girl killed on Monday by an automobile.

The coroner places no criminal responsibility on the occupants of the automobile and Chauffeur William H. Richards, who has been held in bonds of $1000, was released from custody.

All the witnesses testified that the speed of the automobile was moderate and that the child ran directly in front of the machine.

STRIKE ORDERED

BUT NOT MANY HAVE LEFT WORK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., July 30.—While a strike has been declared against the American Hardware corporation of this city by the national body of the Molders' union, there is little sign of it about the factories or streets. Less than 30 molders, about one-fourth of the number employed, quit work today. The strikers' committee say they will have all the molders out by Saturday night. Their grievance is over a question of wages.

BACK TO WORK

TRANSFER COMPANY WILL RECOGNIZE THE UNION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—The drivers of the New York Transfer company who went on strike yesterday, resumed work today, their demand for recognition of their union having been granted.

"A satisfactory understanding has been reached and a contract has been made with the union. Much baggage has accumulated, but it all will be cleared away in a few hours."

EXPECTED AT ATLANTIC CITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ATLANTIC CITY, July 30.—It was expected that Charles M. Schwab and family would arrive here yesterday but they did not. Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad said they had received an order from Mr. Schwab to take his private car Loretto to this city but later the order had been countermanded. It was learned that Mr. Schwab's agent in this city has been negotiating for the rental of a month or more, at $1500 a month, of the cottage owned by Clarence M. Busch, former state printer of Pennsylvania.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

TEN KILLED

Troops Fired a Volley at Striking Workmen

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—Ten striking workmen were killed and eighteen wounded as the result of a volley fired by troops at Mikhailovo, on the Tiflis-Batoum railway, July 28. The strikers attempted to stop trains and a detachment of 40 soldiers was summoned. They were greeted with a shower of stones and some revolver shots. After repeated warnings had been given the strikers, the troops were ordered to fire.

The street car service at Odessa is suspended in consequence of a strike of drivers and conductors for higher wages. The employes are preventing the cars from leaving the sheds.

FINE OF $500

AND A JAIL SENTENCE FOR JANTZEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—Adolph J. Jantzen, for years "Al." Adams' right hand man, was today sentenced to four months in the penitentiary and fined $500. Jantzen pleaded guilty to having policy slips in his possession.

HERBERT SMITH

APPOINTED TO A POSITION BY SECRETARY CORTELYOU.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Secretary Cortelyou announced today that Herbert Knox Smith had been appointed deputy commissioner of corporations in the department of commerce and labor.

Mr. Smith is a resident of Hartford, Conn., a graduate from Yale and a member of the bar of Connecticut. He was a member of the judiciary commission of the Connecticut legislature and has given particular attention to the various measures relating to corporation laws.

POLYGAMY CHARGE

ERNEST B. THOMPSON PLACED UNDER ARREST.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Ernest B. Thompson was arrested here today, charged with polygamy. It is alleged that he married Margaret E. Mitchell in Sanford, Eng., in 1896 and went through the ceremony again with Jessie R. McNutt in this city in 1899.

REAR ADMIRAL COTTON

WILL BE PRESENTED TO MEMBERS OF ROYAL FAMILY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LISBON, Portugal, July 30.—Rear Admiral Cotton, commanding the United States European squadron now in these waters, will be presented today to Crown Prince Louis Philippe and to the Infante Manuel, second son of King Charles, who will accompany his majesty when he visits the American warships.

WON GOODWOOD CUP.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 30.—Rehlaise won the Goodwood cup (of 2000 sovereigns, for three year olds and upwards, two miles and a half) at the Goodwood race meeting today. Cappa White was second and Merry Saint came in third. Eight horses ran.

Balances $15,659,518.

SCORED 87 RUNS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CARDIFF, Wales, July 30.—The Philadelphian cricketers today began a match here with a Glamorganshire eleven. At lunch time the home players had scored 87 runs in their first innings, for eight wickets down.

HIS LEG BROKEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—John Gallagher, 40 years old, married, living at 15 Bristol street, Cambridge, a fireman at the power house of the elevated railroad on George street, Charlestown, fell from a platform last evening, a distance of 10 feet, and broke his right leg. He was taken to the City hospital in an ambulance.

STRIKE OF PAPER MILLS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 30—The strike of Union Bag & Paper Co. employes has ended and the men reported for work today on the same terms as prevailed when the mills were shut down by the firemen's strike for an eight hour day and a $2 a day wages four weeks ago.

ELECTRIC CO. REORGANIZED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

OMAHA, Neb., July 30.—The Omaha electric light and power company, a recently organized $3,000,000 corporation, will take over the property of the Omaha Thomson-Houston electric light company August 1, together with the two lighting companies of Council Bluffs. Floating indebtedness of $400,000 and bonded indebtedness of $208,000 will be taken up and new bonds to the extent of $1,500,000 issued. The new company is organized under the laws of the state of Maine and a number of its heavy stockholders are residents of Boston. There will be no change in the management of affairs of the concern.

REPRIEVE GRANTED

MAN WAS TO HAVE BEEN HANGED TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 30—Felix Hall, a negro, who was sentenced to be hanged here today, has had his life saved and probably will regain his liberty. He was identified by T. M. Morrissey of Vicksburg yesterday as Henry Jackson, who says the negro was in Louisiana at the time of the killing of Norwood Clark, of whose death he was convicted.

Hall has claimed all along that his name was Henry Jackson. He said he could not establish the alibi at the trial because he could not get his witnesses located in time.

Gov. Jelks has telegraphed a reprieve, and Hall probably will be set at liberty as soon as necessary legal forms can be compiled with.

NEW PROFESSORS

HAVE BEEN APPOINTED TO COLBY COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WATERVILLE, Me., July 30.—Rev. Hugh Ross Hatch of Wolfville, N. S., has been appointed professor of mathematics at Colby college to succeed Prof. L. F. Warren, resigned.

Mr. Hatch was graduated from Colby in the class of 1890. He studied three years at the Newton theological seminary and was ordained at Biesboro, Me., in 1893. That same year he returned to Newton seminary as professor of the Old Testament, remaining four years, when he went to Wolfville. He married the daughter of the late Rev. N. D. Curtis of Fairfield.

Dr. Freeman Parmenter of Brown university, a graduate of Boston university, has been appointed professor of chemistry to succeed the late Prof. Elder, who died on commencement day this year.

GETTING BETTER

ALLEN ABLE TO TAKE A FEW STEPS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—C. Endicott Allen, the Harvard man who awoke yesterday after an almost continuous sleep of 44 days at the Monmouth Memorial hospital, Long Branch, sat up in a wheel chair the greater part of yesterday. By Saturday his physician, Dr. Walter S. Whitmore, expects to take him out for a drive.

"I attribute his recovery," said Dr. Whitmore today, "partly, if not wholly to the use of electricity. I have been treating Mr. Allen for about two weeks first by an uninterrupted current to get him used to it and then by an alternating current, to produce shock. He is now perfectly rational.

"I have talked with Mr. Allen about his peculiar case. I am satisfied that his condition was not due to overwork, as was at first reported but to shock. He was sent to J. Hood Wright hospital in New York for an operation but it was never performed.

"Allen told me he could recognize his mother at his bedside at times when he appeared unconscious, but that he was unable to speak. He recollects his trip down to Red Hook on the river but the six weeks which has intervened in which he has slept nearly all the time is almost a complete blank."

Allen is quite weak but he is gaining strength. He took a few steps yesterday.

BISHOP BURGESS

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MATTITUCK, L. I., July 30.—Bishop Frederick Burgess of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island, and the Rev. William A. Wasson, formerly rector of the Church of the Redeemer here, have had a narrow escape from drowning in Peconic bay.

Bishop Burgess is Mr. Wasson's guest at his cottage on Peconic bay. Mr. Wasson took the bishop out on the bay in a boat, when suddenly a violent gust of wind struck the boat and in an instant the craft capsized and both men were thrown into the water. Fortunately a sailing party from the Mattituck house saw the accident and rescued the men.

CARRIED DEAD CHILD

MOTHER HAD LITTLE ONE IN HER ARMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 30.—When a New York Central train pulled in from the east early yesterday a woman, poorly clad, stepped from a car followed by four small children.

In her arms she carried the dead body of a 6-months-old infant. The child had died on the train of cholera infantum.

The woman said her name was Pearson and that she was en route from Boston to join her husband in Chicago.

The child had died between Syracuse and Rochester.

ADRIFT IN DORY

Woman Was Half Dead When Recovered

She Started to Row to Her Home and One of the Oars Broke—The Dory Drifted 75 Miles Out to Sea and Mrs. Carter Had Given up All Hope

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCKLAND, Maine, July 30.—News was brought here today by the steamer Vinal Haven that after being adrift in a dory 48 hours and blown 75 miles out to sea during the gale of Monday, Mrs. Carter of Monroe Island, formerly Miss Clara Pease of Bangor, was picked up yesterday afternoon by a fishing schooner Hazel Oneta, Captain William Malonsen of Gloucester, 30 miles east of Mt. Desert rock. The woman, who was half dead from exhaustion and the effects of large quantities of salt water taken to quench her thirst, was carried to Long Island, where she revived during the night sufficiently to relate her experience. She was expected to recover.

The news was brought here today by the steamer Vinal Haven.

Mrs. Carter said she left Owl's Head Sunday to row to her home, at Monroe Island about three quarters of a mile. One of the oars broke and she drifted to sea, passing unnoticed by several pleasure craft just at dusk. During the gale which swept the coast and continued all day Monday she became hysterical and abandoning all hope of rescue, she drank large quantities of the sea water. She passed vessels at sea, but the weather was so rough she was not seen. She laid down and must have fallen asleep for she remembers nothing more.

Mrs. Carter was 47 years old and went to Monroe Island two years ago from Bangor. Parties in boats had been searching for her since Monday morning.

BROKEN GLASS

Plenty of It Around the City

There is more broken glass in Lowell than ever before in her history. The concussion caused by the explosion shattered glass right and left and in some instances it played funny pranks. In the rear of the Talbot Clothing company's store in Central street a number of small windows were peculiarly dealt with. There are about 18 in all and every other window was broken. These peculiar freaks indulged in by explosions and lightning are hard to explain. Why the concussion should break a window, skip a window and break another and continue to do so until a gauntlet of 18 was run is something that the scientist will have to explain. The man who tells us that we heard no noise when the explosion occurred, that what we felt was only a sound wave may be able to tell us why the concussion in its frolic discriminated with the windows above mentioned.

Speaking of broken glass it is not irrelevant to mention the fact that C. B. Coburn & Co., with a keen eye to business, inserted a "glass" ad. on the front page of The Sun yesterday and the result was that the company after engaging all means of transportation obtainable delivered glass in an automobile.

WEEDING OUT

WORK BEGUN IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRISTOL, R. I., July 30—The weeding out process in the tennis tournament for the championship of Rhode Island has progressed since the first of the week as far as the semi-finals in singles, which were begun this forenoon on the association courts. R. H. Carleton and G. L. Wyeth, crack players, battled for two hours, with the result that the former was victorious, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. A large number of spectators witnessed the match. Carleton was obliged to cease playing several times during the match in order to receive medical attention because of a sprained wrist.

MADE A MIDSHIPMAN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30.—John Quincy Adams of Pennsylvania passed both physical and mental examinations to the naval academy, and was today sworn in as a midshipman.

Constipation Cured

Good Health is Utterly Impossible Unless the Waste Products of the Body are Got Rid of—A Safe, Natural Remedy is to Be Had From Any Druggist.

Constipation isn't pleasant to discuss—it's unpleasant from any standpoint, but if you are constipated you are sick and will be sickness unless relieved.

The first question the doctor asks is, "How are your bowels?" The first thing he does is to make them act naturally.

If there were no such thing as constipation nine tenths of the suffering from disease would be done away with, because there would be very little disease.

Nature has provided you with bowels and kidneys that your system may be kept free from poisons.

She has tied up the nutritive elements of all food in a mass of indigestible material, from which it is freed in the process of digestion.

If this undigested portion of the food is not removed through the bowels it simply lies in the intestines and rots, causing pain and disease.

Iron-Ox Tablets not only relieve, but permanently cure constipation.

Remember, Iron-Ox Tablets are not purgative or cathartic in their effect; they are tonic-laxative; they cure by building up the entire system. Purgatives and cathartics give only temporary relief by violent and injurious action—they do far more harm than good.

Anything which shocks the system into activity is dangerous. Do not expect immediate perceptible effects from Iron-Ox Tablets. They produce a natural, regular building up of all the functions. This takes a little time, but success is absolutely certain.

Fifty Iron-Ox Tablets in an attractive aluminum pocket-case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-Ox Remedy Co., Detroit, Mich.

SAINT'S RELICS

Will be Exposed for Adoration

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—The coming ceremonies at the monastery at Saroff promise to be very interesting. The relics of Saint Seraphim will be exposed for adoration after five days of religious exercises. These relics have been installed in a solid silver casket beneath a silver baldachin. The expense of the installation was borne by the emperor from his private purse.

Most elaborate preparations have been made for the celebration. All of the pomp and magnificence of the eastern church, with its most impressive and elaborate ceremonies, its imposing processions and its solemn liturgies will be employed.

RULES CHANGED

TO FAVOR CHINESE COMING TO ST. LOUIS FAIR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Taking note of the criticisms that have been passed at home and abroad on the application of the Chinese exclusion laws to the incoming of Chinese who are to act up the Chinese exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, the president has directed a considerable change in the existing rules.

The amended rules are now in press and it is said will make the entry of Chinese, who are not attempting to evade the exclusion laws, easy.

The Chinese minister here has expressed his satisfaction with the changes.

VISITED RELATIVES

GOLD WATCHES AND MONEY ARE MISSING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Solomon Markovitz of 19 Lowell street and Mrs. E. Marcus of 21 Lowell street had a caller yesterday. The caller, who gave the name of Jacob Goldberg, said he resided in California and claimed relationship with both his host and hostess. He made such a fine appearance and he had such a smooth manner of talking that he greatly impressed Markovitz. After talking for some time Goldberg bade his "relatives" farewell. On his departure Markovitz claimed that a gold hunting case watch, which he valued highly, also disappeared.

On leaving Markovitz, Goldberg made his way to the house of Mrs. Marcus. After discharging much hot air he had her convinced that a relationship existed between them. They talked over old times, and when he left 21 Lowell street $20 belonging to Mrs. Marcus left with him, so she says.

It was some time after his departure that the two "relatives" discovered their losses, and then there was weeping in Lowell street. Markovitz reported both cases to Capt. Peabody of station 3. He said Goldberg is about 28 years old, stands about 5 feet 7, weighs 140 pounds, wore a blue suit and white soft hat and has a dark mustache.

The police are on his trail and hope to land the "poor relation" today.

ANOTHER DELAY IN MISSOURI.

By Associated Press to The Sun

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 30.—The defence secured another delay yesterday in the trials of Senator Frank H. Farris, F. A. Smith and B. W. Matthews, indicted on charges of bribery.

COLUMBIA THROUGH RACING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30—The ex-cup defender Columbia left here this morning in tow of the tender Park City for City Island, where she will be laid up for the season.

The Reliance and Constitution are still at their moorings in the outer harbor and will remain here for some time to tune up.

LASTERS STRIKE

Price of Lasting Was Reduced

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., July 30.—Twenty lasters employed by the G. E. Nicholson company, shoe manufacturers, are on strike because of a reduction in the lasting price. The concern is running a free shop, having recently surrendered the stamp of the Boot & Shoe Workers' union and ended the strike of the Knights of Labor cutters and stitchers.

SENATOR HANNA

SAYS DEPRESSION IS CONFINED TO WALL STREET.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30.—Momentous matters were discussed at the Casino yesterday by one of the most interesting groups of men ever gathered within its walls.

The central figure was Senator Marcus A. Hanna, and those who were with him in animated conversation were August Belmont, head of the great banking house of Belmont, and Richard T. Wilson, another keen-witted financier, father of Lady Herbert. Mrs. Ogden Goelet Belmont, and Richard T. Wilson, anis quite a well known for the marriages his daughters have made as he is for the millions which he has amassed.

For nearly two hours Messrs. Belmont and Wilson talked with the senator from Ohio.

Senator Hanna stood during the earlier part of the conference, but later his lameness overcame him, and he was obliged to seek the comfort of a settee, whither his companions followed him.

Senator Hanna thinks the country in a very prosperous condition, and that there is no business depression whatever outside of Wall street.

About 1 o'clock the group separated, Senator and Mrs. Hanna, who had joined her husband, driving to Oakwood Terrace, where they took lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamlin of Buffalo.

Senator Wetmore gave a dinner last evening in honor of Senator Hanna.

A BIG SLICE

MADE IN EXPENSES IN THE PHILIPPINES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANILA, July 30.—The U. S. Philippine commission has been conducting a detailed examination of the heads of the various departments of the government, forcing on them a general policy of retrenchment.

The commissioners have investigated the estimates, cut down items, substituted Filipinos in subordinate positions formerly assigned to Americans, and have impressed on the chiefs that they must follow the McKinley policy of the elevation of the Filipinos.

As a result of the commission's action, it is estimated that the budget for the half-year will be reduced from $5,209,408 to $4,216,165 for the insular departments, and for the city of Manila from $1,407,034 to $969,015, exclusive of permanent improvements, which will be made a separate charge. The budget bill has not yet been passed.

The commission has adopted a new arrangement for the appropriations, because previous statements contained overestimates to the amount of about $1,000,000, which is being returned to the treasury, and it is expected that the insular expenses will show a general reduction of 8 to 10 percent.

THE CUBAN LOAN

MAY BE FLOATED IN GREAT BRITAIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 30.—If Cuba fails to float her proposed loan of $35,000,000 in the United States she will have no difficulty in doing so here.

Several British financiers who have been approached on the subject by the marquis of Montoro, Cuban minister to Great Britan, have indicated their willingness to subscribe. But the minister is unable to commit the Cuban government, because of lack of instruction from President Palma.

Minister Montoro understands that Senor Palma will soon decide where and how the loan will be floated, and he has promised to communicate the information, when authorized to do so, to the interested parties.

We are told there is no politics in in the school board. That is always the assumption when the republicans have things their own way, just as some newspapers claim to be non-partisan when they are uniformly republican.

The high school is to have a five hours' session hereafter and military drill is to be retained. Other cities have a five hours' session, some have longer. Five hours a day it seems should not injure boys and girls of high school age.

PLACING THE BLAME FOR THE DISASTER.

In order to understand more fully whether negligence contributed to the cause of the terrible catastrophe in which the magazines of the United States Cartridge company and the American Powder company were blown up, it will be necessary to explain the nature of the explosives stored in the magazines and the care required to avoid an explosion.

Dynamite as generally manufactured consists of certain solids such as infusorial earth, porcelain earth, coal dust, siliceous ashes or the like with about three times its weight of nitro glycerine.

To the eye it is a grayish brown, reddish or blackish powder, damp and greasy to the touch and without smell. It is sufficiently hard to be handled in bars or cakes and in this form if handled carefully is not particularly dangerous.

Dynamite is merely a combination of solids designed to carry the nitro glycerine which is the most powerful explosive known.

A high authority says that even when pure, nitro glycerine is liable at a heat of 70 degrees or less to undergo decomposition into glycerine, acids and gases, which exerting pressure on the liquids renders it so prone to explosion that even a slight concussion is attended with danger. The impure commercial compound decomposes more rapidly than the pure nitro glycerine and may from this cause be dangerously self-explosive even while standing quietly.

A case is related in which a workman at a quarry was set to clean a wagon on which were traces of nitro glycerine. He scraped it off with a piece of slate and when done threw the slate into the wagon with slight force but sufficient to cause an explosion which blew the wagon to pieces.

This shows the extreme care that must be used in handling nitro glycerine. The fall of a tool like a crowbar, a spade or shovel might be sufficient to cause the explosion where the floor was saturated with nitro glycerine. According to the statement of the Cartridge company nitro glycerine had leaked from the dynamite to the floor and even under a partition leaving streaks upon the floor. It was for this reason that the floor was to be removed.

Now it will be noticed that the gang of men furnished by the U. S. Cartridge company to remove the powder and dynamite from the magazines was sent there not to handle nitro glycerine or guard against its dangerous character. They were sent there to remove dynamite and gunpowder.

There seems to have been no special caution or care about the nitro glycerine upon the floor. Had there been any such caution or care the company would have sent a man authorized and licensed by the state to handle explosives, to superintend the work; but was this done?

Was Louis Richards so authorized? Was the boy, James Leo Grady, who had been in the employ of the Cartridge company but two weeks to be expected to exercise the necessary care on a floor streaming with nitro-glycerine? The answer is obvious.

Almeda Belanger, another boy who had been in the employ of the company but six weeks, was also a member of the gang. He is at the hospital at the point of death. Was he a proper person to select for the handling of dynamite on a floor soaked with nitro glycerine?

The company that sent such a gang of men to perform such work is in our opinion, guilty of criminal negligence.

It is to be presumed that the boxes and cases which were to be removed were of considerable weight. When the men took them in hand the pressure of their feet upon the floor may have been enough to cause the explosion.

The company will try to wriggle out of the responsibility by saying that it was merely an accident but due care prevents such accidents and the care necessary in this case was not exercised by the company that undertook the work for the American Powder company.

That company owning and leasing the magazine is primarily responsible. The others with the exception of the Du Pont Powder company, which had no explosives there, were merely the tenants or lessees of the premises under the U. S. Cartridge company, but they too are culpable.

Here then are the plain conclusions that seem to be forced upon the investigator of this terrible disaster—First, the United States Cartridge company and its copartners in the magazines are criminally liable for maintaining such a menace to life and property at the doors of a large number of residents. Second, the U. S. Cartridge Co. would have been criminally negligent in sending a gang of inexperienced men to remove the powder and dynamite under the most favorable conditions.

Third, the leakage of the nitro glycerine from the dynamite and its saturation of the floor made the case one in which the most extreme care was necessary. It was a case that called for the presence of an expert on explosives. No expert was present. No man was present who had a license from the government to handle explosives. On this ground especially the company exercised the most gross and criminal negligence.

No doubt a large umber of experts on explosives will now be produced to show that the company was not to blame but a single expert on the scene to direct and superintend the work of removing the explosives, could have prevented the disaster and the consequent destruction of life and property.

The cartridge company seems to make much of the fact that their powder had been removed when the explosion occurred; but that cannot relieve them from responsibility for the work of inexperienced men upon the magazine which they had leased to the American Powder company. The latter company had a right to assume that the Cartridge company would have reliable men to do the work. But all the companies that held joint ownership or occupancy of the tenguzine should be held jointly responsible for the disaster that wiped out so many lives and caused such destruction of property not only in the immediate vicinity but for miles around.

Aftermath of the Quincy Riot

By Associated Press to The Sun

QUINCY, Mass., July 31.—As an aftermath of the riot in Quincy woods last Sunday, between picnickers from Cambridge and residents of Quincy, James P. Riley of Cambridge was arraigned before Judge Avery in district court here yesterday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Simon Bennett and James F. Mullen. Owing to the condition of the alleged victims of Riley, who are in the hospital where slight hopes are entertained for their recovery, that case was continued to Aug. 12 and the court increased the bail to $3000 for the assault on Bennett and $2000 for the assault on Mullen. Prior to the arraignment, Riley was taken to the hospital where Mullen identified him as his assailant. In default of bail, Riley was taken to Dedham jail.

GOOD MEASURE

Grocers Had Great Time at Canobie Lake

The grocers and butchers of this city, Nashua and surrounding towns held their annual picnic at Canobie lake yesterday. There were over 500 present and they had the best time imaginable.

The sports were the main attraction and of these there were sufficient to satisfy all. A baseball contest between the clerks of Nashua and Lowell was the principal event of the day. The Lowell boys appeared to be the stronger of the two, and before the game was over they gave visible evidence of this fact. The Nashuans were no match at all for their Lowell brothers, who had things their own way from the start and won, 6 to 4.

The other sports were carried off in the majority of cases by Lowell men, including the potato race.

The committee on sports consisted of Richard J. McCloskey, George F. McGuire and John McCullough.

FREIGHT RATES

Will be Advanced on August 1

Freight rates on the Boston & Maine railroad will be advanced on Aug. 1, to meet the exceptionally heavy increase in the cost of maintaining and running the property. Other lines in New England have taken similar action, with very little protest from shipping interests, and it is to be assumed that the patrons of the Boston & Maine will likewise acquiesce.

The increase will be horizontal, that is, it will go down the whole length of the class freight line and make an advance of 1 per cent. per 100 pounds. This raise is not as great as some of the other companies have made, but it is expected to be sufficient to offset in great part the additional cost of labor and materials required in maintaining the service.

There will be one exception in the application of the new tariffs. In that, where present rates between stations for any one of the six classes are respectively 45 cents, 40 cents, 31 cents, 21½ cents, 19 cents and 17 cents or higher no increase will be made.

These figures do not apply to commodity rates, as they are fixed by joint action of the various lines over which merchandise under this classification is moved.

Justification for the impending increase in freight charges is found in the fact that the new pay roll of the Boston & Maine railroad, which went into effect July 1, calls for an additional outlay on account of labor of more than $800,000 per year.

Then come the extra outlay for coal. As compared with the conditions before the strike for three or four years past, at least $500,000 has been added to this item alone. Locomotives that heretofore cost $10,000 are now quoted at $15,000. In the matter of ties, and the company purchases no less than 1,400,000 of them each year, the price has been advanced from 31 cents to 45 cents, making a total increase of nearly $200,000 in this feature of roadway maintenance.

Consideration should also be given to the fact that the cost of every necessity used by a railroad has been marked up from 10 to 50 per cent. As the resources of a railroad have limitations, it will be seen that in order to maintain its efficiency and keep it from the slough of bankruptcy its revenues must be increased when the drain becomes excessive, and it is this protection that the president seeks to give the property in raising freight charges.

JUDGE GRAY

ACCEPTS PLACE ON ARBITRATION BOARD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WILMINGTON, Del., July 31.—Judge George Gray decided yesterday to accept his appointment as the fifth member of the Alabama coal commission and has so telegraphed the other members of the commission at Atlantic City. He made his acceptance conditional, however, upon the commission's work being done during August, as he will have to preside over a session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in September. In order to attend to the commission work he will have to forego his usual August vacation.

His Only Recreation in Wall Street

HE CANNOT RESIST DABBLING IN THE MARKET

His Wife Wanted Him to Retire

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"If all that one hears about Wall street is true, it seems to me that it is more like an insane asylum than a place where men congregate to carry on business in a peaceful, law-abiding manner. Some years ago curiosity led me to visit the stock exchange to see whether it really was a menagerie of bulls and bears. My curiosity was satisfied. When I heard of the excitement down there the other day, I tried to persuade my husband to stay away, but he would mix in the fray, as he calls it. I have been trying to persuade him that he has worked long and hard enough to spend the remainder of his years in peace. But he has been at it so constantly that business has become a necessity with him. He seems to care for no other sort of recreation. We have enough to live on comfortably for the balance of our lives and nobody should need any more than that."

This statement was made yesterday by Mrs. Russell Sage at the old Sage home in 5th avenue, near 42nd street, while she was giving her impressions and opinions of the recent Wall street flurry which marked a decrease of $2,500,000,000 in security values.

She dubbed as a canard the report that her husband has suffered from an attack of vertigo, brought on by worry during the recent semipanic, and declared that neither he nor she had ever felt better in their lives than they do at the present time.

"Stocks and bonds once interested me very much," she admitted with a smile, "but now, beyond keeping conversationally posted on finance, I suppose I am a tyro. Money is to me only a means to an end, and I believe that when a person has accumulated enough to be comfortable on he should cease piling up more. Of course, money-making becomes a passion if permitted to engross the whole attention of a person, and that is what should be guarded against.

"Society women and women in general," resumed Mrs. Sage, "have been criticised for wasting their time on frivolous things when they should devote more of it to their families and to charity. Why, it takes as much strength and brains and nerve force for a woman to preside over a handsome home or manage a family of children as it does for a man to wear himself out on the stock exchange. As for women being extravagant, most of the so-called ruinous extravagance of women is practiced by those who are trying to buy their way into society. They are very foolish women and should be blushed for. This is always an expensive undertaking and one that no well-bred womanly woman would ever be guilty of. The latter makes her own place in her own sphere.

"One of the greatest banes of our American women is this falling under the blandishments of titled, fortune-hunting foreigners. Some men of title make good husbands. The majority do not, according to record.

"My remedy for this social disease is for our American girls to postpone their marriages until they reach years of discretion, and when they are convinced that there is genuine affection—go to the altar."

Mrs. Sage paused and searched among a number of memoranda for a notice that had come to her attention recently of a young New York woman who had made the mistake of turning over all her wealth to her husband.

"This young matron," she continued, "told me the other day that she did it because she thought she could trust her husband with her fortune if she could with her life and happiness. What is the result? She has to skimp along on a mere pittance of an allowance, which she has to beg from him. He is not squandering her money. He has put it to excellent use and is adding to it all the time. But his wife is a pauper in the vital sense of the word.

"A wife should have an allowance—not a carte blanche order on her grocer and milliner for what the household needs—but a regular cash allowance, or salary. Several women in this city whose husbands are worth millions are driven to borrow money from tradespeople and have it put on their bills. That is an outrage."

Reverting to the marriage problem, Mrs. Sage declared that no young man should burden himself with such responsibilities until his position was assured.

"Love in a cottage is quite romantic, but human nature is alike the world over and will not be denied. Some women will always be envious of their more fortunate sisters. A man should be pretty well fixed financially before he is married, if he would live happily in New York."

JUDGE PARKER

Is Not a Candidate for President

PREFERS TO REMAIN ON THE BENCH

Where He is Happy and Contented

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"I have had nothing to do with politics, except to vote, since 1884. The party has not needed me."

This was said by Chief Judge Alton B. Parker to a correspondent of the Newark Evening News, who visited him at his home, at Esopus-on-the-Hudson, and called his attention to the statement that he was a presidential possibility on the democratic ticket. Continuing, Judge Parker said:

"I take it that this is an interview we are now having. I want to say frankly, so there will be no misunderstanding, that I cannot be interviewed on the subject of whether or not I am a consideration in the political condition of my party, nor upon any political question whatever."

The judge was then asked if there was any phase of modern presidential campaigning he would care to talk about.

"I don't object to saying that I believe the time between the nominating convention and election seems too long," he replied. "It keeps the country disturbed for too long a period. Before the advent of the telegraph, the newspapers and the railroad in their present stage of development, it required time to present to the people the great questions of the day, and the issues as to men and measures. In the days of our forefathers, orators and political stump speakers travelled on horseback or on foot, and the newspapers, when compared with those of today, were slow mediums for the dissemination of news. Even the farmers in these days are reading the daily newspapers to a large extent, instead of the weeklies of former days and of former generations. It might be that the country would welcome a cutting down of the campaign period."

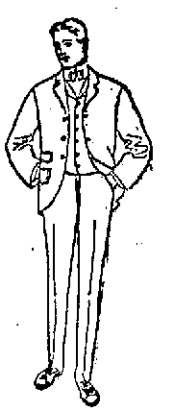

"Your southern trip, judge, centred a great deal of interest upon yourself as a presidential candidate," the correspondent said.

"That trip was planned a year before and had no significance whatever, except the fulfilling of a promise I had made to my friend, the chief justice of the supreme court of the state of Georgia," was his response.

"I will explain my position to you," continued the judge, "so you can understand why I cannot talk upon the subject you have mentioned. I went on the bench to make it my life work. It is congenial to me, and I am very happy and contented. I am with my family here in my home. I usually take them to Albany for three or four months during the winter, and when it is necessary for me to be away during the other months of the year I can run down from Albany every week.

"If I behave myself I can remain on the bench for life. The salary is ample. The New York state court of appeals pays its judges larger salaries than the United States supreme court. I shall remain on the bench. It is my ideal."

A Sufferer for Seven Years

Read What Mr. P. A. MacKenzie, the Well-Known Carriage Manufacturer Has to Say.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 20, 1902.

D. J. Murphy Co.

Dear Sirs:—In regard to your Rheumatism Cure I must say that I cannot say enough in its praise. Two years ago I induced my wife to give it a trial, very much against her will, as she had about tired of medicine. She had tried about every kind, medicine on the calendar and several doctors with little or no relief. She had been a sufferer with Rheumatism for seven years, at times so bad she could not sleep nights. Before she had taken the fourth bottle she felt completely cured, but took two more before she stopped, which is two years ago, and has not felt a pain or an ache of it since, and I know of at least two others that I told about it that it has cured.

Yours truly,

P. A. MACKENZIE.

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Lands by Defeating Manchester

Game Was Won on a Wild Throw by Leith in the Last Inning With Cross on Third—Lowell Will Try Pitcher McCarthy

With the score a tie in the last inning and Lew Cross on third base, Pitcher Leith of Manchester made a wild pitch yesterday and the day was won by Lowell.

The game was played in a rain storm and once it was necessary to delay the proceedings temporarily but it was finished out all right and Lowell went into second place.

Lowell batted Miller out of the box in two innings and Leith succeeded him. The latter was quite effective.

Hafford was Lowell's star performer and he excelled both at the bat and in the field. Matty Hickey made a somersault catch in the seventh inning that alone was worth the price of admission.

A large attendance enjoyed the fun, despite the threatening weather and the many counter attractions.

The game in detail:

First inning: Rapp led off for Manchester with a hit down third base line. Murray fanned and Smith flied to McLaughlin. Swander then sent the ball on a line to Hickey who threw wide to Bigbie. Swander was safe, but Rapp in trying to make home on the play was thrown out at the plate by Bigbie who recovered quickly. Hafford opened up for the Lakelings with a single to left and Cassidy walked. Bigbie in trying to sacrifice caused Hafford to be headed off at third. Hickey flied to Clark but Merritt followed with a single to centre upon which Cassidy tallied. Merritt then stole second and Cote in throwing to third for Bigbie hit that player on the arm with the ball and Bigbie found the walking easy to the plate.

Score, Lowell 2; Manchester 0.

Second inning: Manchester went out in order in the second. With two gone, Connors dropped the ball in front of the plate and Miller could not field it in time to get him at first. Then came Hafford with his home run. Cassidy singled but Bigbie was out at first. Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 0.

Third inning: Three hits, an error and an infield out go to Manchester 2 runs in the third. Cote opened with a safe slam to right garden and Leith placed one in short centre. Rapp followed with a sharp poke to Grant upon which Cote might have travelled to the plate. But he didn't and the bases were filled. Murray was then retired at first by Hickey but Cote tallied and Smith pushed out a fly to left which Cassidy dropped and Leith registered. Bigbie, a moment later, found a sharp grounder from Swander in his mittens and he very thoughtfully sent the ball to second, forcing Smith. Swander stole second, but Clark struck out. Lowell was retired in order.

Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 2.

With two men gone in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings the Lakelings got men on bases whom they were unable to push around the whole way.

Manchester made a strenuous protest because Kane was called out in the fourth. Bigbie dropping the ball on a throw from Hafford, but he umpire ruled that the ball was knocked out of the first baseman's hands by the runner. Cote followed with a hit and Miller shot one past second upon which McLaughlin fell down, but there were already two out and Rapp made the third.

In the fifth, Smith walked with one gone and Swander hit safely, but Smith tried unsuccessfully to sneak second on Merritt, and Cassidy made a fine capture off Clark. In the sixth and ninth the visitors sent but one man to first on passes and neither was advanced, while in the eighth they were retired, one, two, three.

There was no further scoring from that point until the seventh when Rapp ripped out a double and Murray followed with a triple. Swander scored Murray by flying to Connors in right. In this inning Smith walked and Kane placed a single in right but after Swander had been retired by the air route, Clark flied to Bigbie and Knau forced Kane at second. Score, 4 up.

Ninth inning: Lew Cross was the first Lakeling on the scene in the ninth and he selected a secluded spot in left field which netted him two bases. Connors tried to sacrifice him to third but after having two strikes called on him he laid the wood to the sphere with all his strength and while not intending to do so, he advanced Cross along a peg and went out himself. Leith to Kane. Hafford was disposed of at first, making two out and then with Cassidy at the bat, Leith made the slip-up that lost the game.

COAT OF TAR

With Feathers On the Side

IS WHAT GOFFSTOWN WHITECAPS

Will Hand Out to Lowell Man

The following letter, special from the Manchester News, from the Goffestown Whitecaps, is self-explanatory, and looks ominous for a Lowell man:

"Whitecaps were in evidence again and word has been received that if the selectmen do not proceed, tar and feathers will be used on a Lowell man who has a wife in Concord and has four children and who formerly lived here. He has cruelly turned his family into the street and is living with a woman on Rock street, Lowell. The Whitecaps have issued letters of warning and declare they will visit Lowell at an early date. Proceedings are watched with much interest, as the Whitecaps say:

"Know the law or take the consequences. Per order of WHITECAPS."

GEORGE GARDNER

Says That Fitz Must Make Weight

George Gardner's manager says that if it is shown that the Lowell boy fouled Jack Root, he will give the latter another trial for the title and will put up any amount for a side bet. He states, however, that Fitzsimmons will have first chance at Gardner.

FITZ MUST MAKE WEIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—If any match is to be arranged between George Gardner to Bob Fitzsimmons the weight question will have to be agreed upon first. Gardner now says that Fitz will have to scale 168 pounds before he will sign articles. He also stipulates that the weighing in must be at the ringside, too. This would seem to be a big handicap to Fitz in view of the fact that only the other day he went on the scales in San Francisco and tipped the beam at 203 pounds. Yet the Cornishman has been known to do surprising things, and may agree to tackle Gardner at the weight the latter suggests.

WOMAN IS DYING

Shot Three Times by Discarded Lover

THE ASSAILANT IS STILL AT LARGE

Woman Posed as Wife of Different Men

By Associated Press to The Sun

MILFORD, July 31—Concetta Misci, an Italian girl of about 25, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded yesterday afternoon by a discarded lover, Bacon Caroli.

Concetta, who has a husband in Italy, has lived in Milford for several years as the wife of at least three different men. Caroli was the last. They went to Providence about two months ago and secured a marriage permit. Caroli supposed they were to be married, but a few weeks ago he lost his job and Concetta fired him from his position as acting husband.

He has been bothering the police ever since, invoking their aid to recover the money he had given Concetta while they lived together. Yesterday morning he learned that the woman was going to New York next week to live, and, crazed by his passion for Concetta, he armed himself with a 38-calibre revolver and set out for revenge.

He found the woman picking berries in a field off Mt. Pleasant street, and fired three shots at her, all of which took effect, one in her right thigh, one under the left breast and the other in the flesh of the back near the spine.

Two women who were with her, Bessie Finklestein and Ray Weinstein, gave the alarm. Concetta was carried to the home of her mother, 16 Mt. Pleasant street, and Dr. F. H. Leslie was summoned. He thinks the chances of her recovery very slight.

Caroli fled after firing the third shot and is yet at large in the Dear Hill woods. A searching party is out after him.

The affair does not surprise the local police, as Concetta's previous "affairs" have caused her to be threatened by discarded lovers, one of whom paid a fine in the local court for threatening to kill her.

Another lover, with whom she lived for two years, had her arrested for the alleged theft of $50 which she threw him awhile, but she was acquitted.

The woman is attractive in face and figure, and on her appearances in court talked about her illicit lovers without a semblance of modesty.

A rumor is afloat that Caroli has committed suicide, but his body has not yet been found.

Preparing for the Conclave at Vatican

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—The Vatican yesterday was the scene of great activity both inside and outside. Within the last preparations were being made for the conclave and everything was in the utmost confusion. Workmen and servants were hurrying hither and thither, some hanging curtains, others putting in extra furniture, while porters were staggering along under immense trunks as if some of their eminences, the cardinals, expected to remain in their cells for months. Other cardinals sent practically nothing, as if they expected to be released within a day or two. Outside the vatican, the work was of a different character, the quiet work of the supporters of the different candidates marshalling their strength for the contest which is to come when the doors of the conclave are closed. No one candidate stands out prominently as did Cardinal Pecci in the conclave of 1878, and the discussion here is not so much concerning the superior qualities of the candidates as of the strength with which they are credited.

During the meeting of the congregation of the cardinals yesterday Cardinal Oreglia explained how the work of the conclave was to be carried on, recalling the principal rules which were to govern the body and recommending their strict observance. The cardinals will enter the conclave at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Each of the cardinals yesterday received a medal struck by the camerlingo to maintain the tradition of his sovereignty during the interregnum. Cardinals Zanuniatelli, Machi and Della Volpe were charged with the duty of visiting the apartments of the conclave and Cardinals Tripoti and Boschi, with visiting the precincts of the conclave for the purpose of making sure that there will be no possibility of communication with the outside world. They are to make their report to the congregation today.

The question of the compensation to be given to the physicians who treated the late pontiff during his last illness was also discussed in the congregation. The executors of the will said that the money remaining after the charitable bequests left by Pope Leo are paid would be only about $4000. This sum was considered insufficient and a committee of cardinals was instructed to augment it to such an amount as might seem appropriate.

PARDON GRANTED

DEDHAM MAN WALKED RELEASED FROM JAIL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—At 5:25 yesterday afternoon, Philander Allen, a Dedham business man, walked forth from the Dedham house of correction, a free man.

For some months his friends have been earnestly at work to obtain a pardon for him. Yesterday a hearing was had before Gov. Bates and his council, with the result that a pardon was granted.

Allen was sentenced July 10, 1902, to prison for a term of two years for the offence of making an assault with a dangerous weapon on George A. Musche at Dedham.

The pardon was brought out to Dedham by Dr. John W. Chase. At Dedham Dr. Chase was met by Allen's junior counsel and Mrs. Allen and the three proceeded to the jail. Here the jail officials, having previous knowledge, had Allen ready to receive the glad tidings and his freedom. The pardon was presented, and Allen was let into the vestibule. Here he met his faithful wife and the greeting was an affecting one. Then, accompanied by his wife, junior counsel and Dr. Chase, he was driven to his home, where he gave a father's greeting to his children from whom he had been separated for more than a year.

QUIET MEETING

LITTLE BUSINESS FOR OVERSEERS OF POOR.

The overseers of the poor held a very brief and unimportant meeting at the farm last evening with all the members present except Overseer McMahon. The report of the committee on cattle to the effect that three cows had been purchased for the institution was accepted. The reports of the secretary and the superintendent were accepted and adopted. The report of the superintendent showed that there were 374 inmates, 46 tramps cared for during the month and twelve deaths. The board sometime within the next few weeks will visit the institution located at Taunton.

The matter of hiring a carpenter for the institution was laid on the table.

WRONG! WRONG! WRONG!

If your digestion is poor or your stomach or bowels are out of order, your whole system is wrong. Don't look further for the cause of your sick headaches, sour stomach, bad breath, aching eyes or loss of appetite. Above all things, don't drug your system with narcotics, opiates or alcoholic nostrums, which afford only temporary relief and which might seriously injure your health.

Those who suffer from constipation or indigestion will find Abbey's Salt of Fruits a perfect corrective of all stomach disorders. It is a natural tonic laxative, pleasant to take, gentle, thorough, sure. It stimulates and tones the digestive organs, enabling the stomach to digest perfectly.

Take two teaspoonfuls in half a tumbler of water at bedtime or in the morning on arising. Your druggist will recommend it, and your stomach will endorse the recommendation.

The drug stores in all civilized countries sell Abbey's Effervescent Salt, 25c., 50c. and $1 per bottle. Let us send you a sample bottle free to-day. Address The Abbey Effervescent Salt Co., Ltd., 9 to 15 Murray St., N.Y. City; 144 Queen Victoria St., London, England, or 712 Craig St., Montreal, Canada.

GETS $300,000

Fortune Left to an Elevator Man

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31.—Walter W. Condon, 23 years old, suddenly found himself booster yesterday from an elevator man in the Ashland block to a capitalist, the possessor of a fortune of $300,000. Up to noon he had been shooting up and down the long shaft, shouting "second floor," etc., at the rate of about $10 a week. This afternoon, arrayed in his Sunday suit, he left his home, 756 North Clark street, for Coldwater, Mich., to claim the fortune left him by his grandmother.

Condon has been going under the name of W. W. Cole for reasons best known to himself. He bade his aged parents good bye seven years ago, leaving home against their wishes. The boy never wrote to his anxious parents. It is believed he came to Chicago, and a few years ago the Chicago police were notified to find and tell him of the death of his mother. Another year passed, and the police received a message announcing the death of the father.

Wednesday it was learned that the grandmother of the young man had died, leaving the wanderer a fortune. The central station detectives were unable to get any clew to the whereabouts of Condon, but recently the relatives received information that the young man was working as an eelvator man in Chicago. The news came through a young woman who had known him. The relatives also found that Condon had elosed a short time ago and was married under romantic circumstances.

The Elevator Conductors' union was appealed to, but no such member was discovered. Then George Condon, a cousin of Walter, began a canvass from building to building and came upon the long lost man.

TWO ARRESTED

IN CONNECTION WITH WORCESTER CAR ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WORCESTER, July 31.—Asst.-Dist. Atty. Taft decided not to wait the result of the official inquiry of the railroad commissioners into the cause of the fatal trolley collision near Westboro Saturday. Acting on the information before him from Officers Murray and Holt of the state force, he ordered Conductor Daniel F. Daly and Motorman Leo B. Downs of the west-bound car brought into court yesterday.

The men were arrested only a few minutes before the court met. They were arraigned before Judge Samuel Utley in the central district court, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Miss Frances Greer of Chicago. Daly was represented by Thomas C. Carrigan of this city, who also officiated for Downs, in the absence of P. F. Conniff of Boston, who has been engaged as his counsel.

Detective Murray appeared for the government, and after the prisoners had pleaded not guilty consented to the suggestion of Mr. Carrigan that the case be continued until Aug. 11 for examination. Judge Utley held both prisoners in $1000 each for appearance on that date, and paroled them in the personal custody of Detective Murray. Later both furnished bonds and were released.

None of the victims of the accident have been discharged from the hospital, but all are reported as doing well. Several suits have already been entered against the Boston & Worcester Railway company to recover damages for injuries caused by Saturday's accident.

LIQUOR AGENTS

APPOINTED FOR THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CONCORD, N. H., July 31—The state liquor license commission issued a statement last night concerning the appointment of special agents, or inspectors, with reference to which the supreme court and attorney-general recently rendered opinions, saying, in part:

"The state board of license commissioners have issued notices of appointment to five special agents, named Everett C. Howe of Littleton, G. Scott Locke of Concord, Frederic E. Small of Rochester, Frank W. Ordway of Milford and Thomas Flood of Nashua.

YACHT RACES

At Montreal Won by the Thorella

By Associated Press to The Sun

MONTREAL, July 31.—The race of the series for the Seawanhaka challenge cup was sailed yesterday on Lake St. Louis and the Thorella defending for the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club, defeated the challenger, the Kolutoo, representing the Manchester, Mass., Yacht club.

The course was triangular giving a beat and two reaches. The Kolutoo out-manoeuvred the Thorella and led the way across the line after a pretty bit of jockeying. The American boat did not hold her position long and the Thorella sailed through her lee and took the lead.

On the third leg of the second round the rudder of the Kolutoo was carried away leaving her helpless. At that time the Canadian boat was nine minutes and 42 seconds ahead. After the race Mr. Higginson, one of the owners of the Kolutoo said he was satisfied the Thorella was the better boat in the conditions that prevailed yesterday. There was a brisk breeze blowing. The official time follows:

Start, 1:55.

Name.	First Mark.	Second Mark.	Third Mark.
Thorella	2:15:09	2:27:56	2:31:09
Koluto	2:20:31	2:28:30	2:33:31

SECOND ROUND.

Thorella	2:52:40	2:59:32	3:06:45
Koluto	3:02:42	disabled	withdr'n

THIRD ROUND.

Thorella	3:29:30	3:37:00	3:44:30

Elapsed time, 1:49:20.

GIRLS' BALL TEAM

Manager of It Under Arrest

Inspector Maher yesterday afternoon arrested Frank C. Schmeltz, manager of the Girls' base ball team, which played ball in this city last Saturday afternoon. The arrest was made at Arlington, Mass.

Schmeltz, it is alleged, skipped his board bill while in this city. He and his bevy of fair (?) ball players dined at the Tarragut house and he says that members of his team missed some things. In order to get square he decided to let the board bill stand unpaid. His story about things missing doesn't hold water, at least not in the estimation of the police and Mr. Schmeltz will have to settle.

PEOPLE STARVE

Famine in Cape Verde Islands

THE GOVERNMENT HAS STOPPED PUBLIC WORK

Death Rate of 30 a Day

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 31.—The Cape de Verde people of this city are deeply stirred by news received here of late telling a terrible story of suffering and death in the islands. So far as is known no newspaper has printed these facts, there being no newspaper in the islands and the government holding close guard over other sources of news.

But a Portuguese newspaper, O Seculo, published at Lisbon, in its issue of July 13, says in an editorial news item, that despite the efforts of the military governor of the Cape Verdes to relieve the situation the famine is spreading. It appears that for the past three months the government has totally stopped operations on public highways and government work, and the hundreds of laborers usually dependent on such work have been thrown out of employment and are now destitute. The heavy immigration from the islands last winter and this spring robbed the farming districts of their skilled labor and the crops have totally failed. Through scarcity of provisions the prices have jumped upward and the people in idleness are unable to pay for their ordinary living.

The situation in the island of St. Thiago is particularly distressing, old and decrepit people dropping dead in the streets and little babes dying from starvation at the dry breasts of their starving mothers. Little children cry pitifully in the streets, but they plead to helpless people, no one having money to give them.

A death rate of as high as 30 a day is reported, and so pressed are the burial authorities that it is necessary to pile the dead in common graves in the cemetery without coffins. Some appeals have been made to the resident minister of marine to persuade the government to resume its public works, and it is understood that last month some work was started. Still the relief is totally inadequate to relieve the situation, which is reported growing worse.

HIS WIFE HERE

Ashley is Under Arrest for Bigamy

By Associated Press to The Sun

CAMBRIDGE, July 31.—William T. Ashley who is held in Dubois City, Idaho, for the Cambridge police was indicted for bigamy at the June term of the Middlesex grand jury. Since then Ashley has eluded the police. He was traced to St. Louis and then to Vicksburg, Tenn. In Vicksburg it is said Ashley was on the eve of marrying. When his record became known he came near being lynched before he could get out of town. He agrees to return east without extradition papers. Ashley is said to have a wife and two children in Lowell. Inspector Murray and Patrolman Nellon will leave at once for Dubois City.

Physicians Give Eczema Up, But Zema-Cura Cures it Every Time

You often hear of "hopeless cases" of Eczema; of people who have tried everything recommended by eminent physicians without being relieved, to say nothing of being cured. The tortures of this disease are terrible, and to be a victim of Eczema is most pitiable. It was claimed to be incurable.

All this was true once, but it is now no longer true. No matter how bad the case may be or of what duration, ZEMA-CURA will cure Eczema, Hives, Eruptions and skin diseases of all kinds.

ZEMA-CURA has been used in thousands of cases and has not failed to cure in one instance. It never will fail. It will cure you surely, effectively and for all time. No matter what you have tried or how long you have suffered you owe it to yourself to try ZEMA-CURA.

"It affords me pleasure to testify to the curative value of Zema-Cura. For two years I had been troubled with an itch'ng on my back at the base of the spine which was so troublesome, especially at night, that my constant irritation to produce relief caused sores. I could find no remedy until a friend recommended your preparation. Before I had used a bottle, the itching had entirely stopped, the sores were healed and a new skin formed and I have since had no trouble. I can confidently recommend it."—W. W. McMULLEN; THOS. J. JOHNSTON & CO., 30 E. 10th St., New York.

Why Russia Appears to Be Anxious For Conflict

COUNT LAMSDORFF. FINANCE MINISTER DE WITTE.

RECENT events have gone far to strengthen the conviction, long held in many quarters, that Russia will shortly be engaged in a world shaking struggle with one or more of the other great powers. Economists point out that, apart from the lust for territorial aggrandizement which is taking an ever firmer hold of the government of the czar, there is throughout the country a seething unrest which can only be quieted by some event that will bring about solidification of the national interests, such an event being obviously a war. The Kishineff horror, in which so many Jews perished, was but a striking instance of the popular uneasiness, and it may be that the Kishineff affair will serve as an excuse for Russia going to war, since she has announced that any power protesting against the inhumanity of the Russians will be regarded as unwarrantably interfering in the internal affairs of the country.

It is safe to say, moreover, that, whatever may be the cause which will lead to the outbreak of a Russian war, the czar's administration will advance this selfsame excuse of interference with Russian rights. It will be rather difficult to maintain this pretense if an international crisis should arise over the Persian gulf question, though Lord Lansdowne's application of the Monroe doctrine to the gulf may eventually be brought forward by Russia as an interference with the rights of other powers. In regard to the Manchuria question, however, which is again of transcendent importance, Russia certainly affects to deem herself in possession of well established rights and is daily making it more manifest that she will not yield these so called rights without a struggle that may find Japan and other powers aligned against her.

So far as the United States is concerned, the feeling growing out of the Kishineff affair and the Manchuria troubles may be deemed not so much one of anger as of reproach. The administration at Washington has for some time been convinced that Russia's unfriendly attitude was responsible for the refusal of China to grant open ports to this country. The matter of secret concessions by China to Russia has also been a cause of uneasiness, Japan being especially active in warning the Chinese foreign office against making such concessions. China's recent promise to grant us treaty ports has somewhat modified the situation, but it is yet considered tense.

The bear threatens danger in still another quarter—the Balkans—where the question of reforms, although smoldering of late, may at any moment blaze into a fire that will sweep all Europe. A Balkan war could of course only be precipitated by international interference in the internal affairs of Turkey—the denying to the sultan the right to act as he sees fit toward the unfortunates who may be domiciled within his boundaries or within the principalities that are under his sovereignty. Here again the phantom of "interference" makes itself a potent factor in the determining for peace or for war, and it is a matter of record that wars have long been precipitated through one nation believing that another has exercised an unwarrantable interference in its affairs.

Take the memorable war of 1812. If ever a struggle between two peoples was caused by interference that was the struggle. The British, by claiming and on occasion exercising the right to search American vessels for British deserters, aggravated the United States to a point where friendly relations could no longer be maintained. When to this practice was added the habit of impressing American sailors into the British service war in deadly earnest broke forth. The Mexican war of 1840-47 is another case in point. Its primary cause is to be traced to the secession in 1835 of the old Spanish province of Texas owing to the influence of the great body of Anglo-Americans who had established homes there and chafed under the exactions and unfairness of Spanish rule. War between Texas and Mexico followed as a matter of course, and after the Mexican army had been routed at the battle of San Jacinto Texas declared its independence, Sam Houston being elected president, an almost unanimous vote being cast at the same time in favor of annexation to the United States. Annexation did not become an established fact until 1845, our war with Mexico being the logical outcome of the acquisition of territory which had so long been a part of Mexico. The recent contest with Spain may also be cited as an example of hostilities following what was deemed interference, since the Spaniards would never have dared give battle to the United States had not national pride and resentment been aroused by our attitude toward their operations in their insular colony, Cuba.

Abroad we find similar cases. The Franco-German war of 1870-71, primarily caused by the insistence of France upon territorial concessions from Prussia as compensation for the aggrandizement of that power, really hinged on French interference with the German plan of making Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern king of Spain. The China-Japanese conflict of 1894 was likewise the direct outcome of an alleged interference despite treaty agreements in the management of Korea, China insisting, thanks to Li Hung Chang's advice, upon sending troops into Korea in order to quell a rebellion. At the same time it must be admitted that this war could not have been avoided in any event, because Japan, flushed in her new found powers, was determined to make a test of her strength by engaging in a war with her powerful rival, China.

Russia herself has been only too ready to interfere in the affairs of other nations and has already figured in some memorable struggles as a result of this governmental characteristic. Thus the Crimean war, carried on by Great Britain, France, Turkey and Sardinia against Russia, had a leading cause in the claim of Russia to be protector of the Greek church in Turkey. The object of the war was of course to check Russian encroachments, just as will be the object of any war directed against Russia today. Russian encroachments, by the way, were the cause of the great Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, the conflict being a phase of the czar's long cherished scheme of acquiring territory in the Balkans with a view to the ultimate conquest of Constantinople. The ostensible cause, as history informs us, was the trouble between the porte and its Christian subjects following the revolt of the Christians in Bosnia and Herzegovina, who were secretly assisted by Servia and Montenegro. Russian interference was also strikingly shown upon the conclusion of the Chino-Japanese war, when the bear deprived little Japan of the fruits of her well earned victory, refusing to allow her to take any territory save the island of Formosa.

Russia, it will thus be seen, would have no just cause for protesting should other powers attempt to dictate regarding the czar's attitude toward those of his subjects who entertain religious views differing from those held by the established church, the Greek church. The fact remains, nevertheless, that Russia has gone on record as being prepared to take as a personal affront any outside interference in religious matters, no matter how critical and brutal may become religious disputes within the czar's domains. It will be patent to any one that the government of the bear is ready to fight on the slightest pretext, and it would seem as though the long expected conflict were at last really imminent.

Much depends on the course pursued in the near future by the czar's advisers, who have the reputation of being farseeing men. Chief among these are Sergius de Witte, the minister of finance, and Count Lamsdorff, the minister of foreign affairs. The former may not unaptly be called the business manager of the empire, while the latter is by many deemed the real ruler of Russia, since he it is who molds the national destiny. Both are broad minded men, zealous in the interests of their country. Lamsdorff was the author of the note presented by the powers to the sultan which caused the latter to promise reforms in the Balkans. His was the influence also that led to the gradual absorption of Manchuria by Russia. It is difficult to conceive that a man of the caliber of Lamsdorff will brook "interference" with the alleged rights of his country or will submit without a protest to having his policy of aggrandizement nullified.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY, former secretary of the navy, has been in the racing game but a few years, yet has scored some notable triumphs, his greatest being the winning of the English Derby with Volodyovski. Mr. Whitney is one of the most generous supporters of the turf. President of the Saratoga Racing association, he hopes to make Saratoga the Ascot of America.

JAMES B. HAGGIN has spent millions in breeding and racing horses and is entitled to the appellation "dean of the American turf." Old race goers well remember his Salvator, Miss Woodford and Firenzi. The Haggin stable is especially well represented today by Waterboy, whose recent feat of breaking the world's record for the mile and a quarter is still the talk of the turf.

JOHN A. DRAKE'S chief claim to fame in the racing world rests upon his ownership of the game colt Savable, which as a two-year-old startled the eastern turfites by coming out of the west and capturing the classic Futurity. Mr. Drake is a thoroughgoing sportsman and is firm in his opinion that his favorite, Savable, is the crack three-year-old of the season.

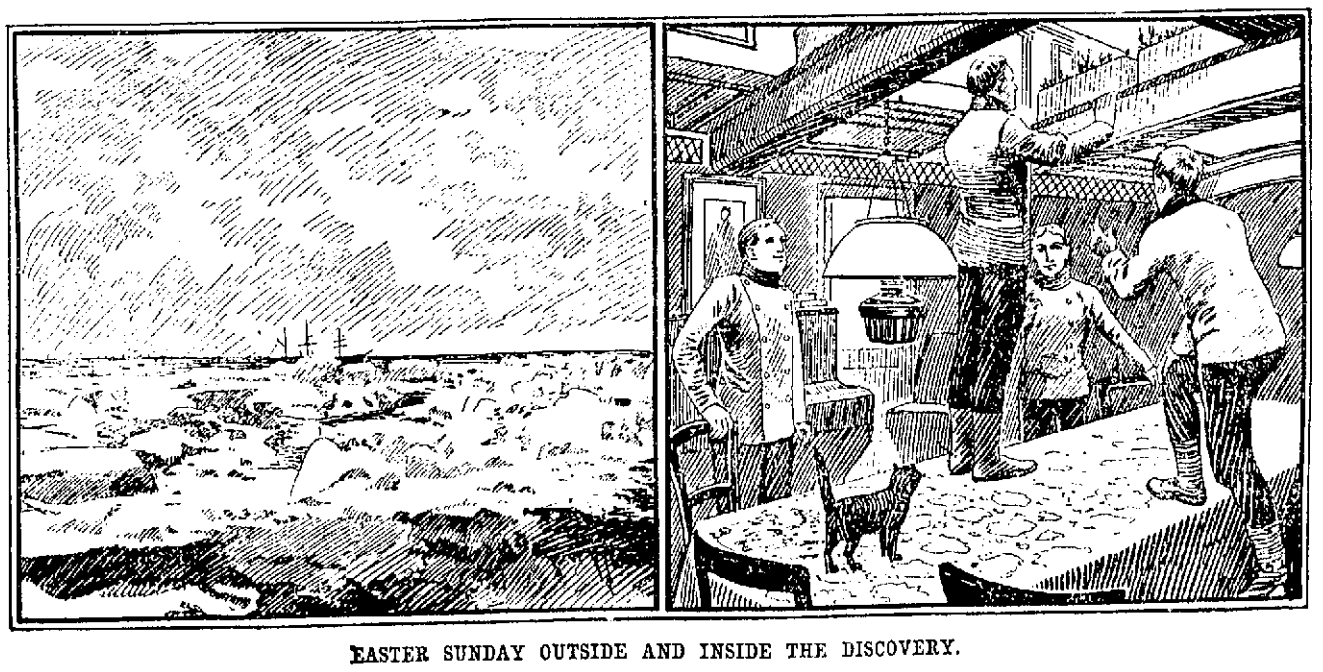

JOHN E. MADDEN ranks as the most successful of America's professional turfmen. With a rare knowledge of horseflesh he couples a happy knack of knowing how to "place" entries and as a result is preeminently fortunate in the way of winning stakes. As a secondary consequence his horses are eagerly sought by the wealthy patrons of the turf and command fancy prices.

WILLIAM C. DALY, better known as "Father Bill" Daly, has for years been a notable figure on the turf. Equally renowned as a trainer of horses and a trainer of jockeys, the Hartford sage may be placed in a class by himself. He is a versatile genius, is "Father Bill," and always has a sleeveful of surprises for the sporting fraternity of the eastern tracks.

EDWARD R. THOMAS is a newcomer on the turf, but he has already won a far reaching reputation as a liberal spender. He is the man who paid $60,000 for Hermis and has been regretting it ever since, despite the consolation afforded by the victories of his two-year-old Pulsus. In professional life Mr. Thomas is a banker. He is always cool and unruffled.

ELMORE E. SMATHERS has long been a horse lover, but it was only this year that he invaded the realm of the runners, his activities being hitherto confined to the trotting track. Mr. Smathers has gathered a small but select stable, chief of which is the four-year-old beauty McChesney. The illustration shows Mr. Smathers as the cartoonist sees him after a "killing."

Results Attained by the Discovery Expedition

EASTER SUNDAY OUTSIDE AND INSIDE THE DISCOVERY.

SCIENTISTS are just beginning to realize the importance of the work accomplished by the British antarctic expedition which left England in the steamer Discovery in 1901, attained the farthest point south that man has yet reached and is still engaged, with the Discovery frozen fast in the ice of the polar region, in prosecuting its researches. Reports from the beleaguered vessel show conclusively that valuable additions have been made to the sum of human knowledge. The expedition, be it remembered, was not sent south for the purpose of hunting for the pole, but solely in the interests of science, and, although the voyagers have penetrated farther than any of their predecessors into the mysterious realms of the geographical ignis fatuus, it is not upon this that they rely for fame. That their hopes have been fulfilled to an extraordinary degree and that the voyage of the Discovery will ever be remembered as a most important event in the history of science is the unanimous verdict of those who have been privileged to examine the reports, maps and charts already to hand.

The real work of the expedition began with the arrival of the Discovery off Cape Adare on Jan. 9, 1902. Large quantities of pack ice had been encountered since the Discovery left Lyttelton, New Zealand, on Dec. 22, but fortunately the pack was fairly open, and one of the greatest dangers to the voyagers was thus rendered comparatively insignificant and the Discovery was able easily to steer her way through to open water. During the one day's halt at Cape Adare birds and other zoological specimens were collected, the explorers being greatly impressed with the tameness shown by all animals in the antarctic region, who display no fear at the sight of man. On Jan. 15 the Discovery made Lady Newnes bay and thence proceeded south to Wood bay, at the upper end of which towers a wonderful antarctic volcano known as Mount Melbourne. On Jan. 20 the Discovery sighted a still higher volcano, Mount Erebus, which was then emitting a long column of smoke, that hung like a pall over the stretch of ice. Two days later the steamer began to skirt the famous great ice barrier.

Running eastward from Cape Crozier, this remarkable wall of ice extends for over 500 miles without an opening of any sort, looming over the Antarctic ocean at a height of from fifty to 280 feet. The geologists of the expedition were kept busy while the steamer ran along the great barrier, fine weather enabling them to examine it carefully for the purpose of establishing its origin. Jan. 29 the explorers began to realize that they were on the verge of an important discovery, undulating slopes of snow appearing in place of the uniformly level surface of the barrier. Next day black rocks showed themselves through slopes and ridges, giving the first hint of the vast antarctic continent, the existence of which was later revealed to the voyagers and which they believe extends to the pole. A balloon ascension was now made, the first ever attempted from a field of ice, but the ascent was without result so far as definitely proving that land existed to the south. The Discovery now proceeded to Mount Erebus, and on March 24 winter quarters were established not far from the volcano, the Discovery being then held fast by the ice. She has remained icebound ever since.

Preparations were at once made for beginning the scientific research for which the Discovery had been dispatched to these rigid regions. Although the extreme cold greatly hampered the explorers work proceeded expeditiously, perfect discipline being maintained by Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and the other British naval officers who had been lent by the admiralty to the Royal society and the Royal Geographical society, the patrons of the expedition. The crew were in good spirits, provided, as they were, with many comforts, a pleasant mess room and a cozy ward room, boasting a library and several musical instruments. It is worthy of note that the men started a little flower garden aboard the Discovery and succeeded in growing some crocuses, which, by an odd coincidence, bloomed on Easter Sunday. Thus the crew had opportunity for recreation from their daily tasks, which at times were indeed arduous. There was always work on sledges, with many comforts, a pleasant mess harness and dog sheds. Every day, too, found a party busy with the ice melters, turning glacier ice into drinking water. There was always routine work in plenty, to say nothing of the extra labor involved in preparing for the departure of the various parties which "sledded" over the ice in all directions for hundreds of miles from the Discovery.

Of these expeditions the most notable was that in which Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and Dr. Wilson participated and which resulted in their reaching the farthest point south, 82 degrees 17 minutes south latitude and 160 degrees 40 minutes east longitude. Lieutenant Shackleton, who is now in England, whither he returned to recover his health, shaken by the rigors of the antarctic winter, declares that if they had had sufficient provisions the little party could easily have reached the pole. As it was, they broke the record by 250 miles and saw enough to convince them that the antarctic does not contain an archipelago, but a continent.

Probably the most important scientific results attained by the expedition are in the field of magnetic research, the value of which will be manifest when it is said that the work accomplished by the Discovery, taken together with that of other expeditions from other countries engaged in the study of the magnetic elements, is expected to correct the variations in existing charts and thus add to the safety of transoceanic travel. The meteorological investigations conducted by the officers, often in the face of howling antarctic hurricanes, are also expected to be fruitful, especially in the way of casting light on the problems of low temperatures and blizzards.

Branches of biology, zoology and ornithology have been carefully studied, and hundreds of new species will be included in the books dealing with the fauna of the deep sea as well as with the animals and birds of that part of the world. A rich fund of information is also expected from the geological workers of the expedition on the character of the antarctic volcanoes and the structure of the antarctic continent. Of course geographical research has been carried on to a great extent. Botany has come in for its share of attention, although little could be done in this field of observation owing to the scarcity of plant life. Last, but not least, some curious results have been reached in bacteriology.

The work was greatly facilitated by the dispatch last year of the relief steamer Morning, which found the explorers cheerful, enthusiastic and in good health. Captain Colbeck of the Morning, who returned home only the other day, reports that the Discovery is well provisioned and that there is no reason why those aboard cannot complete the investigations upon which they have been so long and so zealously engaged.

CARRIE NATION

Comes to Grief at Scranton

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31—Carrie Nation, the "Kansas cyclone," invaded the office of Mayor A. W. Connell yesterday morning and said:

"I want to see the mayor of this town."

The mayor was not in and Carrie, who wanted to give him a piece of her mind for her arrest Wednesday, was going down the steps when she met Superintendent of Police Day.

"You're a two-legged hog, you big beefy, porky thing," she yelled at him while the crowd in the street cheered.

"Arrest that woman," said the police superintendent, and a police officer took Mrs. Nation in custody, and after a struggle placed her in a cell, where she cried like a child. She had a hearing last evening and was fined $10.

Carrie has had a stormy time of it since she came to Scranton. She was fined $10 for selling hatchets without a license. Yesterday she sallied forth to see Robert C. Willis, a liquor dealer, and expostulated with him for advertising the "Carrie Nation cocktail."

On her way she was horrified by a patent medicine advertisement of a nude woman in a drug store in the Y. M. C. A. building. She sought the secretary of the association and gave him a tongue lashing.

MR. KEATING HOME

He Got a Reception in New York

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—John T. Keating of Chicago, formerly national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was given a reception by the Clan-na-Gael last night at Cooper union. Mr. Keating who arrived from Ireland yesterday on the steamship Teutonic, delivered the address at the annual pilgrimage to the grave of the leader of the United Irishmen in 1793, Theobald Wolfe Tone, at Bodenstown, Ire., on June 21 last, upon the invitation of the Nationalists in Ireland.

The affair was under the direction of the Clan na Gael in which Keating is prominent, although he poses as representing the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which is in no way responsible for his actions or his utterances. He was formerly national president of the A. O. H.

SPEEDY TRIAL

FOR PARKS AND McCARTHY, WALKING DELEGATES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Dist.-Atty. Jerome made it plain yesterday that he intends to insist upon a speedy trial for Samuel J. Parks and Timothy McCarthy, two walking delegates of the Housesmiths' union, who are charged with assault, and are also under indictment for extortion.

When the assault case was called, before Judge Olmstead in special sessions yesterday, Parks and McCarthy were represented by Henry A. Brann and Joseph F. Eustace. They are accused of assaulting Peter O'Neil of the Plasterers' union. Mr. Jerome moved the trial for next Tuesday. Mr. Brann objected, saying he had understood that no assault cases were to be tried during July or August, and that both he and Mr. Eustace wanted to go away on their vacations. Mr. Jerome insisted upon a speedy trial. The trial of Parks and McCarthy on the charge of extortion is set for Aug. 13.

Parks has stated recently that he would soon leave for South Africa to call out the 1000 iron workers who are now employed there by New York contractors on work representing $35,000,000 of capital. Most of this work is being done by the Milliken Bros. and the American Bridge company of this city. Concerning Parks' South African mission, a member of the Iron League said today:

"Parks has reached the point where he is trying to scare somebody. It is true that there are many men employed by American capital in South Africa, but I don't see that there is to be a very good opportunity for Parks to go there for the purpose of making trouble. He will be tolerably busy here in the criminal courts for the next few months."

OLD ORCHARD EXCURSION ON THURSDAY, AUG. 13TH—$1.50 ROUND TRIP.

Old Orchard is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful seashore resorts on the North Atlantic coast. It has a stretch of beautiful sandy beach such as few ocean resorts in the country can boast of.

The long ocean pier, which reaches way out into the water, and on which hundreds daily delight in a promenade, is one of the numerous points of interest.

A first-class vaudeville theatre is situated on the end of the pier. The bathing is first class and the facilities for enjoying a plunge in the surf are exceptionally good. The hotels are models, and their cuisine is of the finest. You can satisfy your hunger with a good Old Orchard shore dinner, which is alone worth traveling for. All these qualities tend to make Old Orchard the one beach of New England.

Round trip tickets at reduced rate of $1.50, good going and returning only on special train, on August 13th, will be on sale at Lowell, South Lawrence and Lawrence via the Boston & Maine railroad. Special train will leave Lowell, Middlesex street, at 8.15 a. m. Returning, leave Old Orchard at 5 p. m.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 31.—Close matches were the order yesterday in the golf tournament on Onwentsawk for the Ranyoke cup. With the completion of the fifth and semi-final rounds, Walter Egan of Exmoor and Roswell F. Murray of Riverside are left to fight it out today in the finals. Mason Phelps who put Chandler Egan out of the game Wednesday was defeated yesterday by Walter Egan at the 19th hole.

NEGRO LYNCHING

Is Defended by Senator Tillman

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOLINE, Ill., July 31.—Senators Tillman and Burton continued their debate on the negro question here yesterday. The Kansas speaker suggested an educational standard as a remedy for negro ignorance, and Senator Tillman delivered a striking speech.

"God made a negro inferior to a white man," said he, "and African proves it. I would not put him back in slavery but he should never govern us. You wouldn't let him, and we are as good as you are, and we will see him in hell before we will permit it. We don't intend ever to let him get on our backs to govern us.

"When you hold sacred the 15th amendment, that says the races are equal, you add fuel to a race war that is bound to come. I do not believe in lynching for any crime but one. When a negro assaults a white woman the only thing to do is to hunt him down and put him out of his miserable existence as soon as possible. We are doing this and we are going to keep on doing it, and if you don't like it you can lump it."

Senator Burton cited the success which had been attained in arts and in industry by negroes to show that the race is improving, and declared that Tillman does not represent the sentiment of the progressive and enlightened south. He declared that the Egyptians were negroes and that Moses married a negro.

"Lynching," said he, "is the most heinous of crimes. Don't tell me it is necessary to lynch men to protect the home. You cannot protect a home by lawlessness and it is either the law or anarchy. The severity of the punishment does not deter crime as much as the surety under the law."

Tillman ridiculed the inconsistency of the government which says the negroes may vote, yet denies the right to Filipinos. In the course of his speech he derided the knowledge of Harriet Beecher Stowe on the negro question.

HURDY GURDY

MAKES MUSIC FOR COTTAGERS AT WILLOW DALE.

Last evening at Willow Dale the cottagers danced to the music of a hurdy gurdy. The evening was pleasantly spent and the 50 couples or more of devotees of Terpsichore danced everything from a breakdown to a stately lancer.

Magouns Cut Off in Margaret's Will

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Margaret Magoun, the adopted daughter of the late Thatcher Magoun of Medford, who inherited in 1883 the bulk of the shipping merchant's fortune in preference to the latter's children by marriage, has bequeathed nearly all her property, worth about $200,000, to her relatives by blood, leaving to the heirs at law, Thatcher Magoun's daughter and his dead son's five children, only $5 each.

The will was filed yesterday with the probate court in East Cambridge. Counsel for the heirs-at-law, Whipple, Sears & Ogden, stated yesterday that it had not yet been decided whether the will would be contested.

In Thatcher Magoun's will 20 years ago he stated that he gave absolutely to his adopted daughter, Margaret, the High street mansion with all its valuable furnishings, pictures, heirlooms, etc., and he expressed the hope, without constraining her in any way, that she would give on her death to his descendants the furnishings and the heirlooms. In only one instance did Miss Magoun follow out this wish: she gave the portrait of her adopted father, painted by Young, to one of his grandsons, Henry Magoun.

The daughter of Thatcher Magoun, Sr., Mrs. D. O. Kidder, and his grandchildren, Thatcher, Henry, Arthur and Esther Magoun and Mrs. Frederick Kendall, children of Thatcher Magoun, Jr., were given in the will of 1883 two-thirds of the income of the trust fund; the other third of the income went to the adopted daughter, but on her death was to be divided by the trustees among the heirs-at-law. This trust found amounted to nearly $100,000. It is understood, and the entire income will now be enjoyed by the blood relatives of the late Mr. Magoun, who are enumerated above.

REV. WM. F. GANNON

APPOINTED RECTOR OF BOSTON COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31—The appointment of the Rev. William F. Gannon of St. John's college, Fordham, N. Y., as rector of Boston college was announced last night. The appointment goes into effect at once. The new rector succeeds the Rev. W. G. Read Mellan, who has acted as head of the college for the past five years. The change is made in accordance to a custom of the Jesuit fathers which annually affects all colleges, churches and missions within their jurisdiction. Fr. Mullan will now take up his quarters at Georgetown university.

FINAL TWO DAYS OF OUR ANNUAL JULY SALE

BON MARCHE DRY GOODS CO.

RIGHT THERE.

"If I should kiss you what would you do?"
"I never meet a contingency till it happens."
"But if it should happen?"
"I'd meet it face to face."

Accommodating.

New Cook—Well, I dare say your place will do, but—ah, I forgot—have you any children?

The Master (prospective, wearily)—Yes, I have five, but, of course, I could drown two or three if you insist upon it.

A BOXER.

She—What size gloves do you wear?
He (unthinkingly)—Five ounces.

QUITE PROBABLE.

Mamie—Why do you go about with Mr. Doolittle so much, Gussie?

Gussie—I—er have to help him out, you know. If it wasn't for me aw—he'd be the biggest fool in the town.

ANOTHER VARIETY.

Mabel—The idea of your being afraid to kiss her! Why, that kind of microbe is not a bit dangerous.

Tom—No, but her father is.

Delicately Put.

She was describing an exciting incident.

"I completely lost my head," she said.

"If you are as careless of yourself as that," he returned, "perhaps you would be willing to spare your hand."

HER LITTLE JOKE.

Tom: "Do you enjoy a sail, Miss Helen?"
Helen: "You bet I do. Father is an auctioneer."

BETWEEN RIVALS.

"You have no idea how embarrassed the count was when he proposed to me."

"Oh, yes! His embarrassment was so great that nothing but your father's money could relieve it."

A Change.

"Hev yez got any pethroleum?" she inquired as she entered the grocery store early in the morning.

"Yes," replied the clerk.

"Are yez sure it's pethroleum an' nothin' else?"

"Absolutely certain."

"Well, yez kin give me 10 cents' worth, an' Oi want it in a hurry. The mirsus says Oi've got to shtop usin' kerosene to start the fire."

Too Good For Use

"That is a rare old violin I hear you playing so often, is it not?" asked the next door neighbor.

"It is indeed," replied the owner of the instrument. "It cost over $500."

"Seems to me," rejoined the other wearily, "it's too valuable to be used like an ordinary fiddle. If it was mine, I would not touch it more than once a year."

Economy.

"What's the matter with Primly?"

"Why, he went home with a new hat the other day, and it didn't fit very well, and so his wife cut his hair away wherever it stuck."

The Genius.

"I am sorry that Miss Bankim is out. You won't forget to mention that I called?"

"No, indade, sor. Oi'll run roight up an' tell her now!"

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

"Do you think," he said, with much embarrassment, "that—er—that is to say—if we were married your father would be willing to assist us in any way?"

"He might," was the thoughtful reply. "He is getting to be ever so successful now in divorce cases."

Her Request.

"Edgar, love," said the bride as the train moved away with them on their wedding tour, "I want you to make me one solemn promise."

"Haven't I just done that, my own?" asked the bewildered bridegroom.

"But this is something else. I want you to promise that—that!"—

"That I will never marry again if you should die?"

"No, indeed. That you will always be good to dear little Fido."

The bridegroom said something, but it was lost in the rattle of the train, and the recording angel forgot to put it down.

Remarkable.

He—I see that statisticians have found that men live longer than women do. This is almost beyond belief.

She—I don't see why you should take that view of it. Men are naturally stronger than women.

He—Yes; but, on the other hand, look at the risks of being talked to death that they are constantly running.

No Comparison.

Paterfamilias (walking the floor with son and heir)—Babies, they say, are such helpless things. But what do they think of me? Talk about helplessness!

TOO MUCH LIKE WORK.

"Are you fond of golf, Mr. Winkletop?"
"Oh, yes, awfully! I send my valet to play every day."

A SECRET.

"I suppose your engagement to the millionairess is still a secret?"
"Yes; only my most intimate creditors know of it."

CAUSE FOR DELIGHT.

"The Newriches seem delighted with their auto."

"Well, it's the first chance they've had to make a noise in the world."

ALMOST OUT.

Our preacher, grown quite old and glum,
No more a beacon bright,
Has dwindled so that he's become
A "dim religious light."

POSSESSED.

"I wonder what's the matter with Nellie this evening. She acts like one possessed."

"She probably is. I noticed a new ring on her finger when she came downstairs."

BUT HE DOESN'T LOOK IT.

Mr. Goodshlump—Oh, how small one feels in the presence of Nature!

A MATTER OF SEX.

She—At the conclusion of an argument between a man and a woman the man is silenced, if not convinced.

He—Yes, and the woman is convinced, but never silenced.

MATRIMONIAL JOYS.

Mr. J.: "The paper I was reading last evening says that a woman seldom achieves anything great."

Mrs. J.: "That article was written by a married woman."

Mr. J.: "How do you know?"

Mrs. J.: "Oh, because—and she was thinking of her husband when she wrote it."

LOWELL POLICE

Playing for New England Championship

By Associated Press to The Sun

The baseball championship of New England, so far as the police are concerned, will be settled today, when the team from division 9, Boston, meets a team from the police department of Lowell on the Huntington avenue grounds.

Judging from the form exhibited by the Roxbury "coppers," in practice games, the team is fast enough to meet almost any of the semi-professional clubs in the state. The battery is very strong, considering that the men have very little opportunity to practice; the infield works well together and the men in the outfield cover a great deal of ground.

The pitching is done by "Tom" Smith, an old Louisville and Philadelphia National leaguer, and thus far this season his benders have been an enigma to the men who have faced him. "Jack" Conboy, who caught for the Warrens of Dorchester when that team was one of the strongest in the state, catches. Another star performer is George Mahoney, who plays second. Mahoney, who is one of the largest men in the department, played football for English high school some years ago, when the team was of championship quality. He went to Georgetown, where he caught on the team during its most successful seasons. He also played with the Boston National league team some years ago.

The remainder of the team is made up of John J. Mullen 1b, Fred J. Swendemann 2b, Andrew T. Walsh ss, Thomas M. Towle cf, John J. Rooney lf, and Michael J. Mathews rf.

During the season the team has defeated teams from division 4 and the Press club and a team captained by Eugene O'Connor, an old Eastern league player. Much of its success is due to the efficient manner in which it has been managed by Patrolman John J. Coffey.

Among the players on the Lowell team are six former professionals. They claim that during the past few years, they have played 40 games, losing only one, and that to a New England league team. The game today is scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock.

Did Not Make Record at Haverhill

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31—Conditions were bad for the playout of hand tubs here yesterday.

The playout course at the Webster grounds was laid directly opposite from the usual course, the companies playing to the south and unfortunately, for the greater part of the afternoon they had the wind dead against them. The element of luck in the work is seen by the fact that the Salem White Angels were unable to get on to the paper with their stream, and the City of Lowell and City of Somerville teams were equally unfortunate, while the Tigers of Newburyport, who were accounted a dark horse in the contest, won the first money by a long lead, their regular stream being 181 feet 7½ inches, after which a second trial was made, in which the drops increased the distance to 188 feet 5½ inches. The order of the playout and the distance made were as follows,

	Ft.	In.
Neptune, Newburyport	150	8
L. V. Spaulding, Haverhill	155	6½
White Angel, Salem	*
Nonantum, Newton	172	6
Torrent 4, Gardner	174	5½
Deluge, North Cambridge	181	7
Hancock, Brockton	170	8
Columbia, Winchendon	177	6½
Protection, Amesbury	*
City of Lowell, Lowell	*
City of Somerville, Somerville	*
City of Lawrence, Lawrence	178	8½
Protector, Haverhill	*
Gen. Taylor, Everett	177	8½
Cockroo, Braintree	151	10½
Red Jackets, Cambridge	161	8½
Fountain, Exeter	161	9
Paul Revere, Revere	173	4½
Tigers, Newburyport	181	7½

*No record.

First money was awarded to the Tigers, Columbia second, Torrent third and City of Lawrence fourth. The judges were Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell, ex-Chief S. C. Reed of Newburyport, Chief W. E. Cane of Wakefield, ex-Chief George H. Wilfred of Revere, Capt. E. H. Hooper of Peabody and C. N. Perkins of Lawrence. The prize awarded to the company coming the longest distance went to the Columbia's company of Winchendon, and for the company making the best appearance to the L. V. Spaulding company of this city.

BARN CONSUMED

Lively Blaze in Pawtucketville Last Night

IN BARN FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY ITALIANS

One Horse Burned In Its Stall

All Pawtucketville was aroused from its slumbers about midnight by a brilliant fire in the barn owned by David S. Clark, in the rear of 11 Woodward avenue.

The residents of the vicinity were thrown into a state of excitement not only by the brilliancy of the blaze but by a knowledge of the fact that for the past few months the barn has been occupied by 75 Italian laborers who left it only a few days ago.

The blaze was in progress fully 20 minutes before the alarm was sounded and the burning barn was only a stone's throw from the Pawtucketville fire house.

The blaze was first seen in the distance by passengers on the last Lowell-bound Pelham car and by the railroad employes at the power house 20 minutes before the alarm sounded. On the last car was Edward Commerford, residing on White street, who kept a horse and order wagon in the barn. Mr. Commerford arrived on the scene almost as soon as the first fire company, but too late to save his horse.

James Welch of Second avenue and some ladies residing on Third avenue discovered the flames when they shot through the roof. Mr. Welch ran to the barn and attempted to get the horse out but was driven back by the flames. The women woke up the firemen in the engine house while Officer Edward Fox rang in an alarm from box 127, at the corner of Mammoth road and Fourth avenue.

The building was a two story and a half barn with one story carriage shed adjoining and in a short time both were in ruins. The wind carried the sparks over the residence of Police Officer Henry Somers nearby, and for a time it was feared that this building would ignite, though it escaped without damage.

The barn was used by Mr. Commerford to keep his house and wagon in and by Edward H. Morse, a son-in-law of the owner, as a store house for vehicles. An order wagon and two old hacks were saved. The loss is estimated at $1500.

Just how the fire started is a mystery. It appears to have had its origin in the upper right hand corner of the building and the whole interior was in flames before the discovery was made.

The reflection of the blaze was seen for a great distance and considering the hour a large crowd gathered.

Fred C. Church held the insurance on the building.

GIRL UNCONSCIOUS

LIGHTNING STRUCK A BARN IN ROCHESTER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 31.—The worst electrical storm of the season visited this section yesterday afternoon. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning struck in many places.

The barn of William McDuffee, about two miles out on the Farmington road, was badly shattered.

Miss Nellie McDuffee, daughter of Mr. McDuffee, who was in the barn at the time, was knocked down and rendered unconscious. She afterward regained consciousness and will, it is thought, recover.

A horse, a cow and a pig were also felled, the pig dying soon after. The barn was damaged to the extent of $300, covered by insurance.

This is the third time Mr. McDuffee's buildings have been struck by lightning.

The lightning also shattered two shade trees at Gonic.

C. F. KEYES - Auctioneer
OFFICE, OLD BOSTON & MAINE STATION, GREEN STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AND 4498 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 313 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder, at public auction, this dwelling house of 12 rooms, sewing room, bath, pantry; large, fine cellar. At the present time it is occupied by two tenants, receiving $15 for down stairs and $13 for up stairs, making a yearly rental of about $336. It is very comfortably laid out for two tenements at present and for little money could be put in perfect two-tenement property. The location is all that could be desired, right at the junction of Pine and Westford streets, on the easterly side, on the best smooth-paved street and electric car service in the city; but five minutes' ride to the post office, and it is a thoroughly good prospect for either a residence or a two-tenement purpose.

The lot contains about 4498 square feet of land with a frontage on Westford street of about 41 feet. The sale will be made at the premises, and if you are interested in such property, be sure and be there in attendance.

Terms: $350 must be secured to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. 75 per cent. of the selling price can remain on mortgage.

Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, C. F. Keyes, who is in charge.

District Attorney Views Scene of Terrible Disaster

Debris Sent Miles Into the Air—Phenomena of the Explosion That Caused Discussion—The Funerals of the Victims—Sufferers at the Hospitals—The Search for Bodies

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SANDERSON CAME TO LOWELL THIS AFTERNOON AND VISITED THE SCENE OF THE EXPLOSION. THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY WAS INFORMED THAT JUDGE HADLEY WOULD INSIST UPON HIM CONDUCTING THE INQUESTS RESULTING FROM THE EXPLOSION AND MR. SANDERSON VISITED THE SCENE IN ORDER TO FAMILIARIZE HIMSELF WITH THE CONDITIONS THERE, THE LAY OF THE LAND, THE POSITION OF THE MAGAZINES AND THE PROXIMITY OF DWELLING HOUSES.

THE FACT THAT DR. THOMAS F. CARROLL FOUND A CAN OF DYNAMITE AT THE SCENE OF THE DISASTER TODAY, OCCASIONED GREAT EXCITEMENT AMONG PEOPLE IN THE VICINITY.

INSPECTOR LAFLAMME MET THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AT THE MIDDLESEX STREET STATION AND TOOK HIM TO THE SCENE OF THE DISASTER WHERE THEY WERE MET BY JUDGE HADLEY AND DEPUTY WELCH, ACTING SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE.

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION

TWO MORE NAMES ARE ADDED TO THE LIST OF EXPLOSION VICTIMS, MAKING THE TOTAL NUMBER TWENTY-ONE. THREE HUMAN HANDS WERE FOUND YESTERDAY, ONE OF WHICH WAS IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF THE GRADY BOY AND ONE THAT OF LOUIS RICHARDS. EIGHT OF THE VICTIMS WERE BURIED YESTERDAY AND OTHERS WILL BE BURIED TODAY. STILL THE SEARCH CONTINUES FOR THE BODIES OF THOSE WHO WERE BLOWN TO PIECES. THERE IS LITTLE HOPE OF EVER FINDING MORE THAN MINUTE FRAGMENTS OF THE BODIES. BESIDES THESE PARTS OF BODIES ARE SO BLACK AND CHARRED THAT IDENTIFICATION IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE.

CAN OF DYNAMITE FOUND.

A can of unexploded dynamite was found in a hole in the ground on River street, South Lowell, this morning in a spot where hundreds of people have been passing to and fro since Wednesday morning.

The discovery of the dynamite caused great excitement among those present and the guards were immediately ordered to allow no one through the district for the present.

The startling find was made by Dr. Thomas F. Carroll who has been a constant attendant and untiring worker at the scene of the explosion since Wednesday morning.

While walking along the ruins of River street early this morning he noticed a portion of a can resting in what appeared to be a post hole by the side of the street. Upon making a closer inspection he was surprised to find that the can was filled with what appeared to be sticks of dynamite. His outcry quickly brought others to the scene and the can was carefully removed. There was no question that the contents of the can were dynamite for the substance was recognized by those familiar with it and it was in the fragment of a can such as is used to store the explosive in the magazine.

The authorities were at once notified and the can was dropped into the pool of water in the excavation made by the explosion of the dynamite magazine.

PUMP OUT MAGAZINE HOLE.

Mayor Howe arrived on the scene shortly after the finding of the can and he immediately sent word to Chief Hosmer to have a hose company visit the scene and pump the water out of the hole on the site of the dynamite magazine.

The mayor's order was a welcome one to those who were present for the workers among the ruins are all in suspense to know what will be found at the bottom of the pool. It is believed that bodies or portions of them will be thus located.

The discovery of the dynamite caused great excitement among those who were on the scene and Selectman Blaisdell immediately ordered River street on which the explosive was found closed to all except those having imperative business there until the locality is free from danger. As portions of cans are being found all over the ruins it is believed that there is more unexploded dynamite in the vicinity other than that found by Dr. Carroll, and this report has somewhat interfered with the rapidity with which the ruins were being overhauled.

PALM OF HAND FOUND.

While Priv. Allen of Company M was on a tour of exploration with several members of his company this morning he found the complete palm of a hand among the ruins of the house of Clement Supreneault on Bolton street and a portion of the internal organs of either a human being or a horse. Priv. Allen turned the palm of the hand over to Dr. O'Connor.

FINGER AND FOOT.

Mr. Burgess, who lives at the turn of Billerica street, this morning found a finger and a piece of a foot in his back yard. Joseph Maille, residing on Bolton street, found a heel in his ruins.

QUESTION OF INSURANCE.

Among the early arrivals at the scene of the explosion this morning were representatives of different insurance companies carrying in their hands numerous fire insurance policies who were present for the purpose, not of settling any claims but of cancelling all policies on houses that have been damaged so that they will be protected in case of fire breaking out in any of them from this time on.

When the fire consumed the ruins of some of the buildings that had been blown into kindling wood the owners of the property were congratulated by the owners of property which did not burn for it was generally understood by all the property owners that insurance to the amount of the policy could be collected on houses that were totally destroyed by fire after the explosion while those that did not take fire could not recover one cent of insurance.

The outlook was surely bad enough that way but the real state of affairs is much worse. The insurance policies are very delicately worded and state that not only is no insurance allowed on buildings destroyed by explosion but in cases of buildings that take fire after an explosion has occurred the insurance paid is reckoned on the building as it was when the fire broke out and after the explosion. Thus if a dwelling was reduced to total ruin by the explosion and the ruins took fire, the owner receives insurance not for the dwelling but for the ruins, and the ruins of a building are only worth their price in kindling wood.

Among the visitors to the ruins this morning were Former Judge Lilley and Langdon Adams of Boston, father of President Adams of the common council. Judge Lilley, in speaking of the insurance question said: "I think the insurance companies as a matter of business policy should pay off the insurance on these houses whether or not they were destroyed by fire. They can afford to do it, and under the circumstances I believe that they would not lose by their action."

The Sun reporter later put the judge's proposition to a well known insurance man and the latter said: "I don't think the companies will do anything of the kind though they may contribute handsomely to the fund for the sufferers. To pay off the claims would be establishing a dangerous precedent."

ANOTHER KITTEN LOCATED.

Dr. Carroll later in the morning discovered a small kitten imprisoned under a pile of debris, but with plenty of breathing space in its little prison. When he removed the debris the kitten sprang at him and was so wild that it was necessary to handle it with gloves. The doctor christened the little animal "Dynamite" and sent it to his home. The boys of Company C found a live kitten in the ruins last night and the kitty is now the company mascot.

STATE POLICE ACTIVE.

The 12 members of the state police on the scene were all busy this morning and had frequent secret conferences with their chief, General Whitney, at headquarters. It is supposed they are gathering up evidence concerning the explosion.

Chairman Blaisdell was on hand bright and early prepared for another busy day. He paid a graceful tribute to Alderman Mitchell, who retired from authority in the case now that Mayor Howe has returned to the city and stated that the acting mayor rendered him great assistance in restoring order. The militia are still on guard, and will remain there until after Sunday, as it is expected that many sightseers will visit the scene on Saturday and Sunday. The number of sightseers present today was nearly as great as yesterday, but since it became known that dynamite had been found there is not such a rush for a close inspection of the ruins.

BOSTON & MAINE

FEARED FOUNDATION OF SIX ARCH BRIDGE WAS DAMAGED.

The Boston and Maine railroad feared that the foundation of the six arch bridge was damaged by the explosion and orders were issued at once that all trains should pass over the bridge at the slowest speed. A flagman was stationed at each end of the bridge to hold up all trains and see that the orders relative to speed were understood. This was done as a precaution and to have as little jar as possible on the bridge.

MR. KELLEY INJURED.

Mr. John J. Kelly of 4 Warnock street, who was ill at his home at the time of the explosion, received several ugly cuts about the head by glass. Crockery, pictures and other articles in his house were demolished.

THE CONCLAVE

Cardinals Ready to Begin Balloting for Pope

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—The ceremony of the entrance of the cardinals in conclave, which is always given as solemn a character as possible, was inaugurated this morning with the celebration of the Mass of the Holy Ghost in the Paulin chapel of the Vatican. Before 1878 this mass was celebrated in the chapel of the choir at St. Peter's.

The Sacred college, numbering 62 cardinals, the diplomatic corps, the Roman aristocracy, the Knights of Malta and a few outsiders, especially invited, were present with a profusion of guards, who today had taken off the mourning emblems they had been wearing for Leo XIII.

As is always the case at such ceremonies, there was so much color in the picture that one felt as though witnessing an exhibition of a series of living pictures, until awakened to the grand reality of the religious ceremony by the singing of the Sistine choir.

Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli officiated. After the Veni Sante Spiritus had been intoned, Mgr. Sardi, from the pulpit (which was draped in red and stood in the choir) having before him the pontifical cross, read the Latin oration, "Ite clingdo pontifice maximo," exhorting the cardinals to make a wise choice in the task before them, so that the one elected to the supreme dignity shall be a worthy vicar of Christ on earth.

Printed copies of the oration were handed to all the cardinals present.

After the mass of the Holy Ghost the cardinals assembled, as usual, in congregation, in the hall of the consistory, where, contrary to usage, the rules of the conclave were read and each cardinal took the oath to obey them. This ceremony generally occurs in the Sistine chapel in the evening, just before shutting up the cardinals for the conclave.

After this ceremony the cardinals hurried away from the Vatican, to return later with the more or less numerous articles which they deem necessary for their attendance at the conclave. Some of them have made preparations as though for a year's absence, while others were content to prepare for a few days' sojourn at the Vatican.

The discomfort which the cardinals will experience by being shut up in the Vatican is somewhat lessened by the exceptional weather, which is cloudy, cool and windy, the thermometer only reaching 75 in the shade, while generally, at this season, the mercury reaches as high as 100 in the shade at noon.

The confusion which ensued from the loss of the temporal power of the papacy, made it necessary to cut down expenses and among many other things the numbers of the noble guard were much reduced so that now there are only about 40 of these soldiers. As it is customary for each cardinal to have a guard told off for his service in the conclave, and there are 62 cardinals, it has been decided to press into service the cadets. The latter are not full-fledged soldiers and were drawn by lot. The question of which cardinal they fall to is a matter of serious import to them as each guard congratulates his cardinal and wishes him good luck in the coming election, for which good wishes he receives, if his particular cardinal is elected pope, the sum of $10,000 or lucrative employment. The excitement over the drawing of the lots is intense, as soldiers do not usually get such a reward for a few good wishes.

The guard of Cardinal Gibbons will be Cadet Count Della Porta.

The marshal of the conclave, Prince Chigi-Albani, having insisted that the number of people who are to enter the conclave must be reduced to a really indispensible number, there will be only about 275 persons present.

The Messagero says that among the petitions for relief out of the money left by Pope Leo is one from Counts Mastai and Ferreti, nephews of Pope Pius IX, who are in extreme poverty.

It is rumored in Vatican circles that some of the cardinals, especially the foreigners, having announced their intention of voting for Cardinal Ferreta, the latter has been induced to withdraw his candidacy after having been promised by Cardinals Rampolla, Gotti and Serafino Vannutelli that if one of them is elected pope he will appoint Ferreta secretary of state.

IN POLICE COURT

Pickpockets Held in $500 Each

POLICE SAY THEY ARE SLICK CHAPS

Assault and Battery Case Aired

Joseph Shapiro and Salon Yagoda, the two pickpockets arrested by state officers yesterday for larceny from the person, were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court today and were ordered in $500 each for their appearance before the court on Friday morning, Aug. 7.

Shapiro and Yagoda, the police allege, are clever thieves, but they were not wise in their selection of a victim when they chose John H. Garfield.

Mr. Garfield is a powder inspector. He came here yesterday and visited the scene of the explosion in his official capacity.

On his return and before he had proceeded far on the electric car he discovered that he had been relieved of a sum of money and he was satisfied that he knew who did the trick. He did not make any outcry, but when the opportunity was ripe, he caused their arrest.

The defendants were not represented by counsel in court today.

MAGUIRE VS. SABA.

John J. Maguire pleaded not guilty to two complaints charging him with drunkenness and assault and battery on S. G. Saba. J. J. Kerwin appeared for Maguire and D. J. Murphy for the commonwealth.

The assault occured in Merrimack square last Tuesday evening.

Saba told the court that he was reading The Sun bulletins when Maguire approached him. "He made a few remarks" said Saba "and told me that he would crack my face.

"He grabbed me by the arm and struck me several blows in the face. I returned his blows and defended myself as well as I could until Inspector Walsh appeared on the scene and placed us under arrest. At the police station I was allowed to go and Maguire was locked up."

The defence did not offer any evidence. Judge Hadley found the defendant guilty and imposed fines of $20 for assault and battery and $5 for drunkenness. Maguire appealed and was ordered in $500 for the superior court.

PAID THE BILL.

Frank G. Schmeltz, manager of the Girls' base ball club, was arrested by Inspector Mahee in Arlington yesterday on a complaint charging him with evading a board bill. Schmeltz's band of base ballbirlies played ball at the Fairgrounds last Saturday. They took dinner at the Farragut house and left town without settling the bill.

Schmeltz settled before the case was called in court today and in addition to the board bill he had to settle the expenses incidental to his arrest.

TOOK OVERALL CLOTH.

Ignace Pogerale, charged with the larceny of four yards of overall cloth valued at 56 cents was fined $20. The cloth was taken from the Massachusetts mills.

LITTLE BABY GIRL.

Agent Richardson of the Humane society, was interested in the welfare of a three-months old baby girl whose mother is in an institution in Boston, having been sent there because of her irresponsibility. She was not capable of properly caring for the baby. In police court today the baby was turned over to the state until such time as definite arrangements for its future can be made.

OTHER CASES.

Napoleon Heroux, charged with larceny, was placed on probation after the suspension of a reformatory sentence.

Fred Buddy, charged with cruelty to a horse, was fined $20.

John O'Donnell, for drunkenness, was fined $6.

RIOT IN CHURCH

Opponents of Booker T. Washington Raised Disturbance

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—An attempt on the part of half a dozen colored persons opposed to Rev. Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama, to ask questions at a meeting which he was addressing last night at the Zion church, resulted almost in a riot and 25 policemen were required to quell the disturbance. Several arrests were made during which one policeman received an ugly stab from a hatpin. One man said to be one of those opposed to Mr. Washington, received several razor cuts and is now in the hospital.

After the arrests, Mr. Washington was allowed to proceed and spoke for nearly two hours.

Both factions at the close of the meetings [illegible].

Mr. Washington said in his statement that the colored people of Boston should not be held responsible for a few riotous individuals who were in a hopeless minority. William Monroe Trotter, one of those who was arrested, states that [illegible] of the riot was the [illegible] of the chairman, William H. Lewis, in ordering the arrest and ejection of a person who hissed or [illegible] objection to the remarks of the speaker.

It is said that the disturbance was pre-arranged [illegible] Mr. Trotter and his friends [illegible] that they were [illegible] with the idea of asking Mr. Washington a number of questions and [illegible] attack that might be made upon the New England representatives [illegible] Afro-American council at Louisville.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Colored [illegible] Business Men's association of this city and Hon. William H. Lewis, one of the United States assistant district attorneys, presided. The disorder was manifested almost at the beginning of the meeting, at times Mr. Lewis' remarks being hissed and two attempts made to interrupt him with questions. No serious disturbances, however occurred until Thomas Fortune of New York was introduced. When he stated that the opposition to Mr. Washington at Louisville was soundly "spanked," half a dozen persons in the audience jumped to their feet and in an instant the entire assembly was in a turmoil. One man was arrested and ejected by direction of the presiding officer and this served to quiet the meeting. As Mr. Fortune finished, Mr. Washington was introduced. This was a signal for a resumption of the hissing and an attempt on the part of four or five persons to ask questions. Mr. Washington tried unsuccessfully for an hour to continue his remarks. Finally Mr. Lewis sent for additional policemen and 25 responded from a near-by station. The chairman pointed out two persons whom he considered the leaders in the opposition, Granville Martin and William Trotter and they were arrested.

While the latter was being taken from the hall, a woman said to be his sister, stabbed one of the police officers with a hat pin, inflicting a deep but not necessarily dangerous wound. At about the same time in another part of the hall, Bernard Charles became involved in a heated argument with a supporter of Mr. Washington, with the result that he received a deep cut with a razor.

Order restored, Mr. Washington delivered his address, the subject of which was "The economic condition of the colored people of Boston, and the relation to those in the rest of the country."

FOR SUFFERERS

Wealthy Citizen Offers to Take Care of Them

The Sun today is able to explain why the Tewksbury authorities yesterday stated that they would take care of the explosion sufferers without asking for assistance from outside.

Many familiar with town affairs wondered how the town authorities could do the relief work without an appropriation which would necessitate a special town meeting, though none had been called.

When The Sun reporter asked Chairman Blaisdell of the Tewksbury selectmen yesterday if the town would stand the expense of the support of the homeless, Mr. Blaisdell made the significant answer, "They'll be cared for all right, and as far as caring for them is concerned no outside assistance is needed."

The Sun can state on positive authority that a well known citizen of this city who desires his name withheld from publication, is standing the expense of caring for these unfortunates and will continue to do so until such time as they are able to take care of themselves. The benefactor in question has informed the Tewksbury authorities that he wants all the people cared for and cared for well, and that the expense is not to be considered as he will pay all the bills, as he is well able to do. He only asked that his name be not published and was satisfied to have the impression given that the town is caring for them.

It was with the knowledge of this in mind that Selectman Blaisdell yesterday discouraged Acting Mayor Miskella's suggestion that a public meeting be called in Lowell to adopt measures for the relief of the sufferers, as proposed by The Sun.

THE CHARITABLE AYERS.

Frederick Fanning Ayer, Lowell's prince of public benefactors who is spending the summer at Rockland, Me., after hearing the details of the explosion from Dr. C. E. Stowell, manager of the J. C. Ayer Co., in this city immediately forwarded his check for $500. Dr. Stowell then added $500 to the amount on behalf of the J. C. Ayer Co.

SLUGGER AT WORK

Fellow Still in Evidence at Newton

MISS KATE CURLEY WAS BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Reign of Terror in the Section

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWTON, July 31.—Despite the numerous arrests of "sluggers" the one who infests this neighborhood is still in evidence. His latest victim is Miss Kate Curley, who Wednesday night was brutally assaulted within almost a stone's throw of the police station.

Coming as it does two weeks after the assault of Mrs. Georgia L. Everett of Newtonville, it has caused a veritable reign of terror. Women are afraid to walk out after dark unless accompanied by an escort. The police claim that there is no necessity for alarm, but the fact remains that these assaults have been committed, and also that not until late yesterday afternoon did they begin investigating Wednesday's affair.

Miss Curley, who is employed by Frank H. Nichols of 11 Church street, was on her way home. She had to pass through Vernon street, and to make a short cut, started to cross Farlow park, which is situated between Vernon and Church streets.

It is a lonely place, trees scattered here and there, and in the centre of it, a sort of grotto built of stone, particularly fitted in fact for such a deed. Miss Curley had neared the grotto when a man jumped from behind one of the trees and grasped her by the right arm.

He made some insulting remark and started to throw her to the ground. She screamed and struggled, but was eventually thrown down. Frenzied, she fought violently, and succeeded in partly freeing herself. Again and again she struck her assailant in the face. He, with an oath, loosened his grasp and she started on a run back to Vernon street.

He ran after her, and just as she reached the sidewalk seized her again, and once more threw her to the ground. Half choking her into insensibility he literally dragged her across the park almost to Church street, she struggling all the way.

But for the fact that her screams were heard by George W. Hills, opposite whose house on Vernon street the affair happened, the assault would undoubtedly have been of a far more brutal nature.

With a male guest he rushed down stairs just in time to see the two figures running in separate directions.

They followed the female figure and found Miss Curley crouching in the doorway of an unoccupied building on Church street, hysterical and half-frenzied.

Her description of the man was somewhat vague—young, smooth-faced, about 5 feet 10, dark hair, dressed in dark clothes and wore a derby hat.

A sergeant and officer were detailed on the case late yesterday afternoon, but thus far have accomplished but little, although they have several clues.

JUMPED TRACK

CAR ON BOSTON & NORTHERN ROAD DERAILED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31.—Eight passengers on a Boston & Northern electric car escaped serious injury by the car jumping the track near Sewing brook, on North Main street, last evening. The cause of the derailment was the rough condition of the roadbed.

The car, in charge of Motorman Young and Conductor Hobbs, was going to Rosemont at a fair speed when it jumped the tracks about 75 feet from the bridge over the brook.

The car crashed into a huge pole, snapping it off short, and brought up in a yard nearby after plowing up the ground for 30 feet.

Four of the women passengers jumped when it left the tracks and one was slightly injured. Conductor Hobbs was thrown under the car and severely hurt.

The passengers refused to give their names although each sustained severe bruises.

LAMP EXPLODED

One Person Was Fatally Injured

FIVE OTHER PERSONS WERE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Accident Occurred While Dance Was On

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 31.—The explosion of a kerosene lamp at a Slavic boarding house here last night, during a dance, caused fatal injuries of one person and the serious injury of five others.

The fatally injured:

MRS. MIKE BOLPTSKY, wife of the proprietor.

The accident occurred in a five room frame boarding house occupied by 25 Slavs. The celebration became tumultuous toward the end and caused the structure to shake to its foundation. When the hilarity was at its height, the lamp was pushed over by one of the dancers. With a crash it exploded, sending flames over nearly a score of the unfortunates. Some put the flames out and escaped with slight injuries while those nearest were so saturated with the inflammable material as to be turned into human torches.

RIOTOUS LIVING

Led to a Labor Leader's Downfall

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Lawrence Murphy, former treasurer of the journeymen Stonecutters union, who was arrested last December charged with embezzling $12,000 from the organization, and convicted last Monday of grand larceny, was today sentenced to five years and six months in State prison.

The prisoner's counsel asked for clemency for his client, but Judge Newburger sternly, the prisoner severely, saying that he had spent the funds of the union to pursue living and that his total stealings amounted to $70,000.

While the sentence was being pronounced Murphy interrupted the judge by saying, "This is a put up job," and "I hope your honor will investigate my case."

Mr. J. A. McEvoy of the New England Optical Co. has returned from his vacation.

Mortimer Pearson has returned to this city after a two months' stay at Old Orchard Beach.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT

IS FINDING A READY MARKET IN ENGLAND.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 31.—The big shipment of specially packed California fruit which arrived at England in the American line steamer St. Paul, which arrived at Southampton yesterday, was sold at Convent Garden, here, this morning. There was a large crowd present and the competition was spirited, partly because of the excellence of the fruit and partly owing to the shortage of the fruit crops in France, Great Britain and elsewhere in Europe. Five thousand, four hundred and seventy-six cases of Bartlett and souvenir du congress pears fetched from 10s 6d to 13s per case. Two thousand nine hundred and forty-two cases of plums were sold for 10s 6d to 14s per case.

WINNIFRED BAKER

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LEADING A MOB.

By Associated Press to The Sun

DANVILLE, Ill., July 31.—The police yesterday arrested Winnifred Baker, who is said led the mob in its attack on the jail last Saturday night. Baker was found working in a small coal mine west of Danville. Three more arrests were made yesterday in addition to that of the alleged leader making 17 in all.

The city council last night passed resolutions commending Sheriff Whitlock for firing into the mob that attacked the jail.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND ON TRACKS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SALEM, Mass., July 31.—The body of an unknown man was found on the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad at the Grove street crossing here today. The man was about 30 years of age. He evidently had been killed by the midnight train.

ADDITIONAL FRAGMENTS OF BODIES.

Yesterday the searchers at the scene of the explosion in South Lowell found additional fragments of human bodies.

ANOTHER HAND IDENTIFIED.

The finding of a human hand that was later identified as that of Louis Richards was the most important development yesterday afternoon. Louis Richards, was an employe of the Cartridge Co., and was at work at the magazine at the time of the explosion. His brother, George Richards, identified the hand.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind," he said, "that that is the hand of my brother. So positive am I of it that I have ordered Undertaker Archambeault to take possession of it. When he went to work Wednesday morning he wore a $70 diamond ring. That ring has gone but I suppose it may have been blown off. However, the ring mark is there and I know it must be Louis' hand. The most convincing proof that it is his hand, though, is that big calleus on the thumb which was caused by a cut made some time ago. Then, again, a pair of trousers which I know he wore was found within a few feet of the hand. They were the same as these I have on. We bought them at the same time."

Mr. Richards said his brother had told his family on Tuesday night that he was afraid of the job at the magazine.

TWO MORE VICTIMS.

The list of dead which reached 19 yesterday has been swelled to 21. The names of William Flynn and James Reynolds having been added. Both of these boys were about 16 years old and were in swimming near the Six Arch bridge at the time of the explosion.

Not a trace has been found of the bodies though some of the fragments of limbs and other parts of bodies now in several of the local undertaking establishments may be from their bodies. It is hoped, however, that their bodies may be found in the Concord river.

THE WRECK AREA.

The area covering the immediate scene of the explosion contains about twenty or twenty-five acres, but the wrecked district is fully twice as large.

The district known as Riverside park is covered over with wreckage. Some places this debris is several feet deep, in others not so deep, but everywhere within a radius of a quarter of a mile of where the magazines stood is covered with wreckage.

Some houses are reduced to splinters or to ashes, others are torn to fragments, showing gaping holes, protruding timbers and framework upturned as if the whole had passed through the fury of a cyclone.

What is remarkable about the debris is that it is almost as fine as gravel, the brick from the magazine being reduced to small pieces, the lighter timbers of the destroyed houses to splinters and even the largest foundation timbers broken up like penstaiks.

WENT MILES IN THE AIR.

It is quite probable that the bricks from the magazine and portions of the wagons and even the flesh of the horses and mayhap of some of the human bodies, were sent miles up in the air, torn more and more as they went.

Part of the material fell miles from the scene. Part of it fell in the form of gravel at the Moody school on High street; and Mrs. Grady, wife of William Grady, corner of High and Rogers streets, was struck on the head by material like gravel or small pebbles some moments before she heard the sound of the explosion.

This demonstrates that the material from the explosion travelled faster through the air than did the sound of the explosion. This is nothing new. It is illustrated in the firing of a gun when seen at a distance. The shot will have reached its destination before the report is heard. So it was with the great explosion to those at any considerable distance.

ANOTHER PHENOMENON.

Another phenomenon that has caused much comment and discussion is the cause of the breaking of glass in parts of buildings turned away from the direction of the explosion.

This may be explained in two ways. The pressure caused by the sudden expansion of the air when the explosion occurred was exerted in all directions the same as the pressure in a steam boiler.

But it was not the pressure exerted in this manner that broke windows on the sides of buildings opposite the direction of the explosion, although it may have caused some of the breaks.

When the explosion occurred there was a terrific pressure outward and then nearly an equal pressure back towards the centre of the explosion. This was the reaction or the effort of the atmosphere to regain its equilibrium. It is another illustration of what is known as "Nature's horror of a vacuum."

When it is considered that the pressure of the air upon every square inch of surface is about fourteen pounds it may easily be imagined what the effect will be when it is suddenly subjected to an explosive force sufficient to lift the largest navy in the world wholly out of the water. Powder is a strong explosive but dynamite or nitroglycerine is about fourteen times as strong.

Experts could compute the number of foot tons, viz, the number of tons which could be lifted one foot high by all the dynamite and gunpowder in the magazines. The number if known, would be utterly amazing.

PATHETIC SIGHT

THREE HEARSES ABREAST TOLD SAD STORY.

The bodies of the three little McDermott boys who were killed in the explosion were buried from the chapel at Undertaker C. H. Molloy's establishment in Market street yesterday afternoon.

The sight of the three white caskets side by side was a pathetic one. The chapel was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends and the heartbroken parents of the children whose years were quickly counted, could not abate the tide of their terrible grief.

Just before the coffins closed on the bodies of her dead children Mrs. McDermott threw herself on the caskets and wept bitterly. Her great grief so affected everybody that even the men present could not suppress their tears.

The caskets were placed in three white hearses that moved down the street three abreast and were followed by a long line of carriages.

The streets were lined with people whose sympathy, in many instances, was manifested by tears.

The interment in St. Patrick's cemetery was witnessed by at least 300 people. Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., of the Sacred Heart church officiated. The bearers were four cousins of the dead boys.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

JOSEPHINE PERUSSE AND HER MOTHER BURIED YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Vitaline Perusse and her daughter, Josephine, victims of the terrible explosion, were buried in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday afternoon. The double funeral took place from Mr. Hector Hamelin's house, 96 Andover street, where the bodies had been taken on the previous night.

The bodies were taken to St. Joseph's church where a requiem was sung with the full choir in attendance. Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., officiated at the church and at the cemetery.

The bearers for Mrs. Perusse were Messrs. Edward Brochu, Alex. Brochu, Louis Lantaigne, Benjamin Lajeunesse, Peter Desmarais and Clement Surprenant.

The bearers for Josephine were four young boys, her three brothers, Jerry, Joseph and Albert Perusse, and her cousin, Master Geo. Lantaigne. There were also four honorary bearers, young girls dressed in white and wearing veils, schoolmates or friends of the dead girl and all of them Children of Mary. They were Misses Augustine Dancouse, Maria Albert, Blanche Brunelle, Marie Anne Chouinard.

Undertaker Albert had charge of the funeral. At 7 o'clock this morning funeral services were sung for the repose of the souls of both victims of the accident.

THE OULIGHAN BOYS BURIED.

Thomas Oulighan and Joseph Oulighan, the two brothers who were in swimming and were killed as a result of the explosion were buried yesterday afternoon. A double funeral took place from the home of their parents, 5 Wamesit court, off Cushing street, and the two little white hearses going side by side from the home of the deceased to the Catholic cemetery presented a very tearful sight.

The interments were in the Catholic cemetery and were under the direction of Undertaker Peter Davey.

MRS. RIGG'S FUNERAL.

The remains of Mrs. Catherine Rigg, wife of William, whose body was one of the first to be found, were consigned to their final resting place in the Edson cemetery yesterday afternoon. The remains reposed in a black broadcloth casket at the funeral parlors of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck in Middlesex street, but were so badly disfigured that they were not exposed.

The funeral cortege wended its way to the Edson cemetery chapel where services were held at 3 o'clock, Rev. N. W. Matthews, of the First Primitive Methodist church, officiating. The reverend gentleman spoke in an eulogistic manner of the life of the deceased and the unfortunate death which she met. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings, among them being a beautiful pillow, bearing the inscription "Mother," from the family of the deceased; mammoth wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rigg; basket of flowers, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitworth; and a spray of pinks, Mrs. Poole.

The interment was in the family lot in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck.

PAID DEATH BENEFIT.

Despite the fact that nothing of the body of George Flynn, one of the victims, has been located as yet, one of the local insurance companies in which the victim was insured, has paid the death claim.

While this system of paying death benefits is rather rare, the company was satisfied beyond a doubt that Flynn was killed. The insurance company is worthy of much praise for its prompt payment.

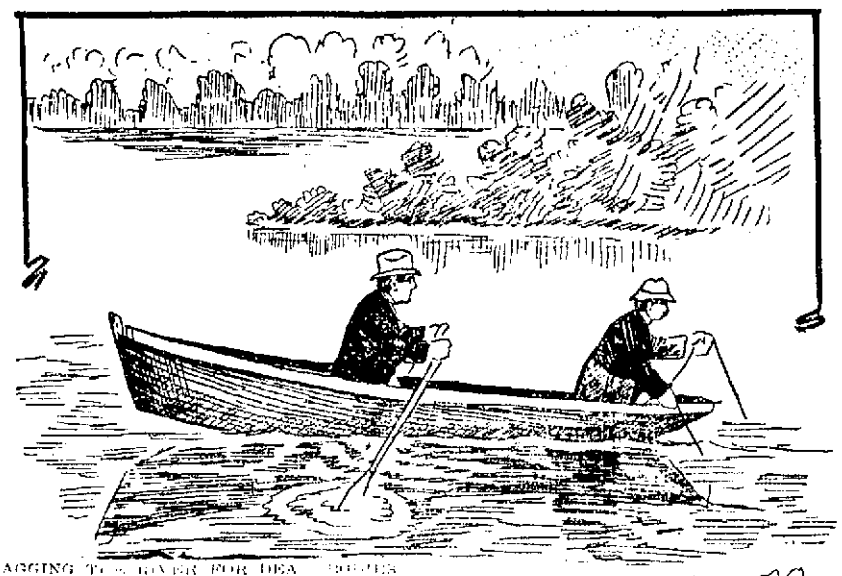

MAYOR HOWE ARRIVES.

His Honor, Mayor Howe, arrived in Lowell last night and was driven to the scene of the explosion where he found that Acting Mayor Miskella had ably represented him in his absence. Mayor Howe had a conference at mid-

THE TWO POWDER WAGONS.

A morning paper in criticizing the alleged attempt on the part of a Boston paper to show that the explosion was due to carelessness, says in what purports to be a statement made by a "responsible party," that the wagons for the removal of the gunpowder had not arrived and that nitric acid was not used. The Cartridge company says the powder was all loaded. Two large holes mark where they stood.

It is believed that parts of the wagons were driven into the ground and what would seem to be good proof of that is the fact that Captain Kew yesterday unearthed a portion of the hub of one of the wagons.

AT THE HOSPITALS

SAD SCENE BETWEEN McDERMOTT BOY AND PARENTS.

Mrs. William Galloway and daughter Emily, Clara Suprenault, Edward McDermott, Charles Lybrand, Almeda Belanger, Calvin Goodwin and Robert Rigg are the only patients who are at St. John's hospital at the present time, and they are getting along as well as can be expected.

Of the above named people the first four are on the dangerous list, while the others are on the way to recovery. Mrs. Galloway is the worst off of any of the patients and it was stated at the hospital that she will have a hard time to recover. She is suffering a great deal of pain and underwent an operation last night.

Miss Clara Suprenault is also in a critical condition, and is suffering much pain. She was delirious all last night and got little or no sleep and is in a bad condition this morning. Little Eddie McDermott, whose three brothers were buried yesterday afternoon, has suffered a great deal, but it is thought that he will recover.

There was a sad scene enacted at the hospital last night when Mr. and Mrs. McDermott after attending the funeral of their three sons in the afternoon, could not go to sleep until they saw their little Eddie in the hospital. The little fellow recognized his mother and father as soon as they entered the ward and the scene that followed was most affecting, the heartbroken parents fondling their little one and making inquiries of the doctors and sisters as to whether or not one of their little boys would be spared to comfort them.

The little Rigg boy is almost ready to be discharged from the hospital and undoubtedly will be as soon as the sisters get some clothing for him and can find some person who will take him. When brought to the hospital he was devoid of clothing.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

Of the three patients who were at the Emergency hospital yesterday, one, Jeremiah McCarthy, left and went to stay with a friend of his. He was not discharged from the institution as it will be a matter of several months before he will have recovered. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the left arm, there being a large hole below the elbow.

George Perusse and Zephrin Perusse, father and son, are the only patients now remaining at the Emergency hospital. George has an abrasion on the thigh which makes it impossible for him to walk and Zephrin has three fractured ribs and is badly burned. They are recovering rapidly though and may be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

Mr. Perusse and his son attended the funeral of Mrs. Perusse and her daughter yesterday afternoon. They desired to be present at the last said rites and a hack was ordered and both patients were made as comfortable as possible in the conveyance and taken to the cemetery. After the funeral they were returned to the Emergency hospital.

WOMAN LEFT HIM

And Richard Wood Turned on the Gas

Because the woman whom he called his wife left him, Richard Wood, a member of the Lowell Military band, turned the gas on in his room at the Wheeler block, corner of Merrimack and Tilton streets, last night, and lay down to die.

Roomers in the block detected the odor of gas in the halls this morning and traced it to room 3, occupied by Wood. They called and receiving no response, pushed the door in.

Wood's body, cold in death, was lying half dressed across the bed.

Wood, according to the story told the officers by persons in the block, quarreled with the woman whom he called his wife and she left him.

The quarrel occurred yesterday morning and she left the room some time during the day.

She told Wood that she would never see him again and he evidently believed that she meant what she said.

He told a roomer, with whom he was quite friendly, that his wife had left him. "She's gone for keeps," he said, "and I'm done for."

That Wood intended to make death certain was evidenced by the methodical manner in which he arranged for the deed.

He pulled the curtains down, plugged the cracks about the doors and windows and turned the gas on full blast.

Wood's parents live in England and he has relatives in Peterboro, N. H.

SKULL CRUSHED

Brownstone Coping Was Loosened by Lightning

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Miss Birdie Aarons has met death in a peculiar manner in Lexington avenue, near her home. She had called on a girl friend and the two were standing on the stoop of the Lexington avenue house, when a portion of brownstone coping above them fell and struck Miss Aarons to the ground. Her skull was crushed and she died immediately. Investigation showed that a bolt of lightning had struck the stoop, in the heavy storm which had just passed. The shock had fractured the heavy stone and left it hanging by only a small, unbroken part.

The lightning was extremely severe over the entire city and many strange accidents were reported. In Jersey City, a bicycle ridden by a policeman was twisted into a shapeless mass. The rider was unhurt by the bolt and sustained only a few scratches in falling from the wrecked machine.

Miss Agnes Fallow of Oliver street will spend the next two weeks at Salisbury beach.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITIONS

JUDGE S. P. HADLEY

Insists on District Attorney Conducting Investigation

THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE HORRIBLE DISASTER THAT HAS CAST A GLOOM OVER THIS CITY AS WELL AS SOUTH LOWELL MUST BE PLACED.

MEDICAL EXAMINER IRISH SAID THIS FORENOON THAT HE WOULD HOLD POST MORTEM EXAMINATIONS THIS AFTERNOON.

JUDGE HADLEY HAS TWICE VISITED THE SCENE OF THE ACCIDENT AND THE HORROR OF IT HAS MADE HIM SAD AT HEART. TO THE SUN REPORTER THIS AFTERNOON HE SAID HE PRESUMED THAT DR. IRISH WOULD MAKE A REPORT TO THE COURT RELATIVE TO HIS FINDINGS, AND THAT INVESTIGATIONS WOULD FOLLOW.

"THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY," SAID JUDGE HADLEY, "HAS NEVER CONDUCTED AN INQUEST IN THIS COURT SINCE MY TIME AS JUDGE, BUT IN THIS INSTANCE I SHALL INSIST UPON HIS PRESENCE. IT IS HIS DUTY TO ACT FOR THE GOVERNMENT IN SUCH CASES AND HE WILL HAVE TO COME.

"THERE MUST BE CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE INVOLVED AND THE EXAMINATIONS CANNOT BE TOO THOROUGH. 'I PRESUME THAT DR. IRISH'S FIRST REPORT WILL INVOLVE ONLY ONE CASE. THAT WILL BE A STARTING POINT. IT IS IMPOSSIBLE AT THIS TIME TO SAY HOW MANY CASES WILL BE EXAMINED.

"IT WILL BE THE MOST IMPORTANT CASE THAT THIS COURT HAS EVER HAD TO DEAL WITH AND THOSE WHO WILL HAVE TO DO WITH IT WILL FEEL THEIR RESPONSIBILITY RELIGIOUSLY.

HAND WITH RING

IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF JAMES LEO GRADY.

A very important discovery was made this afternoon when a badly shattered left hand with a ring on one of the fingers was found. At first it was not known to whom the hand belonged, but later it was identified as the hand of James Leo Grady, son of Police Officer Grady, who was at work in the magazine.

The hand was identified by the ring on one of the fingers.

ARM AND EYE FOUND.

Early this morning workmen who were digging among the debris found a man's left arm and hand that had been torn from the body at the shoulder. Dr. O'Connor took charge of the arm. No one could identify it. The Grady and McDermott families both identified the arm found yesterday and until the question of identification is settled the arm will be kept by the undertaker.

Quite near where the arm was found the workmen discovered a human eye embedding in a circular rock about the size of a small cobble stone. The pupil of the eye is black and the ball of the optic is blue. Both were found at a considerable distance from the scene of the explosion amid the ruins of a house. The workmen continued digging in the vicinity in hope of finding other parts of the body.

SAW A HEAD.

While the physicians were examining the arm and eye a boy reported that he had seen a human head in the ruins near where the other members were found. A search was then instituted for the head.

MORE OF THE INJURED.

Below appears a partial list of those injured who are being cared for in their homes and whose names have not been published heretofore:

MRS. DAVIS, Gilman hill, thrown out of second story window, suffering with sprained back.

MRS. REGAN, 1145 Lawrence street, badly bruised.

MRS. BURKETT, Warwick street, cut and bruised.

MRS. QUADE of 15 Whitehead street, who had given birth to a child a few days before, bruised and eyes injured by mortar...

DIANA GAGNON, 15 Warnock street, thrown into cellar and injured.

MRS. LAYCOCK, 159 Lawrence street, thrown over a barrel and bruised.

MRS. MORSE, 26 Epping street, thrown through a window and badly cut.

MRS. ORTEL, 1296 Lawrence street, thrown down a flight of stairs and back sprained.

A daughter of Joseph Morrow of Billerica street had 10 stitches taken in his hand.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL SUE.

Several property owners in the vicinity have announced their intention of bringing suits to recover for the loss of their property. At present they are trying to determine whether to make the Cartridge company, the Powder company or the town of Tewksbury the defendants.

BURNED HOGS SHOT.

This morning several badly burned and injured hogs which had disappeared at the time of the explosion appeared upon the scene in a half-dead condition. They were shot by Officer Hamilton.

MAGAZINE IN ANDREWS STREET.

Since the explosion the residents of Lawrence, Andrews and Acawam streets have been much disturbed by the presence of a retort or magazine belonging to the Cartridge company which is located in the company's yard in Andrews street near the junction of Lawrence and Acawam street directly behind a tenement block. It is very probable that an attempt will be made to have it removed without loss of time.

WANTED MAGAZINES REMOVED.

Several times since South Lowell became thickly settled attempts have been made to have the magazines removed.

Stephen Flynn, whose home is wrecked on Billerica street beyond hope of redemption, said to The Sun reporter that for several years the residents of Riverside Park have stirred up the matter as best they could, in the hope of moving the set-ups or the town to make their homes safe by the removal of the magazines, or at any rate of their explosive contents.

"But we never could get a sufficiently united pull," remarked Mr. Flynn. "It is a pretty hard thing to do, you know, where such interests are involved, to get the town or the selectmen to do anything. But it is a fact that many of us here on Billerica street have been living in fear of what might happen, though none of us for an instant imagined that it could be anything so awful as this. I am very happy that all my family are alive and safe and that, beyond a scratch on the nose of one of them, there have been no injuries to either of them."

ARMY TENTS

TO SHELTER THOSE WHO WERE MADE HOMELESS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Adjutant General Dalton has ordered sent to Lowell a supply of army tents to be used for shelter by those who were made homeless by yesterday's disaster.

FINGERS IN GLOVE

A CHILD'S RIB ALSO FOUND IN THE RUINS.

While poking through the ruins this afternoon a glove was found with the fragments of a hand and fingers in the glove. The glove with the portions of the hand were found in the ruins of a house where all the people escaped, therefore it is possible that the hand belonged to a man who was working at the magazine and was blown some hundred yards away.

A rib which looked to be that of a child, was also found in the corner of a yard of a dismantled house.

Both the glove with the portions of the hand and the rib were turned over to Dr. J. B. O'Connor.

MILITIA MAN HURT.

Forrest G. Weeks, a member of Company C, who was on picket duty at the scene of the explosion, met with a painful injury bout 2.30 o'clock this morning. He was walking through the ruins when he too went into a hole and he was precipitated from the top of a pile of debris.

He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and the ambulance was summoned. Upon the arrival of the ambulance Weeks was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the left cheek bone.

The wounds were dressed by the attending physicians and the injured man was afterwards taken to his home, 19 Nichols street.

MR. TURNER'S GENEROSITY.

Joseph Turner of Broadway has offered one of his tenements free of charge to Charles Hamel and family, whose house was destroyed by the explosion.

CHIMNEYS BLOWN OFF.

Bessie Garland called at The Sun office this forenoon to state that the chimneys on her house in Abbott street were knocked down by the explosion. The bricks rumbled about a woman who was passing at the time but she escaped injury.

MILITIA ON GUARD.

It has been decided to keep the militia on guard for another day and a militiaman was placed at every house. About one dozen members of the state police are also guarding property.

Fire Marshal Casey of Haverhill is expected during the day and he and Charles Brigham of the fire marshal's office will begin an investigation at once. They will report their findings to the deputy fire marshal and then a hearing may be held on the matter.

A powder expert from New Haven visited the scene of destruction this morning and built explosions noted on the existing conditions.

In response to a query by Chairman Blaisdell of the board of selectmen the expert stated that there is absolutely no danger of other explosions when the ground upon which the magazines stood shall have dried up.

MRS. GOYETTE SAVED $100.

Mr. Joseph Goyette though he lost his house and some of his furniture, has yet much to be thankful for. Before going to his work in the morning he gave his wife $100 he had drawn from the bank and told her to put it in a bureau drawer until he returned at night.

Mrs. Goyette placed the roll of bills in her bosom, intending to place it in the bureau drawer later in the morning.

As soon as Goyette heard of the explosion he ran home to find his house a heap of blazing ruins. His wife and three children were nowhere to be found and as no one could give him any information regarding them poor Goyette was well nigh distracted. Some one suggested that he make a visit to the hospitals and he did so. At St. John's hospital he found his wife slightly injured and the $100 safe and sound, for while Mrs. Goyette was still carrying the money the explosion occurred and she was knocked senseless. When the nurses at the hospital loosened her clothing they found the money.

Then Goyette started back to the scene of the disaster to look for his children and when he got there he found all three without a scratch on them.

Later Capt. Jenkines of the Lawrence street fire company pulled Goyette's trunk containing all his valuable papers out of the ruins, the contents of the trunk being unharmed.

JOHN W. McEVOY

SAYS THE COMPANIES ARE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES.

John W. McEvoy, Esq., gave it as his opinion that the U. S. Cartridge company and American Powder company would be held liable for the damages to persons and property occasioned by the explosion. Mr. McEvoy said that the only question involved was whether the companies in storing the explosives were guilty of maintaining a nuisance. That would be a subject for determination by a jury under proper instructions from the court. But Mr. Evoy stated that the storing of highly dangerous explosives, such as gunpowder, nitro-glycerine, etc., in large quantities in poorly constructed or carelessly guarded buildings near a populous community would be sufficient to satisfy any jury that the companies were guilty of maintaining a nuisance and consequently negligent and liable to respond in damages.

If the circumstances were as reported that there was a leak in one of the buildings which exposed some of the nitro-glycerine and that there was carelessness in doing the work there would be additional material to establish the company's negligence and its resulting liability.

ACTING MAYOR MISKELLA

OFFERS ASSISTANCE TO PEOPLE OF STRICKEN DISTRICT.

Acting Mayor James F. Miskella went to South Lowell this morning and had a long conference with Chairman Blaisdell of the board of selectmen of Tewksbury. The acting mayor told Mr. Blaisdell that the city of Lowell and its people stand ready to give any assistance in their power to the people who have suffered from the explosion. He assured Mr. Blaisdell that whatever service could be rendered would be gladly performed. Mr. Blaisdell stated to the acting mayor that the authorities of the town have relief work pretty well systematized now and that should there be occasion where they could not cope with the situation they would be thankful for the assistance that the people of Lowell and the officials might render. He told Mr. Miskella that Lowell has already done a great deal for the stricken district and that the prompt attention given the matter by Acting Mayor Miskella will not be forgotten.

OTHER PROPERTY DAMAGED.

In addition to the list of property damaged in the vicinity of the explosion as published in yesterday's Sun the houses of Joseph Bruce and Thomas McKee on Billerica street were both practically demolished, for the interior were reported cut.

Also, upper Lawrence street received considerable damage. The Waterhead and Faulkner mills had damaged doors and windows in large numbers. The tenement property owned by the Jenkins family in South Whipple street lost in detail count 50 panes of glass. All the down town mills were more or less affected, but could not reckon the number of panes lost. In many of the buildings the windows were open and hence the breakage was not as great as if they had been closed.

RESTAURANTS BUSY.

The restaurants are doing a land office business today. The number of visitors to Lowell, bound for South Lowell, is great. The street railway company put on extra cars this forenoon but even with an addition of cars the accommodation was not as good as it ought to be.

MISS WELCH'S HOUSE DAMAGED

The windows in the house of Miss Elizabeth Welch on the High street extension were nearly all smashed and a canary bird in a cage was instantly killed.

STONE FROM EXPLOSION.

A stone from the magazine fell a short distance from the house of William Grady on High street.

WINDOWS SMASHED.

The windows in Ed. Cawley's office on Rogers street were broken and Miss Crotty, the bookkeeper, was badly shocked.

There was a general wreck of windows at the Hooper Knitting company. Some of the girls were badly scared.

ARCANUM BUTTON

ON PIECE OF CLOTH FOUND BY OFFICER CLEMENTS.

All doubt as to the fate of Louis Richards was removed this morning when Officer Horace Clements found a piece of cloth on which was a Royal Arcanum button. The cloth was shown to a brother of Richards who immediately identified it as a piece of the coat worn by his unfortunate brother. Richards was secretary of Rochambeau Council, R. A., and always wore the button.

ADJT.-GEN. DALTON PRESENT.

Adjt. Gen. Dalton came to Lowell this noon and inspected the military arrangements provided. He found everything satisfactory and agreed with Acting Mayor Miskella that the guards should remain on duty another 24 hours.

MILITARY APPEARANCE.

The cordons of military men encircling the district devastated by the explosion, the tented headquarters of the militia captains and the commissary department, the silent guards pacing to and fro at the entrances give the appearance of a military camp and as one soldier remarked it will might be called "Camp Misery." It was a thoughtful act of Acting Mayor Miskella to get out the militia for so great was the territory covered that the police, numerous though they were could not keep back the immense crowds which came from all directions. The militia did its work well and was at its post throughout one of the most severe thunder storms of the season.

MRS. GUTHRIE'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Guthrie, a friend of the Riggs family, and her infant child had a most remarkable escape from the horrible fate that met Mrs. Riggs.

The woman with her child visited the home of Mrs. Riggs early yesterday morning. It was her intention to remain at the house for dinner, but about 8.45 o'clock the baby became troublesome and she decided to return to the city with the intention of returning in time for dinner. She had boarded the electric car and had just passed Stott's mill when the terrible crash came.

AN ARREST MADE

"Sheeney Mike" Caught by State Police

State Detectives Rhodes and Griffin arrested Michael Planstier, better known as "Sheeney Mike," who, it is alleged, is a well known pickpocket residing in Somerville.

It is alleged that he was "working" the crowded cars that were going to the scene of the devastation and that he was discovered by a man we know him, but "Mike" as soon as discovered jumped off the car and made his escape.

It was while poking through the ruins about 2 o'clock that State Officers Rhodes and Griffin spied him and immediately placed him under arrest. He denied that he was known as "Sheeney Mike" and said that he had just come to have a look at the ruins. He could not explain how he got through the lines, and as the whole of his story was very thin and the officers sent him to the local police station.

LEE—Herbert Lee, aged eight months, child of Willington and Carrie, died this morning at the home of his parents, 5 Albion street.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the interment was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

IN POLICE COURT.

The police court session this forenoon was a short one. A few old cases were continued and one drunken offender was fined $2.

LOWELL VETS

Taking Part in Haverhill Muster

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL Mass., July 30—Today was veteran firemen's day in this city and the parade which was held this forenoon before the principal streets of the city, was a big success and was witnessed by thousands of people. There were 18 tubs and companies in line, with a dozen bands and drum corps, and the companies participating were as follows:

Neptune of Newburyport, L. V. Spaulding of Haverhill, White Angel of Salem, Nonatum of Newton, Gardner No. 4 of Gardner, Deluge of North Cambridge, Hancock of Brockton, Columbia of Winchendon, City of Lawrence of Lawrence, Protector of Amesbury, City of Lowell of Lowell, City of Somerville of Somerville, Protector of East Haverhill, General Taylor of Everett, Red Jacket of Cambridge, Fountain of Exeter, N. H., Paul Revere of Revere, Twentieth Tiger of Newburyport.

WOMEN JUMPED

FOUR OF THEM IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Two speedy horses attached to a hack owned by Henry Dyer of Chelsea took fright in that city yesterday afternoon and ran away and the four women occupants of the hack had a thrilling experience. Two of them jumped out while the horses were going at full speed and sustained painful though not serious injuries. The other women remained in the hack and escaped without injury, though they were terribly frightened.

The team was driven by Henry Welch and was returning from a funeral service at Woodlawn cemetery. When Garfield avenue, Chelsea, was reached one of the horses kicked, pulling the reins from Mr. Welch's hands. Immediately Welch jumped from the seat and attempted to secure the reins, the ends of which were trailing on the street. He missed his footing, however, and fell to the ground. He was not injured and picked himself up and started after the horses, but they were too speedy for him and he had to give up the chase.

The animals sped down Garfield avenue, and when the women occupants—Mrs. Dearborn of the Waverley house, Charlestown; Mrs. George P. Knowlton of 39 Pearl street, Charlestown; Mrs. George P. Whitney and Mrs. Elizabeth Dickinson, the two latter of Groton—realized that the horses were without a driver they became frightened. Mrs. Dearborn and Mrs. Knowlton jumped from the hack. Mrs. Dearborn sustained injuries to her nose and wrist, and after the wounds were dressed she was assisted home by friends. Mrs. Knowlton was badly shaken up and was attended by a physician, after which she was removed to her home.

Along Garfield avenue the horses continued and rounded into Washington ave., where they were stopped by Motorman McLean of the Boston & Northern street railroad.

SHIRLEY'S BIG DAY

SPORTS, PUBLIC EXERCISES AND BAND CONCERTS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SHIRLEY, Mass., July 30 This was the principal day of the old home week celebration in Shirley. It was observed especially because it was the 150th anniversary of the town and a program including sports, a dinner, public exercises and band concerts had been prepared.

The anniversary dinner was served in the town hall. Melvin W. Longley, president of the Old Home Week association, presided. After singing by the school children, Hon. George J. Burns of Ayer delivered an historic address. Congressman Charles O. Tirrell of Natick, A. S. Pinkerton of Worcester, James Wilson Grimes of Reading also spoke.

NO RETALIATION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 3—The statement published in the American papers to the effect that there has been a change in the method of viseing passports for travelers intending to visit Russia is untrue.

The rule which has always been in force, and remains unchanged, is that ambassadors and consul generals may vise passports, but that honorary consuls may not.

HAVERHILL MAN APPOINTED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—At the meeting of the executive council today, Governor Bates made the following nominations:

Daniel W. Hammond of Haverhill, to be member of the district police, detective department.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Charles Applegate of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 53 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Goodale's Drug Store.

TALK OF STRIKE

Not So Prominent in Miller Case

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The talk of a strike against the reinstatement of W. A. Miller, the bookbinder, has entirely ceased.

There is great fear among the thousands of employes of the government printing office that if they go on strike they will be prosecuted on the charge of conspiring and interfering with the operations of the federal government.

There is a statute on the books, passed during the reconstruction period, which imposes heavy penalties, some as high as five years' imprisonment, for any interference with the operations of the government.

It is a dragnet statute and was intended for the protection of the officers of the federal government in the southern states. To a layman the law seems to cover conspiracies such as a strike would probably be held to be if a court were asked to pass upon it.

Additional charges were filed today against Miller. They are called additional although Secretary Cortelyou and Public Printer Palmer regard them were as reiterations of those filed heretofore.

President Barrett of the bookbinders' union took occasion to say that the criticisms of the action of the president in reinstating Miller credited to individual members are not to be taken as representing the attitude of the union.

"We recognize the fact," he said, "that the president merely did his duty, and that if there is any reason for criticising what has occurred, it is the law-making body that is entitled to receive it."

The civil service commission is going over its records for the purpose of showing, if called upon, that the unions, in times past, have practically compelled the public printer to violate the spirit, if not the letter of the classified service law, by having men dismissed for no other reason than that they had incurred the enmity of a majority of their fellow workmen who, all being members of the union, first expelled them and in that way made it appear to the public printer that they were no longer fit to be in the public service.

President Proctor will take a synopsis of what is found to Oyster Bay, where he will probably arrive before the end of the week. He left the city today.

JUMPED INTO RIVER

HARRY FREEMAN TRIED TO END HIS LIFE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Harry Freeman, aged 25 years, residing at 939 Harrison avenue, while suffering from delirium tremens about 2.30 yesterday afternoon, attempted to commit suicide by jumping off the Charlestown bridge into the Charles river, a distance of about 25 feet.

The attention of Thomas R. Pollard, one of the draw tenders at the bridge, and Charles Bishop of 48 Henley street, and Charles DeRocher of 96 Monument street, Charlestown, was attracted to the scene and the three jumped into the bridge boat and went out to Freeman, whom they pulled out of the water. He was removed to the city prison in the police wagon.

RICHARDS DISCHARGED

CHAUFFEUR NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR GIRL'S DEATH.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, July 30.—Coroner Mix yesterday concluded his investigation into the death of Catarina Velleca, a little girl killed on Monday by an automobile.

The coroner places no criminal responsibility on the occupants of the automobile and Chauffeur William H. Richards, who has been held in bonds of $1000, was released from custody.

All the witnesses testified that the speed of the automobile was moderate and that the child ran directly in front of the machine.

STRIKE ORDERED

BUT NOT MANY HAVE LEFT WORK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., July 30.—While a strike has been declared against the American Hardware corporation of this city by the national body of the Molders' union, there is little sign of it about the factories or streets. Less than 30 molders, about one-fourth of the number employed, quit work today. The strikers' committee say they will have all the molders out by Saturday night. Their grievance is over a question of wages.

BACK TO WORK

TRANSFER COMPANY WILL RECOGNIZE THE UNION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—The drivers of the New York Transfer company who went on strike yesterday, resumed work today, their demand for recognition of their union having been granted.

"A satisfactory understanding has been reached and a contract has been made with the union. Much baggage has accumulated, but it all will be cleared away in a few hours."

EXPECTED AT ATLANTIC CITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ATLANTIC CITY, July 30.—It was expected that Charles M. Schwab and family would arrive here yesterday but they did not. Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad said they had received an order from Mr. Schwab to take his private car Loretto to this city but later the order had been countermanded. It was learned that Mr. Schwab's agent in this city has been negotiating for the rental of a month or more, at $1500 a month, of the cottage owned by Clarence M. Busch, former state printer of Pennsylvania.

TEN KILLED

Troops Fired a Volley at Striking Workmen

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—Ten striking workmen were killed and eighteen wounded as the result of a volley fired by troops at Mikhailovo, on the Tiflis-Batoum railway, July 28. The strikers attempted to stop trains and a detachment of 40 soldiers was summoned. They were greeted with a shower of stones and some revolver shots. After repeated warnings had been given the strikers, the troops were ordered to fire.

The street car service at Odessa is suspended in consequence of a strike of drivers and conductors for higher wages. The employes are preventing the cars from leaving the sheds.

FINE OF $500

AND A JAIL SENTENCE FOR JANTZEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—Adolph J. Jantzen, for years "Al." Adams' right hand man, was today sentenced to four months in the penitentiary and fined $500. Jantzen pleaded guilty to having policy slips in his possession.

HERBERT SMITH

APPOINTED TO A POSITION BY SECRETARY CORTELYOU.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Secretary Cortelyou announced today that Herbert Knox Smith had been appointed deputy commissioner of corporations in the department of commerce and labor.

Mr. Smith is a resident of Hartford, Conn., a graduate from Yale and a member of the bar of Connecticut. He was a member of the judiciary commission of the Connecticut legislature and has given particular attention to the various measures relating to corporation laws.

POLYGAMY CHARGE

ERNEST B. THOMPSON PLACED UNDER ARREST.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Ernest B. Thompson was arrested here today, charged with polygamy. It is alleged that he married Margaret E. Mitchell in Sanford, Eng., in 1896 and went through the ceremony again with Jessie R. McNutt in this city in 1899.

REAR ADMIRAL COTTON

WILL BE PRESENTED TO MEMBERS OF ROYAL FAMILY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LISBON, Portugal, July 30.—Rear Admiral Cotton, commanding the United States European squadron now in these waters, will be presented today to Crown Prince Louis Philippe and to the Infante Manuel, second son of King Charles, who will accompany his majesty when he visits the American warships.

WON GOODWOOD CUP.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 30.—Rebiase won the Goodwood cup (of 2000 sovereigns, for three year olds and upwards, two miles and a half) at the Goodwood race meeting today. Cappa White was second and Merry Saint came in third. Eight horses ran.

SCORED 87 RUNS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CARDIFF, Wales, July 30.—The Philadelphian cricketers today began a match here with a Glamorganshire eleven. At lunch time the home players had scored 87 runs in their first innings, for eight wickets down.

HIS LEG BROKEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—John Gallagher, 40 years old, married, living at 15 Bristol street, Cambridge, a fireman at the power house of the elevated railroad on George street, Charlestown, fell from a platform last evening, a distance of 10 feet, and broke his right leg. He was taken to the City hospital in an ambulance.

STRIKE OF PAPER MILLS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 30—The strike of Yulon Rag & Paper Co. employes has ended and the men reported for work today on the same terms as prevailed when the mills were shut down by the firemen's strike for an eight hour day and a $2 a day wages four weeks ago.

ELECTRIC CO. REORGANIZED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

OMAHA, Neb., July 30.—The Omaha electric light and power company, a recently organized $3,000,000 corporation, will take over the property of the Omaha Thomson-Houston electric light company August 1, together with the two lighting companies of Council Bluffs. Floating indebtedness of $400,000 and bonded indebtedness of $298,000 will be taken up and new bonds to the extent of $1,500,000 issued. The new company is organized under the laws of the state of Maine and a number of its heavy stockholders are residents of Boston. There will be no change in the management of affairs of the concern.

REPRIEVE GRANTED

MAN WAS TO HAVE BEEN HANGED TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 30—Felix Hall, a negro, who was sentenced to be hanged here today, has had his life saved and probably will regain his liberty. He was identified by T. M. Morrissey of Vicksburg yesterday as Henry Jackson, who says the negro was in Louisiana at the time of the killing of Norwood Clark, of whose death he was convicted.

Hall has claimed all along that his name was Henry Jackson. He said he could not establish the alibi at the trial because he could not get his witnesses located in time.

Gov. Jelks has telegraphed a reprieve, and Hall probably will be set at liberty as soon as necessary legal forms can be complied with.

NEW PROFESSORS

HAVE BEEN APPOINTED TO COLBY COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WATERVILLE, Me., July 30.—Rev. Hugh Ross Hatch of Wolfville, N. S., has been appointed professor of mathematics at Colby college to succeed Prof. L. F. Warren, resigned.

Mr. Hatch was graduated from Colby in the class of 1890. He studied three years at the Newton theological seminary and was ordained at Hesboro, Me., in 1895. That same year he returned to Newton seminary as professor of the Old Testament, remaining four years, when he went to Wolfville. He married the daughter of the late Rev. N. D. Curtis of Fairfield.

Dr. Freeman Parmenter of Brown university, has been appointed professor of chemistry to succeed the late Prof. Elder, who died on commencement day this year.

GETTING BETTER

ALLEN ABLE TO TAKE A FEW STEPS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30.—C. Endicott Allen, the Harvard man who awoke yesterday after an almost continuous sleep of 44 days at the Monmouth Memorial hospital, Long Branch, sat up in a wheel chair the greater part of yesterday. By Saturday his physician, Dr. Walter S. Whitmore, expects to take him out for a drive.

"I attribute his recovery," said Dr. Whitmore today, "partly, if not wholly to the use of electricity. I have been treating Mr. Allen for about two weeks first by an uninterrupted current to get him used to it and then by an alternating current, to produce shock. He is now perfectly rational.

"I have talked with Mr. Allen about his peculiar case. I am satisfied that his condition was not due to overwork, as was at first reported but to shock. He was sent to J. Hood Wright hospital in New York for an operation but it was never performed.

"Allen told me he could recognize his mother at his bedside at times when he appeared unconscious, but that he was unable to speak. He recollects his trip down to Red Hook on the river but the six weeks which has intervened in which he has slept nearly all the time is almost a complete blank."

Allen is quite weak but he is gaining strength. He took a few steps yesterday.

BISHOP BURGESS

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MATTITUCK, L. I., July 30.—Bishop Frederick Burgess of the Episcopal diocese of Long island, and the Rev. William A. Wasson, formerly rector of the Church of the Redeemer here, have had a narrow escape from drowning in Peconic bay.

Bishop Burgess is Mr. Wasson's guest at his cottage on Peconic bay. Mr. Wasson took the bishop out on the bay in a boat, when suddenly a violent gust of wind struck the boat and in an instant the craft capsized and both men were thrown into the water. Fortunately a sailing party from the Mattituck house saw the accident and rescued the men.

CARRIED DEAD CHILD

MOTHER HAD LITTLE ONE IN HER ARMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 30.—When a New York Central train pulled in from the east early yesterday a woman, poorly clad, stepped from a car followed by four small children.

In her arms she carried the dead body of a 6-months-old infant. The child had died on the train of cholera infantum.

The woman said her name was Pearson and that she was en route from Boston to join her husband in Chicago.

The child had died between Syracuse and Rochester.

ADRIFT IN DORY

Woman Was Half Dead When Recovered

She Started to Row to Her Home and One of the Oars Broke—The Dory Drifted 75 Miles Out to Sea and Mrs. Carter Had Given up All Hope

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCKLAND, Maine, July 30.—News was brought here today by the steamer Vinal Haven that after being adrift in a dory 48 hours and blown 75 miles out to sea during the gale of Monday, Mrs. Carter of Monroe Island, formerly Miss Clara Pease of Bangor, was picked up yesterday afternoon by a fishing schooner Hazel Oneta, Captain William Matonsen of Gloucester, 30 miles east of Mt. Desert rock. The woman, who was half dead from exhaustion and the effects of large quantities of salt water taken to quench her thirst, was carried to Long Island, where she revived during the night sufficiently to relate her experience. She was expected to recover.

The news was brought here today by the steamer Vinal Haven.

Mrs. Carter said she left Owl's Head Sunday to row to her home, at Monroe Island about three quarters of a mile. One of the oars broke and she drifted to sea, passing unnoticed by several pleasure craft just at dusk. During the gale which swept the coast and continued all day Monday she became hysterical and abandoning all hope of rescue, she drank large quantities of the sea water. She passed vessels at sea, but the weather was so rough she was not seen. She laid down and must have fallen asleep for she remembers nothing more.

Mrs. Carter was 47 years old and went to Monroe Island two years ago from Bangor. Parties in boats had been searching for her since Monday morning.

BROKEN GLASS

Plenty of It Around the City

There is more broken glass in Lowell than ever before in her history. The concussion caused by the explosion shattered glass right and left and in some instances it played funny pranks. In the rear of the Talbot Clothing company's store in Central street a number of small windows were peculiarly dealt with. There are about 18 in all and every other window was broken. These peculiar freaks indulged in by explosions and lightning are hard to explain. Why the concussion should break a window, skip a window and break another and continue to do so until a gauntlet of 18 was run is something that the scientist will have to explain. The man who tells us that we heard no noise when the explosion occurred, that what we felt was only a sound wave may be able to tell us why the concussion in its frolic discriminated with the windows above mentioned.

Speaking of broken glass it is not irrelevant to mention the fact that C. B. Coburn & Co., with a keen eye to business, inserted a "glass" ad. on the front page of The Sun yesterday and the result was that the company after engaging all means of transportation obtainable delivered glass in an automobile.

WEEDING OUT

WORK BEGUN IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRISTOL, R. I., July 30—The weeding out process in the tennis tournament for the championship of Rhode Island has progressed since the first of the week as far as the semi-finals in singles, which were begun this forenoon on the association courts. R. H. Carleton and G. L. Wyeth, crack players, battled for two hours, with the result that the former was victorious, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. A large number of spectators witnessed the match. Carleton was obliged to cease playing several times during the match in order to receive medical attention because of a sprained wrist.

MADE A MIDSHIPMAN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30.—John Quincy Adams of Pennsylvania passed both physical and mental examinations to the naval academy, and was today sworn in as a midshipman.

Constipation Cured

Good Health is Utterly Impossible Unless the Waste Products of the Body are Cut Rid of—A Safe, Natural Remedy is to Be Had From Any Druggist.

Constipation isn't pleasant to discuss—it's unpleasant from any standpoint, but if you are constipated you are sick and will be sickness unless relieved.

The first question the doctor asks is, "How are your bowels?" The first thing he does is to make them act naturally.

If there were no such thing as constipation nine-tenths of the suffering from disease would be done away with, because there would be very little disease.

Nature has provided you with bowels and kidneys that your system may be kept free from poisons.

She has tied up the nutritive elements of all food in a mass of indigestible material, from which it is freed in the process of digestion.

If this undigested portion of the food is not removed through the bowels it simply lies in the intestines and rots, causing pain and disease.

Iron Ox Tablets not only relieve, but permanently cure constipation.

Remember Iron-Ox Tablets are not purgative or cathartic in their effect; they are tonic-laxative; they cure by building up the entire system. Purgatives and cathartics give only temporary relief by violent and injurious action—they do far more harm than good.

Anything which shocks the system into activity is dangerous. Do not expect immediate perceptible effects from Iron-Ox Tablets. They produce a natural, regular building up of all the functions. This takes a little time, but success is absolutely certain.

Fifty Iron-Ox Tablets in an attractive aluminum pocket-case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-Ox Remedy Co., Detroit, Mich.

SAINT'S RELICS

Will be Exposed for Adoration

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—The coming ceremonies at the monastery at Saroff promise to be very interesting. The relics of Saint Seraphim will be exposed for adoration after five days of religious exercises. These relics have been installed in a solid silver casket beneath a silver baldachin. The expense of the installation was borne by the emperor from his private purse.

Most elaborate preparations have been made for the celebration. All of the pomp and magnificence of the eastern church, with its most impressive and elaborate ceremonies, its imposing processions and its solemn liturgies will be employed.

RULES CHANGED

TO FAVOR CHINESE COMING TO ST. LOUIS FAIR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Taking note of the criticisms that have been passed at home and abroad on the application of the Chinese exclusion laws to the incoming of Chinese who are to set up the Chinese exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, the president has directed a considerable change in the existing rules.

The amended rules are now in press and it is said will make the entry of Chinese, who are not attempting to evade the exclusion laws, easy.

The Chinese minister here has expressed his satisfaction with the changes.

VISITED RELATIVES

GOLD WATCHES AND MONEY ARE MISSING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 30.—Solomon Markovitz of 19 Lowell street and Mrs. E. Marcus of 21 Lowell street had a caller yesterday. The caller, who gave the name of Jacob Goldberg, said he resided in California and claimed relationship with both his host and hostess. He made such a fine appearance and he had such a smooth manner of talking that he greatly impressed Markovitz. After talking for some time Goldberg bade his "relatives" farewell. On his departure Markovitz claimed that a gold hunting case watch, which he valued highly, also disappeared.

On leaving Markovitz, Goldberg made his way to the house of Mrs. Marcus. After discharging much hot air he had her convinced that a relationship existed between them. They talked over old times, and when he left 21 Lowell street $20 belonging to Mrs. Marcus left with him, so she says.

It was some time after his departure that the two "relatives" discovered their losses, and then there was weeping in Lowell street. Markovitz reported both cases to Capt. Peabody of station 3. He said Goldberg is about 28 years old, stands about 5 feet 7, weighs 140 pounds, wore a blue suit and white soft hat and has a dark mustache.

The police are on his trail and hope to land the "poor relation" today.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30 The ex-cup defender Columbia left here this morning in tow of the tender Park City for City Island, where she will be laid up for the season.

The Reliance and Constitution are still at their moorings in the outer harbor and will remain here for some time to tune up.

LASTERS STRIKE

Price of Lasting Was Reduced

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., July 30.—Twenty lasters employed by the G. E. Nicholson company, shoe manufacturers, are on strike because of a reduction in the lasting price. The concern is running a free shop, having recently surrendered the stamp of the Boot & Shoe Workers' union and ended the strike of the Knights of Labor cutters and stitchers.

SENATOR HANNA

SAYS DEPRESSION IS CONFINED TO WALL STREET.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30.—Momentous matters were discussed at the Casino yesterday by one of the most interesting groups of men ever gathered within its walls.

The central figure was Senator Marcus A. Hanna, and those who were with him in animated conversation were August Belmont, head of the great banking house of Belmont, and Richard T. Wilson, another keen-witted financier, father of Lady Herbert, Mrs. Ogden Goelet Belmont, and Richard T. Wilson, and is quite a well known for the marriages his daughters have made as he is for the millions which he has amassed.

For nearly two hours Messrs. Belmont and Wilson talked with the senator from Ohio.

Senator Hanna stood during the earlier part of the conference, but later his lameness overcame him, and he was obliged to seek the comfort of a settee, whither his companions followed him.

Senator Hanna thinks the country in a very prosperous condition, and that there is no business depression whatever outside of Wall street.

About 1 o'clock the group separated, Senator and Mrs. Hanna, who had joined her husband, driving to Oakwood Terrace, where they took lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamlin of Buffalo.

Senator Wetmore gave a dinner last evening in honor of Senator Hanna.

A BIG SLICE

MADE IN EXPENSES IN THE PHILIPPINES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANILA, July 30.—The U. S. Philippine commission has been conducting a detailed examination of the heads of the various departments of the government, forcing on them a general policy of retrenchment.

The commissioners have investigated the estimates, cut down items, substituted Filipinos in subordinate positions formerly assigned to Americans, and have impressed on the chiefs that they must follow the McKinley policy of the elevation of the Filipinos.

As a result of the commission's action, it is estimated that the budget for the half-year will be reduced from $5,209,408 to $4,216,165 for the insular departments, and for the city of Manila from $1,407,034 to $969,015, exclusive of permanent improvements, which will be made a separate charge. The budget bill has not yet been passed.

The commission has adopted a new arrangement for the appropriations, because previous statements contained overestimates to the amount of about $1,000,000, which is being returned to the treasury, and it is expected that the insular expenses will show a general reduction of 8 to 10 percent.

THE CUBAN LOAN

MAY BE FLOATED IN GREAT BRITAIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 30.—If Cuba fails to float her proposed loan of $35,000,000 in the United States she will have no difficulty in doing so here.

Several British financiers who have been approached on the subject by the marquis of Montoro, Cuban minister to Great Britan, have indicated their willingness to subscribe. But the minister is unable to commit the Cuban government, because of lack of instruction from President Palma.

Minister Montoro understands that Senor Palma will soon decide where and how the loan will be floated, and he has promised to communicate the information, when authorized to do so, to the interested parties.

We are told there is no politics in in the school board. That is always the assumption when the republicans have things their own way, just as some newspapers claim to be non-partisan when they are uniformly republican.

The high school is to have a five hours' session hereafter and military drill is to be retained. Other cities have a five hours' session, some have longer. Five hours a day it seems should not injure boys and girls of high school age.

PLACING THE BLAME FOR THE DISASTER.

In order to understand more fully whether negligence contributed to the cause of the terrible catastrophe in which the magazines of the United States Cartridge company and the American Powder company were blown up, it will be necessary to explain the nature of the explosives stored in the magazines and the care required to avoid an explosion.

Dynamite as generally manufactured consists of certain solids such as infusorial earth, porcelain earth, coal dust, siliceous ashes or the like with about three times its weight of nitro glycerine.

To the eye it is a grayish brown, reddish or blackish powder, damp and greasy to the touch and without smell. It is sufficiently hard to be handled in bars or cakes and in this form if handled carefully is not particularly dangerous.

Dynamite is merely a combination of solids designed to carry the nitro glycerine which is the most powerful explosive known.

A high authority says that even when pure, nitro glycerine is liable at a heat of 70 degrees or less to undergo decomposition into glycerine, acids and gases, which exerting pressure on the liquids renders it so prone to explosion that even a slight concussion is attended with danger. The impure commercial compound decomposes more rapidly than the pure nitro glycerine and may from this cause be dangerously self-explosive even while standing quietly.

A case is related in which a workman at a quarry was set to clean a wagon on which were traces of nitro glycerine. He scraped it off with a piece of slate and when done threw the slate into the wagon with slight force but sufficient to cause an explosion which blew the wagon to pieces.

This shows the extreme care that must be used in handling nitro glycerine. The fall of a tool like a crowbar, a spade or shovel might be sufficient to cause the explosion where the floor was saturated with nitro glycerine. According to the statement of the Cartridge company nitro glycerine had leaked from the dynamite to the floor and even under a partition leaving streaks upon the floor. It was for this reason that the floor was to be removed.

Now it will be noticed that the gang of men furnished by the U. S. Cartridge company to remove the powder and dynamite from the magazines was sent there not to handle nitro glycerine or guard against its dangerous character. They were sent there to remove dynamite and gunpowder.

There seems to have been no special caution or care about the nitro glycerine upon the floor. Had there been any such caution or care the company would have sent a man authorized and licensed by the state to handle explosives, to superintend the work; but was this done?

Was Louis Richards so authorized? Was the boy, James Leo Grady, who had been in the employ of the Cartridge company but two weeks to be expected to exercise the necessary care on a floor streaming with nitro-glycerine? The answer is obvious.

Almeda Belanger, another boy who had been in the employ of the company but six weeks, was also a member of the gang. He is at the hospital at the point of death. Was he a proper person to select for the handling of dynamite on a floor soaked with nitro glycerine?

The company that sent such a gang of men to perform such work is in our opinion, guilty of criminal negligence.

It is to be presumed that the boxes and cases which were to be removed were of considerable weight. When the men took them in hand the pressure of their feet upon the floor may have been enough to cause the explosion.

The company will try to wriggle out of the responsibility by saying that it was merely an accident but due care prevents such accidents and the care necessary in this case was not exercised by the company that undertook the work for the American Powder company.

That company owning and leasing the magazine is primarily responsible. The others with the exception of the Du Pont Powder company, which had no explosives there, were merely the tenants or lessees of the premises under the U. S. Cartridge company, but they too are culpable.

Here then are the plain conclusions that seem to be forced upon the investigator of this terrible disaster—First, the United States Cartridge company and its copartners in the magazines are criminally liable for maintaining such a menace to life and property at the doors of a large number of residents. Second, the U. S. Cartridge Co. would have been criminally negligent in sending a gang of inexperienced men to remove the powder and dynamite under the most favorable conditions.

Third, the leakage of the nitro glycerine from the dynamite and its saturation of the floor made the case one in which the most extreme care was necessary. It was a case that called for the presence of an expert on explosives. No expert was present. No man was present who had a license from the government to handle explosives. On this ground especially the company exercised the most gross and criminal negligence.

No doubt a large umber of experts on explosives will now be produced to show that the company was not to blame but a single expert on the scene to direct and superintend the work of removing the explosives, could have prevented the disaster and the consequent destruction of life and property.

The cartridge company seems to make much of the fact that their powder had been removed when the explosion occurred; but that cannot relieve them from responsibility for the work of inexperienced men upon the magazine which they had leased to the American Powder company. The latter company had a right to assume that the Cartridge company would have reliable men to do the work. But all the companies that held joint ownership or occupancy of the magazine should be held jointly responsible for the disaster that wiped out so many lives and caused such destruction of property not only in the immediate vicinity but for miles around.

Aftermath of the Quincy Riot

By Associated Press to The Sun

QUINCY, Mass., July 31.—As an aftermath of the riot in Quincy woods last Sunday, between picknickers from Cambridge and residents of Quincy, James P. Riley of Cambridge was arraigned before Judge Avery in district court here yesterday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Simon Bennett and James F. Mullen. Owing to the condition of the alleged victims of Riley, who are in the hospital where slight hopes are entertained for their recovery, that case was continued to Aug. 12 and the court increased the bail to $5000 for the assault on Bennett and $2000 for the assault on Mullen. Prior to the arraignment, Riley was taken to the hospital where Mullen identified him as his assailant. In default of bail, Riley was taken to Dedham jail.

Grocers Had Great Time at Canobie Lake

The grocers and butchers of this city, Nashua and surrounding towns held their annual picnic at Canobie lake yesterday. There were over 500 present and they had the best time imaginable.

The sports were the main attraction and of these there were sufficient to satisfy all. A baseball contest between the clerks of Nashua and Lowell was the principal event of the day. The Lowell boys appeared to be the stronger of the two, and before the game was over they gave visible evidence of this fact. The Nashuans were no match at all for their Lowell brothers, who had things their own way from the start and won, 6 to 4.

The other sports were carried off in the majority of cases by Lowell men, including the potato race.

The committee on sports consisted of Richard J. McCluskey, George F. McGuire and John McCullough.

FREIGHT RATES

Will be Advanced on August 1

Freight rates on the Boston & Maine railroad will be advanced on Aug. 1, to meet the exceptionally heavy increase in the cost of maintaining and running the property. Other lines in New England have taken similar action, with very little protest from shipping interests, and it is to be assumed that the patrons of the Boston & Maine will likewise acquiesce.

The increase will be horizontal, that is, it will go down the whole length of the class freight line and make an advance of 1 per cent. per 100 pounds. This raise is not as great as some of the other companies have made, but it is expected to be sufficient to offset to great part the additional cost of labor and materials required in maintaining the service.

There will be one exception in the application of the new tariffs. In that, where present rates between stations for any one of the six classes are respectively 45 cents, 40 cents, 31 cents, 21½ cents, 19 cents and 17 cents or higher no increase will be made.

These figures do not apply to commodity rates, as they are fixed by joint action of the various lines over which merchandise under this classification is moved.

Justification for the impending increase in freight charges is found in the fact that the new pay roll of the Boston & Maine railroad, which went into effect July 1, calls for an additional outlay on account of labor of more than $800,000 per year.

Then come the extra outlay for coal. As compared with the conditions before the strike for three or four years past, at least $500,000 has been added to this item alone. Locomotives that heretofore cost $10,000 are now quoted at $15,000. In the matter of ties, and the company purchases no less than 1,400,000 of them each year, the price has been advanced from 31 cents to 45 cents, making a total increase of nearly $200,000 in this feature of roadway maintenance.

Consideration should also be given to the fact that the cost of every necessity used by a railroad has been marked up from 10 to 50 per cent. As the resources of a railroad have limitations, it will be seen that in order to maintain its efficiency and keep it from the slough of bankruptcy its revenues must be increased when the drain becomes excessive, and it is this protection that the president seeks to give the property in raising freight charges.

JUDGE GRAY

ACCEPTS PLACE ON ARBITRATION BOARD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WILMINGTON, Del., July 31.—Judge George Gray decided yesterday to accept his appointment as the fifth member of the Alabama coal commission and has so telegraphed the other members of the commission at Atlantic City. He made his acceptance conditional, however, upon the commission's work being done during August, as he will have to preside over a session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in September. In order to attend to the commission work he will have to forego his usual August vacation.

RUSSELL SAGE

His Only Recreation in Wall Street

HE CANNOT RESIST DABBLING IN THE MARKET

His Wife Wanted Him to Retire

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"If all that one hears about Wall street is true, it seems to me that it is more like an insane asylum than a place where men congregate to carry on business in a peaceful, law-abiding manner. Some years ago curiosity led me to visit the stock exchange to see whether it really was a menagerie of bulls and bears. My curiosity was satisfied. When I heard of the excitement down there the other day, I tried to persuade my husband to stay away, but he would mix in the fray, as he calls it. I have been trying to persuade him that he has worked long and hard enough to spend the remainder of his years in peace. But he has been at it so constantly that business has become a necessity with him. He seems to care for no other sort of recreation. We have enough to live on comfortably for the balance of our lives and nobody should need any more than that."

This statement was made yesterday by Mrs. Russell Sage at the old Sage home in 5th avenue, near 42nd street, while she was giving her impressions and opinions of the recent Wall street flurry which marked a decrease of $2,500,000,000 in security values.

She dubbed as a canard the report that her husband has suffered from an attack of vertigo, brought on by worry during the recent semipanic, and declared that neither he nor she had ever felt better in their lives than they do at the present time.

"Stocks and bonds once interested me very much," she admitted with a smile, "but now, beyond keeping conversationally posted on finance, I suppose I am a tyro. Money is to me only a means to an end, and I believe that when a person has accumulated enough to be comfortable on he should cease piling up more. Of course, money-making becomes a passion if permitted to engross the whole attention of a person, and that is what should be guarded against.

"Society women and women in general," resumed Mrs. Sage, "have been criticised for wasting their time on frivolous things when they should devote more of it to their families and to charity. Why, it takes as much strength and brains and nerve force for a woman to preside over a handsome home or manage a family of children as it does for a man to wear himself out on the stock exchange. As for women being extravagant, most of the so-called ruinous extravagance of women is practiced by those who are trying to buy their way into society. They are very foolish women and should be blushed for. This is always an expensive undertaking and one that no well bred womanly woman would ever be guilty of. The latter makes her own place in her own sphere.

"One of the greatest banes of our American women is this falling under the blandishments of titled, fortune-hunting foreigners. Some men of title make good husbands. The majority do not, according to record.

"My remedy for this social disease is for our American girls to postpone their marriages until they reach years of discretion, and when they are convinced that there is genuine affection—go to the altar."

Mrs. Sage paused and searched among a number of memoranda for a notice that had come to her attention recently of a young New York woman who had made the mistake of turning over all her wealth to her husband.

"This young matron," she continued, "told me the other day that she did it because she thought she could trust her husband with her fortune if she could with her life and happiness. What is the result? She has to skimp along on a mere pittance of an allowance, which she has to beg from him. He is not squandering her money. He has put it to excellent use and is adding to it all the time. But his wife is a pauper in the vital sense of the word.

"A wife should have an allowance—not a carte blanche order on her grocer and milliner for what the household needs—but a regular cash allowance, or salary. Several women in this city whose husbands are worth millions are driven to borrow money from tradespeople and have it put on their bills. That is an outrage."

Reverting to the marriage problem, Mrs. Sage declared that no young man should burden himself with such responsibilities until his position was assured.

"Love in a cottage is quite romantic, but human nature is alike the world over and will not be denied. Some women will always be envious of their more fortunate sisters. A man should be pretty well fixed financially before he is married, if he would live happily in New York."

JUDGE PARKER

Is Not a Candidate for President

PREFERS TO REMAIN ON THE BENCH

Where He is Happy and Contented

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"I have had nothing to do with politics, except to vote, since 1884. The party has not needed me."

This was said by Chief Judge Alton B. Parker to a correspondent of the Newark Evening News, who visited him at his home, at Esopus-on-the-Hudson, and called his attention to the statement that he was a presidential possibility on the democratic ticket. Continuing, Judge Parker said:

"I take it that this is an interview we are now having. I want to say frankly, so there will be no misunderstanding, that I cannot be interviewed on the subject of whether or not I am a consideration in the political condition of my party, nor upon any political question whatever."

The judge was then asked if there was any phase of modern presidential campaigning he would care to talk about.

"I don't object to saying that I believe the time between the nominating convention and election seems too long," he replied. "It keeps the country disturbed for too long a period. Before the advent of the telegraph, the newspapers and the railroad in their present stage of development, it required time to present to the people the great questions of the day, and the issues as to men and measures. In the days of our forefathers, orators and political stump speakers travelled on horseback or on foot, and the newspapers, when compared with those of today, were slow mediums for the dissemination of news. Even the farmers in those days are reading the daily newspapers to a large extent, instead of the weeklies of former days and of former generations. It might be that the country would welcome a cutting down of the campaign period."

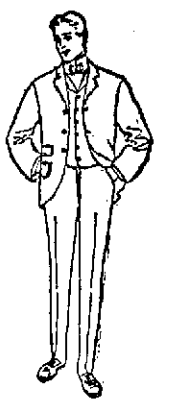

"Your southern trip, Judge, centred a great deal of interest upon yourself as a presidential candidate," the correspondent said.

"That trip was planned a year before and had no significance whatever, except the fulfilling of a promise I had made to my friend, the chief justice of the supreme court of the state of Georgia," was his response.

"I will explain my position to you," continued the judge, "so you can understand why I cannot talk upon the subject you have mentioned. I went on the bench to make it my life work. It is congenial to me, and I am very happy and contented. I am with my family here in my home. I usually take them to Albany for three or four months during the winter, and when it is necessary for me to be away during the other months of the year I can run down from Albany every week.

"If I behave myself I can remain on the bench for life. The salary is ample. The New York state court of appeals pays its judges larger salaries than the United States supreme court. I shall remain on the bench. It is my ideal."

D. J. Murphy Co.

Dear Sirs:—In regard to your Rheumatism Cure I must say that I cannot say enough in its praise. Two years ago I induced my wife to give it a trial, very much against her will, as she had about tired of medicine. She had tried about every patent medicine on the calendar and several doctors with little or no relief. She had been a sufferer with Rheumatism for seven years, at times so bad she could not sleep nights. Before she had taken the fourth bottle she felt completely cured, but took two more before she stopped, which is two years ago, and has not felt a pain or ache of it since, and I know of at least two others that I told about it that it has cured.

Yours truly,

P. A. MACKENZIE.

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Lands by Defeating Manchester

Game Was Won on a Wild Throw by Leith in the Last Inning With Cross on Third—Lowell Will Try Pitcher McCarthy

With the score a tie in the last inning and Low Cross on third base, Pitcher Leith of Manchester made a wild pitch yesterday and the day was won by Lowell.

The game was played in a rain storm and once it was necessary to delay the proceedings temporarily but it was finished out all right and Lowell went into second place.

Lowell batted Miller out of the box in two innings and Leith succeeded him. The latter was quite effective.

Hafford was Lowell's star performer and he excelled both at the bat and in the field. Matty Hickey made a somersault catch in the seventh inning that alone was worth the price of admission.

A large attendance enjoyed the fun, despite the threatening weather and the many counter attractions.

The game in detail:

First inning: Rapp led off for Manchester with a hit down third base line. Murray fanned and Smith flied to McLaughlin. Swander then sent the ball on a line to Hickey who threw wide to Bighte. Swander was safe, but Rapp in trying to make home on the play was thrown out at the plate by Bighie who recovered quickly. Hafford opened up for the Lakelings with a single to left and Cassidy walked. Bighie in trying to sacrifice caused Hafford to be headed off at third. Hickey flied to Clark but Merritt followed with a single to centre upon which Cassidy tallied. Merritt then stole second and Cote in throwing to third for Bighie hit that player on the arm with the ball and Bighie found the walking easy to the plate.

Score, Lowell 2; Manchester 0.

Second inning: Manchester went out in order in the second. With two gone, Connors dropped the ball in front of the plate and Miller could not field it in time to get him at first. Then came Hafford with his home run. Cassidy singled but Bighie was out at first. Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 0.

Third inning: Three hits, an error and an infield out gave Manchester 2 runs in the third. Cote opened with a safe slam to right garden and Leith placed one in short centre. Rapp followed with a sharp poke to Grant upon which Cote might have travelled to the plate. But he didn't and the bases were filled. Murray was then retired at first by Hickey but Cote tallied and Smith pushed out a fly to left which Cassidy dropped and Leith registered. Bighie, a moment later, found a sharp grounder from Swander in his mittens and he very thoughtfully sent the ball to second, forcing Smith. Swander stole second, but Clark struck out. Lowell was retired in order.

Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 2.

With two men gone in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings the Lakelings got men on bases whom they were unable to push around the whole way.

Manchester made a strenuous protest because Kane was called out in the fourth, Bighie dropping the ball on a throw from Hafford, but he umpire ruled that the ball was knocked out of the first baseman's hands by the runner. Cote followed with a hit and Miller shot one past second upon which McLaughlin fell down, but there were already two out and Rapp made the third.

In the fifth, Smith walked with one gone and Swander hit safely, but Smith tried unsuccessfully to sneak second on Merritt, and Cassidy made a fine capture off Clark. In the sixth and ninth the visitors sent but one man to first on passes and neither was advanced, while in the eighth they were retired, one, two, three.

There was no further scoring from that point until the seventh when Rapp ripped out a double and Murray followed with a triple. Swander scored Murray by flying to Connors in right. In this inning Smith walked and Kane placed a single in right but after Swander had been retired by the ely route, Clark flied to Bighie and Knau forced Kane at second. Score, 4 to 2.

Ninth inning: Lew Cross was the first Lakelng on the scene in the ninth and he selected a secluded spot in left field which netted him two bases. Connors tried to sacrifice him to third but after having two strikes called on him he laid the wood to the sphere with all his strength and while not intending to do so, he advanced Cross along a peg and went out himself, Leith to Kane. Hafford was disposed of at first, making two out and then with Cassidy at the bat, Leith made the slip-up that lost the game.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Lowell at Manchester.
Concord at Nashua.
Haverhill at Lawrence.
Fall River at New Bedford.

Tim McCarthy, the T. R. & T.'s wizard will be given a try-out with the Lowells tomorrow. He joined the team yesterday and made quite an impression with the fans while warming up with Billy Merritt.

The T. R. & T.'s will meet the strong Andover team at North Billerica tomorrow and the Billerica boys will have to play every minute of the game to defeat their opponents. Danny Fitzpatrick will probably pitch for the T. R. & T.'s.

Concert by American band, Lowell, at Cannobie Lake Park, Sunday afternoon and evening.

ALTON BAY CAMP MEETING.

Alton Bay, on the shore of Lake Winnipesaukee is one of the grandest spots in New Hampshire. Every year hundreds of camp meeting followers journey here, and its popularity as a summer resort is equaled only by its fame as a camp meeting ground.

The large steamer, "Mount Washington" sails over the lake, stopping at Alton Bay and the several different points on the lake.

The camp meeting this year takes place August 15th to September 3d. Round trip tickets at reduced rates, good going and returning only on above dates will be on sale at this station and many principal stations on the Boston & Maine railroad.

A good shore dinner. A plunge in the surf. A promenade on the famous "Ocean Pier" at Old Orchard August 13th. $1.50 round trip from here.

THREE KILLED

And a Score Injured by Lightning

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 31.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon three persons were killed and more than a score injured by lightning at New Hope church, Appotomox county. The dead:

Paul Cowen.
Charles Austin.
Aubrey Wingfield.

A meeting of the James River Baptist association was in progress and a large number of men took refuge under an awning near the building when the storm came up. Lightning struck a tree in front of the awning, causing the disaster, and throwing the great crowd on the grounds into a panic.

Imagine it! To Old Orchard and return August 13th via the Boston & Maine railroad. $1.50 round trip.

COAT OF TAR

With Feathers On the Side

IS WHAT GOFFSTOWN WHITECAPS

Will Hand Out to Lowell Man

The following letter, special from the Manchester News, from the Goffstown Whitecaps, is self-explanatory, and looks ominous for a Lowell man:

"Whitecaps were in evidence again and word has been received that if the selectmen do not proceed, tar and feathers will be used on a Lowell man who has a wife in Concord and has four children and who formerly lived here. He has cruelly turned his family into the street and is living with a woman on Rock street, Lowell. The Whitecaps have issued letters of warning and declare they will visit Lowell at an early date. Proceedings are watched with much interest, as the Whitecaps say:

"Know the law or take the consequences. Per order of WHITECAPS."

GEORGE GARDNER

Says That Fitz Must Make Weight

George Gardner's manager says that if it is shown that the Lowell boy fouled Jack Root, he will give the latter another trial for the title and will put up any amount for a side bet. He states, however, that Fitzsimmons will have first chance at Gardner.

FITZ MUST MAKE WEIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—If any match is to be arranged between George Gardner to Bob Fitzsimmons the weight question will have to be agreed upon first. Gardner now says that Fitz will have to scale 168 pounds before he will sign articles. He also stipulates that the weighing in must be at the ringside, too. This would seem to be a big handicap to Fitz in view of the fact that only the other day he went on the scales in San Francisco and tipped the beam at 203 pounds. Yet the Cornishman has been known to do surprising things, and may agree to tackle Gardner at the weight the latter suggests.

WOMAN IS DYING

Shot Three Times by Discarded Lover

THE ASSAILANT IS STILL AT LARGE

Woman Posed as Wife of Different Men

By Associated Press to The Sun

MILFORD, July 31—Concetta Miscl, an Italian in the aged 32, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded yesterday afternoon by a discarded lover, Rocco Caroll.

Concetta, who has a husband in Italy, has lived in Milford for several years as the wife of at least three different men. Caroll was the last. They went to Providence about two months ago and secured a marriage permit. Caroll supposed they were to be married, but a few weeks ago he lost his job and Concetta fired him from his position as acting husband.

He has been bothering the police ever since, invoking their aid to recover the money he had given Concetta while they lived together. Yesterday morning he learned that the woman was going to New York next week to live, and, crazed by his passion for Concetta, he armed himself with a 38-calibre revolver and set out for revenge.

He found the woman picking berries in a field off Mt. Pleasant street, and fired three shots at her, all of which took effect, one in her right thigh, one under the left breast and the other in the flesh of the back near the spine.

Two women who were with her, Bessie Finklestein and Ida Weinstein, gave the alarm. Concetta was carried to the home of her mother, 16 Mt. Pleasant street, and Dr. F. H. Lally was summoned. He thinks the chances of her recovery very slight.

Caroll fled after firing the third shot and is yet at large in the Bear Hill woods. A searching party is out after him.

The affair does not surprise the local police, as Concetta's previous "affairs" have caused her to be threatened by discarded lovers, one of whom paid a fine in the local court for threatening to kill her.

Another lover, with whom she lived for two years, had her arrested for the alleged theft of $30 when she threw him aside, but she was acquitted.

The woman is attractive in face and figure, and on her appearances in court talked about her illicit lovers without a semblance of modesty.

A rumor is afloat that Caroll has committed suicide, but his body has not yet been found.

CARDINALS BUSY

Preparing for the Conclave at Vatican

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—The Vatican yesterday was the scene of great activity both inside and outside. Within the last preparations were being made for the conclave and everything was in the utmost confusion. Workmen and servants were hurrying hither and thither, some hanging curtains, others putting in extra furniture, while porters were staggering along under immense trunks as if some of their eminences, the cardinals, expected to remain in their cells for months. Other cardinals sent practically nothing, as if they expected to be released within a day or two. Outside the vatican, the work was of a different character, the quiet work of the supporters of the different candidates marshalling their strength for the contest which is to come when the doors of the conclave are closed. No one candidate stands out prominently as did Cardinal Pecci in the conclave of 1878, and the discussion here is not so much concerning the superior qualities of the candidates as of the strength with which they are credited.

During the meeting of the congregation of the cardinals yesterday Cardinal Oreglia explained how the work of the conclave was to be carried on, recalling the principal rules which were to govern the body and recommending their strict observance. The cardinals will enter the conclave at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Each of the cardinals yesterday received a medal struck by the camerlengo to maintain the tradition of his sovereignty during the interregnum. Cardinals Zunnibiatelli, Macchi and Della Volpe were charged with the duty of visiting the apartments of the conclave and Cardinals Tripoti, and Boschi, with visiting the precincts of the conclave for the purpose of making sure that there will be no possibility of communication with the outside world. They are to make their report to the congregation today.

The question of the compensation to be given to the physicians who treated the late pontiff during his last illness was also discussed in the congregation. The executors of the will said that the money remaining after the charitable bequests left by Pope Leo are paid would be only about $4000. This sum was considered insufficient and a committee of cardinals was instructed to augment it to such an amount as might seem appropriate.

PARDON GRANTED

DEDHAM MAN WALKED RELEASED FROM JAIL

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—At 5:25 yesterday afternoon, Philander Allen, a Dedham business man, walked forth from the Dedham house of correction, a free man.

For some months his friends have been earnestly at work to obtain a pardon for him. Yesterday a hearing was had before Gov. Bates and his council, with the result that a pardon was granted.

Allen was sentenced July 10, 1902, to prison for a term of two years for the offense of making an assault with a dangerous weapon on George A. Muscle at Dedham.

The pardon was brought out to Dedham by Dr. John W. Chase. At Dedham Dr. Chase was met by Allen's junior counsel and Mrs. Allen and the three proceeded to the jail. Here the jail officials, having previous knowledge, had Allen ready to receive the glad tidings and his freedom. The pardon was presented, and Allen was let into the vestibule. Here he met his faithful wife and the greeting was an affecting one. Then, accompanied by his wife, junior counsel and Dr. Chase, he was driven to his home, where he gave a father's greeting to his children from whom he had been separated for more than a year.

Concert by American band, Lowell, at Canobie Lake Park, Sunday afternoon and evening.

QUIET MEETING

LITTLE BUSINESS FOR OVERSEERS OF POOR.

The overseers of the poor held a very brief and unimportant meeting at the farm last evening with all the members present except Overseer McMahon. The report of the committee on cattle to the effect that three cows had been purchased for the institution was accepted. The reports of the secretary and the superintendent were accepted and adopted. The report of the superintendent showed that there were 374 inmates, 46 tramps cared for during the month and twelve deaths. The board sometime within the next few weeks will visit the institution located at Taunton.

The matter of hiring a carpenter for the institution was laid on the table.

WRONG!
WRONG!
WRONG!

If your digestion is poor or your stomach or bowels are out of order, your whole system is wrong. Don't look further for the cause of your sick headaches, sour stomach, bad breath, aching eyes or loss of appetite. Above all things, don't drug your system with narcotics, opiates or alcoholic nostrums, which afford only temporary relief and which might seriously injure your health.

Those who suffer from constipation or indigestion will find Abbey's Salt of Fruits a perfect corrective of all stomach disorders. It is a natural tonic laxative, pleasant to take, gentle, thorough, sure. It stimulates and tones the digestive organs, enabling the stomach to digest perfectly.

Take two teaspoonfuls in half a tumbler of water at bedtime or in the morning on arising. Your druggist will recommend it, and your stomach will endorse the recommendation.

The drug stores in all civilized countries sell Abbey's Effervescent Salt, 25c, 50c, and $1 per bottle. Let us send you a sample bottle free to-day. GETS $300,000

Fortune Left to an Elevator Man

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31.—Walter W. Condon, 23 years old, suddenly found himself boosted today from an elevator man in the Ashland block to a capitalist, the possessor of a fortune of $300,000. Up to noon he had been shooting up and down the long shaft, shouting "second floor" etc., at the rate of about $20 a week. This afternoon, arrayed in his Sunday suit, he left his home, 526 North Clark street, for Coldwater, Mich., to claim the fortune left him by his grandmother.

Condon has been going under the name of W. W. Cole for reasons best known to himself. He bade his aged parents good bye seven years ago, leaving home against their wishes. The boy never wrote to his anxious parents. It is believed he came to Chicago, and a few years ago the Chicago police were notified to find and tell him of the death of his mother. Another year passed and the police received a message announcing the death of the father.

Wednesday it was learned that the grandmother of the young man had died, leaving the wanderer a fortune. The central station detectives were unable to get any clew to the whereabouts of Condon, but recently the relatives received information that the young man was working as an eelvator man in Fiderero. The news came through a young woman who had known him. The relatives also found that Condon had elopod a short time ago and was married under romantic circumstances.

The Elevated Conductors' union was appealed to, but no such member was discovered. Then George Condon, a cousin of Walter, began a canvass from building to building and came upon the long lost man.

TWO ARRESTED

IN CONNECTION WITH WORCESTER CAR ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WORCESTER, July 31.—Asst.-Dist. Atty. Taft decided not to wait the result of the official inquiry of the railroad commissioners into the cause of the fatal trolley collision near Westboro Saturday. Acting on the information before him from Officers Murray and Holt of the state force, he ordered Conductor Daniel F. Daly and Motorman Leo B. Downs of the west-bound car brought into court yesterday.

The men were arrested only a few minutes before the court met. They were arraigned before Judge Samuel Utley in the central district court, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Miss Frances Greer of Chicago. Daly was represented by Thomas C. Carrigan of this city, who also officiated for Downs, in the absence of P. F. Conniff of Boston, who has been engaged as his counsel.

Detective Murray appeared for the government, and after the prisoners had pleaded not guilty consented to the suggestion of Mr. Carrigan that the case be continued until Aug. 11 for examination. Judge Utley held both prisoners in $1000 each for appearance on that date, and paroled them in the personal custody of Detective Murray. Later both furnished bonds and were released.

None of the victims of the accident have been discharged from the hospital, but all are reported as doing well. Several suits have already been entered against the Boston & Worcester Railway company to recover damages for injuries caused by Saturday's accident.

LIQUOR AGENTS

APPOINTED FOR THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CONCORD, N. H., July 31.—The state liquor license commission issued a statement last night concerning the appointment of special agents, or inspectors, with reference to which the supreme court and attorney-general recently rendered opinions, saying, in part:

"The state board of license commissioners have issued notices of appointment to five special agents, named Everett C. Howe of Littleton, G. Scott Locke of Concord, Frederic E. Small of Rochester, Frank W. Ordway of Milford and Thomas Flood of Nashua.

YACHT RACES

At Montreal Won by the Thorella

By Associated Press to The Sun

MONTREAL, July 31.—The race of the series for the Seawanhaka challenge cup was sailed yesterday on Lake St. Louis and the Thorella defending for the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club, defeated the challenger, the Koluton, representing the Manchester, Mass., Yacht club.

The course was triangular giving a beat and two reaches. The Koluton out-maneuvred the Thorella and led the way across the line after a pretty bit of jockeying. The American boat did not hold her position long and the Thorella sailed through her lee and took the lead.

On the third leg of the second round the rudder of the Koluton was carried away leaving her helpless. At that time the Canadian boat was nine minutes and 42 seconds ahead. After the race Mr. Higginson, one of the owners of the Koluton said he was satisfied the Thorella was the better boat in the conditions that prevailed yesterday. There was a brisk breeze blowing. The official time follows:

Start, 1:55.

Name.	First Mark.	Second Mark.	Third Mark.
Thorella	2:16:06	2:21:56	2:31:00
Koluto	2:20:31	2:26:30	2:33:31

SECOND ROUND.

Thorella	2:52:40	2:59:32	3:06:45
Koluto	3:02:12 disabled

THIRD ROUND.

Elapsed time, 1:49:20.

GIRLS' BALL TEAM

Manager of It Under Arrest

Inspector Maher yesterday afternoon arrested Frank C. Schmeltz, manager of the Girls' base ball team, which played ball in this city last Saturday afternoon. The arrest was made at Arlington, Mass.

Schmeltz, it is alleged, skipped his board bill while in this city. He and his boys of fair (?) ball players dined at the Farragut house and he says that members of his team missed some things. In order to get square he decided to let the board bill stand unpaid. His story about things missing doesn't hold water, at least not in the estimation of the police and Mr. Schmeltz will have to settle.

PEOPLE STARVE

Famine in Cape Verde Islands

THE GOVERNMENT HAS STOPPED PUBLIC WORK

Death Rate of 30 a Day

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 31.—The Cape de Verde people of this city are deeply stirred by news received here of late telling a terrible story of suffering and death in the islands. So far as is known no newspaper has printed these facts, there being no newspaper in the islands and the government holding close guard over other sources of news.

But a Portuguese newspaper, O Seculo, published at Lisbon, in its issue of July 13, says in an editorial news item, that despite the efforts of the military governor of the Cape Verdes to relieve the situation the famine is spreading. It appears that for the past three months the government has totally stopped operations on public highways and government work, and the hundreds of laborers usually dependent on such work have been thrown out of employment and are now destitute. The heavy immigration from the islands last winter and this spring robbed the farming districts of their skilled labor and the crops have totally failed. Through scarcity of provisions the prices have jumped upward and the people in idleness are unable to pay for their ordinary living.

The situation in the island of St. Thiago is particularly distressing, old and decrepit people dropping dead in the streets and little babes dying from starvation at the dry breasts of their starving mothers. Little children cry pitifully in the streets, but they plead to helpless people, no one having money to give them.

A death rate of as high as 30 a day is reported, and so pressed are the burial authorities that it is necessary to pile the dead in common graves in the cemetery without coffins. Some appeals have been made to the resident minister of marine to persuade the government to resume its public works, and it is understood that last month some work was started. Still the relief is totally inadequate to relieve the situation, which is reported growing worse.

HIS WIFE HERE

Ashley is Under Arrest for Bigamy

By Associated Press to The Sun

CAMBRIDGE, July 31.—William T. Ashley who is held in Dubois City, Idaho, for the Cambridge police was indicted for bigamy at the June term of the Middlesex grand jury. Since then Ashley has eluded the police. He was traced to St. Louis and then to Vicksburg, Tenn. In Vicksburg it is said Ashley was on the eve of marrying. When his record became known he came near being lynched before he could get out of town. He agrees to return east without extradition papers. Ashley is said to have a wife and two children in Lowell. Inspector Murray and Patrolman Nellon will leave at once for Dubois City.

Physicians Give Eczema Up, But Zema-Cura Cures it Every Time

You often hear of "hopeless cases" of Eczema; of people who have tried everything recommended by eminent physicians without being relieved, to say nothing of being cured. The tortures of this disease are terrible, and to be a victim of Eczema is most pitiable. It was claimed to be incurable.

All this was true once, but it is now no longer true. No matter how bad the case may be or of what duration, ZEMA-CURA will cure Eczema, Hives, Eruptions and skin diseases of all kinds.

ZEMA-CURA has been used in thousands of cases and has not failed to cure in one instance. It never will fail. It will cure you surely, effectively and for all time. No matter what you have tried or how long you have suffered you owe it to yourself to try ZEMA-CURA.

"It affords me pleasure to testify to the curative value of Zema-Cura. For two years I had been troubled with an itching on my back at the base of the spine which was so troublesome, especially at night, that my constant irritation to produce relief caused sores. I could find no remedy until a friend recommended your preparation. Before I had used a bottle, the itching had entirely stopped, the sores were healed and a new skin formed and I have since had no trouble. I can confidently recommend it."—W. W. McMULLEN; THOS. J. Why Russia Appears to Be Anxious For Conflict

RECENT events have gone far to strengthen the conviction, long held in many quarters, that Russia will shortly be engaged in a world shaking struggle with one or more of the other great powers. Economists point out that, apart from the lust for territorial aggrandizement which is taking an ever firmer hold of the government of the czar, there is throughout the country a seething unrest which can only be quieted by some event that will bring about solidification of the national interests, such an event being obviously a war. The Kishineff horror, in which so many Jews perished, was but a striking instance of the popular uneasiness, and it may be that the Kishineff affair will serve as an excuse for Russia going to war, since she has announced that any power protesting against the inhumanity of the Russians will be regarded as unwarrantably interfering in the internal affairs of the country.

It is safe to say, moreover, that, whatever may be the cause which will lead to the outbreak of a Russian war, the czar's administration will advance this selfsame excuse of interference with Russian rights. It will be rather difficult to maintain this pretense if an international crisis should arise over the Persian gulf question, though Lord Lansdowne's application of the Monroe doctrine to the gulf may eventually be brought forward by Russia as an interference with the rights of other powers. In regard to the Manchuria question, however, which is again of transcendent importance, Russia certainly affects to deem herself in possession of well established rights and is daily making it more manifest that she will not yield these so called rights without a struggle that may find Japan and other powers aligned against her.

So far as the United States is concerned, the feeling growing out of the

COUNT LAMSDORFF. FINANCE MINISTER DE WITTE.

Kishineff affair and the Manchuria troubles may be deemed not so much one of anger as of reproach. The administration at Washington has for some time been convinced that Russia's unfriendly attitude was responsible for the refusal of China to grant open ports to this country. The matter of secret concessions by China to Russia has also been a cause of uneasiness. Japan being especially active in warning the Chinese foreign office against making such concessions. China's recent promise to grant us treaty ports has somewhat modified the situation, but it is yet considered tense.

The bear threatens danger in still another quarter—the Balkans—where the question of reforms, although smoldering of late, may at any moment blaze into a fire that will sweep all Europe. A Balkan war could of course only be precipitated by international interference in the internal affairs of Turkey—the denying to the sultan the right to act as he sees fit toward the unfortunates who may be domiciled within his boundaries or within the principalities that are under his sovereignty. Here again the phantom of "interference" makes itself a potent factor in the determining for peace or for war, and it is a matter of record that wars have long been precipitated through one nation believing that another has exercised an unwarrantable interference in its affairs.

Take the memorable war of 1812. If ever a struggle between two peoples was caused by interference that was the struggle. The British, by claiming and on occasion exercising the right to search American vessels for British deserters, aggravated the United States to a point where friendly relations could no longer be maintained. When to this practice was added the habit of impressing American sailors into the British service war in deadly earnest broke forth. The Mexican war of 1846-47 is another case in point. Its primary cause is to be traced to the secession in 1835 of the old Spanish province of Texas owing to the influence of the great body of Anglo-Americans who had established homes there and chafed under the exactions and unfairness of Spanish rule. War between Texas and Mexico followed as a matter of course, and after the Mexican army had been routed at the battle of San Jacinto Texas declared its independence, Sam Houston being elected president, an almost unanimous vote being cast at the same time in favor of annexation to the United States. Annexation did not become an established fact until 1845, our war with Mexico being the logical outcome of the acquisition of territory which had so long been a part of Mexico. The recent contest with Spain may also be cited as an example of hostilities following what was deemed interference, since the Spaniards would never have dared give battle to the United States had not national pride and resentment been aroused by our attitude toward their operations in their insular colony, Cuba.

Abroad we find similar cases. The Franco-German war of 1870-71, primarily caused by the insistence of France upon territorial concessions from Prussia as compensation for the aggrandizement of that power, really hinged on French interference with the German plan of making Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern king of Spain. The Chino-Japanese conflict of 1894 was likewise the direct outcome of an alleged interference despite treaty agreements in the management of Korea, China insisting, thanks to Li Hung Chang's advice, upon sending troops into Korea in order to quell a rebellion. At the same time it must be admitted that this war could not have been avoided in any event, because Japan, flushed in her new found powers, was determined to make a test of her strength by engaging in a war with her powerful rival, China.

Russia herself has been only too ready to interfere in the affairs of other nations and has already figured in some memorable struggles as a result of this governmental characteristic. Thus the Crimean war, carried on by Great Britain, France, Turkey and Sardinia against Russia, had a leading cause in the claim of Russia to be protector of the Greek church in Turkey. The object of the war was of course to check Russian encroachments, just as will be the object of any war directed against Russia today. Russian encroachments, by the way, were the cause of the great Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, the conflict being a phase of the czar's long cherished scheme of acquiring territory in the Balkans with a view to the ultimate conquest of Constantinople. The ostensible cause, as history informs us, was the trouble between the porte and its Christian subjects following the revolt of the Christians in Bosnia and Herzegovina, who were secretly assisted by Servia and Montenegro. Russian interference was also strikingly shown upon the conclusion of the Chino-Japanese war, when the bear deprived little Japan of the fruits of her well earned victory, refusing to allow her to take any territory save the island of Formosa.

Russia, it will thus be seen, would have no just cause for protesting should other powers attempt to dictate regarding the czar's attitude toward those of his subjects who entertain religious views differing from those held by the established church, the Greek church. The fact remains, nevertheless, that Russia has gone on record as being prepared to take as a personal affront any outside interference in religious matters, no matter how critical and brutal may become religious disputes within the czar's domains. It will be patent to any one that the government of the bear is ready to fight on the slightest pretext, and it would seem as though the long expected conflict were at last really imminent.

Much depends on the course pursued in the near future by the czar's advisers, who have the reputation of being farseeing men. Chief among these are Serglus de Witte, the minister of finance, and Count Lamsdorff, the minister of foreign affairs. The former may not unaptly be called the business manager of the empire, while the latter is by many deemed the real ruler of Russia, since he it is who molds the national destiny. Both are broad minded men, zealous in the interests of their country. Lamsdorff was the author of the note presented by the powers to the sultan which caused the latter to promise reforms in the Balkans. His was the influence also that led to the gradual absorption of Manchuria by Russia. It is difficult to conceive that a man of the caliber of Lamsdorff will brook "interference" with the alleged rights of his country or will submit without a protest to having his policy of aggrandizement nullified.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY, former secretary of the navy, has been in the racing game but a few years, yet has scored some notable triumphs, his greatest being the winning of the English Derby with Volodyovski. Mr. Whitney is one of the most generous supporters of the turf. President of the Saratoga Racing association, he hopes to make Saratoga the Ascot of America.

JAMES B. HAGGIN has spent millions in breeding and racing horses and is entitled to the appellation "dean of the American turf." Old race goers well remember his Salvator, Miss Woodford and Firenzi. The Haggin stable is especially well represented today by Waterboy, whose recent feat of breaking the world's record for the mile and a quarter is still the talk of the turf.

JOHN A. DRAKE'S chief claim to fame in the racing world rests upon his ownership of the game colt Savable, which as a two-year-old startled the eastern turfites by coming out of the west and capturing the classic Futurity. Mr. Drake is a thoroughgoing sportsman and is firm in his opinion that his favorite, Savable, is the crack three-year-old of the season.

JOHN E. MADDEN ranks as the most successful of America's professional turfmen. With a rare knowledge of horseflesh he couples a happy knack of knowing how to "place" entries and as a result is preeminently fortunate in the way of winning stakes. As a secondary consequence his horses are eagerly sought by the wealthy patrons of the turf and command fancy prices.

WILLIAM C. DALY, better known as "Father Bill" Daly, has for years been a notable figure on the turf. Equally renowned as a trainer of horses and a trainer of jockeys, the Hartford sage may be placed in a class by himself. He is a versatile genius, is "Father Bill," and always has a sleeveful of surprises for the sporting fraternity of the eastern tracks.

EDWARD R. THOMAS is a newcomer on the turf, but he has already won a far reaching reputation as a liberal spender. He is the man who paid $60,000 for Hermis and has been regretting it ever since, despite the consolation afforded by the victories of his two-year-old Pulsus. In professional life Mr. Thomas is a banker. He is always cool and unruffled.

ELMORE E. SMATHERS has long been a horse lover, but it was only this year that he invaded the realm of the runners, his activities being hitherto confined to the trotting track. Mr. Smathers has gathered a small but select stable, chief of which is the four-year-old beauty McChesney. The illustration shows Mr. Smathers as the cartoonist sees him after a "killing."

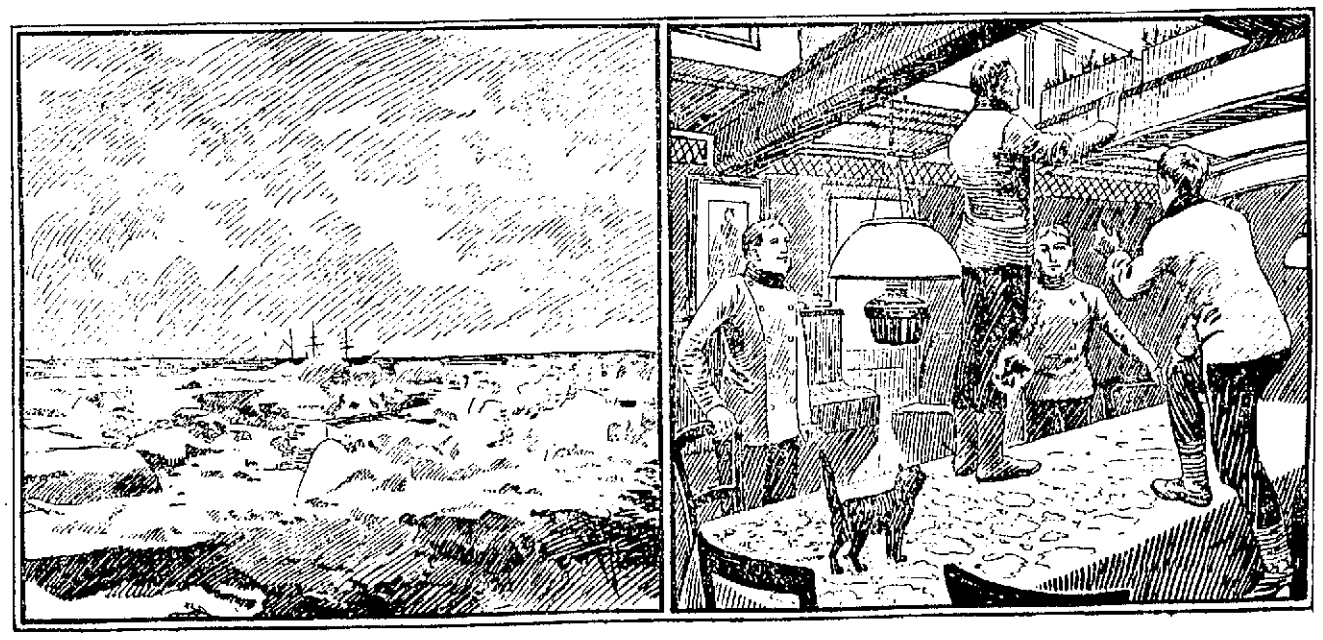

Results Attained by the Discovery Expedition

SCIENTISTS are just beginning to realize the importance of the work accomplished by the British antarctic expedition which left England in the steamer Discovery in 1901, attained the farthest point south that man has yet reached and is still engaged, with the Discovery frozen fast in the ice of the polar region, in prosecuting its researches. Reports from the beleaguered vessel show conclusively that valuable additions have been made to the sum of human knowledge. The expedition, be it remembered, was not sent south for the purpose of hunting for the pole, but solely in the interests of science, and, although the voyagers have penetrated farther than any of their predecessors into the mysterious realms of the geographical ignis fatuus, it is not upon this that they rely for fame. That their hopes have been fulfilled to an extraordinary degree and that the voyage of the Discovery will ever be remembered as a most important event in the history of science is the unanimous verdict of those who have been privileged to examine the reports, maps and charts already to hand.

The real work of the expedition began with the arrival of the Discovery off Cape Adare on Jan. 9, 1902. Large quantities of pack ice had been encountered since the Discovery left Lyttelton, New Zealand, on Dec. 22, but fortunately the pack was fairly open, and one of the greatest dangers to the voyagers was thus rendered comparatively insignificant and the Discovery was able easily to steer her way through to open water. During the one day's halt at Cape Adare birds and other zoological specimens were collected, the explorers being greatly impressed with the tameness shown by all animals in the antarctic region, who display no fear at the sight of man. On Jan. 15 the Discovery made Lady Newnes bay and thence proceeded south to Wood bay, at the upper end of which towers a wonderful antarctic volcano known as Mount Melbourne. On Jan. 20 the Discovery sighted a still higher volcano, Mount Erebus, which was then emitting a long column of smoke, that hung like a pall over the stretch of ice. Two days later the steamer began to skirt the famous great ice barrier.

Running eastward from Cape Crozier, this remarkable wall of ice extends for over 500 miles without an opening of any sort, looming over the Antarctic ocean at a height of from fifty to 250 feet. The geologists of the expedition were kept busy while the steamer ran along the great barrier, fine weather enabling them to examine it carefully for the purpose of establishing its origin. Jan. 29 the explorers began to realize that they were on the verge of an important discovery, undulating slopes of snow appearing in place of the uniformly level surface of the barrier. Next day black rocks showed themselves through slopes and ridges, giving the first hint of the vast antarctic continent, the existence of which was later revealed to the voyagers and which they believe extends to the pole. A balloon ascension was now made, the first ever attempted from a field of ice, but the ascent was without result so far as definitely proving that land existed to the south. The Discovery now proceeded to Mount Erebus, and on March 24 winter quarters were established not far from the volcano, the Discovery being then held fast by the ice. She has remained icebound ever since.

Preparations were at once made for beginning the scientific research for which the Discovery had been dispatched to these rigid regions. Although the extreme cold greatly hampered the explorers work proceeded expeditiously, perfect discipline being maintained by Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and the other British naval officers who had been lent by the admiralty to the Royal society and the Royal Geographical society, the patrons of the expedition. The crew were in good spirits, provided, as they were, with many comforts, a pleasant mess room and a cozy ward room, boasting a library and several musical instruments. It is worthy of note that the men started a little flower garden aboard the Discovery and succeeded in growing some cresses, which, by an odd coincidence, bloomed on Easter Sunday. Thus the crew had opportunity for recreation from their daily tasks, which at times were indeed arduous. There was always work on sledges, harness and dog sheds. Every day, too, found a party busy with the ice melters, turning glacier ice into drinking water. There was always routine work in plenty, to say nothing of the extra labor involved in preparing for the departure of the various parties which "sledded" over the ice in all directions for hundreds of miles from the Discovery.

EASTER SUNDAY OUTSIDE AND INSIDE THE DISCOVERY.

Of these expeditions the most notable was that in which Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and Dr. Wilson participated and which resulted in their reaching the farthest point south, 82 degrees 17 minutes south latitude and 160 degrees 40 minutes east longitude. Lieutenant Shackleton, who is now in England, whither he returned to recover his health, shaken by the rigors of the antarctic winter, declares that if they had had sufficient provisions the little party could easily have reached the pole. As it was, they broke the record by 270 miles and saw enough to convince them that the antarctic does not contain an archipelago, but a continent.

Probably the most important scientific results attained by the expedition are in the field of magnetic research, the value of which will be manifest when it is said that the work accomplished by the Discovery, taken together with that of other expeditions from other countries engaged in the study of the magnetic elements, is expected to correct the variations in existing charts and thus add to the safety of transoceanic travel. The meteorological investigations conducted by the officers, often in the face of howling antarctic hurricanes, are also expected to be fruitful, especially in the way of casting light on the problems of low temperatures and blizzards.

Branches of biology, zoology and ornithology have been carefully studied, and hundreds of new species will be included in the books dealing with the fauna of the deep sea as well as with the animals and birds of that part of the world. A rich fund of information is also expected from the geological workers of the expedition on the character of the antarctic volcanoes ar the structure of the antarctic continer Of course geographical research h been carried on to a great extent. Bo any has come in for its share of atte tion, although little could be done i this field of observation owing to th scarcity of plant life. Last, but n least, some curious results have b reached in bacteriology.

The work was greatly facilitated by the dispatch last year of the relief steamer Morning, which found the explorers cheerful, enthusiastic and in good health. Captain Colbeck of the Morning, who returned home only the other day, reports that the Discovery is well provisioned and that there is no reason why those aboard cannot complete the investigations upon which they have been so long and so zealously engaged.

CARRIE NATION

Comes to Grief at Scranton

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31—Carrie Nation, the "Kansas cyclone," invaded the office of Mayor A. W. Connell yesterday morning and said:

"I want to see the mayor of this town."

The mayor was not in and Carrie, who wanted to give him a piece of her mind for her arrest Wednesday, was going down the steps when she met Superintendent of Police Day.

"You're a two-legged hog, you big beefy, porky thing," she yelled at him while the crowd in the street cheered.

"Arrest that woman," said the police superintendent, and a police officer took Mrs. Nation in custody, and after a struggle placed her in a cell, where she cried like a child. She had a hearing last evening and was fined $10.

Carrie has had a stormy time of it since she came to Scranton. She was fined $10 for selling hatchets without a license. Yesterday she sallied forth to see Robert C. Willis, a liquor dealer, and expostulated with him for advertising the "Carrie Nation cocktail."

On her way she was horrified by a patent medicine advertisement of a nude woman in a drug store in the Y. M. C. A. building. She sought the secretary of the association and gave him a tongue lashing.

MR. KEATING HOME

He Got a Reception in New York

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—John T. Keating of Chicago, formerly national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was given a reception by the Clan-na-Gael last night at Cooper union. Mr. Keating who arrived from Ireland yesterday on the steamship Teutonic, delivered the address at the annual pilgrimage to the grave of the leader of the United Irishmen in 1793, Theobald Wolfe Tone, at Bodenstown, Ire., on June 21 last, upon the invitation of the Nationalists in Ireland.

The affair was under the direction of the Clan na Gael in which Keating is prominent, although he poses as representing the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which is in no way responsible for his actions or his utterances. He was formerly national president of the A. O. H.

SPEEDY TRIAL

FOR PARKS AND McCARTHY, WALKING DELEGATES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Dist.-Atty. Jerome made it plain yesterday that he intends to insist upon a speedy trial for Samuel J. Parks and Timothy McCarthy, two walking delegates of the Housesmiths' union, who are charged with assault, and are also under indictment for extortion.

When the assault case was called, before Judge Olmstead in special sessions yesterday, Parks and McCarthy were represented by Henry A. Brann and Joseph P. Eustace. They are accused of assaulting Peter O'Neil of the Plasterers' union. Mr. Jerome moved the trial for next Tuesday. Mr. Brann objected, saying he had understood that no assault cases were to be tried during July or August, and that both he and Mr. Eustace wanted to go away on their vacations. Mr. Jerome insisted upon a speedy trial. The trial of Parks and McCarthy on the charge of extortion is set for Aug. 13.

Parks has stated recently that he would soon leave for South Africa to call out the 1000 iron workers who are now employed there by New York contractors on work representing $35,000,000 of capital. Most of this work is being done by the Milliken Bros. and the American Bridge company of this city. Concerning Parks' South African mission, a member of the Iron League said today:

"Parks has reached the point where he is trying to scare somebody. It is true that there are many men employed by American capital in South Africa, but I don't see that there is to be a very good opportunity for Parks to go there for the purpose of making trouble. He will be tolerably busy here in the criminal courts for the next few months."

OLD ORCHARD EXCURSION ON THURSDAY, AUG. 13TH—$1.50 ROUND TRIP.

Old Orchard is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful seashore resorts on the North Atlantic coast. It has a strech of beautiful sandy beach such as few ocean resorts in the country can boast of.

The long ocean pier, which reaches way out into the water, and on which hundreds daily delight in a promenade, is one of the numerous points of interest.

A first-class vaudeville theatre is situated on the end of the pier. The bathing is first class and the facilities for enjoying a plunge in the surf are exceptionally good. The hotels are models, and their cuisine is of the finest. You can satisfy your hunger with a good Old Orchard shore dinner, which is alone worth traveling for. All these qualities tend to make Old Orchard the one beach of New England.

Round trip tickets at reduced rate $1.50, good going and returning only on special train, on August 13th, will be on sale at Lowell, South Lawrence and Lawrence via the Boston & Maine Railroad. Special train will leave Lowell, Middlesex street, at 8.15 a. m. Returning, leave Old Orchard at 5 p. m.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 31.—Close matches were the order yesterday in the golf tournament on Onwentsonia for the Ranyoke cup. With the completion of the fifth and semi-final rounds, Walter Egan of Exmoor and Roswell F. Murray of Riverside are left to fight it out today in the finals. Mason Phelps who put Chandler Egan out of the game Wednesday was defeated yesterday by Walter Egan at the 19th hole.

NEGRO LYNCHING

Is Defended by Senator Tillman

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOLINE, Ill., July 31.—Senators Tillman and Burton continued their debate on the negro question here yesterday. The Kansas speaker suggested an educational standard as a remedy for negro ignorance, and Senator Tillman delivered a striking speech.

"God made a negro inferior to a white man," said he, "and Africa proves it. I would not put him back in slavery but he should never govern us. You wouldn't let him, and we are as good as you are, and we will see him in hell before we will permit it. We don't intend ever to let him get on our backs to govern us.

"When you hold sacred the 15th amendment, that says the races are equal, you add fuel to a race war that is bound to come. I do not believe in lynching for any crime but one. When a negro assaults a white woman the only thing to do is to hunt him down and put him out of his miserable existence as soon as possible. We are doing this and we are going to keep on doing it, and if you don't like it you can lump it."

Senator Burton cited the success which had been attained in arts and in industry by negroes to show that the race is improving, and declared that Tillman does not represent the sentiment of the progressive and enlightened south. He declared that the Egyptians were negroes and that Moses married a negro.

"Lynching," said he, "is the most heinous of crimes. Don't tell me it is necessary to lynch men to protect the home. You cannot protect a home by lawlessness and it is either the law or anarchy. The severity of the punishment does not deter crime as much as the surety under the law."

Tillman ridiculed the inconsistency of the government which says the negroes may vote, yet denies the right to Filipinos. In the course of his speech he derided the knowledge of Harriet Beecher Stowe on the negro question.

Magouns Cut Off in Margaret's Will

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Margaret Magoun, the adopted daughter of the late Thatcher Magoun of Medford, who inherited in 1883 the bulk of the shipping merchant's fortune in preference to the latter's children by marriage, has bequeathed nearly all her property, worth about $200,000, to her relatives by blood, leaving to the heirs at law, Thatcher Magoun's daughter and his dead son's five children, only $5 each.

The will was filed yesterday with the probate court in East Cambridge. Counsel for the heirs-at-law, Whipple, Sears & Ogden, stated yesterday that it had not yet been decided whether the will would be contested.

In Thatcher Magoun's will 20 years ago he stated that he gave absolutely to his adopted daughter, Margaret, the High street mansion with all its valuable furnishings, pictures, heirlooms, etc., and he expressed the hope, without constraining her in any way, that she would give on her death to his descendants the furnishings and the heirlooms. In only one instance did Miss Magoun follow out this wish; she gave the portrait of her adopted father, painted by Young, to one of his grandsons, Henry Magoun.

The daughter of Thatcher Magoun, Sr., Mrs. D. O. Kidder, and his grandchildren, Thatcher, Henry, Arthur and Esther Magoun and Mrs. Frederick Kendall, children of Thatcher Magoun, Jr., were given in the will of 1883 two-thirds of the income of a trust fund; the other third of the income went to the adopted daugater, but on her death was to be divided by the trustees among the heirs-at-law. This trust found amounted to nearly $100,000, it is understood, and the entire income will now be enjoyed by the blood relatives of the late Mr. Magoun, who are enumerated above.

REV. WM. F. GANNON

APPOINTED RECTOR OF BOSTON COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31—The appointment of the Rev. William F. Gannon of St. John's college, Fordham, N. Y., as rector of Boston college was announced last night. The appointment goes into effect at once. The new rector succeeds the Rev. W. G. Read Mullan, who has acted as head of the college for the past five years. The change is made in accordance to a custom of the Jesuit fathers which annually affects all colleges, churches and missions within their jurisdiction. Fr. Mullan will now take up his quarters at Georgetown university.

FINAL TWO DAYS OF OUR ANNUAL JULY SALE

BON MARCHE DRY GOODS CO.

FUN IS MY THEME

RIGHT THERE.

"If I should kiss you what would you do?"
"I never meet a contingency till it happens."
"But if it should happen?"
"I'd meet it face to face."

BETWEEN RIVALS.

"You have no idea how embarrassed the count was when he proposed to me."

"Oh, yes! His embarrassment was so great that nothing but your father's money could relieve it."

A SECRET.

"I suppose your engagement to the millionairess is still a secret?"
"Yes; only my most intimate creditors know of it."

Accommodating.

New Cook—Well, I dare say your place will do, but—ah, I forgot—have you any children?

The Master (prospective, wearily)—Yes, I have five, but, of course, I could drown two or three if you insist upon it.

Delicately Put.

She was describing an exciting incident.

"I completely lost my head," she said.

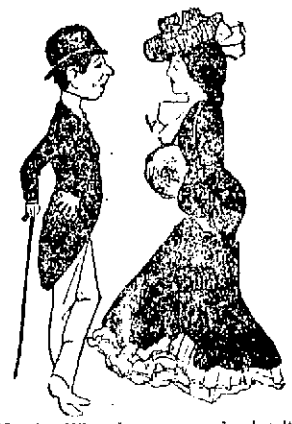

"If you are as careless of yourself as that," he returned, "perhaps you would be willing to spare your hand."

A BOXER.

She—What size gloves do you wear?
He (unthinkingly)—Five ounces.

QUITE PROBABLE.

Mamie—Why do you go about with Mr. Doolittle so much, Gussie?

Gussie—I er have to help him out, you know. If it wasn't for me—aw—he'd be the biggest fool in the town.

ANOTHER VARIETY.

Mabel—The idea of your being afraid to kiss her! Why, that kind of microbe is not a bit dangerous.

Tom—No, but her father is.

HER LITTLE JOKE.

Tom: "Do you enjoy a sail, Miss Helen?"
Helen: "You bet I do. Father is an auctioneer."

A Change.

"How yez got any pethroleum?" she inquired as she entered the grocery store early in the morning.

"Yes," replied the clerk.

"Are yez sure it's pethroleum an' nothin' else?"

"Absolutely certain."

"Well, yez kin give me 10 cents' worth, an' Oi want it in a hurry. The missus says Oi've got to shtop usin' kerosene to shtart the fire."

Too Good For Use

"That is a rare old violin I hear you playing so often, is it not?" asked the next door neighbor.

"It is indeed," replied the owner of the instrument. "It cost over $400."

"Seems to me," rejoined the other wearily, "it's too valuable to be used like an ordinary fiddle. If it was mine, I would not touch it more than once a year."

Economy.

"What's the matter with Primly?"

"Why, he went home with a new hat the other day, and it didn't fit very well, and so his wife cut his hair away wherever it stuck."

The Genius.

"I am sorry that Miss Bankum is out. You won't forget to mention that I called?"

"No, indade, sor. Oi'll run roight up an' tell her now!"

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

"Do you think," he said, with much embarrassment, "that—er—that is to say—if we were married your father would be willing to assist us in any way?"

"He might," was the thoughtful reply. "He is getting to be ever so successful now in divorce cases."

Her Request.

"Edgar, love," said the bride as the train moved away with them on their wedding tour, "I want you to make me one solemn promise."

"Haven't I just done that, my own?" asked the bewildered bridegroom.

"But this is something else. I want you to promise that—that"—

"That I will never marry again if you should die?"

"No, indeed. That you will always be good to dear little Fido."

The bridegroom said something, but it was lost in the rattle of the train, and the recording angel forgot to put it down.

Remarkable.

He—I see that statisticians have found that men live longer than women do. This is almost beyond belief.

She—I don't see why you should take that view of it. Men are naturally stronger than women.

He—Yes; but, on the other hand, look at the risks of being talked to death that they are constantly running.

No Comparison.

Patterfamilias (walking the floor with son and heir)—Ladies, they say, are such helpless things. But what do they think of me? Talk about helplessness!

CAUSE FOR DELIGHT.

"The Newriches seem delighted with their auto."

"Well, it's the first chance they've had to make a noise in the world."

ALMOST OUT.

Our preacher, grown quite old and glum,
No more a beacon bright,
Has dwindled so that he's become
A "dim religious light."

TOO MUCH LIKE WORK.

"Are you fond of golf, Mr. Winkletop?"
"Oh, yes, awfully! I send my valet to play every day."

POSSESSED.

"I wonder what's the matter with Nellie this evening. She acts like one possessed."

"She probably is. I noticed a new ring on her finger when she came downstairs."

BUT HE DOESN'T LOOK IT.

Mr. Goodlehump—Oh, how small one feels in the presence of Nature!

A MATTER OF SEX.

She—At the conclusion of an argument between a man and a woman the man is silenced, if not convinced.

He—Yes, and the woman is convinced, but never silenced.

MATRIMONIAL JOYS.

Mr. J.: "The paper I was reading last evening says that a woman seldom achieves anything great."

Mrs. J.: "That article was written by a married woman."

Mr. J.: "How do you know?

Mrs. J.: "Oh, because—and she was thinking of her husband when she wrote it."

MOTORMAN UNABLE TO CONTROL HIS CAR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—An electric car carrying several passengers crashed into another electric at the foot of Olney street hill last night. Both cars were badly damaged but none of the passengers on either car was seriously hurt. Because of wet rails the motorman on the electric descending the hill was unable to control his car, the wheels sliding along the track after the brakes were applied.

LOWELL POLICE

Playing for New England Championship

By Associated Press to The Sun

The baseball championship of New England, so far as the police are concerned, will be settled today, when the team from division 9, Boston, meets a team from the police department of Lowell on the Huntington avenue grounds.

Judging from the form exhibited by the Roxbury "coppers," in practice games, the team is fast enough to meet almost any of the semi-professional clubs in the state. The battery is very strong, considering that the men have very little opportunity to practice; the infield works well together and the men in the outfield cover a great deal of ground.

The pitching is done by "Tom" Smith, an old Louisville and Philadelphia National leaguer, and thus far this season his benders have been an enigma to the men who have faced him. "Jack" Conboy, who caught for the Warrens of Dorchester when that team was one of the strongest in the state, catches. Another star performer is George Mahoney, who plays second. Mahoney, who is one of the largest men in the department, played football for English high school some years ago, when the team was of championship quality. He went to Georgetown, where he caught on the team during its most successful seasons. He also played with the Boston National league team some years ago.

The remainder of the team is made up of John J. Mullen 1b, Fred J. Swendemann 2b, Andrew T. Walsh ss, Thomas M. Towle cf, John J. Rooney lf, and Michael J. Mathews rf.

During the season the team has defeated teams from division 4 and the Press club and a team captained by Eugene O'Connor, an old Eastern league player. Much of its success is due to the efficient manner in which it has been managed by Patrolman John J. Coffey.

Among the players on the Lowell team are six former professionals. They claim that during the past few years, they have played 40 games, losing only one, and that to a New England league team. The game today is scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock.

Extremely large values in Ladies' Shirt Waists and Suits at Chris. Holmes', 124 and 126 Merrimack st.

THE BUTLER VETS

Did Not Make Record at Haverhill

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31—Conditions were bad for the playout of hand tubs here yesterday.

The playout course at the Webster grounds was laid directly opposite from the usual course, the companies playing to the south, and unfortunately, for the greater part of the afternoon they had the wind dead against them. The element of luck in the work is seen by the fact that the Salem White Angels were unable to get on to the paper with their stream, and the City of Lowell and City of Somerville teams were equally unfortunate, while the Tigers of Newburyport, who were accounted a dark horse in the contest, won the first money by a long lead, their regular stream being 181 feet 7½ inches, after which a second trial was made, in which the drops increased the distance to 188 feet 8⅝ inches. The order of the playout and the distance made were as follows:

	Ft.	In.
Neptune, Newburyport	150	8
L. V. Spaulding, Haverhill	155	6½
White Angel, Salem	*
Nonantum, Newton	172	6
Torrent 4, Gardner	174	3¾
Deluge, North Cambridge	151	7
Hancock, Brockton	150	8
Columbia, Winchendon	177	0⅝
Protection, Amesbury	*
City of Lowell, Lowell	*
City of Somerville, Somerville	*
City of Lawrence, Lawrence	173	6½
Protector, Haverhill	*
Gen. Taylor, Everett	157	3½
Cocheco, Braintree	151	10¼
Red Jackets, Cambridge	164	8¾
Fountain, Exeter	161	9
Paul Revere, Revere	173	4¾
Tigers, Newburyport	181	7½

*No record.

First money was awarded to the Tigers, Columbia second, Torrent third and City of Lawrence fourth. The judges were Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell, ex-Chief S. C. Reed of Newburyport, Chief W. E. Cone of Wakefield, ex-Chief George H. Wilfred of Revere, Capt. E. H. Hooper of Peabody and C. N. Perkins of Lawrence. The prize awarded to the company covering the longest distance went to the Columbia's company of Winchendon, and for the company making the best appearance to the L. V. Spaulding company of this city.

BARN CONSUMED

Lively Blaze in Pawtucketville Last Night

IN BARN FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY ITALIANS

One Horse Burned in Its Stall

All Pawtucketville was aroused from its slumbers about midnight by a brilliant fire in the barn owned by David S. Clark, in the rear of 11 Woodward avenue.

The residents of the vicinity were thrown into a state of excitement not only by the brilliancy of the blaze but by a knowledge of the fact that for the past few months the barn has been occupied by 75 Italian laborers who left it only a few days ago.

The blaze was in progress fully 20 minutes before the alarm was sounded and the burning barn was only a stone's throw from the Pawtucketville fire house.

The blaze was first seen in the distance by passengers on the last Lowell-bound Pelham car and by the railroad employes at the power house 23 minutes before the alarm sounded. On the last car was Edward Commerford, residing on White street, who kept a horse and order wagon in the barn. Mr. Commerford arrived on the scene almost as soon as the first fire company, but too late to save his horse.

James Welch of Second avenue and some ladies residing on Third avenue discovered the flames when they shot through the roof. Mr. Welch ran to the barn and attempted to get the horse out but was driven back by the flames. The women woke up the firemen in the engine house while Officer Edward Fox rang in an alarm from box 127, at the corner of Mammoth road and Fourth avenue.

The building was a two story and a half barn with one story carriage shed adjoining and in a short time both were in ruins. The wind carried the sparks over the residence of Police Officer Henry Somers nearby, and for a time it was feared that this building would ignite, though it escaped without damage.

The barn was used by Mr. Commerford to keep his house and wagon in and by Edward H. Morse, a son-in-law of the owner, as a store house for vehicles. An order wagon and two old hacks were saved. The loss is estimated at $1500.

Just how the fire started is a mystery. It appears to have had its origin in the upper right hand corner of the building and the whole interior was in flames before the discovery was made.

The reflection of the blaze was seen for a great distance and considering the hour a large crowd gathered.

Fred C. Church held the insurance on the building.

GIRL UNCONSCIOUS

LIGHTNING STRUCK A BARN IN ROCHESTER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 31.—The worst electrical storm of the season visited this section yesterday afternoon. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning struck in many places.

The barn of William McDuffee, about two miles out on the Farmington road, was badly shattered.

Miss Nellie McDuffee, daughter of Mr. McDuffee, who was in the barn at the time, was knocked down and rendered unconscious. She afterward regained consciousness and will, it is thought, recover.

A horse, a cow and a pig were also felled, the pig dying soon after. The barn was damaged to the extent of $300, covered by insurance.

This is the third time Mr. McDuffee's buildings have been struck by lightning.

The lightning also shattered two shade trees at Gonic.

C. F. KEYES · Auctioneer

OFFICE, OLD BOSTON & MAINE STATION, GREEN STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AND 4498 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 313 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder, at public auction, this dwelling house of 12 rooms, sewing room, bath, pantry; large, fine cellar. At the present time it is occupied by two tenants, receiving $15 for down stairs and $13 for up stairs, making a yearly rental of about $336. It is very comfortably laid out for two tenements at present and for little money could be put in perfect two-tenement property. The location is all that could be desired, right at the junction of Pine and Westford streets, on the easterly side, on the best smooth-paved street and electric car service in the city; but five minutes' ride to the post office, and it is a thoroughly good prospect for either a residence or a two-tenement purpose.

The lot contains about 4498 square feet of land with a frontage on Westford street of about 41 feet. The sale will be made at the premises, and if you are interested in such property, be sure and be there in attendance.

Terms: $350 must be secured to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. 75 per cent. of the selling price can remain on mortgage.

Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, C. F. Keyes, who is in charge.

Debris Sent Miles Into the Air—Phenomena of the Explosion That Caused Discussion—The Funerals of the Victims—Sufferers at the Hospitals—The Search for Bodies

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SANDERSON CAME TO LOWELL THIS AFTERNOON AND VISITED THE SCENE OF THE EXPLOSION. THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY WAS INFORMED THAT JUDGE HADLEY WOULD INSIST UPON HIM CONDUCTING THE INQUESTS RESULTING FROM THE EXPLOSION AND MR. SANDERSON VISITED THE SCENE IN ORDER TO FAMILIARIZE HIMSELF WITH THE CONDITIONS THERE, THE LAY OF THE LAND, THE POSITION OF THE MAGAZINES AND THE PROXIMITY OF DWELLING HOUSES.

INSPECTOR LAFLAMME MET THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AT THE MIDDLESEX STREET STATION AND TOOK HIM TO THE SCENE OF THE DISASTER WHERE THEY WERE MET BY JUDGE HADLEY AND DEPUTY WELCH, ACTING SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE

HAND BURIED

IN THE GRADY FAMILY LOT THIS AFTERNOON.

The hand of James Leo Grady, which was the only portion of the boy's body found, was interred in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery this afternoon. The hand was taken in Undertaker O'Donnell's wagon to the cemetery and then placed in the grave.

RELATIVES OF PERUSSE FAMILY.

Twelve relatives of the Perusse family, coming from Fall River and New York, arrived at the scene of the explosion this afternoon, and after securing passes from Selectman Blaisdell, went through the ruins.

SEARCHING FOR BROTHER'S BODY.

A brother of the Flynn boy, who was blown to atoms, called at the headquarters this afternoon, seeking permission to make a search of the ruins for some fragments of the body of his brother, if it was possible to find any of the remains. He was granted permission to search the place.

THE CARTRIDGE COMPANY

WILL HELP THE STRICKEN ONES.

Paul Butler, treasurer and superintendent of the United States Cartridge Co., called early for an interview with Chairman Blaisdell, of the selectmen of the town of Tewksbury, in regard to doing all in their power to aid the afflicted, both with money or any other way. This aid at present is to be distributed under the present arrangement by the selectmen of the town of Tewksbury.

Chairman Blaisdell stated to a representative of The Sun that late this afternoon a large contribution would be made by the United States Cartridge Co. to the fund already started.

WATCHES DAMAGED.

The Waltham Watch store on Middlesex street in the Elliott building, had several watches and clocks shaken off the shelves and also several lights of glass were broken.

WINDOW BROKEN.

The Bellelsle Clothing Co. had a transom glass window broken by the shock.

TOY BANK FOUND

THERE WAS ONLY ONE CENT IN IT.

A toy bank with one cent in it was found in one of the rooms of the Burgess house, at the corner of River and Billerica streets, today. The bank was the property of Annis Burgess, a little girl, and the bank was placed in the tent at headquarters where everybody who passed dropped in some money. At two o'clock there was over ten dollars in the little bank.

Several of the people who visited the tent folded up bills and dropped them in. One old sea captain called at the tent and after depositing a dollar bill in the bank asked if he could have a slight memento of the wrecked house, and he was given permission to take one of the clapboards. He also made the request that he would like to see the little Burgess girl, but she was not around.

The Burgess family were among the fortunate ones who were away at the time of the explosion. They were at the beach, but their house is almost a total loss.

TELEPHONE INSTALLED

AT THE HEADQUARTERS AT SCENE OF EXPLOSION.

A telephone was installed in the headquarters this afternoon by the New England Telephone & Telegraph company. The people in charge have found it difficult to communicate with people in this city and out of town and the telephone company facilitated the matter by installing one of their instruments.

One of the wires at the corner of River and Billerica streets was tapped and Supt. Beals of the street department was the first man to use the instrument, that gentleman telephoning to the headquarters of the street department for about 50 lanterns to be used on the boundary lines of the devastated territory at night.

TRAIN WAS NEAR

NASHUA MAN TELLS OF THE EXPLOSION.

John E. Dearborn, a prominent real estate agent of Nashua, was on the Boston train Wednesday morning and consequently was at the explosion within one minute after it had taken place. When the train came to a stop he got off and was a spectator at the terrible scenes all the forenoon.

W. W. Whitney of Nashua was also on the train. He tells the experience of the passengers as follows: "We had just pulled out of Lowell and were not more than half a mile away when the explosion occurred. The engineer stopped the train as soon as possible, and we were nearly opposite the place. The debris had fallen and for two or three minutes everything seemed as quiet as on a Sunday afternoon. Not a being was in sight.

"It seemed just as though no one could realize the terrible calamity which had befallen.

"One thought for a moment that a cyclone had passed over the place a week or so before and no one had been there since. A thin column of smoke came from one of the wrecks which I suppose a moment before had been a house. This grew in volume and then a blaze burst out.

"After seeing that the track ahead was clear and safe the train went on. Probably if many had realized the extent of the calastrophe more would have left the train to see if assistance could be rendered to anyone."

It is said that this train, which is the 8.20 from Nashua city station, would have been just opposite the magazines if it had been on time. Had this been so the train would have been directly in line of the force of the explosion and would have been knocked into the Concord river.

H. G. Learned was another Nashuan who was on the train at the time. He was in Boston yesterday so he could not be interviewed.

The force of the explosion was such that the train was lifted from the irons, but righted itself immediately. This created much consternation among the passengers.

A director of the railroad who was a passenger is certain there would have been loss of life on the train had it been nearer the bridge.

HELD LONG SESSION

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MET THE OFFICIALS.

At a preliminary to the regular inquest to be held, Judge Hadley, District Attorney Sanderson, Chairman Blaisdell of the selectmen of Tewksbury, Deputy Redmond Welsh, General Whitney of the state board of police and several state police officers with the other selectmen of the town of Tewksbury, met at the scene of the explosion this afternoon.

They were in formal session for over an hour arranging preliminary details and hearing informal testimony. Among other things offered was a written paper from which General Whitney testified purporting to come from witnesses who had been injured.

The testimony was not made public, and the members of the party were notified that the meeting was informal and that the formal inquest will be held as soon as possible.

FIREMEN AT WORK

PUMPING WATER OUT OF THE LARGE HOLES.

The firemen of Engine 3 arrived on the scene shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and pumped out the water from the hole representing where the dynamite magazine stood and also the small hole nearby.

About three feet of water was pumped out, and outside of a few fragments of the heavy wagons there was nothing of importance found.

Early this afternoon Supt. of Streets Beals and Maurice Fitzgerald, an expert on dynamite, of the sewer department, visited the scene for the purpose of identifying any dynamite or other explosives which might be found. Fitzgerald is of the opinion that the stuff found this morning which was thought to be dynamite, was not dynamite, but some other material, probably harmless.

Upon looking over the scene of the explosion, Mr. Fitzgerald stated that he firmly believed that three smaller holes between the places where the two magazines stood were made by the three wagons which were loaded with the dynamite. This would go to prove that the wagons must have been heavily laden with the material in order to make such an impression in the ground.

While the members of Engine 3 were pumping out the larger hole this afternoon the can which was found this morning and which was supposed to contain dynamite, was taken out and its contents examined. It contained grease used on cartridges, not dynamite.

WILL TAKE DEPOSITION.

Judge Samuel P. Hadley has visited the ruins every day since the explosion occurred and as stated in The Sun yesterday, will insist upon a rigid investigation. He stated today that as soon as Clarendon Goodwin, now at St. John's hospital, is able to talk, he would insist that his deposition be taken.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Rochester Man Beaten in Lynn

WAYLAID BY KNIGHTS OF LABOR SYMPATHIZERS

Crowd Shouted to Lynch Him

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., July 31.—John Franklin Hyle, a boot and shoe workers' union cutter of Rochester, N. Y., was set upon, brutally beaten, kicked and trampled just after noon today near the J. H. Cross shoe factory, where he was waylaid by a crowd of Knights of Labor sympathizers. The fight attracted a crowd of 2500 people to Broad street. The police answered a riot call and arrested Patten Potter and Edwin Burnham. They are seeking other men who were seen running. During the fight operatives in nearby shoe factories leaned from the windows and called "Kill him; lynch him," but the police prevented more serious results, although Hyle was taken to the hospital cut, bruised and bleeding. He said he recognized none of the attacking party and had no warning of the attack.

SENT TO PRISON

LABOR LEADER FOUND GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

(By Pacific Cable.)

MANILA, July 31.—Dominador Gomez, president of the confederation labor union has been found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to imprisonment for six months. When the union was declared bankrupt sometime ago, upon investigation of its affairs by the government, a newspaper connected with it suspended and placed in the hands of a receiver, Gomez took upon himself to republish the paper and was promptly arrested upon the charge of contempt for which he has just been sentenced.

Gomez was arrested in May last upon a charge of embezzlement of funds from the labor union, the government charging that the money stolen was used to furnish arms and food for the insurgents of Risal province. The union which has a membership of 15,000 has always been closely allied with the national party and is strongly in sympathy with the insurgents.

The above dispatch is the first press dispatch transmitted over the Pacific cable.

WILL CURTAIL

LEWISTON MILLS FORCED TO TAKE ACTION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LEWISTON, July 31. The extreme high price of raw cotton has compelled the Bates and Androscoggin manufacturing companies to order a curtailment of the output. Today notices were posted on the gates of those two corporations notifying the employes that after tomorrow the mills would be in operation but four days a week until further notice.

The Bates and Androscoggin companies are the largest in Lewiston and together employ 3000 hands. This is the first announcement this season of any extended curtailment in Maine and it is thought other cotton mills in the state may take similar action.

CABOT MILLS WILL CLOSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRUNSWICK, Maine, July 31.—Orders were received today from the Boston office of the company to shut down the Cabot cotton mills here for two weeks. The order affects 1000 operatives. The closing is said to be due to the high price of cotton.

VICTIMS BURIED

Many Hearses Moved Slowly to Silent Cities

The sadness of the explosion was reflected in the streets again today when funeral corteges marched gloomily on to the cemeteries where were interred the victims of the calamity that has thrown this community into mourning.

The funeral of John F. McMaster took place at 2 o'clock from his late home, 76 Chapel street. It was not a military funeral but a small detail from Troop F cavalry, of which the deceased was a member, escorted the body to the grave.

The bearers were Corporals Marshall, Quigley, Haley, Carlson, Taylor and McLeod.

Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Appleton street officiated at the house and at the grave. Burial was in the Edson cemetery in charge of Undertaker Young.

JAMES SULLIVAN.

The funeral of James Sullivan, another victim of the explosion, took place from his home in Queen street at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The bearers were George Bullard, Charles Hunt, William Powers and Prince Turcotte. Rev. W. D. Morang officiated at the house and at the grave. Interment was in the Edson cemetery in charge of C. M. Young.

FATHER AND SON BURIED.

The remains of William Galloway and Robert Galloway, father and son, victims of the explosion, were consigned to their final resting place in the Edson cemetery this afternoon.

The funerals took place from the funeral parlors of Undertaker James H. McDermott in Gorham street and the remains of the father were placed in a black hearse while a white hearse bore the remains of the little boy. The hearses, side by side, wended their way to the Edson cemetery where services were held at the chapel, Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church, officiating.

The bearers were Messrs. Michael Shanley, George J. Doyle, Andrew K. Bender and Edward Fairburn.

The interment was under the direction of Funeral Director Thomas J. McDermott.

TROTTER'S WIFE

Accused of Assaulting a Police Officer

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Never before has the Boston court house seen such an assembling of negroes as today when the corridors were filled with those trying to get into court to listen to the evidence given as to the actions at the tumultuous negro meeting in the Columbia avenue A. M. E. Zion church last night at which Booker T. Washington was present.

Judge Burke was on the bench in the first session of the municipal court when Granville Martin, W. M. Trotter and Bernard Charles were charged with disturbing a public meeting. Charles appeared in the dock, his clothes torn and cut and he had been badly slashed with a razor.

The cases were continued until Aug. 6.

A warrant was issued for Maude A. Trotter, charging her with assault and battery with a hat pin upon Patrolman Malley.

FATALLY BURNED

CHILD WAS PLAYING AROUND A BONFIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 31.—Harry Boardman, aged 4, was fatally burned while playing around a bonfire at his home on Polo street this morning. He died in the Woonsocket hospital this afternoon. The child's mother was frightfully burned about the arms and hands in trying to smother the flames.

WELL KNOWN ATHLETE

THOMAS L. LEE DIED OF HEART FAILURE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31—Thomas L. Lee, well known as an athlete and as a writer on sporting topics, died at his home in this city today, aged 33 years, of heart failure. He was champion 100 yards sprinter 10 years ago with a record of 10 seconds flat and was one of the American team that beat the London Athletic club so decisively at Manhattan Field several years ago.

PLEADED POVERTY

YET MAN HAD $1060 AROUND HIS WAIST.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—George Hynes, a septuagenarian, who is said to be of a good Boston family, was taken in charge by the police at New Rochelle yesterday because he was wandering aimlessly around, asserting that he had no money with which to secure lodging. When searched at police headquarters, a bag strapped to his waist was found and in it was $1960.

"Why do you carry all this money around with you?" asked Sergeant Cody.

"Oh, because I was afraid the bank in Boston where I reside, would be robbed, or else fail," the old man replied.

TRACKS WERE WET

MOTORMAN UNABLE TO CONTROL HIS CAR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—An electric car carrying several passengers crashed into another electric at the foot of Olney street hill last night. Both cars were badly damaged but none of the passengers on either car was seriously hurt. Because of wet rails the motorman on the electric descending the hill was unable to control his car, the wheels sliding along the track after the brakes were applied.

STRIKE SETTLED

COMPROMISE OFFER HAS BEEN ACCEPTED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 31.—The strike of the iron moulders which has been on since May 1, for an increase of wages was settled yesterday by the strikers accepting the manufacturers' compromise offer. The agreement accepted yesterday, dates from July 1 and runs for one year. It calls for a minimum wage of $3 for a nine hour day and an advance of 10 cents a day to all moulders getting more than $3.

LOWELL POLICE

Playing for New England Championship

By Associated Press to The Sun

The baseball championship of New England, so far as the police are concerned, will be settled today, when the team from division 9, Boston, meets a team from the police department of Lowell on the Huntington avenue grounds.

Judging from the form exhibited by the Roxbury "coppers," in practice games, the team is fast enough to meet almost any of the semi-professional clubs in the state. The battery is very strong, considering that the men have very little opportunity to practice; the infield works well together and the men in the outfield cover a great deal of ground.

The pitching is done by "Tom" Smith, an old Louisville and Philadelphia National leaguer, and thus far this season his benders have been an enigma to the men who have faced him. "Jack" Conboy, who caught for the Warrens of Dorchester when that team was one of the strongest in the state, catches. Another star performer is George Mahoney, who plays second. Mahoney, who is one of the largest men in the department, played football for English high school some years ago, when the team was of championship quality. He went to Georgetown, where he caught on the team during its most succesful seasons. He also played with the Boston National league team some years ago.

The remainder of the team is made up of John J. Mullen 1b, Fred J. Swendemann 2b, Andrew T. Walsh ss, Thomas M. Towle cf, John J. Rooney lf, and Michael J. Mathews rf.

During the season the team has defeated teams from division 4 and the Press club and a team captained by Eugene O'Connor, an old Eastern league player. Much of its success is due to the efficient manner in which it has been managed by Patrolman John J. Coffey.

Among the players on the Lowell team are six former professionals. They claim that during the past few years, they have played 40 games, losing only one, and that to a New England league team. The game today is scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock.

Did Not Make Record at Haverhill

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31—Conditions were bad for the playout of hand tubs here yesterday.

The playout course at the Webster grounds was laid directly opposite from the usual course, the companies playing to the south, and unfortunately, for the greater part of the afternoon they had the wind dead against them. The element of luck in the work is seen by the fact that the Salem White Angels were unable to get on to the paper with their stream, and the City of Lowell and City of Somerville teams were equally unfortunate, while the Tigers of Newburyport, who were accounted a dark horse in the contest, won the first money by a long lead, their regular stream being 181 feet 7½ inches, after which a second trial was made, in which the drops increased the distance to 188 feet 5⅝ inches. The order of the playout and the distance made were as follows:

	Ft.	In.
Neptune, Newburyport	150	8
L. V. Spaulding, Haverhill	155	6½
White Angel, Salem	*	..
Nonantum, Newton	172	6

*No record.

First money was awarded to the Tigers, Columbia second, Torrent third and City of Lawrence fourth. The judges were Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell, ex-Chief S. C. Reed of Newburyport, Chief W. E. Cage of Wakefield, ex-Chief George H. Wilfred of Revere, Capt. E. H. Hooper of Peabody and C. N. Perkins of Lawrence. The prize awarded to the company covering the longest distance went to the Columbia's company of Winchendon, and for the company making the best appearance to the L. V. Spaulding company of this city.

BARN CONSUMED

Lively Blaze in Pawtucketville Last Night

IN BARN FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY ITALIANS

One Horse Burned in Its Stall

All Pawtucketville was aroused from its slumbers about midnight by a brilliant fire in the barn owned by David S. Clark, in the rear of 11 Woodward avenue.

The residents of the vicinity were thrown into a state of excitement not only by the brilliancy of the blaze but by a knowledge of the fact that for the past few months the barn has been occupied by 75 Italian laborers who left it only a few days ago.

The blaze was in progress fully 20 minutes before the alarm was sounded and the burning barn was only a stone's throw from the Pawtucketville fire house.

The blaze was first seen in the distance by passengers on the last Lowell-bound Pelham car and by the railroad employes at the power house 20 minutes before the alarm sounded. On the last car was Edward Commerford, residing on White street, who kept a horse and order wagon in the barn. Mr. Commerford arrived on the scene almost as soon as the first fire company, but too late to save his horse.

James Welch of Second avenue and some ladies residing on Third avenue discovered the flames when they shot through the roof. Mr. Welch ran to the barn and attempted to get the horse out but was driven back by the flames. The women woke up the firemen in the engine house while Officer Edward Fox rang in an alarm from box 127, at the corner of Mammoth road and Fourth avenue.

The building was a two story and a half barn with one story carriage shed adjoining and in a short time both were in ruins. The wind carried the sparks over the residence of Police Officer Henry Somers nearby, and for a time it was feared that this building would ignite, though it escaped without damage.

The barn was used by Mr. Commerford to keep his house and wagon in and by Edward H. Morse, a son-in-law of the owner, as a store house for vehicles. An order wagon and two old hacks were saved. The loss is estimated at $1500.

Just how the fire started is a mystery. It appears to have had its origin in the upper right hand corner of the building and the whole interior was in flames before the discovery was made.

The reflection of the blaze was seen for a great distance and considering the hour a large crowd gathered.

Fred C. Church held the insurance on the building.

GIRL UNCONSCIOUS

LIGHTNING STRUCK A BARN IN ROCHESTER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 31.—The worst electrical storm of the season visited this section yesterday afternoon. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning struck in many places.

The barn of William McDuffee, about two miles out on the Farmington road, was badly shattered.

Miss Nellie McDuffee, daughter of Mr. McDuffee, who was in the barn at the time, was knocked down and rendered unconscious. She afterward regained consciousness and will, it is thought, recover.

A horse, a cow and a pig were also killed, the pig dying soon after. The barn was damaged to the extent of $300, covered by insurance.

This is the third time Mr. McDuffee's buildings have been struck by lightning.

The lightning also shattered two shade trees at Gonic.

C. F. KEYES - Auctioneer
OFFICE, OLD BOSTON & MAINE STATION, GREEN STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AND 4498 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 313 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder, at public auction, this dwelling house of 12 rooms, sewing room, bath, pantry; large, fine cellar. At the present time it is occupied by two tenants, receiving $15 for down stairs and $13 for up stairs, making a yearly rental of about $336. It is very comfortably laid out for two tenements at present and for little money could be put in perfect two-tenement property. The location is all that could be desired, right at the junction of Pine and Westford streets, on the easterly side, on the best smooth-paved street and electric car service in the city; but five minutes' ride to the post office, and it is a thoroughly good prospect for either a residence or a two-tenement purpose.

The lot contains about 4498 square feet of land with a frontage on Westford street of about 41 feet. The sale will be made at the premises, and if you are interested in such property, be sure and be there in attendance.

Terms: $350 must be secured to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. 75 per cent. of the selling price can remain on mortgage.

Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, C. F. Keyes, who is in charge.

Debris Sent Miles Into the Air—Phenomena of the Explosion That Caused Discussion—The Funerals of the Victims—Sufferers at the Hospitals—The Search for Bodies

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SANDERSON CAME TO LOWELL THIS AFTERNOON AND VISITED THE SCENE OF THE EXPLOSION. THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY WAS INFORMED THAT JUDGE HADLEY WOULD INSIST UPON HIM CONDUCTING THE INQUESTS RESULTING FROM THE EXPLOSION AND MR. SANDERSON VISITED THE SCENE IN ORDER TO FAMILIARIZE HIMSELF WITH THE CONDITIONS THERE, THE LAY OF THE LAND, THE POSITION OF THE MAGAZINES AND THE PROXIMITY OF DWELLING HOUSES.

INSPECTOR LAFLAMME MET THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AT THE MIDDLESEX STREET STATION AND TOOK HIM TO THE SCENE OF THE DISASTER WHERE THEY WERE MET BY JUDGE HADLEY AND DEPUTY WELCH, ACTING SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE

HAND BURIED

IN THE GRADY FAMILY LOT THIS AFTERNOON.

The hand of James Leo Grady, which was the only portion of the boy's body found, was interred in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery this afternoon. The hand was taken in Undertaker O'Donnell's wagon to the cemetery and then placed in the grave.

RELATIVES OF PERUSSE FAMILY.

Twelve relatives of the Perusse family, coming from Fall River and New York, arrived at the scene of the explosion this afternoon, and after securing passes from Selectman Blaisdell, went through the ruins.

SEARCHING FOR BROTHER'S BODY.

A brother of the Flynn boy, who was blown to atoms, called at the headquarters this afternoon, seeking permission to make a search of the ruins for some fragments of the body of his brother, if it was possible to find any of the remains. He was granted permission to search the place.

THE CARTRIDGE COMPANY

WILL HELP THE STRICKEN ONES.

Paul Butler, treasurer and superintendent of the United States Cartridge Co., called early for an interview with Chairman Blaisdell, of the selectmen of the town of Tewksbury, in regard to doing all in their power to aid the afflicted, both with money or any other way. This aid at present is to be distributed under the present arrangement by the selectmen of the town of Tewksbury.

Chairman Blaisdell stated to a representative of The Sun that late this afternoon a large contribution would be made by the United States Cartridge Co. to the fund already started.

WATCHES DAMAGED.

The Waltham Watch store on Middlesex street in the Elliott building, had several watches and clocks shaken off the shelves and also several lights of glass were broken.

WINDOW BROKEN.

The Belleisle Clothing Co. had a transom glass window broken by the shock.

TOY BANK FOUND

THERE WAS ONLY ONE CENT IN IT.

A toy bank with one cent in it was found in one of the rooms of the Burgess house, at the corner of River and Billerica streets, today. The bank was the property of Annis Burgess, a little girl, and the bank was placed in the tent at headquarters where everybody who passed dropped in some money. At two o'clock there was over ten dollars in the little bank.

Several of the people who visited the tent folded up bills and dropped them in. One old sea captain called at the tent and after depositing a dollar bill in the bank asked if he could have a slight memento of the wrecked house, and he was given permission to take one of the clapboards. He also made the request that he would like to see the little Burgess girl, but she was not around.

The Burgess family were among the fortunate ones who were away at the time of the explosion. They were at the beach, but their house is almost a total loss.

TELEPHONE INSTALLED

AT THE HEADQUARTERS AT SCENE OF EXPLOSION.

A telephone was installed in the headquarters this afternoon by the New England Telephone & Telegraph company. The people in charge have found it difficult to communicate with people in this city and out of town and the telephone company facilitated the matter by installing one of their instruments.

THE WEATHER

By Associated Press to The Sun

Fair and cooler tonight; fair Saturday.

WELCH BROS.
Plumbers and Steam Fitters, 143 Middle street. Telephone 879-4.

One of the wires at the corner of River and Billerica streets was tapped and Supt. Beals of the street department was the first man to use the instrument, that gentleman telephoning to the headquarters of the street department for about 50 lanterns to be used on the boundary lines of the devastated territory at night.

TRAIN WAS NEAR

NASHUA MAN TELLS OF THE EXPLOSION.

John E. Dearborn, a prominent real estate agent of Nashua, was on the Boston train Wednesday morning and consequently was at the explosion within one minute after it had taken place. When the train came to a stop he got off and was a spectator at the terrible scenes all the forenoon.

W. W. Whitney of Nashua was also on the train. He tells the experience of the passengers as follows: "We had just pulled out of Lowell and were not more than half a mile away when the explosion occurred. The engineer stopped the train as soon as possible, and we were nearly opposite the place. The debris had fallen and for two or three minutes everything seemed as quiet as on a Sunday afternoon. Not a being was in sight.

"It seemed just as though no one could realize the terrible calamity which had befallen.

"One thought for a moment that a cyclone had passed over the place a week or so before and no one had been there since. A thin column of smoke came from one of the wrecks which I suppose a moment before had been a house. This grew in volume and then a blaze burst out.

"After seeing that the track ahead was clear and safe the train went on. Probably if many had realized the extent of the catastrophe more would have left the train to see if assistance could be rendered to anyone."

It is said that this train, which is the 8.20 from Nashua city station, would have been just opposite the magazines if it had been on time. Had this been so the train would have been directly in line of the force of the explosion and would have been knocked into the Concord river.

B. G. Learned was another Nashuan who was on the train at the time. He was in Boston yesterday so he could not be interviewed.

The force of the explosion was such that the train was lifted from the irons, but righted itself immediately. This created much consternation among the passengers.

A director of the railroad who was a passenger is certain there would have been loss of life on the train had it been nearer the bridge.

HELD LONG SESSION

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MET THE OFFICIALS.

At a preliminary to the regular inquest to be held, Judge Hadley, District Attorney Sanderson, Chairman Blaisdell of the selectmen of Tewksbury, Deputy Redmond Welsh, General Whitney of the state board of police and several state police officers with the other selectmen of the town of Tewksbury, met at the scene of the explosion this afternoon.

They were in formal session for over an hour arranging preliminary details and hearing informal testimony. Among other things offered was a written paper from which General Whitney testified purporting to come from witnesses who had been injured.

The testimony was not made public, and the members of the party were notified that the meeting was informal and that the formal inquest will be held as soon as possible.

FIREMEN AT WORK

PUMPING WATER OUT OF THE LARGE HOLES.

The firemen of Engine 3 arrived on the scene shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and pumped out the water from the hole representing where the dynamite magazine stood and also the small hole nearby.

About three feet of water was pumped out, and outside of a few fragments of the heavy wagons there was nothing of importance found.

Early this afternoon Supt. of Streets Beals and Maurice Fitzgerald, an expert on dynamite, of the sewer department, visited the scene for the purpose of identifying any dynamite or other explosives which might be found. Fitzgerald is of the opinion that the stuff found this morning which was thought to be dynamite, was not dynamite, but some other material, probably harmless.

Upon looking over the scene of the explosion, Mr. Fitzgerald stated that he firmly believed that three smaller holes between the places where the two magazines stood were made by the three wagons which were loaded with the dynamite. This would go to prove that the wagons must have been heavily laden with the material in order to make such an impression in the ground.

While the members of Engine 3 were pumping out the larger hole this afternoon the can which was found this morning and which was supposed to contain dynamite, was taken out and its contents examined. It contained grease used on cartridges, not dynamite.

WILL TAKE DEPOSITION.

Judge Samuel P. Hadley has visited the ruins every day since the explosion occurred and as stated in The Sun yesterday, will insist upon a rigid investigation. He stated today that as soon as Clarendon Goodwin, now at St. John's hospital, is able to talk, he would insist that his deposition be taken.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Rochester Man Beaten in Lynn

WAYLAID BY KNIGHTS OF LABOR SYMPATHIZERS

Crowd Shouted to Lynch Him

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., July 31.—John Franklin Hyle, a boot and shoe workers' union cutter of Rochester, N. Y., was set upon, brutally beaten, kicked and trampled just after noon today near the J. H. Cross shoe factory, where he was waylaid by a crowd of Knights of Labor sympathizers. The fight attracted a crowd of 2500 people to Broad street. The police answered a riot call and arrested Patton Potter and Edwin Burnham. They are seeking other men who were seen running. During the fight operatives in nearby shoe factories leaned from the windows and called "Kill him: lynch him," but the police prevented more serious results, although Hyle was taken to the hospital cut, bruised and bleeding. He said he recognized none of the attacking party and had no warning of the attack.

SENT TO PRISON

LABOR LEADER FOUND GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

(By Pacific Cable.)

MANILA, July 31.—Dominador Gomez, president of the confederation labor union has been found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to imprisonment for six months. When the union was declared bankrupt sometime ago, upon investigation of its affairs by the government, a newspaper connected with it suspended and placed in the hands of a receiver, Gomez took upon himself to republish the paper and was promptly arrested upon the charge of contempt for which he has just been sentenced.

Gomez was arrested in May last upon a charge of embezzlement of funds from the labor union, the government charging that the money stolen was used to furnish arms and food for the insurgents of Risal province. The union which has a membership of 15,000 has always been closely allied with the national party and is strongly in sympathy with the insurgents.

The above dispatch is the first press dispatch transmitted over the Pacific cable.

WILL CURTAIL

LEWISTON MILLS FORCED TO TAKE ACTION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LEWISTON, July 31.—The extreme high price of raw cotton has compelled the Bates and Androscoggin manufacturing companies to order a curtailment of the output. Today notices were posted on the gates of those two corporations notifying the employes that after tomorrow the mills would be in operation but four days a week until further notice.

The Bates and Androscoggin companies are the largest in Lewiston and together employ 3000 hands. This is the first announcement this season of any extended curtailment in Maine and it is thought other cotton mills in the state may take similar action.

CABOT MILLS WILL CLOSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRUNSWICK, Maine, July 31.—Orders were received today from the Boston office of the company to shut down the Cabot cotton mills here for two weeks. The order affects 1000 operatives. The closing is said to be due to the high price of cotton.

VICTIMS BURIED

Many Hearses Moved Slowly to Silent Cities

The sadness of the explosion was reflected in the streets again today when funeral corteges marched gloomily on to the cemeteries where were interred the victims of the calamity that has thrown this community into mourning.

The funeral of John F. McMaster took place at 2 o'clock from his late home, 76 Chapel street. It was not a military funeral but a small detail from Troop F cavalry, of which the deceased was a member, escorted the body to the grave.

The bearers were Corporals Marshall, Quigley, Haley, Carlson, Taylor and McLeod.

Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Appleton street officiated at the house and at the grave. Burial was in the Edson cemetery in charge of Undertaker Young.

JAMES SULLIVAN.

The funeral of James Sullivan, another victim of the explosion, took place from his home in Queen street at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The bearers were George Bullard, Charles Hunt, William Powers and Prince Turcotte. Rev. W. D. Morang officiated at the house and at the grave. Interment was in the Edson cemetery in charge of C. M. Young.

FATHER AND SON BURIED.

The remains of William Galloway and Robert Galloway, father and son, victims of the explosion, were consigned to their final resting place in the Edson cemetery this afternoon.

The funerals took place from the funeral parlors of Undertaker James H. McDermott in Gorham street and the remains of the father were placed in a black hearse while a white hearse bore the remains of the little boy. The hearses, side by side, wended their way to the Edson cemetery where services were held at the chapel, Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church, officiating.

The bearers were Messrs. Michael Shanley, George J. Doyle, Andrew K. Bender and Edward Fairburn.

The interment was under the direction of Funeral Director Thomas J. McDermott.

TROTTER'S WIFE

Accused of Assaulting a Police Officer

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Never before has the Boston court house seen such an assembling of negroes as today when the corridors were filled with those trying to get into court to listen to the evidence given as to the actions at the tumultuous negro meeting in the Columbia avenue A. M. E. Zion church last night at which Booker T. Washington was present.

Judge Burke was on the bench in the first session of the municipal court when Granville Martin, W. M. Trotter and Bernard Charles were charged with disturbing a public meeting. Charles appeared in the dock, his clothes torn and cut and he had been badly slashed with a razor.

The cases were continued until Aug. 6.

A warrant was issued for Maude A. Trotter, charging her with assault and battery with a hat pin upon Patrolman Malley.

FATALLY BURNED

CHILD WAS PLAYING AROUND A BONFIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 31.—Harry Boardman, aged 4, was fatally burned while playing around a bonfire at his home on Polo street this morning. He died in the Woonsocket hospital this afternoon. The child's mother was frightfully burned about the arms and hands in trying to smother the flames.

WELL KNOWN ATHLETE

THOMAS I. LEE DIED OF HEART FAILURE.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Thomas I. Lee, well known as an athlete and as a writer on sporting topics, died at his home in this city today, aged 33 years, of heart failure. He was champion 100 yards sprinter 10 years ago with a record of 10 seconds flat and was one of the American team that beat the London Athletic club so decisively at Manhattan Field several years ago.

PLEADED POVERTY

YET MAN HAD $1960 AROUND HIS WAIST.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—George Hynes, a septuagenarian, who is said to be of a good Boston family, was taken in charge by the police at New Rochelle yesterday because he was wandering aimlessly around, asserting that he had no money with which to secure lodging. When searched at police headquarters, a bag strapped to his waist was found and in it was $1960.

"Why do you carry all this money around with you?" asked Sergeant Cody.

"Oh, because I was afraid the bank in Boston where I reside, would be robbed, or else fail," the old man replied.

RIOT IN CHURCH

Opponents of Booker T. Washington Raised Disturbance

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—An attempt on the part of half a dozen colored persons opposed to Rev. Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama, to ask questions at a meeting which he was addressing last night at the Zion church, resulted almost in a riot and 25 policemen were required to quell the disturbance. Several arrests were made during which one policeman received an ugly stab from a hatpin. One man said to be one of those opposed to Mr. Washington, received several razor cuts and is now in the hospital.

After the arrests, Mr. Washington was allowed to proceed and spoke for nearly two hours.

Both factions at the close of the meetings issued statements.

Mr. Washington said in his statement that the colored people of Boston should not be held responsible for a few riotous individuals who were in a hopeless minority, while William Monroe Trotter, one of those who was arrested, stated that the cause of the riot was the action of the chairman, William H. Lewis, in ordering the arrest and ejectment of any person who hissed or manifested any objection to the remarks of the speaker.

It is said that the disturbance was pre-arranged, and after the meeting Mr. Trotter and his friends admitted that they went there with the idea of asking Mr. Washington a number of questions and to resent any attack that might be made on the New England representatives in the recent Afro-American council at Louisville.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Colored Business Men's association of this city and Hon. William H. Lewis, one of the United States assistant district attorneys, presided. The disorder was manifested almost at the beginning of the meeting, at times Mr. Lewis' remarks being hissed and two attempts made to interrupt him with questions. No serious disturbances, however occurred, until Thomas Fortune of New York, was introduced. When he stated that the opposition to Mr. Washington at Louisville was soundly "spanked," half a dozen persons in the audience jumped to their feet and in an instant the entire assembly was in a turmoil. One man was arrested and ejected by direction of the presiding officer and this served to quiet the meeting. As Mr. Fortune finished, Mr. Washington was introduced. This was a signal for a resumption of the hissing and an attempt on the part of four or five persons to ask questions. Mr. Washington tried unsuccessfully for an hour to continue his remarks. Finally Mr. Lewis sent for additional policemen and 25 responded from a near-by station. The chairman pointed out two persons whom he considered the leaders in the opposition, Granville Martin and William Trotter and they were arrested.

While the latter was being taken from the hall, a woman said to be his sister, stabbed one of the police officers with a hat pin, inflicting a deep but not necessarily dangerous wound. At about the same time in another part of the hall, Bernard Charles became involved in a heated argument with a supporter of Mr. Washington, with the result that he received a deep cut with a razor.

Order restored, Mr. Washington delivered his address, the subject of which was "The economic condition of the colored people of Boston, and the relation to those in the rest of the country."

FOR SUFFERERS

Wealthy Citizen Offers to Take Care of Them

The Sun today is able to explain why the Tewksbury authorities yesterday stated that they would take care of the explosion sufferers without asking for assistance from outside.

Many familiar with town affairs wondered how the town authorities could do the relief work without an appropriation which would necessitate a special town meeting, though none had been called.

When The Sun reporter asked Chairman Blaisdell of the Tewksbury selectmen yesterday if the town would stand the expense of the support of the homeless, Mr. Blaisdell made the significant answer, "They'll be cared for all right, and as far as caring for them is concerned no outside assistance is needed."

The Sun can state on positive authority that a well known citizen of this city who desires his name withheld from publication, is standing the expense of caring for these unfortunates and will continue to do so until such time as they are able to take care of themselves. The benefactor in question has informed the Tewksbury authorities that he wants all the people cared for and cared for well, and that the expense is not to be considered as he will pay all the bills, as he is well able to do. He only asked that his name be not published and was satisfied to have the impression given that the town is caring for them.

It was with the knowledge of this in mind that Selectman Blaisdell yesterday discouraged Acting Mayor Miskella's suggestion that a public meeting be called in Lowell to adopt measures for the relief of the sufferers, as proposed by The Sun.

THE CHARITABLE AYERS.

Frederick Fanning Ayer, Lowell's prince of public benefactors who is spending the summer at Rockland, Me., after hearing the details of the explosion from Dr. C. E. Stowell, manager of the J. C. Ayer Co., in this city immediately forwarded his check for $1000. Dr. Stowell then added $500 to the amount on behalf of the J. C. Ayer Co.

SLUGGER AT WORK

Fellow Still in Evidence at Newton

MISS KATE CURLEY WAS BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Reign of Terror In the Section

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWTON, July 31—Despite the numerous arrests of "sluggers" the one who infests this neighborhood is still in evidence. His latest victim is Miss Kate Curley, who Wednesday night was brutally assaulted within almost a stone's throw of the police station.

Coming as it does two weeks after the assault of Mrs. Georgia L. Everett of Newtonville, it has caused a veritable reign of terror. Women are afraid to walk out after dark unless accompanied by an escort. The police claim that there is no necessity for alarm, but the fact remains that these assaults have been committed, and also that not until late yesterday afternoon did they begin investigating Wednesday's affair.

Miss Curley, who is employed by Frank H. Nichols of 11 Church street, was on her way home. She had to pass through Vernon street, and to make a short cut, started to cross Farlow park, which is situated between Vernon and Church streets.

It is a lonely place, trees scattered here and there, and in the centre of it, a sort of grotto built of stone, particularly fitted in fact for such a deed. Miss Curley had neared the grotto when a man jumped from behind one of the trees and grasped her by the right arm.

He made some insulting remark and started to throw her to the ground. She screamed and struggled, but was eventually thrown down. Frenzied, she fought violently, and succeeded in partly freeing herself. Again and again she struck her assailant in the face. He, with an oath, loosened his grasp and she started on a run back to Vernon street.

He ran after her, and just as she reached the sidewalk seized her again, and once more threw her to the ground. Half choking her into insensibility he literally dragged her across the park almost to Church street, she struggling all the way.

But for the fact that her screams were heard by George W. Hills, opposite whose house on Vernon street the affair happened, the assault would undoubtedly have been of a far more brutal nature.

With a male guest he rushed down stairs just in time to see the two figures running in separate directions.

They followed the female figure and found Miss Curley crouching in the doorway of an unoccupied building on Church street, hysterical and half-frenzied.

Her description of the man was somewhat vague—young, smooth-faced, about 5 feet 10, dark hair, dressed in dark clothes and wore a derby hat.

A sergeant and officer were detailed on the case late yesterday afternoon, but thus far have accomplished but little, although they have several clues.

RIOTOUS LIVING

Led to a Labor Leader's Downfall

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Lawrence Murphy, former treasurer of the Journeymen Stone-cutter's union, who was arrested last December charged with embezzling $12,000 from the organization, and convicted last Monday of grand larceny, was today sentenced to five years and six months in state prison.

The prisoner's counsel asked for clemency for his client, but Judge Newburger scored the prisoner severely, saying that he had spent the funds of the union in riotous living and that his total stealings amounted to $27,000.

While the sentence was being pronounced Murphy interrupted the judge by saying, "This is a put up job," and "I hope your honor will investigate my case."

LISBON CELEBRATING

U. S. SQUADRON DRESSED SHIP FOR THE OCCASION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LISBON, July 31.—Today being the anniversary of the granting of the Portuguese constitution and also the anniversary of the birth of the Duke of Oporto, brother of King Charles, the cabinet ministers went to the royal castle at Cintro and congratulated the members of the royal family.

The United States European squadron and the Portuguese warships in these waters dressed ship for the occasion and fired salutes. Owing to the observance of this holiday, the luncheon which Rear Admiral Cotton was to give on board the Brooklyn today to the minister of public works was postponed indefinitely.

PEST STAMPED OUT

CHOLERA AND BUBONIC PLAGUE EFFECTIVELY DEALT WITH.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 31.—Dean C. Worcester, Philippine commissioner, one of the men entrusted with the task of establishing a civil government in the islands, has arrived here on his way home to Thetford, Vt. He reports that the terrible cattle pest has been stamped out, that cholera and bubonic plague have been effectively dealt with, that the insular government is making permanent improvements and defraying all its expenses on the proceeds of a reduced import customs duty, and that the land tax is solving the problem of revenues for provincial and municipal governments.

JUMPED TRACK

CAR ON BOSTON & NORTHERN ROAD DERAILED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31.—Eight passengers on a Boston & Northern electric car escaped serious injury by the car jumping the track near Serving brook, on North Main street, last evening. The cause of the derailment was the rough condition of the roadbed.

The electric, in charge of Motorman Young and Conductor Hobbs, was going to Rosemont at a fair speed when it jumped the tracks about 75 feet from the bridge over the brook.

The car crashed into a huge pole, snapping it off short, and brought up in a yard nearby after plowing up the ground for 50 feet.

Four of the women passengers jumped when it left the tracks and one was slightly injured. Conductor Hobbs was thrown under the car and severely hurt.

The passengers refused to give their names, although each sustained severe bruises.

SUPERINTENDENT LEES

SAYS NO GREAT DAMAGE CAUSED BY HAVERHILL ACCIDENT.

When Supt. Lees of this city whose district includes the Haverhill end of the Boston & Northern railroad learned of the accident on the road at Haverhill last night he at once telephoned to Haverhill to learn more about the affair. This morning he stated to The Sun that the accident was not so bad as reported and that no one is injured very greatly. He stated that it is true that the cars left the tracks as reported in the despatches but further than that no damage was done to speak of.

LAMP EXPLODED

One Person Was Fatally Injured

FIVE OTHER PERSONS WERE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Accident Occurred While Dance Was On

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 31.—The explosion of a kerosene lamp at a Slavic boarding house here last night, during a dance, caused fatal injuries of one person and the serious injury of five others.

The fatally injured:

MRS. MIKE BOLITSKY, wife of the proprietor.

The accident occurred in a five room frame boarding house occupied by 25 Slavs. The celebration became tumultuous toward the end and caused the structure to shake to its foundation. When the hilarity was at its height, the lamp was pushed over by one of the dancers. With a crash it exploded, sending flames over nearly a score of the unfortunates. Some put the flames out and escaped with slight injuries while those nearest were so saturated with the inflammable material as to be turned into human torches.

WINNIFRED BAKER

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LEADING A MOB.

By Associated Press to The Sun

DANVILLE, Ill., July 31—The police yesterday arrested Winnifred Baker, who it is said led the mob in its attack on the jail last Saturday night. Baker was found working in a small coal mine west of Danville. Three more arrests were made yesterday in addition to that of the alleged leader, making 17 in all.

The city council last night passed resolutions commending Sheriff Whitlock for firing into the mob that attacked the jail.

CARGO ON FIRE

THE LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $80,000.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 30—Naphtha in cases in the hold of the Italian barkentine Angelica Marc, of Genoa, exploded at the Columbia docks of the Standard Oil company at Bayonne yesterday and a few minutes later the barkentine with flames pouring from every opening was towed down Kill Von Kull and beached on the mud flats. The cargo is still burning. The loss will be about $80,000.

SENATOR MALVANO

WAS ATTACKED WHILE LEAVING HIS HOUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—Senator Malvano, secretary of the foreign office, while leaving his home in his office today, was attacked by a man who struck him two violent blows on the head with a stick. He was arrested and identified as an Italian named Buffa, who had lost his fortune on account of the revolutions in Guatemala and who had unsuccessfully pressed his claims for compensation. Buffa considered that his failure to obtain redress was due to Senator Malvano. The latter is not seriously injured.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT

IS FINDING A READY MARKET IN ENGLAND.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 31.—The big shipment of specially packed California fruit which arrived at England in the American line steamer St. Paul, which arrived at Southampton yesterday, was sold at Convent Garden, here, this morning. There was a large crowd present and the competition was spirited, partly because of the excellence of the fruit and partly owing to the shortage of the fruit crops in France, Great Britain and elsewhere in Europe. Five thousand, four hundred and seventy-six cases of Bartlett and souvenir du congress pears fetched from 10s 6d to 13s per case. Two thousand nine hundred and forty-two cases of plums were sold for 10s 6d to 14s per case.

ADDITIONAL FRAGMENTS OF BODIES.

Yesterday the searchers at the scene of the explosion in South Lowell found additional fragments of human bodies.

ANOTHER HAND IDENTIFIED.

The finding of a human hand that was later identified as that of Louis Richards was the most important development yesterday afternoon. Louis Richards, was an employe of the Cartridge Co., and was at work at the magazine at the time of the explosion. His brother, George Richards, identified the hand.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind," he said, "that that is the hand of my brother. So positive am I of it that I have ordered Undertaker Archambeault to take possession of it. When he went to work Wednesday morning he wore a $70 diamond ring. The ring has gone but I suppose it may have been blown off. However, the ring mark is there and I know it must be Louis' hand. The most convincing proof that it is his hand, though, is that big callous on the thumb which was caused by a cut made some time ago. Then, again, a pair of trousers which I know he wore was found within a few feet of the hand. They were the same as these I have on. We bought them at the same time."

Mr. Richards said his brother had told his family on Tuesday night that he was afraid of the job at the magazine.

TWO MORE VICTIMS.

The list of dead which reached 19 yesterday has been swelled to 21. The names of William Flynn and James Reynolds having been added. Both of these boys were about 16 years old and were in swimming near the Six Arch bridge at the time of the explosion.

Not a trace has been found of the bodies though some of the fragments of limbs and other parts of bodies now in several of the local undertaking establishments may be from their bodies. It is hoped, however, that their bodies may be found in the Concord river.

THE WRECK AREA.

The area covering the immediate scene of the explosion contains about twenty or twenty-five acres, but the wrecked district is fully twice as large.

The district known as Riverside park is covered over with wreckage. Some places this debris is several feet deep, in others not so deep, but everywhere within a radius of a quarter of a mile of where the magazines stood is covered with wreckage.

Some houses are reduced to splinters or to ashes, others are torn to fragments, showing gaping holes, protruding timbers and framework upturned as if the whole had passed through the fury of a cyclone.

What is remarkable about the debris is that it is almost as fine as gravel, the brick from the magazine being reduced to small pieces, the lighter timbers of the destroyed houses to splinters and even the largest foundation timbers broken up like penstalks.

WENT MILES IN THE AIR.

It is quite probable that the bricks from the magazine and portions of the wagons and even the flesh of the horses and mayhap of some of the human bodies, were sent miles up in the air, torn more and more as they went.

Part of the material fell miles from the scene. Part of it fell in the form of gravel at the Moody school on High street; and Mrs. Grady, wife of William Grady, corner of High and Rogers streets, was struck on the head by material like gravel or small pebbles some moments before she heard the sound of the explosion.

This demonstrates that the material from the explosion travelled faster through the air than did the sound of the explosion. This is nothing new. It is illustrated in the firing of a gun when seen at a distance. The shot will have reached its destination before the report is heard. So it was with the great explosion to those at any considerable distance.

ANOTHER PHENOMENON.

Another phenomenon that has caused much comment and discussion is the cause of the breaking of glass in parts of buildings turned away from the direction of the explosion.

This may be explained in two ways. The pressure caused by the sudden expansion of the air when the explosion occurred was exerted in all directions same as the pressure in a steam boiler.

But it was not the pressure exerted in this manner that broke windows on the sides of buildings opposite the direction of the explosion, although it may have caused some of the breaks.

When the explosion occurred there was a terrific pressure outward and then nearly an equal pressure back towards the centre of the explosion. This was the reaction or the effort of the atmosphere to regain its equilibrium. It is another illustration of what is known as "Nature's horror of a vacuum."

When it is considered that the pressure of the air upon every square inch of surface is about fourteen pounds it may easily be imagined what the effect will be when it is suddenly subjected to an explosive force sufficient to lift the largest navy in the world wholly out of the water. Powder is a strong explosive but dynamite or nitroglycerine is about fourteen times as strong.

Experts could compute the number of foot tons, viz. the number of tons which could be lifted one foot high by all the dynamite and gunpowder in the magazines. The number if known, would be utterly amazing.

PATHETIC SIGHT

THREE HEARSES ABREAST TOLD SAD STORY.

The bodies of the three little McDermott boys who were killed in the explosion were buried from the chapel at Undertaker C. H. Molloy's establishment in Market street yesterday afternoon.

The sight of the three white caskets side by side was a pathetic one. The chapel was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends and the heartbroken parents of the children whose years were quickly counted, could not abate the tide of their terrible grief.

Just before the coffins closed on the bodies of her dead children Mrs. McDermott threw herself on the caskets and wept bitterly. Her great grief so affected everybody that even the men present could not suppress their tears.

The caskets were placed in three white hearses that moved down the street three abreast and were followed by a long line of carriages.

The streets were lined with people whose sympathy, in many instances, was manifested by tears.

The interment in St. Patrick's cemetery was witnessed by at least 300 people. Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., of the Sacred Heart church officiated. The bearers were four cousins of the dead boys.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

JOSEPHINE PERUSSE AND HER MOTHER BURIED YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Vitaline Perusse and her daughter, Josephine, victims of the terrible explosion, were buried in St. Joseph's cemetery yesterday afternoon. The double funeral took place from Mr. Hector Hamelin's house, 96 Andover street, where the bodies had been taken on the previous night.

The bodies were taken to St. Joseph's church where a requiem was sung with the full choir in attendance, Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., officiated at the church and at the cemetery.

The bearers for Mrs. Perusse were Messrs. Edward Brochu, Alex. Brochu, Louis Lantaigne, Benjamin Lajeunesse, Peter Desmarais and Clement Surprenant.

The bearers for Josephine were four young boys, her three brothers, Jerry, Joseph and Albert Perusse, and her cousin, Master Geo. Lantaigne. There were also four honorary bearers, young girls dressed in white and wearing veils, schoolmates or friends of the dead girl and all of them Children of Mary. They were Misses Augustine Dancouse, Maria Albert, Blanche Brunelle, Marie Anne Chouinard.

Undertaker Albert had charge of the funeral. At 7 o'clock this morning funeral services were sung for the repose of the souls of both victims of the accident.

THE OULIGHAN BOYS BURIED.

Thomas Ouligham and Joseph Ouligham, the two brothers who were in swimming and were killed as a result of the explosion were buried yesterday afternoon. A double funeral took place from the home of their parents, 5 Wamesit court, off Cushing street, and the two little white hearses going side by side from the home of the deceased to the Catholic cemetery presented a very tearful sight.

The interments were in the Catholic cemetery and were under the direction of Undertaker Peter Davey.

MRS. RIGG'S FUNERAL.

The remains of Mrs. Catherine Rigg, wife of William, whose body was one of the first to be found, were consigned to their final resting place in the Edson cemetery yesterday afternoon. The remains reposed in a black broadcloth casket at the funeral parlors of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck in Middlesex street, but were so badly disfigured that they were not exposed.

The funeral cortege wended its way to the Edson cemetery chapel where services were held at 3 o'clock, Rev. N. W. Matthews, of the First Primitive Methodist church, officiating. The reverend gentleman spoke in an eulogistic manner of the life of the deceased and the unfortunate death which she met. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings, among them being a beautiful pillow, bearing the inscription "Mother," from the family of the deceased; mammoth wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rigg; basket of flowers, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitworth, and a spray of pinks, Mrs. Poole.

The interment was in the family lot in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck.

PAID DEATH BENEFIT.

Despite the fact that nothing of the body of George Flynn, one of the victims, has been located as yet, one of the local insurance companies in which the victim was insured, has paid the death claim.

While this system of paying death benefits is rather rare, the company was satisfied beyond a doubt that Flynn was killed. The insurance company is worthy of much praise for its prompt payment.

MAYOR HOWE ARRIVES.

His Honor, Mayor Howe, arrived in Lowell last night and was driven to the scene of the explosion where he found that Acting Mayor Miskella had ably represented him in his absence. Mayor Howe had a conference at midnight with Selectman Blaisdell and talked over the situation.

THE TWO POWDER WAGONS.

A morning paper in criticizing the alleged attempt on the part of a Boston paper to show that the explosion was due to carelessness, says in what purports to be a statement made by a "responsible party," that the wagons for the removal of the gunpowder had not arrived and that nitric acid was not used. The Cartridge company says the powder was all loaded. Two large holes mark where they stood.

It is believed that parts of the wagons were driven into the ground and what would seem to be good proof of that is the fact that Captain Kew yesterday unearthed a portion of the hub of one of the wagons.

AT THE HOSPITALS

SAD SCENE BETWEEN McDERMOTT BOY AND PARENTS.

Mrs. William Galloway and daughter Emily, Clara Suprenault, Edward McDermott, Charles Lybrand, Almeda Belanger, Calvin Goodwin and Robert Rigg are the only patients who are at St. John's hospital at the present time, and they are getting along as well as can be expected.

Of the above named people the first four are on the dangerous list, while the others are on the way to recovery. Mrs. Galloway is the worst off of any of the patients and it was stated at the hospital that she will have a hard time to recover. She is suffering a great deal of pain and underwent an operation last night.

Miss Clara Suprenault is also in a critical condition, and is suffering much pain. She was delirious all last night and got little or no sleep and is in a bad condition this morning. Little Eddie McDermott, whose three brothers were buried yesterday afternoon, has suffered a great deal, but it is thought that he will recover.

There was a sad scene enacted at the hospital last night when Mr. and Mrs. McDermott after attending the funeral of their three sons in the afternoon, could not go to sleep until they saw their little Eddie in the hospital. The little fellow recognized his mother and father as soon as they entered the ward and the scene that followed was most affecting, the heartbroken parents fondling their little one and making inquiries of the doctors and sisters as to whether or not one of their little boys would be spared to comfort them.

The little Rigg boy is almost ready to be discharged from the hospital and undoubtedly will be as soon as the sisters get some clothing for him and can find some person who will take him. When brought to the hopital he was devoid of clothing.

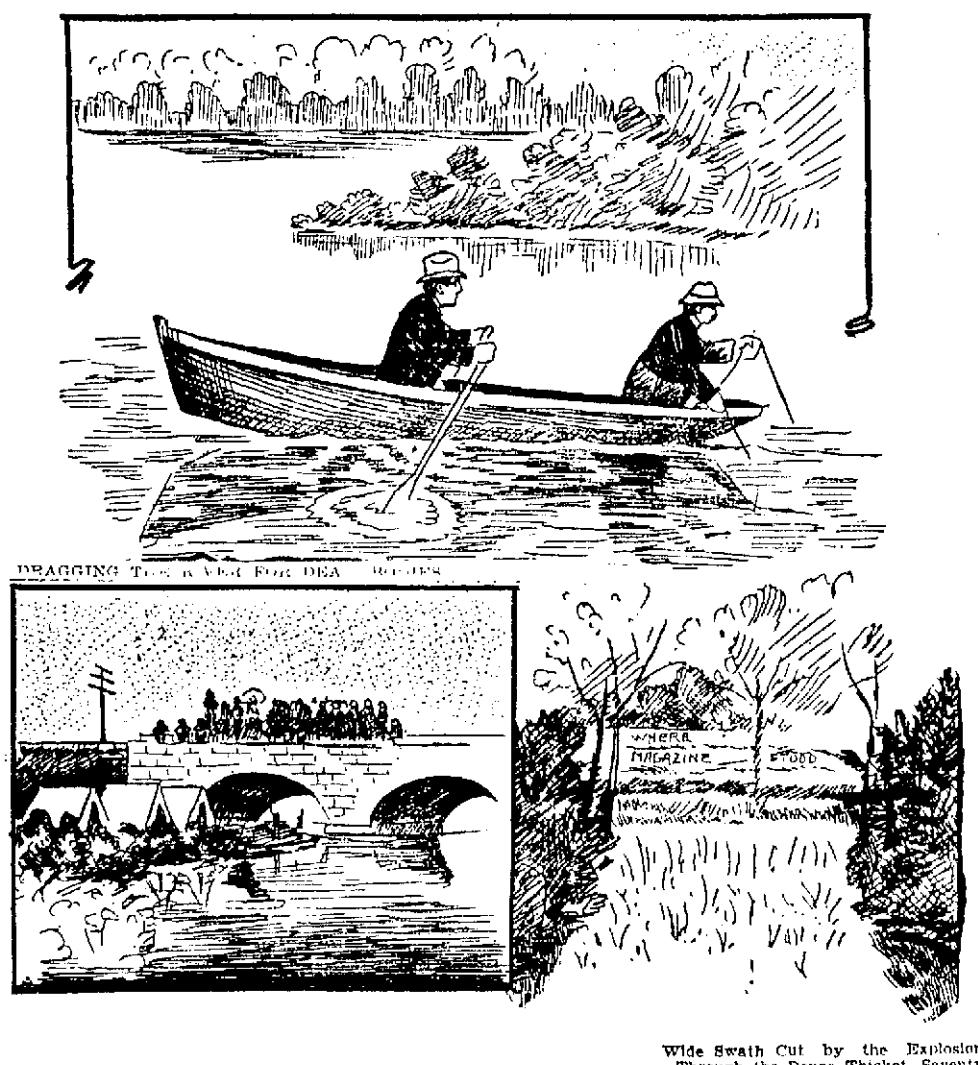

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

Of the three patients who were at the Emergency hospital yesterday, one, Jeremiah McCarthy, left and went to stay with a friend of his. He was not discharged from the institution as it will be a matter of several months before he will have recovered. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the left arm, there being a large hole below the elbow.

George Perusse and Zephrin Perusse, father and son, are the only patients now remaining at the Emergency hospital. George has an abrasion on the thigh which makes it impossible for him to walk and Zephrin has three fractured ribs and is badly burned. They are recovering rapidly though and may be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

Mr. Perusse and his son attended the funeral of Mrs. Perusse and her daughter yesterday afternoon. They desired to be present at the last said rites and a hack was ordered and both patients were made as comfortable as possible in the conveyance and taken to the cemetery. After the funeral they were returned to the Emergency hospital.

WOMAN LEFT HIM

And Richard Wood Turned on the Gas

Because the woman whom he called his wife left him, Richard Wood, a member of the Lowell Military band, turned the gas on in his room at the Wheeler block, corner of Merrimack and Tilton streets, last night, and lay down to die.

Roomers in the block detected the odor of gas in the halls this morning and traced it to room 3, occupied by Wood. They called and receiving no response, pushed the door in.

Wood's body, cold in death, was lying half dressed across the bed.

Wood, according to the story told the officers by persons in the block, quarreled with the woman whom he called his wife and she left him.

The quarrel occurred yesterday morning and she left the room some time during the day.

She told Wood that she would never see him again and he evidently believed that she meant what she said.

He told a roomer, with whom he was quite friendly, that his wife had left him. "She's gone for keeps," he said, "and I'm done for."

That Wood intended to make death certain was evidenced by the methodical manner in which he arranged for the deed.

He pulled the curtains down, plugged the cracks about the doors and windows and turned the gas on full blast.

Wood's parents live in England and he has relatives in Peterboro, N. H.

SKULL CRUSHED

Brownstone Coping Was Loosened by Lightning

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Miss Birdie Aarons has met death in a peculiar manner in Lexington avenue, near her home. She had called on a girl friend and the two were standing on the stoop of the Lexington avenue house, when a portion of brownstone coping above them fell and struck Miss Aarons to the ground. Her skull was crushed and she died immediately. Investigation showed that a bolt of lightning had struck the stoop, in the heavy storm which had just passed. The shock had fractured the heavy stone and left it hanging by only a small, unbroken part.

The lightning was extremely severe over the entire city and many strange accidents were reported. In Jersey City, a bicycle ridden by a policeman was twisted into a shapeless mass. The rider was unhurt by the bolt and sustained only a few scratches in falling from the wrecked machine.

Miss Agnes Follow of Oliver street will spend the next two weeks at Salisbury beach.

THE CONCLAVE

Cardinals Ready to Begin Balloting for Pope

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—The ceremony of the entrance of the cardinals in conclave, which is always given as solemn a character as possible, was inaugurated this morning with the celebration of the Mass of the Holy Ghost in the Paulin chapel of the Vatican. Before 1878 this mass was celebrated in the chapel of the choir at St. Peter's.

The Sacred college, numbering 62 cardinals, the diplomatic corps, the Roman aristocracy, the Knights of Malta and a few outsiders, especially invited, were present with a profusion of guards, who today had taken off the mourning emblems they had been wearing for Leo XIII.

As is always the case at such ceremonies, there was so much color in the picture that one felt as though witnessing an exhibition of a series of living pictures, until awakened to the grand reality of the religious ceremony by the singing of the Sistine choir.

Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli officiated. After the Veni Sance Spiritila had been intoned, Mgr. Sardi, from the pulpit (which was draped in red and stood in the choir) having before him the pontifical cross, read the Latin oration, "Ro elingdo pontifice maximo," exhorting the cardinals to make a wise choice in the task before them, so that the one elected to the supreme dignity shall be a worthy vicar of Christ on earth.

Printed copies of the oration were handed to all the cardinals present.

After the mass of the Holy Ghost the cardinals assembled, as usual, in congregation, in the hall of the consistory, where, contrary to usage, the rules of the conclave were read and each cardinal took the oath to obey them. This ceremony generally occurs in the Sistine chapel in the evening, just before shutting up the cardinals for the conclave.

After this ceremony the cardinals hurried away from the Vatican, to return later with the more or less numerous articles which they deem necessary for their attendance at the conclave. Some of them have made preparations as though for a year's absence, while others were content to prepare for a few days' sojourn at the Vatican.

The discomfort which the cardinals will experience by being shut up in the Vatican is somewhat lessened by the exceptional weather, which is cloudy, cool and windy, the thermometer only reaching 75 in the shade, while generally, at this season, the mercury reaches as high as 100 in the shade at noon.

The confusion which ensued from the loss of the temporal power of the papacy, made it necessary to cut down expenses and among many other things the numbers of the noble guard were much reduced so that now there are only about 40 of these soldiers. As it is customary for each cardinal to have a guard told off for his service in the conclave, and there are 62 cardinals, it has been decided to press into service the cadets. The latter are not full-fledged soldiers and were drawn by lot. The question of which cardinal they fall to is a matter of serious import to them as each guard congratulates his cardinal and wishes him good luck in the coming election, for which good wishes he receives, if his particular cardinal is elected pope, the sum of $10,000 or lucrative employment. The excitement over the drawing of the lots is intense, as soldiers do not usually get such a reward for a few good wishes.

The guard of Cardinal Gibbons will be Cadet Count Della Porta.

The marshal of the conclave, Prince Chigi-Albani, having insisted that the number of people who are to enter the conclave must be reduced to a really indispensible number, there will be only about 275 persons present.

The Messagero says that among the petitions for relief out of the money left by Pope Leo is one from Counts Mastai and Ferreti, nephews of Pope Pius IX, who are in extreme poverty.

It is rumored in Vatican circles that some of the cardinals, especially the foreigners, having announced their intention of voting for Cardinal Ferretta, the latter has been induced to withdraw his candidacy after having been promised by Cardinals Rampolla, Gotti and Serafino Vannutelli that if one of them is elected pope he will appoint Ferreta secretary of state.

The Sistine chapel has been completely transformed, the only thing connecting it with the temple of art is Michael Angelo's dome which shines in undimmed brilliancy above the altar, completely covering the "Last Sacrament." The altar is hung with tapestry and representing the descent of the Holy Spirit, is surmounted by violet baldachino "canopy" and is covered with red velvet, heavily embroidered with gold. On highest step of the altar stands a majestic red and gold chair which will serve as a throne for the new pope when he first receives the homage of the sacred college.

Along the two sides of the chapel are seats for the cardinals with very high backs and each having in front of it a little desk with the cardinal's name on it in Latin. On these desks are pens, ink and paper and above each seat is an imposing baldacchino. The first seats near the altar will be occupied by the cardinal deacons, the others following in order of precedence.

During the balloting candles on the altar will be lighted.

A large table has been placed in the center of the chapel for counting the votes. Most conspicuous in the chapel is a small stove, near the entrance, in which the voting papers will be burned after they have been cast and the result determined upon. Just outside the door of the chapel is a small room, where the papal robes intended for the new pope are kept. There are three sets of these robes, large, medium and small, so as to be able to fit a man of any size. But there are dozens of baretti, or priestly caps, as it has often been found very difficult to quickly find one which would fit a particular head. After his election, the new pope retires to the small room outside the chapel and there dons his robes and receives the homage of the church.

By five o'clock this afternoon all the cardinals had arrived at the vatican and gone to their cells. The conclave has been duly formed and its members are now shut from the outer world. Everything is prepared for tomorrow's voting.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the cardinals began to appear on St. Peter's piazza where a small crowd watch interestedly and raised their hats as the princes of the church passed to the rear entrance of the vatican.

With each cardinal were his servants and attendants during his conclave. They had their baggage with them, though most of the baggage had been sent on beforehand. The majority of the cardinals contented themselves with taking handbags. At the vatican doors, the Swiss Guards kept back the curious crowd, among whom were many priests. Photographers vigorously snapped the occupants of the black carriages prior to their entrance to what one cardinal called prison.

EARLY TRADING

BROUGHT RENEWED TALK OF FINANCIAL EMBARRASSMENTS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31—Early trading in the stock market was attended by renewed talk of financial embarrassments. There was further liquidation in some of the specialties and increased pressure against Atchison. The common stock sold off a large fraction on general selling. There were some sharp declines in United States Realty pfd. and Virginia Carolina Chemical.

At the end of the first hour a better tone was shown by almost the entire list. The Rock Island board issue announcement was without effect. Recoveries held very generally, but at midday the market was almost at a standstill. There were marked gains in the tractions, particularly Metropolitan Securities.

Consolidated Gas, General Electric and Tennessee Coal were among the specialties that advanced a point or more, but the pressure against certain other stocks in that group was but little relaxed.

COOK IS DEAD

INJURIES HE RECEIVED AT FIRE PROVED FATAL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BAYONNE, N. J., July 31.—Fortunato Laverello, the cook of the naphtha laden Italian bark Angelia Maria which caught fire at the Columbia Oil company's pier at Constable Hook late yesterday, died today from the effects of his injuries. Laverello was cooking in the galley when the blaze started and was injured terribly by the explosion of naphtha in the hold.

Jurano Phillips, 17 years old, the cabin boy, who broke his arm in escaping from the flames, is at the hospital. Today several fire tugs were playing streams upon the vessel but the fire was still burning stubbornly.

The bark was valued at about $80,000. The value of the cargo is placed at about $10,000.

MAY BE TROUBLE

On Account of La Gayira Incident

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Semi-official advices received here from reliable sources throw light upon the conditions existing in La Gayira incident to the trouble between the Spanish consul there and the Venezuelan authorities. They also make it appear that serious trouble in that quarter is pending because of the anti-foreign attitude of the Venezuelan government.

According to these advices the Spanish consul referred to requested the privilege of appearing before a tribunal which was examining the claim of a Spanish subject against Venezuela. He was punished by the Venezuelan government through the withdrawal of his exequatur. The diplomatic representatives of the powers in Caracas have joined in a protest against this arbitrary proceeding but so far it is not known that the government's action has been re-considered.

President Olcott, of the Orinoco Navigation company, a resident of New York, is also having trouble in Caracas. The company has a number of claims against the Venezuelan government and Mr. Olcott, accompanied by an attorney of the United States went to Caracas to endeavor to secure a settlement. He sought to appear before the regular judicial tribunals, but found himself embarrassed at every step and finally it was made impossible for him to secure the assistance of a Venezuelan lawyer. It is feared here that the work of the various arbitrations now sitting in Caracas will be rendered nugatory by this attitude of the Venezuelan government.

HIS OWN MINT

KING MENELIK ALSO HAS GOLD AND SILVER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 31—King Menelik of Abyssinia is to have his own mint, and it will be in full operation at his capital, Addis Adeba, by the first of the coming year, according to a report from Consul Masterson at Aden, to the department of commerce and Labor.

Hitherto King Menelik has had a limited silver coinage, the mining being done in France.

For some time the king has been putting aside bullion for coinage purposes, and now it is understood that he has over 110,220 pounds of gold bullion on hand, besides a large amount of silver.

ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX

HAS BOUGHT A NEW SUMMER RESIDENCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WEST CHESTER, Pa., July 31.—Attorney General P. C. Knox is to become a summer resident of Chester county. He has just purchased a farm here and may occupy it this season.

The property is about one mile from Valley Forge and was formerly known as the Harvard farm. In the days of the revolution it was owned by a man named Brown, and during the encampment at Valley Forge of the Continental army, one of the buildings upon it was the headquarters of General Knox, an ancestor of the attorney general. He brought his young bride here.

MRS. ALICE BURDICK

ANNOUNCES SHE WILL MAKE A CONTEST.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUFFALO, July 31.—Attorney Frederick H. Hartzell, representing Mrs. Alice Hull Burdick, applied to Justice White, in special term of supreme court yesterday, for an order appointing Mrs. Burdick guardian ad litem for her three children, for the purpose of bringing actions to contest the transfer made by the late Edwin L. Burdick of his real estate to Riselay Tucker and Charles S. Parke. Mr. Burdick transferred his real estate, valued at $41,000, to Messrs. Parke and Tucker shortly prior to his death, in order that his wife might not get possession of the property in the event of his death.

"I cannot see on what grounds you propose attacking the transfers," said Justice White. "However," he continued, "you may take your order."

THE TWO SHAMROCKS

DID NOT HAVE THEIR DAILY SPIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—The Shamrocks did not have their usual spin off Sandy Hook today, Mr. Iffe having decided to take Shamrock III to Erie basin to have her mast re-stepped. She is expected to be racing again Monday.

General Nelson A. Miles and Paymaster General Bates were guests on board the Erin today. Sir Thomas Lipton has received notice that he has been made a life member of the Albany Burgess Corps, of Albany.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Charles Applegate of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 55 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Goodale's Drug Store.

MANY COSSACKS

Sent Into Thibet by the Russians

By Associated Press to The Sun

COLOGNE, Germany, July 31—The Cologne Gazette says it hears from Chinese sources that after secretly negotiating for permission to make geological research in Thibet, Russia has now sent several hundred Cossacks into Thibet, asserting that she has Chinese permission to march through that territory. The Chinese government, the Gazette says, has informed its agents in Thibet that no such permission has been given and that he must watch the Russians closely, while abstaining from forceful opposition.

STEAMER NEPTUNE

WILL TAKE EXPEDITION TO HUDSON BAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HALIFAX, N. S., July 31.—The New Foundland steamer Neptune, engaged by the Dominion government to take an expedition to Hudson bay will sail from here about the middle of August and will remain at the bay one or two years. Mr. Low of the Canadian geological department will be in charge of the expedition and five or six other officials will accompany him. Several houses will be taken in sections by the steamer and parties will be landed at different points in the bay with the idea of determining the length of the season of navigation there, also of locating a deposit of superior iron ore, tracks of which were reported to have been found on the shore. The ship will be provisioned for two years and will be commanded by Captain Bartlett, who was on the Peary relief ship.

JEALOUS OF VANDERBILT

ALLEGATIONS MADE IN A DIVORCE CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Edward J. Friedlander, a stock broker of 23 Hart street, Brooklyn, is being sued by his wife Florence for a separation. She declares in her papers that he was jealous of W. K. Vanderbilt.

When they lived at 1034 Bedford avenue in 1898, she asserts, her husband threw a dish of strawberries, a plate and a knife at her, and once he choked her. Threats with a razor, blasphemous language and epithets in the presence of their children are also alleged.

When the case was up before Justice Gaynor in the supreme court yesterday on a motion for $50 a week alimony and $500 counsel fee, Hugo Whitner, Mrs. Friedlander's lawyer, was told by John L. Van Lorn that she had ordered the suit discontinued. Mrs. Friedlander said that she had intended to discontinue it, but that now she desired her lawyer to go on.

In May, 1902, Mrs. Friedlander avers, her husband said to her:

"If you can in any way make your sister corespondent I will give you grounds for your divorce."

"In December, 1902," she says, "my husband struck me several violent blows upon the face at 34 street and 6th avenue, giving as a reason that I was about to keep a clandestine meeting with William K. Vanderbilt, whom I had met on an Atlantic steamer some time before. The idea was utterly absurd and without a shadow of reason.

"I had my husband locked up."

Mr. Friedlander said he never made the reference to her sister quoted. When he married he was poor, he said, but since then he had made money. He had lost of late and desired to live less expensively, but he said this was objectionable to his wife who has a fortune of her own. He declares that she formed luxurious and extravagant habits from suddenly acquired wealth.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WALL STREET—10.10 a. m.—Opening declines of ⅝ in Atchison, 2¾ in Realty pfd., and a point in Virginia-Carolina Chemical gave the impression of a resumption of yesterday's pressure upon the market. Prices yielded a fraction all around with a few exceptions. Pennsylvania rose ⅛, but fell back to below last night.

11 a. m.—The early selling forced U. S. Steel preferred and Kansas & Texas preferred down a point and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 2. Considerable buying of the local tractions and supporting orders for Atchison, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel preferred, and Amalgamated then turned the market upwards. Atchison made a full recovery on short covering despite a decrease in the June net earnings of $641,395. Metropolitan Securities advanced 3, Metropolitan Street Railway 2 1-2, General Electric 2 1-4 and Manhattan, Brooklyn Transit, Smelting preferred, and North American 1 a 1 1-4. Realty preferred and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred rallied over a point each. Leading stocks recovered generally to above yesterday's close but the demand fell off at that level.

Noon.—The general list continued to harden but became very dull upon the publication of a circular by Rock Island directors, asking authority to issue a $250,000,000 refunding mortgage. Rock Island and Atchison rose a fraction over last night. Metropolitan Street Railway rose 2½, the securities company 1, Northern American 4 and Amalgamated and a few other stocks a point. Chicago & Eastern Illinois jumped 2 and Pere Marquette fell 3¾, Virginia Iron & Coal 1¾ and Evansville & Terre Haute a point. New York Central ran off below 120 at noon with some sympathetic effect elsewhere.

Bonds were steady.

1 p. m.—The selling pressure relaxed and the market calmed down. Pere Marquette recovered its loss.

THE EXPLOSION—Continued From Page One

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION

TWO MORE NAMES ARE ADDED TO THE LIST OF EXPLOSION VICTIMS, MAKING THE TOTAL NUMBER TWENTY-ONE. THREE HUMAN HANDS WERE FOUND YESTERDAY, ONE OF WHICH WAS IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF THE GRADY BOY AND ONE THAT OF LOUIS RICHARDS. EIGHT OF THE VICTIMS WERE BURIED YESTERDAY AND OTHERS WILL BE BURIED TODAY. STILL THE SEARCH CONTINUES FOR THE BODIES OF THOSE WHO WERE BLOWN TO PIECES. THERE IS LITTLE HOPE OF EVER FINDING MORE THAN MINUTE FRAGMENTS OF THE BODIES. BESIDES THESE PARTS OF BODIES ARE SO BLACK AND CHARRED THAT IDENTIFICATION IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE.

CAN OF DYNAMITE FOUND.

A can of unexploded dynamite was found in a hole in the ground on River street, South Lowell, this morning in a spot where hundreds of people have been passing to and fro since Wednesday morning.

The discovery of the dynamite caused great excitement among those present and the guards were immediately ordered to allow no one through the district for the present.

The startling find was made by Dr. Thomas F. Carroll who has been a constant attendant and untiring worker at the scene of the explosion since Wednesday morning.

While walking along the ruins of River street early this morning he noticed a portion of a can resting in what appeared to be a post hole by the side of the street. Upon making a closer inspection he was surprised to find that the can was filled with what appeared to be sticks of dynamite. His outcry quickly brought others to the scene and the can was carefully removed. There was no question that the contents of the can were dynamite for the substance was recognized by those familiar with it and it was in the fragment of a can such as is used to store the explosive in the magazine.

The authorities were at once notified and the can was dropped into the pool of water in the excavation made by the explosion of the dynamite magazine.

PUMP OUT MAGAZINE HOLE.

Mayor Howe arrived on the scene shortly after the finding of the can and he immediately sent word to Chief Hosmer to have a hose company visit the scene and pump the water out of the hole on the site of the dynamite magazine.

The mayor's order was a welcome one to those who were present for the workers among the ruins are all in suspense to know what will be found at the bottom of the pool. It is believed that bodies or portions of them will be thus located.

The discovery of the dynamite caused great excitement among those who were on the scene and Selectman Blaisdell immediately ordered River street on which the explosive was found closed to all except those having imperative business there until the locality is free from danger. As portions of cans are being found all over the ruins it is believed that there is more unexploded dynamite in the vicinity other than that found by Dr. Carroll, and this report has somewhat interfered with the rapidity with which the ruins were being overhauled.

PALM OF HAND FOUND.

While Priv. Allen of Company M was on a tour of exploration with several members of his company this morning he found the complete palm of a hand among the ruins of the house of Clement Suprenault on Bolton street and a portion of the internal organs of either a human being or a horse. Priv. Allen turned the palm of the hand over to Dr. O'Connor.

FINGER AND FOOT.

Mr. Burgess, who lives at the turn of Billerica street, this morning found a finger and a piece of a foot in his back yard. Joseph Maille, residing on Bolton street, found a heel in his ruins.

QUESTION OF INSURANCE.

Among the early arrivals at the scene of the explosion this morning were representatives of different insurance companies carrying in their hands numerous fire insurance policies who were present for the purpose, not of settling any claims but of cancelling all policies on houses that have been damaged so that they will be protected in case of fire breaking out in any of them from this time on.

When the fire consumed the ruins of some of the buildings that had been blown into kindling wood the owners of the property were congratulated by the owners of property which did not burn for it was generally understood by all the property owners that insurance to the amount of the policy could be collected on houses that were totally destroyed by fire after the explosion while those that did not take fire could not recover one cent of insurance.

The outlook was surely bad enough that way but the real state of affairs is much worse. The insurance policies are very delicately worded and state that not only is no insurance allowed on buildings destroyed by explosion but in cases of buildings that take fire after an explosion has occurred the insurance paid is reckoned on the building as it was when the fire broke out and after the explosion. Thus if a dwelling was reduced to total ruin by the explosion and the ruins took fire, the owner receives insurance not for the dwelling but for the ruins, and the ruins of a building are only worth their price in kindling wood.

Among the visitors to the ruins this morning were Former Judge Lilley and Langdon Adams of Boston, father of President Adams of the common council. Judge Lilley, in speaking of the insurance question said: "I think the insurance companies as a matter of business policy should pay off the insurance on these houses whether or not they were destroyed by fire. They can afford to do it, and under the circumstances I believe that they would not lose by their action."

The Sun reporter later put the judge's proposition to a well known insurance man and the latter said: "I don't think the companies will do anything of the kind though they may contribute handsomely to the fund for the sufferers. To pay off the claims would be establishing a dangerous precedent."

ANOTHER KITTEN LOCATED.

Dr. Carroll later in the morning discovered a small kitten imprisoned under a pile of debris, but with plenty of breathing space to its little pulson. When he removed the debris the kitten sprang at him and was so wild that it was necessary to handle it with gloves. The doctor christened the little animal "Dynamite" and sent it to his home. The boys of Company C found a live kitten in the ruins last night and the kitty is now the company mascot.

STATE POLICE ACTIVE.

The 12 members of the state police on the scene were all busy this morning and had frequent secret conferences with their chief, General Whitney, at headquarters. It is supposed they are gathering up evidence concerning the explosion.

Chairman Blaisdell was on hand bright and early prepared for another busy day. He paid a graceful tribute to Alderman Miskella, who retired from authority in the case now that Mayor Howe has returned to the city and stated that the acting mayor rendered him great assistance in restoring order. The militia are still on guard, and will remain there until after Sunday, as it is expected that many sightseers will visit the scene on Saturday and Sunday. The number of sightseers present today was nearly as great as yesterday, but since it became known that dynamite had been found there is not such a rush for a close inspection of the ruins.

BOSTON & MAINE

FEARED FOUNDATION OF SIX ARCH BRIDGE WAS DAMAGED.

The Boston and Maine railroad feared that the foundation of the six arch bridge was damaged by the explosion and orders were issued at once that all trains should pass over the bridge at the slowest speed. A flagman was stationed at each end of the bridge to hold up all trains and see that the orders relative to speed were understood. This was done as a precaution and to have as little jar as possible on the bridge.

MR. KELLEY INJURED.

Mr. John J. Kelly of 4 Wornock street, who was ill at his home at the time of the explosion, received several ugly cuts about the head by glass. Crockery, pictures and other articles in his house were demolished.

FELT 100 MILES

SHOCK OF EXPLOSION FOLLOWED LINE OF GLACIAL DRIFT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERIDETH, N. H., July 31.—Reports from outlying sections indicate that the shock which resulted from the explosion at Tewksbury was felt nearly 100 miles distant. At a point 90 miles away glasses danced on the tables and in some cases there was a perceptible tremor in houses.

Local people interested in geology believe that the shock of the explosion followed the line of the glacial drift up the Merrimack Valley to the White Mountains.

MACHEN INDICTED

Four More Counts Found Against Him

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 31—The federal grand jury here which has been considering a case arising from the postal investigation has agreed upon four additional indictments for conspiracy against Augustus W. Machen, the former general superintendent of the free delivery service of the postoffice department and an indictment of another party with a postal contract for presenting a false claim to the government.

The four new indictments of Machen are based on separate and distinct transactions and are wholly apart from the indictments reported against him several weeks ago by the grand jury for conspiracy.

Machen is now in this city under bond. The fifth indictment relates to the transaction of a man supposed to be in the west who will be placed under arrest as soon as the officers can find him.

THE ENTIRE LIST

OF INDICTMENTS FOUND BY THE GRAND JURY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The federal grand jury which has been considering evidence growing out of the post office investigation, today returned indictments against the following:

August W. Machen, formerly general superintendent of free delivery; John Tupper, mayor of Lock Haven, Pa.; William L. Strong, William Gordon Crawford, of this city; George E. Lorenz and Martha J. Lorenz, his wife, of Toledo, Ohio; Maurice Uncle of New York; Thomas W. McGregor, formerly of the supply division of the rural free delivery and Leopold J. Stern of Baltimore.

With the exception of Crawford, all of the above are indicted for conspiracy. The indictment against Crawford is for presenting a false claim against the government.

Long and Crupper were indicted separately for bribery.

Orders for the arrest of all the parties were immediately issued. This batch of indictments does not wind up the cases before the grand jury, and other matters resulting from the postal investigations are pending before that body and may result in indictments against other persons in the near future.

BERGEN APPEARS

SAID HE WAS NOT NOTIFIED OF DATE OF TRIAL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Michael Bergen, jointly indicted with Adolph Jantzen for having policy slips in his possession (being connected with "Al" Adams) whose bail was yesterday declared forfeited, today appeared in court and explained through his attorney that he not been notified of the day the case was to be tried. The statement was not contradicted and the forfeiture of bail was ordered cancelled, a new bond furnished and the trial went over to the August term.

LOSS IS $200,000

JARVIS TOBACCO SHED DESTROYED BY FIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—The loss occasioned by the fire which burned the Jarvis Tobacco shed and Carey Asbestos plant in Jersey City last night, is today estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000.

Captains Newly and Costigan and five other firemen who were overcome by the heat from the blaze appeared to be all right today.

The cause of the fire has not been learned.

COUNTERVAILING DUTIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SIMLA, India, July 31.—The levying of countervailing duties on imported and bounties sugar is to be extended to March 31, 1904.

The decision is based on the ground that most of the sugar available for export from bounty giving countries up to March 31, 1904, will have received bounties. The government reserves the power to restore duties on county paying bounties.

WAS DESPONDENT

LAWRENCE MAN PUT BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 31.—The body of Emil Heick, 27 years old, unmarried, was found at 2 Newberry street today by the police with a bullet wound in his head. He apparently shot himself yesterday. Despondency over a love affair and trouble with his parents who are in Germany caused the act.

SENATOR LODGE

ARRANGES FOR MEETING OF ALASKAN COMMISSION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 31.—Senator Lodge has completed the preliminary arrangements for the meeting of the Alaskan boundary commission. He lunched with Premier Balfour today and will dine with Colonial Secretary Chamberlain this evening. The commission will probably be assembled at the foreign office.

INSTANTLY KILLED

HARVEY WELLINGTON WAS RUN OVER BY TRAIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ADAMS, Mass., July 31.—News was received from Minneapolis today of the death of Harvey H. Wellington, at one time a banker here and one of the most prominent citizens of this town, who was run over and instantly killed at a railroad crossing in that city last night.

Mr. Wellington was born in Williamstown and was 60 years old. He leaves two children.

FOREST FIRES

CAUSED GREAT DAMAGE IN THE STATE OF MAINE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

AUGUSTA, Maine, July 31. — From facts and figures sent to the office of Forest Commissioner, Edgar E. Ring and contained in a lengthy report issued today, the loss to the state by the forest fires of the spring of 1903 practically was 277,495 acres at an estimated money loss of $1,011,210 which was about 2 per cent. of the wooded area of the state. By far the most destructive of the fires was that which starts June 2 in the vicinity of Webster lake on Township No. 6, range 10, in Piscataquis county. It is estimated that it burned over 86,000 acres of land on which stood some of the finest timber in the state. In some sections, the timber was entirely consumed. The cause was unknown.

While in many cases the cause of the fire was unknown, a summing up shows practically the following causes: Unknown 53; clearing land 58; railroads 37; fishermen 37; smokers 12; camping parties 9; porcupine hunters 17; burning blueberry lands 9; burning brush 2; fire from adjoining town 2; incendiary 3; lightning 1; hunters 3; rubbish fire 1; burning grass 2 and river drives 4.

MORGAN AT DANVERS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

Larrabee Had Worked in Tunnel

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Thomas A. Larrabee says he is suffering from the effects of compressed air used in the tunnel under the harbor, where he had worked and seeks to recover $20,000 damages from his former employer, the Boston tunnel company.

The suit is the first of its kind to be brought in this state. It doubtless will serve as a test, on whose determination may rest the matter of further litigation arising from serious and fatal injuries caused by the compressed air.

Yesterday counsel for the parties appeared before Judge Bell in the equity session in regard to a motion made by the defence to have the amount of attachment reduced.

The recently discovered disease arising from the effects of compressed air is termed by the medical profession caisson, and one of the issues in this present case is whether the plaintiff is afflicted with it.

Another important question relates to the liability of the company, counsel for it contending that under decisions in the west and in England where similar actions have arisen, it has been held that the risk was assumed by the employes.

Dr. Henry Fox Hughes of the Massachusetts general hospital said he had made a careful examination of the man after he had learned the history of the trouble of which he complained, but failed to find any physical disease. There was no sign of caisson.

Mr. O'Connor argued in opposition to the motion to reduce the amount of the attachment and Judge Bell said it might be possible to get experts on both sides of the case. His honor refused to grant the motion.

SERIES OF STRIKES

THE PIPE MAKERS WANT THEIR UNION RECOGNIZED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—For the recognition of their union, the pipe-makers employed in factories here have inaugurated a series of strikes. The first one, just called, involves only 150 men, but the leaders declare that unless their demands are granted, there will be a general shut-down and the weekly output of 150,000 pipes will be cut off.

At a meeting of the manufacturers, it was decided to fight the union to a finish.

MRS. MURPHY DEAD

CLAIMED TO BE WIDOW OF COL. MURPHY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Mrs. Mary A. Murphy, who said she was the widow of Col. Michael C. Murphy, former police commissioner of this city, is dead at her home in Brooklyn, from heart failure.

Col. Murphy's friends in this city knew nothing of his wife until after his death, not long ago, when the woman presented her claims for his estate and sought to show that she married him in 1855 and that they were separated 15 years later, drifted apart and never reconciled. Col. Murphy's rise in politics occurred after the separation, so that his closest friends of later years knew nothing of his family affairs and the appearance of the widow caused a sensation.

HARE ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 31.—Charles B. Hare has accepted the appointment of government bacteriologist in the Philippines at a salary of $1500. Some time ago Hare contracted the bubonic plague while working in the laboratory of the University of Michigan.

Joseph H. Donahue, manager of one of the Glasgow Woolen Mill's big stores in New Yirk, will return to the metropolis tomorrow after a stay of two weeks at his old home here.

Constipation Cured

Good Health is Utterly Impossible Unless the Waste Products of the Body are Got Rid of—A Safe, Natural Remedy is to Be Had From Any Druggist.

Constipation isn't pleasant to discuss—it's unpleasant from any standpoint, but if you are constipated you are sick and will be sickness unless relieved.

The first question the doctor asks is, "How are your bowels?" The first thing he does is to make them act naturally.

If there were no such thing as constipation nine tenths of the suffering from disease would be done away with, because there would be very little disease.

Nature has provided you with bowels and kidneys that your system may be kept free from poisons.

She has tied up the nutritive elements of all food in a mass of indigestible material, from which it is freed in the process of digestion.

If this undigested portion of the food is not removed through the bowels it simply lies in the intestines and rots, causing pain and disease.

Iron-Ox Tablets not only relieve, but permanently cure constipation.

Remember, Iron-Ox Tablets are not purgative or cathartic in their effect; they are tonic-laxative; they cure by building up the entire system. Purgatives and cathartics give only temporary relief by violent and injurious action—they do far more harm than good.

Anything which shocks the system into activity is dangerous. Do not expect immediate perceptible effects from Iron-Ox Tablets. They produce a natural, regular building up of all the functions. This takes a little time, but success is absolutely certain.

Fifty Iron-Ox Tablets in an attractive aluminum pocket-case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-Ox Remedy Co., Detroit, Mich.

GAS EXPLODED

Started a Big Fire at Staatsburg

By Associated Press to The Sun

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 31.—Miles Hughes' general store, the New York Central freight house, two dwellings, occupied by the families of John Stickles and Michael Oates, and the barn of Broadfield's hotel at Staatsburg, ten miles north of the city, were destroyed by fire last night. The principal part of the village was at one time in great danger and the villagers turned out with buckets and saved property which adjoined the buildings on fire. A hand engine from Hyde Park and a steamer from Poughkeepsie were sent in response to requests from the citizens, but were of little use owing to a lack of water. The post office was located in Hughes' store and all mail matter on hand was destroyed. The fire started in the store, some believed from the explosion of a gas plant.

COSTLY TESTS

THAT HAVE ALREADY COST ABOUT $33,000.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31—Before Lieut. Gen. Miles and other members of the board of ordinance and fortification, the 10-inch brown segmental wire-wound gun has been fired again on the Sandy Hook proving grounds. It was first tested in 1901. Then, the breech-block blew off under the strain of 20,000 pounds to the square inch. In the second test, loaded with an amount slightly less than the service charge of 150 pounds of powder, a projectile weighing 500 pounds ricochetted far out to sea. Following this there will be further trials until the maximum strain has been placed upon the piece and 100 shots at least are fired. Except for a slight sticking of the breech block which, it is said, can be remedied, the present trial is declared to be a success.

The segmental was authorized in 1897. So far it has cost the government $33,000.

TO BREAK JAIL

DESPERATE ATTEMPT FRUSTRATED BY AUTHORITIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

TACOMA, Wash., July 31—The prison authorities at Walla Walla have just frustrated a desperate attempt of convicts to cause a jail delivery. The outbreak was to have taken place either last night or tonight. The prison officials are congratulating themselves that they have avoided a jail break like that at Folsom.

DELAYED BY STRIKES

NEW YORK SUBWAY WILL NOT BE READY UNTIL APRIL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Owing to numerous strikes during the summer by men employed in the rapid transit subway it is likely that New Yorkers will be compelled to do their traveling above ground until the first of next April. It had been expected until a few days ago that the line could be opened January 1.

Contractor John B. McDonald says the tracks will be placed by that date, but he now admits a probable delay of two or three months in starting trains owing to the backward stage of work on stations and power houses.

Today the vast undertaking has been completed as to tunneling except for three small sections and twenty miles of track have been laid.

FAMILY SCARED

LIGHTNING STRUCK HOUSE AT BEACH BLUFF.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., July 31.—Lightning struck the seaside home of Elisha W. Cobb at Beach Bluff, Swampscott, during last evening's storm. The bolt shattered the chimney, went down through the second story, ripping plastering and splintering the woodwork considerably. The family was badly frightened. One of the maids was knocked senseless in her room and the cook, who sat at the kitchen range, received a slight shock.

TO TAX COTTON

LANCASHIRE MANUFACTURERS ARE GREATLY DISTURBED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 31—The possibility of the taxation of raw cotton imported into Great Britain from foreign countries, while cotton grown within the empire may be exempted, has greatly exercised the manufacturers of the Lancashire district. In reply to a direct question as to whether it was true, as was reported to be the case, that the preferential tariff proposals contemplated such action, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has telegraphed as follows:

"The statement is absolutely untrue as regards myself. In fact, I have publicly repudiated the suggestion to tax raw materials."

SCHOONER DISMASTED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERMUDA, July 31.—The British schooner Foster Rice, Captain Brinton, from Barbadoes via Arroyo, P. R., for St. John, N. B., arrived here today in tow of the British steamer Ocamo, Captain Fraser from St. John, N. B., and Halifax, N. S. The Foster Rice was dismasted July 24 during a gale which the ship encountered and was picked up by the Ocamo five days later.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

SUCCESSFUL LONG DISTANCE TEST MADE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 31—A new system of wireless telegraphy has just been put to a successful long-distance test on Lake Michigan. While Mrs. Emily Pigott, mother of the youthful inventor of this new system, ticked pre-arranged messages from her home in Garfield avenue, Chicago, the son stood on the main deck of the whaleback Christopher Columbus and received the messages. Unlike the other system there is no pole at the receiving or sending station and although in yesterday's tests the receiver was exposed on the deck of the vessel, the transmitter was in the room of a house. To prevent the interference of foreign currents each instrument is "timed" to respond only to a current of certain rapidity of alternation.

DRIGGS IN COURT

HE ENTERED A PLEA OF NOT GUILTY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31—Ex-Congressman Driggs appeared yesterday before Judge Thomas in the United States Circuit court, Brooklyn, and pleaded not guilty to the two indictments which were recently found against him, with leave to withdraw his plea and to demur.

One indictment was found by the federal grand jury in June and the other by the federal grand jury in July. Mr. Driggs had previously pleaded to five indictments which the June grand jury found against him and bail in the sum of $5,000 was fixed, which he furnished. That bail was continued today.

GREEK CONSTITUTION

MOVEMENT FOR ITS REVISION HAS MANY SUPPORTERS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ATHENS, July 31.—The recently started movement for the revision of the Greek constitution is securing many adherents of all classes. Many societies have been formed with the object of pressing King George to summon the constituent assembly for that purpose and the revisionist societies have sent a manifesto to the electors throughout the country in the form of a petition to the king. This document, which is being extensively signed gives a sombre picture of the internal conditions of Greece, characterizes the political parties as iniquitous, urges a number of necessary reforms and declares that a revision of the constitution is indespensable to the well-being of the country.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

CAMBRIDGE BOY UNDER FENDER OF A CAR.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Dana Olsen, 11 years old, was seriously injured in Lafayette square, Cambridge, at 6.30 last night. He was riding on an inbound car and started to get off at Lafayette square, and he run directly in the path of an outbound Waverly car, numbered 1827. He was hurled to the ground directly in front of the oncoming electric, to the horror of bystanders, who expected that his body would be mangled under the wheels. The motorman of the Waverley car acted with rare nerve, however, and reversed the power so quickly and with such force that passengers were brought up almost standing.

Young Olsen was caught under the fender and was rolled along a number of feet, but the car was brought to a standstill before the wheels caught him. He was taken out from under the fender and brought into Dr. Weeks' office, where three stitches were taken in his head. He was then removed to his home, 344 Massachusetts ave., suffering from internal pains, which may prove to be of a serious nature.

TO ISSUE BONDS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—The directors of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway have called a meeting to be held at Davenport, Iowa, October 18, to consider the advisability of creating a bonded indebtedness in a sum not exceeding 250,000,000 maturing January 1, 1988, at interest not to exceed 4 per cent. The proposed bonds will be issued for refunding, redeeming or paying at or before maturity outstanding obligations of the company or constituent companies or companies which may be acquired by consolidation and for the purchase of ownership of shares of stock or otherwise for the purpose of future development.

SUIT ENTERED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

TRENTON, N. J., July 31—A summons was served in Newark yesterday on former United States Senator James Smith receiver for the United States shipbuilding company in proceedings instituted by the Mercantile Trust company of New York to foreclose a sixteen million dollar mortgage on Shipbuilding Co.'s property. The suit is similar to a suit instituted in Maine and is designed to reach the company's property in that state. The summons is returnable September 17.

MAJOR JONES DEAD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31—Major John Wyatt Jones, one of the last Confederate staff officers, is dead. He was 82 years of age. His commission as major is said to have been the first issued by Jefferson Davis as president of the Confederacy.

CRICKET CLUB NOT COMING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 31.—The Marylebone cricket club has definitely decided that owing to lack of time it will be impossible for the cricket team which is going to Australia to visit the United States and meet American cricketers. The team sails for Australia by way of the Suez canal in September.

PHILADELPHIANS WON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CARDIFF, Wales, July 31—In the cricket match which began here yesterday between the visiting Philadelphians and a Glamorganshire eleven, the home players were all out at lunch time today in their second innings for 88 runs, giving them a total for the two innings of 180 runs.

The Philadelphians, therefore, having scored 173 runs in their first innings, only had five runs to make in order to win, which they did, by 10 wickets.

IN POLICE COURT

Pickpockets Held in $500 Each

POLICE SAY THEY ARE SLICK CHAPS

Assault and Battery Case Aired

Joseph Shapiro and Salon Yagoda, the two pickpockets arrested by state officers yesterday for larceny from the person, were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court today and were ordered in $500 each for their appearance before the court on Friday morning, Aug. 7.

Shapiro and Yagoda, the police allege, are clever thieves, but they were not wise in their selection of a victim when they chose John H. Garfield.

Mr. Garfield is a powder inspector. He came here yesterday and visited the scene of the explosion in his official capacity.

On his return and before he had proceeded far on the electric car he discovered that he had been relieved of a sum of money and he was satisfied that he knew who did the trick. He did not make any outcry, but when the opportunity was ripe, he caused their arrest.

The defendants were not represented by counsel in court today.

MAGUIRE VS. SABA.

John J. Maguire pleaded not guilty to two complaints charging him with drunkenness and assault and battery on S. G. Saba. J. J. Kerwin appeared for Maguire and D. J. Murphy for the commonwealth.

The assault occured in Merrimack square last Tuesday evening.

Saba told the court that he was reading The Sun bulletins when Maguire approached him. "He made a few remarks" said Saba "and told me that he would crack my face.

"He grabbed me by the arm and struck me several blows in the face. I returned his blows and defended myself as well as I could until Inspector Walsh appeared on the scene and placed us under arrest. At the police station I was allowed to go and Maguire was locked up."

The defence did not offer any evidence. Judge Hadley found the defendant guilty and imposed fines of $20 for assault and battery and $5 for drunkenness. Maguire appealed and was ordered in $500 for the superior court.

PAID THE BILL.

Frank G. Schmeltz, manager of the Girls' base ball club, was arrested by Inspector Maher in Arlington yesterday on a complaint charging him with evading a board bill. Schmeltz's band of base ballfairies played ball at the Fairgrounds last Saturday. They took dinner at the Farragut house and left town without settling the bill.

Schmeltz settled before the case was called in court today and in addition to the board bill he had to settle the expenses incidental to his arrest.

TOOK OVERALL CLOTH.

Ignace Fogernie, charged with the larceny of four yards of overall cloth valued at 56 cents was fined $20. The cloth was taken from the Massachusetts mills.

LITTLE BABY GIRL.

Agent Richardson of the Humane society, was interested in the welfare of a three-months old baby girl whose mother is in an institution in Boston, having been sent there because of her irresponsibility. She was not capable of properly caring for the baby. In police court today the baby was turned over to the state until such time as definite arrangements for its future can be made.

OTHER CASES.

Napoleon Heroux, charged with larceny, was placed on probation after the suspension of a reformatory sentence.

Fred Roddy, charged with cruelty to a horse, was fined $20.

John O'Donnell, for drunkenness, was fined $6.

CAR DYNAMITED

PASSENGERS ON CARS MET WITH INJURY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

RICHMOND, Va., July 31—A Broad street electric car was dynamited last night near the western limits of the city. It ran over the explosive and the latter went off, tore a big hole in the ground and damaged the car to a considerable extent, lifting the front part from the tracks and shattering the glass in windows and doors. There were 12 passengers on the car. None of these was hurt nor was either the motorman or the conductor injured.

STEAMER NOT DAMAGED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

JOHN MITCHELL

WROTE TO JUDGE NEWBURGER ABOUT MURPHY CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Judge Newburger in the course of his remarks before passing sentence of Lawrence Murphy, said:

"I have a letter form John Mitchell in which he states that part of the money embezzled by Murphy was paid in by workingmen who belong to the society to be contributed to the strike funds of the miners in Pennsylvania.

"The defendant received a large sum of money from men who worked by the sweat of their brows to earn an honest living that they might put honest bread in the mouths of their children.

"Twenty seven housand dollars is a large sum of money indeed and the evidence at the trial shows that it was spent in riotous living and for a trip to Europe."

THE RELIANCE

WAS SENT OUT FOR A TRIAL SPIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRISTOL, R. I., July 31.—With her mainsail and jib set, and her refitted top-mast in place, the Reliance was taken down Narragansett bay this forenoon as far as Sandy Point light in a moderate northwest breeze for the purpose of trying out the big canvas which was recently made for her. No other sails were set during the spin, and after having been out an hour and a half, Mr. Iselin, who was at the wheel, brought up at her anchorage. Sail was lowered and the crew continued the work of setting everything above and below decks at rights.

SHIPWRECKED CREW

ARRIVED AT MARCUS HOOK TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 31—The French steamer Le Lion, Capt. Erland from Alicante, Spain, which arrived at Marcus Hook today, had on board the shipwrecked crew of the Italian bark Vermont, Captain Ruzzo. The Vermont sailed from Marseilles on May 30 for St. John, N. B. She experienced severe weather almost from the time of sailing until the captain and twelve men were rescued four days ago by Le Lion.

Captain Marino of the Vermont says that his vessel careened July 24 during a terrific gale. So sudden was the accident to the vessel that the men did not have time to launch a boat or secure food. When the vessel went over the crew clung to the side and were in an almost exhausted condition when sighted by the Le Lion, July 27. The chief mate, second mate and two seamen from Le Lion volunteered to go to the rescue of the sufferers. There was a heavy sea running at the time and the undertaking was a perilous one, but the crew were safely landed after a great battle with the waves.

We are told there is no politics in in the school board. That is always the assumption when the republicans have things their own way, just as some newspapers claim to be non-partisan when they are uniformly republican.

The high school is to have a five hours' session hereafter and military drill is to be retained. Other cities have a five hours' session, some have longer. Five hours a day it seems should not injure boys and girls of high school age.

PLACING THE BLAME FOR THE DISASTER.

In order to understand more fully whether negligence contributed to the cause of the terrible catastrophe in which the magazines of the United States Cartridge company and the American Powder company were blown up, it will be necessary to explain the nature of the explosives stored in the magazines and the care required to avoid an explosion.

Dynamite as generally manufactured consists of certain solids such as infusorial earth, porcelain earth, coal dust, siliceous ashes or the like with about three times its weight of nitro glycerine.

To the eye it is a grayish brown, reddish or blackish powder, damp and greasy to the touch and without smell. It is sufficiently hard to be handled in bars or cakes and in this form if handled carefully is not particularly dangerous.

Dynamite is merely a combination of solids designed to carry the nitro glycerine which is the most powerful explosive known.

A high authority says that even when pure, nitro glycerine is liable at a heat of 70 degrees or less to undergo decomposition into glycerine, acids and gases, which exerting pressure on the liquids renders it so prone to explosion that even a slight concussion is attended with danger. The impure commercial compound decomposes more rapidly than the pure nitro glycerine and may from this cause be dangerously self-explosive even while standing quietly.

A case is related in which a workman at a quarry was set to clean a wagon on which were traces of nitro glycerine. He scraped it off with a piece of slate and when done threw the slate into the wagon with slight force but sufficient to cause an explosion which blew the wagon to pieces.

This shows the extreme care that must be used in handling nitro glycerine. The fall of a tool like a crowbar, a spade or shovel might be sufficient to cause the explosion where the floor was saturated with nitro glycerine. According to the statement of the Cartridge company nitro glycerine had leaked from the dynamite to the floor and even under a partition leaving streaks upon the floor. It was for this reason that the floor was to be removed.

Now it will be noticed that the gang of men furnished by the U. S. Cartridge company to remove the powder and dynamite from the magazines was sent there not to handle nitro glycerine or guard against its dangerous character. They were sent there to remove dynamite and gunpowder.

There seems to have been no special caution or care about the nitro glycerine upon the floor. Had there been any such caution or care the company would have sent a man authorized and licensed by the state to handle explosives, to superintend the work; but was this done?

Was Louis Richards so authorized? Was the boy, James Leo Grady, who had been in the employ of the Cartridge company but two weeks to be expected to exercise the necessary care on a floor streaming with nitro-glycerine? The answer is obvious.

Almeda Belanger, another boy who had been in the employ of the company but six weeks, was also a member of the gang. He is at the hospital at the point of death. Was he a proper person to select for the handling of dynamite on a floor soaked with nitro glycerine?

The company that sent such a gang of men to perform such work is in our opinion, guilty of criminal negligence.

It is to be presumed that the boxes and cases which were to be removed were of considerable weight. When the men took them in hand the pressure of their feet upon the floor may have been enough to cause the explosion.

The company will try to wriggle out of the responsibility by saying that it was merely an accident but due care prevents such accidents and the care necessary in this case was not exercised by the company that undertook the work for the American Powder company.

That company owning and leasing the magazine is primarily responsible. The others with the exception of the Du Pont Powder company, which had no explosives there, were merely the tenants or lessees of the premises under the U. S. Cartridge company, but they too are culpable.

Here then are the plain conclusions that seem to be forced upon the investigator of this terrible disaster—First, the United States Cartridge company and its copartners in the magazines are criminally liable for maintaining such a menace to life and property at the doors of a large number of residents. Second, the U. S. Cartridge Co. would have been criminally negligent in sending a gang of inexperienced men to remove the powder and dynamite under the most favorable conditions.

Third, the leakage of the nitro glycerine from the dynamite and its saturation of the floor made the case one in which the most extreme care was necessary. It was a case that called for the presence of an expert on explosives. No expert was present, No man was present who had a license from the government to handle explosives. On this ground especially the company exercised the most gross and criminal negligence.

No doubt a large umber of experts on explosives will now be produced to show that the company was not to blame but a single expert on the scene to direct and superintend the work of removing the explosives, could have prevented the disaster and the consequent destruction of life and property.

The cartridge company seems to make much of the fact that their powder had been removed when the explosion occurred; but that cannot relieve them from responsibility for the work of inexperienced men upon the magazine which they had leased to the American Powder company. The latter company had a right to assume that the Cartridge company would have reliable men to do the work. But all the companies that held joint ownership or occupancy of the magazine should be held jointly responsible for the disaster that wiped out so many lives and caused such destruction of property not only in the immediate vicinity but for miles beyond.

Aftermath of the Quincy Riot

By Associated Press to The Sun

QUINCY, Mass., July 31.—As an aftermath of the riot in Quincy woods last Sunday, between picnickers from Cambridge and residents of Quincy, James P. Riley of Cambridge was arraigned before Judge Avery in district court here yesterday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Simon Bennett and James F. Mullen. Owing to the condition of the alleged victims of Riley, who are in the hospital where slight hopes are entertained for their recovery, that case was continued to Aug. 12 and the court increased the bail to $3000 for the assault on Bennett and $2000 for the assault on Mullen. Prior to the arraignment, Riley was taken to the hospital where Mullen identified him as his assailant. In default of bail, Riley was taken to Dedham jail.

GOOD MEASURE

Grocers Had Great Time at Canobie Lake

The grocers and butchers of this city, Nashua and surrounding towns held their annual picnic at Canobie lake yesterday. There were over 500 present and they had the best time imaginable.

The sports were the main attraction and of these there were sufficient to satisfy all. A baseball contest between the clerks of Nashua and Lowell was the principal event of the day. The Lowell boys appeared to be the stronger of the two, and before the game was over they gave visible evidence of this fact. The Nashuans were no match at all for their Lowell brothers, who had things their own way from the start and won, 6 to 4.

The other sports were carried off in the majority of cases by Lowell men, including the potato race.

The committee on sports consisted of Richard J. McCluskey, George F. McGuire and John McCullough.

FREIGHT RATES

Will be Advanced on August 1

Freight rates on the Boston & Maine railroad will be advanced on Aug. 1, to meet the exceptionally heavy increase in the cost of maintaining and running the property. Other lines in New England have taken similar action, with very little protest from shipping interests, and it is to be assumed that the patrons of the Boston & Maine will likewise acquiesce.

The increase will be horizontal, that is, it will go down the whole length of the class freight line and make an advance of 1 per cent. per 100 pounds. This raise is not as great as some of the other companies have made, but it is expected to be sufficient to offset in great part the additional cost of labor and materials required in maintaining the service.

There will be one exception in the application of the new tariffs. In that, where present rates between stations for any one of the six classes are respectively 45 cents, 40 cents, 31 cents, 21½ cents, 19 cents and 17 cents or higher no increase will be made.

These figures do not apply to commodity rates, as they are fixed by joint action of the various lines over which merchandise under this classification is moved.

Justification for the impending increase in freight charges is found in the fact that the new pay roll of the Boston & Maine railroad, which went into effect July 1, calls for an additional outlay on account of labor of more than $500,000 per year.

Then come the extra outlay for coal. As compared with the conditions before the strike for three or four years past, at least $500,000 has been added to this item alone. Locomotives that heretofore cost $10,000 are now quoted at $15,000. In the matter of ties, and the company purchases no less than 1,400,000 of them each year, the price has been advanced from 31 cents to 45 cents, making a total increase of nearly $200,000 in this feature of roadway maintenance.

Consideration should also be given to the fact that the cost of every necessity used by a railroad has been marked up from 10 to 50 per cent. As the resources of a railroad have limitations, it will be seen that in order to maintain its efficiency and keep it from the slough of bankruptcy its revenues must be increased when the drain becomes excessive, and it is this protection that the president seeks to give the property in raising freight charges.

JUDGE GRAY

ACCEPTS PLACE ON ARBITRATION BOARD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WILMINGTON, Del., July 31.—Judge George Gray decided yesterday to accept his appointment as the fifth member of the Alabama coal commission and has so telegraphed the other members of the commission at Atlantic City. He made his acceptance conditional, however, upon the commission's work being done during August, as he will have to preside over a session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in September. In order to attend to the commission work he will have to forego his usual August vacation.

His Wife Wanted Him to Retire

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"If all that one hears about Wall street is true, it seems to me that it is more like an insane asylum than a place where men congregate to carry on business in a peaceful, law-abiding manner. Some years ago curiosity led me to visit the stock exchange to see whether it really was a menagerie of bulls and bears. My curiosity was satisfied. When I heard of the excitement down there the other day, I tried to persuade my husband to stay away, but he would mix in the fray, as he calls it. I have been trying to persuade him that he has worked long and hard enough to spend the remainder of his years in peace. But he has been at it so constantly that business has become a necessity with him. He seems to care for no other sort of recreation. We have enough to live on comfortably for the balance of our lives and nobody should need any more than that."

This statement was made yesterday by Mrs. Russell Sage at the old Sage home in 5th avenue, near 42nd street, while she was giving her impressions and opinions of the recent Wall street flurry which marked a decrease of $2,500,000,000 in security values.

She dubbed as a canard the report that her husband has suffered from an attack of vertigo, brought on by worry during the recent seminanic, and declared that neither he nor she had ever felt better in their lives than they do at the present time.

"Stocks and bonds once interested me very much," she admitted with a smile, "but now, beyond keeping conversationally posted on finance, I suppose I am a tyro. Money is to me only a means to an end, and I believe that when a person has accumulated enough to be comfortable on he should cease piling up more. Of course, money-making becomes a passion if permitted to engross the whole attention of a person, and that is what should be guarded against.

"Society women and women in general," resumed Mrs. Sage, "have been criticised for wasting their time on frivolous things when they should devote more of it to their families and to charity. Why, it takes as much strength and brains and nerve force for a woman to preside over a handsome home or manage a family of children as it does for a man to wear himself out on the stock exchange. As for women being extravagant, most of the so-called ruinous extravagance of women is practiced by those who are trying to buy their way into society. They are very foolish women and should be blushed for. This is always an expensive undertaking and one that no well-bred womanly woman would ever be guilty of. The latter makes her own place in her own sphere.

"One of the greatest banes of our American women is this falling under the blandishments of titled, fortune-hunting foreigners. Some men of title make good husbands. The majority do not, according to record.

"My remedy for this social disease is for our American girls to postpone their marriages until they reach years of discretion, and when they are convinced that there is genuine affection—go to the altar."

Mrs. Sage paused, and searched among a number of memoranda for a notice that had come to her attention recently of a young New York woman who had made the mistake of turning over all her wealth to her husband.

"This young matron," she continued, "told me the other day that she did it because she thought she could trust her husband with her fortune if she could with her life and happiness. What is the result? She has to skimp along on a mere pittance of an allowance, which she has to beg from him. He is not squandering her money. He has put it to excellent use and is adding to it all the time. But his wife is a pauper in the vital sense of the word.

"A wife should have an allowance—not a carte blanche order on her grocer and milliner for what the household needs—but a regular cash allowance, or salary. Several women in this city whose husbands are worth millions are driven to borrow money from tradespeople and have it put on their bills. That is an outrage."

Reverting to the marriage problem, Mrs. Sage declared that no young man should burden himself with such responsibilities until his position was assured.

"Love in a cottage is quite romantic, but human nature is alike the world over and will not be denied. Some women will always be envious of their more fortunate sisters. A man should be pretty well fixed financially before he is married, if he would live happily in New York."

JUDGE PARKER

Is Not a Candidate for President

PREFERS TO REMAIN ON THE BENCH

Where He Is Happy and Contented

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—"I have had nothing to do with politics, except to vote, since 1884. The party has not needed me."

This was said by Chief Judge Alton B. Parker to a correspondent of the Newark Evening News, who visited him at his home, at Esopus-on-the-Hudson, and called his attention to the statement that he was a presidential possibility on the democratic ticket. Continuing, Judge Parker said:

"I take it that this is an interview we are now having. I want to say frankly, so there will be no misunderstanding, that I cannot be interviewed on the subject of whether or not I am a consideration in the political condition of my party, nor upon any political question whatever."

The judge was then asked if there was any phase of modern presidential campaigning he would care to talk about.

"I don't object to saying that I believe the time between the nominating convention and election seems too long," he replied. "It keeps the country disturbed for too long a period. Before the advent of the telegraph, the newspapers and the railroad in their present stage of development, it required time to present to the people the great questions of the day, and the issues as to men and measures. In the days of our forefathers, orators and political stump speakers travelled on horseback or on foot, and the newspapers, when compared with those of today, were slow mediums for the dissemination of news. Even the farmers in these days are reading the daily newspapers to a large extent, instead of the weeklies of former days and of former generations. It might be that the country would welcome a cutting down of the campaign period."

"Your southern trip, judge, centred a great deal of interest upon yourself as a presidential candidate," the correspondent said.

"That trip was planned a year before and had no significance whatever, except the fulfilling of a promise I had made to my friend, the chief justice of the supreme court of the state of Georgia," was his response.

"I will explain my position to you," continued the judge, "so you can understand why I cannot talk upon the subject you have mentioned. I went on the bench to make it my life work. It is congenial to me, and I am very happy and contented. I am with my family here in my home. I usually take them to Albany for three or four months during the winter, and when it is necessary for me to be away during the other months of the year I can run down from Albany every week.

"If I behave myself I can remain on the bench for life. The salary is ample. The New York state court of appeals pays its judges larger salaries than the United States supreme court. I shall remain on the bench. It is my ideal."

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 20, 1902.

D. J. Murphy Co.

Dear Sirs—In regard to your Rheumatism Cure I must say that I cannot say enough in its praise. Two years ago I induced my wife to give it a trial, very much against her will, as she had about tired of medicine. She had tried about every patent medicine on the calendar and several doctors with little or no relief. She had been a sufferer with Rheumatism for seven years, at times so bad she could not sleep nights. Before she had taken the fourth bottle she felt completely cured, but took two more before she stepped, which is two years ago, and has not felt a pain or an ache of it since, and I know of at least two others that I told about it that it has cured.

Yours truly,

P. A. MACKENZIE.

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Lands by Defeating Manchester

Game Was Won on a Wild Throw by Leith in the Last Inning With Cross on Third—Lowell Will Try Pitcher McCarthy

With the score a tie in the last inning and Lew Cross on third base, Pitcher Leith of Manchester made a wild pitch yesterday and the day was won by Lowell.

The game was played in a rain storm and once it was necessary to delay the proceedings temporarily but it was finished out all right and Lowell went into second place.

Lowell batted Miller out of the box in two innings and Leith succeeded him. The latter was quite effective.

Hafford was Lowell's star performer and he excelled both at the bat and in the field. Matty Hickey made a somersault catch in the seventh inning that alone was worth the price of admission.

A large attendance enjoyed the fun, despite the threatening weather and the many counter attractions.

The game in detail:

First inning: Rapp led off for Manchester with a hit down third base line. Murray fanned and Smith flied to McLaughlin. Swander then sent the ball on a line to Hickey who threw wide to Bigbie. Swander was safe, but Rapp in trying to make home on the play was thrown out at the plate by Bigbie who recovered quickly. Hafford opened up for the Lakelings with a single to left and Cassidy walked. Bigbie in trying to sacrifice caused Hafford to be headed off at third. Hickey flied to Clark but Merritt followed with a single to centre upon which Cassidy tallied. Merritt then stole second and Cote in throwing to third for Bigbie hit that player on the arm with the ball and Bigbie found the walking easy to the plate.

Score, Lowell 2; Manchester 0.

Second inning: Manchester went out in order in the second. With two gone, Connors dropped the ball in front of the plate and Miller could not field it in time to get him at first. Then came Hafford with his home run. Cassidy singled but Bigbie was out at first. Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 0.

Third inning: Three hits, an error and an infield out gave Manchester 2 runs in the third. Cote opened with a safe slam to right garden and Leith placed one in short centre. Rapp followed with a sharp poke to Grant upon which Cote might have travelled to the plate. But he didn't and the bases were filled. Murray was then retired at first by Hickey but Cote tallied and Smith pushed out a fly to left which Cassidy dropped and Leith registered. Bigbie, a moment later, found a sharp grounder from Swander in his mittens and he very thoughtfully sent the ball to second, forcing Smith. Swander stole second, but Clark struck out. Lowell was retired in order.

Score, Lowell 4, Manchester 2.

With two men gone in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings the Lakelings got men on bases whom they were unable to push around the whole way.

Manchester made a strenuous protest because Kane was called out in the fourth, Bigbie dropping the ball on a throw from Hafford, but he umpire ruled that the ball was knocked out of the first baseman's hands by the runner. Cote followed with a hit and Miller shot one past second upon which McLaughlin fell down, but there were already two out and Rapp made the third.

In the fifth, Smith walked with one gone and Swander hit safely, but Smith tried unsuccessfully to sneak second on Merritt, and Cassidy made a fine capture off Clark. In the sixth and ninth the visitors sent but one man to first on passes and neither was advanced, while in the eighth they were retired, one, two, three.

There was no further scoring from that point until the seventh when Rapp ripped out a double and Murray followed with a triple. Swander scored Murray by flying to Connors in right. In this inning Smith walked and Kane placed a single in right but after Swander had been retired by the air route, Clark flied to Bigbie and Knau forced Kane at second. Score, 4 up.

Ninth inning: Lew Cross was the first Lakeling on the scene in the ninth and he selected a secluded spot in left field which netted him two bases. Connors tried to sacrifice him to third but after having two strikes called on him he laid the wood to the sphere with all his strength and while not intending to do so, he advanced Cross along a peg and went out himself, Leith to Kane. Hafford was disposed of at first, making two out and then with Cassidy at the bat, Leith made the slip-up that lost the game.

COAT OF TAR

With Feathers On the Side

IS WHAT GOFFSTOWN WHITECAPS

Will Hand Out to Lowell Man

The following letter, special from the Manchester News, from the Goffestown Whitecaps, is self-explanatory, and looks ominous for a Lowell man:

"Whitecaps were in evidence again and word has been received that if the selectmen do not proceed, tar and feathers will be used on a Lowell man who has a wife in Concord and has four children and who formerly lived here. He has cruelly turned his family into the street and is living with a woman on Rock street, Lowell. The Whitecaps have issued letters of warning and declare they will visit Lowell at an early date. Proceedings are watched with much interest, as the Whitecaps say:

"Know the law or take the consequences. Per order of WHITECAPS."

GEORGE GARDNER

Says That Fitz Must Make Weight

George Gardner's manager says that if it is shown that the Lowell boy fouled Jack Root, he will give the latter another trial for the title and will put up any amount for a side bet. He states, however, that Fitzsimmons will have first chance at Gardner.

FITZ MUST MAKE WEIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—If any match is to be arranged between George Gardner to Bob Fitzsimmons the weight question will have to be agreed upon first. Gardner now says that Fitz will have to scale 168 pounds before he will sign articles. He also stipulates that the weighing in must be at the ringside, too. This would seem to be a big handicap to Fitz in view of the fact that only the other day he went on the scales in San Francisco and tipped the beam at 203 pounds. Yet the Cornishman has been known to do surprising things, and may agree to tackle Gardner at the weight the latter suggests.

WOMAN IS DYING

Shot Three Times by Discarded Lover

THE ASSAILANT IS STILL AT LARGE

Woman Posed as Wife of Different Men

By Associated Press to The Sun

MILFORD, July 31—Concetta Misci, an Italian belle, aged 32, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded yesterday afternoon by a discarded lover, Rocco Caroli.

Concetta, who has a husband in Italy, has lived in Milford for several years as the wife of at least three different men.

Caroli was the last. They went to Providence about two months ago and secured a marriage permit. Caroli supposed they were to be married, but a few weeks ago he lost his job and Concetta fired him from his position as acting husband.

He has been bothering the police ever since, invoking their aid to recover the money he had given Concetta while they lived together. Yesterday morning he learned that the woman was going to New York next week to live, and, crazed by his passion for Concetta, he armed himself with a 38-calibre revolver and set out for revenge.

He found the woman picking berries in a field off Mt. Pleasant street, and fired three shots at her, all of which took effect, one in her right thigh, one under the left breast and the other in the flesh of the back near the spine.

Two women who were with her, Bessie Finkelstein and Ray Weinstein, gave the alarm. Concetta was carried to the home of her mother, 16 Mt. Pleasant street, and Dr. F. H. Lally was summoned. He thinks the chances of her recovery very slight.

Caroli fled after firing the third shot and is yet at large in the Bear Hill woods. A searching party is out after him.

The affair does not surprise the local police, as Concetta's previous "affairs" have caused her to be threatened by discarded lovers, one of whom paid a fine in the local court for threatening to kill her.

Another lover, with whom she lived for two years, had her arrested for the alleged theft of $20 when she threw him aside, but she was acquitted.

The woman is attractive in face and figure, and on her appearances in court talked about her illicit lovers without a semblance of modesty.

A rumor is afloat that Caroli has committed suicide, but his body has not yet been found.

CARDINALS BUSY

Preparing for the Conclave at Vatican

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 31.—The Vatican yesterday was the scene of great activity both inside and outside. Within the last preparations were being made for the conclave and everything was in the utmost confusion. Workmen and servants were hurrying hither and thither, some hanging curtains, others putting in extra furniture, while porters were staggering along under immense trunks as if some of their eminences, the cardinals, expected to remain in their cells for months. Other cardinals sent practically nothing, as if they expected to be released within a day or two. Outside the vatican, the work was of a different character, the quiet work of the supporters of the different candidates marshalling their strength for the contest which is to come when the doors of the conclave are closed. No one candidate stands out prominently as did Cardinal Pecci in the conclave of 1878, and the discussion here is not so much concerning the superior qualities of the candidates as of the strength with which they are credited.

During the meeting of the congregation of the cardinals yesterday Cardinal Oreglia explained how the work of the conclave was to be carried on, recalling the principal rules which were to govern the body and recommending their strict observance. The cardinals will enter the conclave at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Each of the cardinals yesterday received a medal struck by the camerlingo to maintain the tradition of his sovereignty during the interregnum. Cardinals Zanmintelli, Machi and Della Volpe were charged with the duty of visiting the apartments of the conclave and Cardinals Tripeti, and Boschi, with visiting the precincts of the conclave for the purpose of making sure that there will be no possibility of communication with the outside world. They are to make their report to the congregation today.

The question of the compensation to be given to the physicians who treated the late pontiff during his last illness was also discussed in the congregation. The executors of the will said that the money remaining after the charitable bequests left by Pope Leo are paid would be only about $4000. This sum was considered insufficient and a committee of cardinals was instructed to augment it to such an amount as might seem appropriate.

PARDON GRANTED

DEDHAM MAN WALKED RELEASED FROM JAIL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—At 5:25 yesterday afternoon, Philander Allen, a Dedham business man, walked forth from the Dedham house of correction, a free man.

For some months his friends have been earnestly at work to obtain a pardon for him. Yesterday a hearing was had before Gov. Bates and his council, with the result that a pardon was granted.

Allen was sentenced July 10, 1902, to prison for a term of two years for the offence of making an assault with a dangerous weapon on George A. Blanche at Dedham.

The pardon was brought out to Dedham by Dr. John W. Chase. At Dedham Dr. Chase was met by Allen's junior counsel and Mrs. Allen and the three proceeded to the jail. Here the jail officials, having previous knowledge, had Allen ready to receive the glad tidings and his freedom. The pardon was presented, and Allen was let into the vestibule. There he met his faithful wife and the greeting was an affecting one. Then, accompanied by his wife, junior counsel and Dr. Chase, he was driven to his home, where he gave a father's greeting to his children from whom he had been separated for more than a year.

QUIET MEETING

LITTLE BUSINESS FOR OVERSEERS OF POOR.

The overseers of the poor held a very brief and unimportant meeting at the farm last evening with all the members present except Overseer McMahon. The report of the committee on cattle to the effect that three cows had been purchased for the institution was accepted. The reports of the secretary and the superintendent were accepted and adopted. The report of the superintendent showed that there were 371 inmates, 46 tramps cared for during the month and twelve deaths. The board sometime within the next few weeks will visit the institution located at Taunton.

The matter of hiring a carpenter for the institution was laid on the table.

WRONG!
WRONG!
WRONG!

If your digestion is poor or your stomach or bowels are out of order, your whole system is wrong. Don't look further for the cause of your sick headaches, sour stomach, bad breath, aching eyes or loss of appetite. Above all things, don't drug your system with narcotics, opiates or alcoholic nostrums, which afford only temporary relief and which might seriously injure your health.

Those who suffer from constipation or indigestion will find Abbey's Salt of Fruits a perfect corrective of all stomach disorders. It is a natural tonic laxative, pleasant to take, gentle, thorough, sure. It stimulates and tones the digestive organs, enabling the stomach to digest perfectly.

Take two teaspoonfuls in half a tumbler of water at bedtime or in the morning on arising. Your druggist will recommend it, and your stomach will endorse the recommendation.

The drug stores in all civilized countries sell Abbey's Effervescent Salt, 25c, 50c, and $1 per bottle. Let us send you a sample bottle free to-day. Address The Abbey Effervescent Salt Co., Ltd., 9 to 15 Murray St., N.Y. City; 144 Queen Victoria St., London, England, or 722 Craig St., Montreal, Canada.

Fortune Left to an Elevator Man

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31.—Walter W. Condon, 23 years old, suddenly found himself boosted yesterday from an elevator man in the Ashland Block to a capitalist, the possessor of a fortune of $300,000. Up to noon he had been shooting up and down the long shaft, shouting "second floor," etc., at the rate of about $18 a week. This afternoon, arrayed in his Sunday suit, he left his home, 526 North Clark street, for Coldwater, Mich., to claim the fortune left him by his grandmother.

Condon has been going under the name of W. W. Cole for reasons best known to himself. He bade his aged parents good bye seven years ago, leaving home against their wishes. The boy never wrote to his anxious parents. It is believed he came to Chicago, and a few years ago the Chicago police were notified to find and tell him of the death of his mother. Another year passed, and the police received a message announcing the death of the father.

Wednesday it was learned that the grandmother of the young man had died, leaving the wanderer a fortune. The central station detectives were unable to get any clew to the whereabouts of Condon, but recently the relatives received information that the young man was working as an elevator man in Chicago. The news came through a young woman who had known him. The relatives also found that Condon had eloped a short time ago and was married under romantic circumstances.

The Elevated Conductors' union was appealed to, but no such member was discovered. Then George Condon, a cousin of Walter, began a canvass from building to building and came upon the long lost man.

TWO ARRESTED

IN CONNECTION WITH WORCESTER CAR ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WORCESTER, July 31.—Asst.-Dist. Atty. Taft decided not to wait the result of the official inquiry of the railroad commissioners into the cause of the fatal trolley collision near Westboro Saturday. Acting on the information before him from Officers Murray and Holt of the state force, he ordered Conductor Daniel F. Daly and Motorman Leo B. Downs of the west-bound car brought into court yesterday.

The men were arrested only a few minutes before the court met. They were arraigned before Judge Samuel Utley in the central district court, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Miss Frances Greer of Chicago. Daly was represented by Thomas C. Carrigan of this city, who also officiated for Downs, in the absence of P. F. Conniff of Boston, who has been engaged as his counsel.

Detective Murray appeared for the government, and after the prisoners had pleaded not guilty consented to the suggestion of Mr. Carrigan that the case be continued until Aug. 11 for examination. Judge Utley held both prisoners in $1000 each for appearance on that date, and paroled them in the personal custody of Detective Murray. Later both furnished bonds and were released.

None of the victims of the accident have been discharged from the hospital, but all are reported as doing well. Several suits have already been entered against the Boston & Worcester Railway company to recover damages for injuries caused by Saturday's accident.

LIQUOR AGENTS

APPOINTED FOR THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CONCORD, N. H., July 31—The state liquor license commission issued a statement last night concerning the appointment of special agents, or inspectors, with reference to which the supreme court and attorney-general recently rendered opinions, saying, in part:

"The state board of license commissioners have issued notices of appointment to five special agents, named Everett C. Howe of Littleton, G. Scott Locke of Concord, Frederic E. Small of Rochester, Frank W. Ordway of Milford and Thomas Flood of Nashua.

YACHT RACES

At Montreal Won by the Thorella

By Associated Press to The Sun

MONTREAL, July 31.—The race of the series for the Seawanhaka challenge cup was sailed yesterday on Lake St. Louis and the Thorella defending for the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club, defeated the challenger, the Kolutoo, representing the Manchester, Mass., Yacht club.

The course was triangular giving a beat and two reaches. The Kolutoo out-maneuvred the Thorella and led the way across the line after a pretty bit of jockeying. The American boat did not hold her position long and the Thorella sailed through her lee and took the lead.

On the third leg of the second round the rudder of the Kolutoo was carried away leaving her helpless. At that time the Canadian boat was nine minutes and 42 seconds ahead. After the race Mr. Higginson, one of the owners of the Kolutoo said he was satisfied the Thorella was the better boat in the conditions that prevailed yesterday. There was a brisk breeze blowing. The official time follows:

Start, 1:55.

Name.	First Mark.	Second Mark.	Third Mark.
Thorella	2:15:09	2:21:36	2:31:50
Koluto	2:20:31	2:28:39	2:33:31

SECOND ROUND.

Thorella	2:52:00	2:59:32	3:06:45
Koluto	3:02:12	disabled withdr'n

THIRD ROUND.

Thorella	3:29:30	3:37:00	3:44:20

Elapsed time, 1:49:20.

GIRLS' BALL TEAM

Manager of It Under Arrest

Inspector Maher yesterday afternoon arrested Frank C. Schmeltz, manager of the Girls' base ball team, which played ball in this city last Saturday afternoon. The arrest was made at Arlington, Mass.

Schmeltz, it is alleged, skipped his board bill while in this city. He and his bevy of fair (?) ball players dined at the Farragut house and he says that members of his team missed some things. In order to get square he decided to let the board bill stand unpaid. His story about things missing doesn't hold water, at least not in the estimation of the police and Mr. Schmeltz will have to settle.

PEOPLE STARVE

Famine in Cape Verde Islands

THE GOVERNMENT HAS STOPPED PUBLIC WORK

Death Rate of 30 a Day

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 31.—The Cape de Verde people of this city are deeply stirred by news received here of late telling a terrible story of suffering and death in the islands. So far as is known no newspaper has printed these facts, there being no newspaper in the islands and the government holding close guard over other sources of news.

But a Portuguese newspaper, O Seculo, published at Lisbon, in its issue of July 13, says in an editorial news item, that despite the efforts of the military governor of the Cape Verdes to relieve the situation the famine is spreading. It appears that for the past three months the government has totally stopped operations on public highways and government work, and the hundreds of laborers usually dependent on such work have been thrown out of employment and are now destitute. The heavy immigration from the islands last winter and this spring robbed the farming districts of their skilled labor and the crops have totally failed. Through scarcity of provisions the prices have jumped upward and the people in idleness are unable to pay for their ordinary living.

The situation in the island of St. Thiago is particularly distressing, old and decrepit people dropping dead in the streets and little babes dying from starvation at the dry breasts of their starving mothers. Little children cry pitifully in the streets, but they plead to helpless people, no one having money to give them.

A death rate of as high as 30 a day is reported, and so pressed are the burial authorities that it is necessary to pile the dead in common graves in the cemetery without coffins. Some appeals have been made to the resident minister of marine to persuade the government to resume its public works, and it is understood that last month some work was started. Still the relief is totally inadequate to relieve the situation, which is reported growing worse.

HIS WIFE HERE

Ashley is Under Arrest for Bigamy

By Associated Press to The Sun

CAMBRIDGE, July 31.—William T. Ashley who is held in Dubois City, Idaho, for the Cambridge police was indicted for bigamy at the June term of the Middlesex grand jury. Since then Ashley has eluded the police. He was traced to St. Louis and then to Vicksburg, Tenn. In Vicksburg it is said Ashley was on the eve of marrying. When his record became known he came near being lynched before he could get out of town. He agrees to return east without extradition papers. Ashley is said to have a wife and two children in Lowell. Inspector Murray and Patrolman Nellon will leave at once for Dubois City.

Physicians Give Eczema Up, But Zema-Cura Cures it Every Time

You often hear of "hopeless cases" of Eczema; of people who have tried everything recommended by eminent physicians without being relieved, to say nothing of being cured. The tortures of this disease are terrible, and to be a victim of Eczema is most pitiable. It was claimed to be incurable.

All this was true once, but it is now no longer true. No matter how bad the case may be or of what duration, ZEMA-CURA will cure Eczema, Hives, Eruptions and skin diseases of all kinds.

ZEMA-CURA has been used in thousands of cases and has not failed to cure in one instance. It never will fail. It will cure you surely, effectively and for all time. No matter what you have tried or how long you have suffered you owe it to yourself to try ZEMA-CURA.

"It affords me pleasure to testify to the curative value of Zema-Cura. For two years I had been troubled with an itching on my back at the base of the spine which was so troublesome, especially at night, that my constant irritation to produce relief caused sores. I could find no remedy until a friend recommended your preparation. Before I had used a bottle, the itching had entirely stopped, the sores were healed and a new skin formed and I have since had no trouble. I can confidently recommend it." — W. W. McMULLEN; THOS. J. JOHNSTON & CO., 30 E. 10th St., New York.

Why Russia Appears to Be Anxious For Conflict

COUNT LAMSDORFF. FINANCE MINISTER DE WITTE.

RECENT events have gone far to strengthen the conviction, long held in many quarters, that Russia will shortly be engaged in a world shaking struggle with one or more of the other great powers. Economists point out that, apart from the lust for territorial aggrandizement which is taking an ever firmer hold of the government of the czar, there is throughout the country a seething unrest which can only be quieted by some event that will bring about solidification of the national interests, such an event being obviously a war. The Kishineff horror, in which so many Jews perished, was but a striking instance of the popular uneasiness, and it may be that the Kishineff affair will serve as an excuse for Russia going to war, since she has announced that any power protesting against the inhumanity of the Russians will be regarded as unwarrantably interfering in the internal affairs of the country.

It is safe to say, moreover, that, whatever may be the cause which will lead to the outbreak of a Russian war, the czar's administration will advance this selfsame excuse of interference with Russian rights. It will be rather difficult to maintain this pretense if an international crisis should arise over the Persian gulf question, though Lord Lansdowne's application of the Monroe doctrine to the gulf may eventually be brought forward by Russia as an interference with the rights of other powers. In regard to the Manchuria question, however, which is again of transcendent importance, Russia certainly affects to deem herself in possession of well established rights and is daily making it more manifest that she will not yield these so called rights without a struggle that may find Japan and other powers aligned against her.

So far as the United States is concerned, the feeling growing out of the Kishineff affair and the Manchuria troubles may be deemed not so much one of anger as of reproach. The administration at Washington has for some time been convinced that Russia's unfriendly attitude was responsible for the refusal of China to grant open ports to this country. The matter of secret concessions by China to Russia has also been a cause of uneasiness, Japan being especially active in warning the Chinese foreign office against making such concessions. China's recent promise to grant us treaty ports has somewhat modified the situation, but it is yet considered tense.

The bear threatens danger in still another quarter—the Balkans—where the question of reforms, although smoldering of late, may at any moment blaze into a fire that will sweep all Europe. A Balkan war could of course only be precipitated by international interference in the internal affairs of Turkey—the denying to the sultan the right to act as he sees fit toward the unfortunates who may be domiciled within his boundaries or within the principalities that are under his sovereignty. Here again the phantom of "interference" makes itself a potent factor in the determining for peace or for war, and it is a matter of record that wars have long been precipitated through one nation believing that another has exercised an unwarrantable interference in its affairs.

Take the memorable war of 1812. If ever a struggle between two peoples was caused by interference that was the struggle. The British, by claiming and on occasion exercising the right to search American vessels for British deserters, aggravated the United States to a point where friendly relations could no longer be maintained. When to this practice was added the habit of impressing American sailors into the British service war in deadly earnest broke forth. The Mexican war of 1846-47 is another case in point. Its primary cause is to be traced to the secession in 1835 of the old Spanish province of Texas owing to the influence of the great body of Anglo-Americans who had established homes there and chafed under the exactions and unfairness of Spanish rule. War between Texas and Mexico followed as a matter of course, and after the Mexican army had been routed at the battle of San Jacinto Texas declared its independence, Sam Houston being elected president, an almost unanimous vote being cast at the same time in favor of annexation to the United States. Annexation did not become an established fact until 1845, our war with Mexico being the logical outcome of the acquisition of territory which had so long been a part of Mexico. The recent contest with Spain may also be cited as an example of hostilities following what was deemed interference, since the Spaniards would never have dared give battle to the United States had not national pride and resentment been aroused by our attitude toward their operations in their insular colony, Cuba.

Abroad we find similar cases. The Franco-German war of 1870-71, primarily caused by the insistence of France upon territorial concessions from Prussia as compensation for the aggrandizement of that power, really hinged on French interference with the German plan of making Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern king of Spain. The Chino-Japanese conflict of 1894 was likewise the direct outcome of an alleged interference despite treaty agreements in the management of Korea, China insisting, thanks to Li Hung Chang's advice, upon sending troops into Korea in order to quell a rebellion. At the same time it must be admitted that this war could not have been avoided in any event, because Japan, flushed in her new found powers, was determined to make a test of her strength by engaging in a war with her powerful rival, China.

Russia herself has been only too ready to interfere in the affairs of other nations and has already figured in some memorable struggles as a result of this governmental characteristic. Thus the Crimean war, carried on by Great Britain, France, Turkey and Sardinia against Russia, had a leading cause in the claim of Russia to be protector of the Greek church in Turkey. The object of the war was of course to check Russian encroachments, just as will be the object of any war directed against Russia today. Russian encroachments, by the way, were the cause of the great Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, the conflict being a phase of the czar's long cherished scheme of acquiring territory in the Balkans with a view to the ultimate conquest of Constantinople. The ostensible cause, as history informs us, was the trouble between the porte and its Christian subjects following the revolt of the Christians in Bosnia and Herzegovina, who were secretly assisted by Servia and Montenegro. Russian interference was also strikingly shown upon the conclusion of the Chino-Japanese war, when the bear deprived little Japan of the fruits of her well earned victory, refusing to allow her to take any territory save the island of Formosa.

Russia, it will thus be seen, would have no just cause for protesting should other powers attempt to dictate regarding the czar's attitude toward those of his subjects who entertain religious views differing from those held by the established church, the Greek church. The fact remains, nevertheless, that Russia has gone on record as being prepared to take as a personal affront any outside interference in religious matters, no matter how critical and brutal may become religious disputes within the czar's domains. It will be patent to any one that the government of the bear is ready to fight on the slightest pretext, and it would seem as though the long expected conflict were at last really imminent.

Much depends on the course pursued in the near future by the czar's advisers, who have the reputation of being farseeing men. Chief among these are Sergius de Witte, the minister of finance, and Count Lamsdorff, the minister of foreign affairs. The former may not unaptly be called the business manager of the empire, while the latter is by many deemed the real ruler of Russia, since he it is who molds the national destiny. Both are broad minded men, zealous in the interests of their country. Lamsdorff was the author of the note presented by the powers to the sultan which caused the latter to promise reforms in the Balkans. His was the influence also that led to the gradual absorption of Manchuria by Russia. It is difficult to conceive that a man of the caliber of Lamsdorff will brook "interference" with the alleged rights of his country or will submit without a protest to having his policy of aggrandizement nullified.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY, former secretary of the navy, has been in the racing game but a few years, yet has scored some notable triumphs, his greatest being the winning of the English Derby with Volodyovski. Mr. Whitney is one of the most generous supporters of the turf. President of the Saratoga Racing association, he hopes to make Saratoga the Ascot of America.

JAMES B. HAGGIN has spent millions in breeding and racing horses and is entitled to the appellation "dean of the American turf." Old race goers well remember his Salvator, Miss Woodford and Firenzi. The Haggin stable is especially well represented today by Waterboy, whose recent feat of breaking the world's record for the mile and a quarter is still the talk of the turf.

JOHN A. DRAKE'S chief claim to fame in the racing world rests upon his ownership of the game colt Savable, which as a two-year-old startled the eastern turfites by coming out of the west and capturing the classic Futurity. Mr. Drake is a thoroughgoing sportsman and is firm in his opinion that his favorite, Savable, is the crack three-year-old of the season.

JOHN E. MADDEN ranks as the most successful of America's professional turfmen. With a rare knowledge of horseflesh he couples a happy knack of knowing how to "place" entries and as a result is preeminently fortunate in the way of winning stakes. As a secondary consequence his horses are eagerly sought by the wealthy patrons of the turf and command fancy prices.

WILLIAM C. DALY, better known as "Father Bill" Daly, has for years been a notable figure on the turf. Equally renowned as a trainer of horses and a trainer of jockeys, the Hartford sage may be placed in a class by himself. He is a versatile genius, is "Father Bill," and always has a sleeveful of surprises for the sporting fraternity of the eastern tracks.

EDWARD R. THOMAS is a newcomer on the turf, but he has already won a far reaching reputation as a liberal spender. He is the man who paid $60,000 for Hermis and has been regretting it ever since, despite the consolation afforded by the victories of his two-year-old Pulsus. In professional life Mr. Thomas is a banker. He is always cool and unruffled.

ELMORE E. SMATHERS has long been a horse lover, but it was only this year that he invaded the realm of the runners, his activities being hitherto confined to the trotting track. Mr. Smathers has gathered a small but select stable, chief of which is the four-year-old beauty McChesney. The illustration shows Mr. Smathers as the cartoonist sees him after a "killing."

Results Attained by the Discovery Expedition

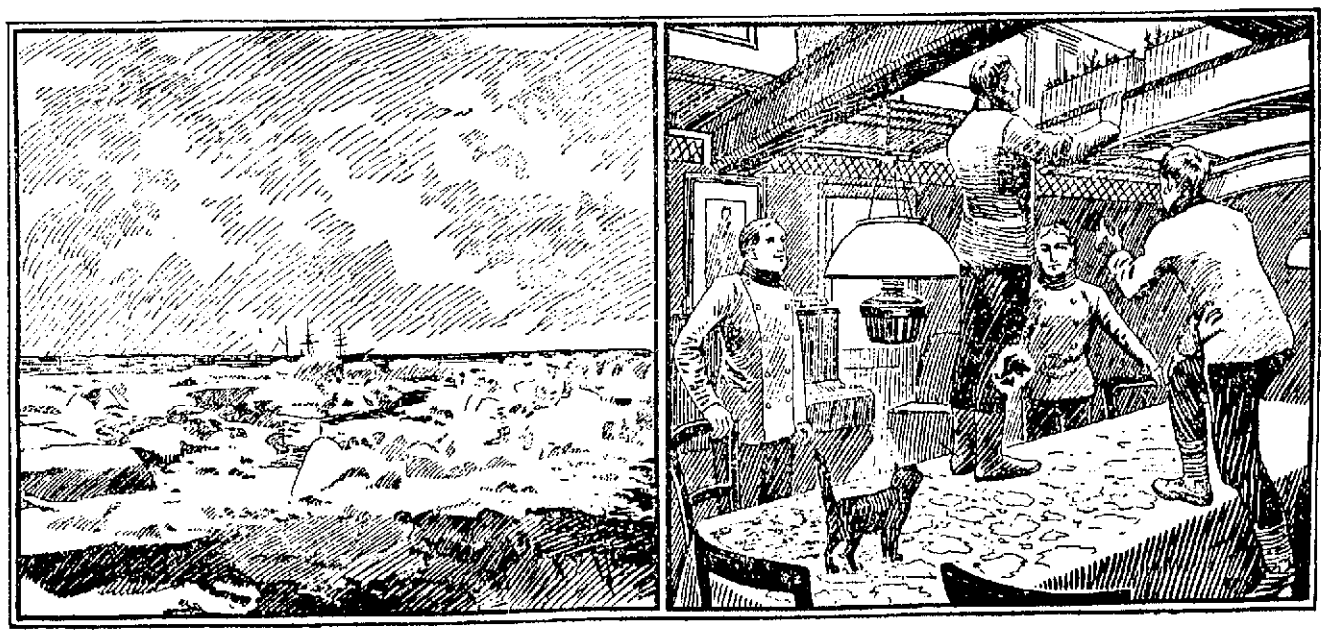

SCIENTISTS are just beginning to realize the importance of the work accomplished by the British antarctic expedition which left England in the steamer Discovery in 1901, attained the farthest point south that man has yet reached and is still engaged, with the Discovery frozen fast in the ice of the polar region, in prosecuting its researches. Reports from the beleaguered vessel show conclusively that valuable additions have been made to the sum of human knowledge. The expedition, be it remembered, was not sent south for the purpose of hunting for the pole, but solely in the interests of science, and, although the voyagers have penetrated farther than any of their predecessors into the mysterious realms of the geographical ignis fatuus, it is not upon this that they rely for fame. That their hopes have been fulfilled to an extraordinary degree and that the voyage of the Discovery will ever be remembered as a most important event in the history of science is the unanimous verdict of those who have been privileged to examine the reports, maps and charts already to hand.

The real work of the expedition began with the arrival of the Discovery off Cape Adare on Jan. 9, 1902. Large quantities of pack ice had been encountered since the Discovery left Lyttelton, New Zealand, on Dec. 22, but fortunately the pack was fairly open, and one of the greatest dangers to the voyagers was thus rendered comparatively insignificant and the Discovery was able easily to steer her way through to open water. During the one day's halt at Cape Adare birds and other zoological specimens were collected, the explorers being greatly impressed with the fameness shown by all animals in the antarctic region, who display no fear at the sight of man. On Jan. 15 the Discovery made Lady Newnes bay and thence proceeded south to Wood bay, at the upper end of which towers a wonderful antarctic volcano known as Mount Melbourne. On Jan. 20 the Discovery sighted a still higher volcano, Mount Erebus, which was then emitting a long column of smoke, that hung like a pall over the stretch of ice. Two days later the steamer began to skirt the famous great ice barrier.

Running eastward from Cape Crozier, this remarkable wall of ice extends for over 500 miles without an opening of any sort, looming over the Antarctic ocean at a height of from fifty to 280 feet. The geologists of the expedition were kept busy while the steamer ran along the great barrier, fine weather enabling them to examine it carefully for the purpose of establishing its origin. Jan. 29 the explorers began to realize that they were on the verge of an important discovery, undulating slopes of snow appearing in place of the uniformly level surface of the barrier. Next day black rocks showed themselves through slopes and ridges, giving the first hint of the vast antarctic continent, the existence of which was later revealed to the voyagers and which they believe extends to the pole. A balloon ascension was now made, the first ever attempted from a field of ice, but the ascent was without result so far as definitely proving that land existed to the south. The Discovery now proceeded to Mount Erebus, and on March 24 winter quarters were established not far from the volcano, the Discovery being then held fast by the ice. She has remained icebound ever since.

Preparations were at once made for beginning the scientific research for which the Discovery had been dispatched to these rigid regions. Although the extreme cold greatly hampered the explorers work proceeded expeditiously, perfect discipline being maintained by Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and the other British naval officers who had been lent by the admiralty to the Royal society and the Royal Geographical society, the patrons of the expedition. The crew were in good spirits, provided, as they were, with many comforts, a pleasant mess room and a cozy ward room, boasting a library and several musical instruments. It is worthy of note that the men started a little flower garden aboard the Discovery and succeeded in growing some crocuses, which, by an odd coincidence, bloomed on Easter Sunday. Thus the crew had opportunity for recreation from their daily tasks, which at times were indeed arduous. There was always work on sledges, harness and dog sheds. Every day, too, found a party busy with the ice melters, turning glacier ice into drinking water. There was always routine work in plenty, to say nothing of the extra labor involved in preparing for the departure of the various parties which "sledded" over the ice in all directions for hundreds of miles from the Discovery.

EASTER SUNDAY OUTSIDE AND INSIDE THE DISCOVERY.

Of these expeditions the most notable was that in which Captain Scott, Lieutenant Shackleton and Dr. Wilson participated and which resulted in their reaching the farthest point south, 82 degrees 17 minutes south latitude and 160 degrees 40 minutes east longitude. Lieutenant Shackleton, who is now in England, whither he returned to recover his health, shaken by the rigors of the antarctic winter, declares that if they had had sufficient provisions the little party could easily have reached the pole. As it was, they broke the record by 270 miles and saw enough to convince them that the antarctic does not contain an archipelago, but a continent.

Probably the most important scientific results attained by the expedition are in the field of magnetic research, the value of which will be manifest when it is said that the work accomplished by the Discovery, taken together with that of other expeditions from other countries engaged in the study of the magnetic elements, is expected to correct the variations in existing charts and thus add to the safety of transoceanic travel. The meteorological investigations conducted by the officers, often in the face of howling antarctic hurricanes, are also expected to be fruitful, especially in the way of casting light on the problems of low temperatures and blizzards.

Branches of biology, zoology and ornithology have been carefully studied, and hundreds of new species will be included in the books dealing with the fauna of the deep sea as well as with the animals and birds of that part of the world. A rich fund of information is also expected from the geological workers of the expedition on the character of the antarctic volcanoes and the structure of the antarctic continent. Of course geographical research has been carried on to a great extent. Botany has come in for its share of attention, although little could be done in this field of observation owing to the scarcity of plant life. Last, but not least, some curious results have been reached in bacteriology.

The work was greatly facilitated by the dispatch last year of the relief steamer Morning, which found the explorers cheerful, enthusiastic and in good health. Captain Colbeck of the Morning, who returned home only the other day, reports that the Discovery is well provisioned and that there is no reason why those aboard cannot complete the investigations upon which they have been so long and so zealously engaged.

CARRIE NATION

Comes to Grief at Scranton

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31—Carrie Nation, the "Kansas cyclone," invaded the office of Mayor A. W. Connell yesterday morning and said:

"I want to see the mayor of this town."

The mayor was not in and Carrie, who wanted to give him a piece of her mind for her arrest Wednesday, was going down the steps when she met Superintendent of Police Day.

"You're a two-legged hog, you big beefy, porky thing," she yelled at him while the crowd in the street cheered.

"Arrest that woman," said the police superintendent, and a police officer took Mrs. Nation in custody, and after a struggle placed her in a cell, where she cried like a child. She had a hearing last evening and was fined $10.

Carrie has had a stormy time of it since she came to Scranton. She was fined $10 for selling hatchets without a license. Yesterday she sallied forth to see Robert C. Willis, a liquor dealer, and expostulated with him for advertising the "Carrie Nation cocktail."

On her way she was horrified by a patent medicine advertisement of a nude woman in a drug store in the Y. M. C. A. building. She sought the secretary of the association and gave him a tongue lashing.

MR. KEATING HOME

He Got a Reception in New York

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—John T. Keating of Chicago, formerly national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was given a reception by the Clan-na-Gael last night at Cooper union. Mr. Keating who arrived from Ireland yesterday on the steamship Teutonic, delivered the address at the annual pilgrimage to the grave of the leader of the United Irishmen in 1793, Theobald Wolfe Tone, at Bodenstown, Ire., on June 21 last, upon the invitation of the Nationalists in Ireland.

The affair was under the direction of the Clan na Gael in which Keating is prominent, although he poses as representing the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which is in no way responsible for his actions or his utterances. He was formerly national president of the A. O. H.

SPEEDY TRIAL

FOR PARKS AND McCARTHY, WALKING DELEGATES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 31.—Dist.-Atty. Jerome made it plain yesterday that he intends to insist upon a speedy trial for Samuel J. Parks and Timothy McCarthy, two walking delegates of the Housesmiths' union, who are charged with assault, and are also under indictment for extortion.

When the assault case was called, before Judge Olmstead in special sessions yesterday, Parks and McCarthy were represented by Henry A. Brann and Joseph P. Eustace. They are accused of assaulting Peter O'Neil of the Plasterers' union. Mr. Jerome moved the trial for next Tuesday. Mr. Brann objected, saying he had understood that no assault cases were to be tried during July or August, and that both he and Mr. Eustace wanted to go away on their vacations. Mr. Jerome insisted upon a speedy trial. The trial of Parks and McCarthy on the charge of extortion is set for Aug. 13.

Parks has stated recently that he would soon leave for South Africa to call out the 1000 iron workers who are now employed there by New York contractors on work representing $35,000,000 of capital. Most of this work is being done by the Milliken Bros. and the American Bridge company of this city. Concerning Parks' South African mission, a member of the Iron League said today:

"Parks has reached the point where he is trying to scare somebody. It is true that there are many men employed by American capital in South Africa, but I don't see that there is to be a very good opportunity for Parks to go there for the purpose of making trouble. He will be tolerably busy here in the criminal courts for the next few months."

OLD ORCHARD EXCURSION ON THURSDAY, AUG. 13TH—$1.50 ROUND TRIP.

Old Orchard is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful seashore resorts on the North Atlantic coast. It has a strech of beautiful sandy beach such as few ocean resorts in the country can boast of.

The long ocean pier, which reaches way out into the water, and on which hundreds daily delight in a promenade, is one of the numerous points of interest.

A first-class vaudeville theatre is situated on the end of the pier. The bathing is first class and the facilities for enjoying a plunge in the surf are exceptionally good. The hotels are models, and their cuisine is of the finest. You can satisfy your hunger with a good Old Orchard shore dinner, which is alone worth traveling for. All these qualities tend to make Old Orchard the one beach of New England.

Round trip tickets at reduced rate of $1.50, good going and returning only on special train, on August 13th, will be on sale at Lowell, South Lawrence and Lawrence via the Boston & Maine railroad. Special train will leave Lowell, Middlesex street, at 8.15 a. m. Returning, leave Old Orchard at 5 p. m.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, July 31.—Close matches were the order yesterday in the golf tournament on Onwentsia for the Ranyoke cup. With the completion of the fifth and semi-final rounds, Walter Egan of Exmoor and Roswell F. Murray of Riverside are left to fight it out today in the finals. Mason Phelps who put Chandler Egan out of the game Wednesday was defeated yesterday by Walter Egan at the 19th hole.

NEGRO LYNCHING

Is Defended by Senator Tillman

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOLINE, Ill., July 31.—Senators Tillman and Burton continued their debate on the negro question here yesterday. The Kansas speaker suggested an educational standard as a remedy for negro ignorance, and Senator Tillman delivered a striking speech.

"God made a negro inferior to a white man," said he, "and Africa proves it. I would not put him back in slavery but he should never govern us. You wouldn't let him, and we are as good as you are, and we will see him in hell before we will permit it. We don't intend ever to let him get on our backs to govern us.

"When you hold sacred the 15th amendment, that says the races are equal, you add fuel to a race war that is bound to come. I do not believe in lynching for any crime but one. When a negro assaults a white woman the only thing to do is to hunt him down and put him out of his miserable existence as soon as possible. We are doing this and we are going to keep on doing it, and if you don't like it you can lump it."

Senator Burton cited the success which had been attained in arts and in industry by negroes to show that the race is improving, and declared that Tillman does not represent the sentiment of the progressive and enlightened south. He declared that the Egyptians were negroes and that Moses married a negro.

"Lynching," said he, "is the most heinous of crimes. Don't tell me it is necessary to lynch men to protect the home. You cannot protect a home by lawlessness and it is either the law or anarchy. The severity of the punishment does not deter crime as much as the surety under the law."

Tillman ridiculed the inconsistency of the government which says the negroes may vote, yet denies the right to Filipinos. In the course of his speech he derided the knowledge of Harriet Beecher Stowe on the negro question.

HURDY GURDY

MAKES MUSIC FOR COTTAGERS AT WILLOW DALE.

Last evening at Willow Dale the cottagers danced to the music of a hurdy gurdy. The evening was pleasantly spent and the 50 couples or more of devotees of Terpsichore danced everything from a breakdown to a stately lancer.

Magouns Cut Off in Margaret's Will

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31.—Margaret Magoun, the adopted daughter of the late Thatcher Magoun of Medford, who inherited in 1883 the bulk of the shipping merchant's fortune in preference to the latter's children by marriage, has bequeathed nearly all her property, worth about $200,000, to her relatives by blood, leaving to the heirs at law, Thatcher Magoun's daughter and his dead son's five children, only $5 each.

The will was filed yesterday with the probate court in East Cambridge. Counsel for the heirs-at-law, Whipple, Sears & Ogden, stated yesterday that it had not yet been decided whether the will would be contested.

In Thatcher Magoun's will 20 years ago he stated that he gave absolutely to his adopted daughter, Margaret, the High street mansion with all its valuable furnishings, pictures, heirlooms, etc., and he expressed the hope, without constraining her in any way, that she would give on her death to his descendants the furnishings and the heirlooms. In only one instance did Miss Magoun follow out this wish; she gave the portrait of her adopted father, painted by Young, to one of his grandsons, Henry Magoun.

The daughter of Thatcher Magoun, Sr., Mrs. D. O. Kidder, and his grandchildren, Thatcher, Henry, Arthur and Esther Magoun and Mrs. Frederick Kendall, children of Thatcher Magoun, Jr., were given in the will of 1883 two-thirds of the income of a trust fund; the other third of the income went to the adopted daughter, but on her death was to be divided by the trustees among the heirs-at-law. This trust found amounted to nearly $100,000, it is understood, and the entire income will now be enjoyed by the blood relatives of the late Mr. Magoun, who are enumerated above.

REV. WM. F. GANNON

APPOINTED RECTOR OF BOSTON COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 31—The appointment of the Rev. William F. Gannon of St. John's college, Fordham, N. Y., as rector of Boston college was announced last night. The appointment goes into effect at once. The new rector succeeds the Rev. W. G. Read Mullan, who has acted as head of the college for the past five years. The change is made in accordance to a custom of the Jesuit fathers which annually affects all colleges, churches and missions within their jurisdiction. Fr. Mullan will now take up his quarters at Georgetown university.

FINAL TWO DAYS OF OUR ANNUAL JULY SALE

BON MARCHE DRY GOODS CO.

FUN IS MY THEME

Accommodating.

New Cook—Well, I dare say your place will do, but—ah, I forgot—have you any children?

The Master (prospective, wearily)—Yes, I have five, but, of course, I could drown two or three if you insist upon it.

Delicately Put.

She was describing an exciting incident.

"I completely lost my head," she said.

"If you are as careless of yourself as that," he returned, "perhaps you would be willing to spare your hand."

RIGHT THERE.

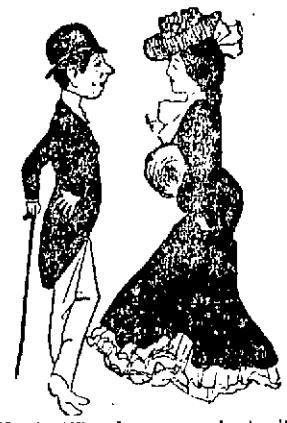

"If I should kiss you what would you do?"
"I never meet a contingency till it happens."
"But if it should happen?"
"I'd meet it face to face."

A BOXER.

She—What size gloves do you wear?
He (unthinkingly)—Five ounces.

QUITE PROBABLE.

Mamie—Why do you go about with Mr. Doolittle so much, Gussie?

Gussie—I—er have to help him out, you know. If it wasn't for me—aw—he'd be the biggest fool in the town.

ANOTHER VARIETY.

Mabel—The idea of your being afraid to kiss her! Why, that kind of microbe is not a bit dangerous.

Tom—No, but her father is.

HER LITTLE JOKE.

Tom: "Do you enjoy a sail, Miss Helen?"
Helen: "You bet I do. Father is an auctioneer."

BETWEEN RIVALS.

"You have no idea how embarrassed the count was when he proposed to me."

"Oh, yes! His embarrassment was so great that nothing but your father's money could relieve it."

A Change.

"Hov yez got any pethroleum?" she inquired as she entered the grocery store early in the morning.

"Yes," replied the clerk.

"Are yez sure it's pethroleum an' nothin' else?"

"Absolutely certain."

"Well, yez kin give me 10 cents' worth, an' Oi want it in a hurry. The missus says Oi've got to shtop usin' kerosene to start the fire."

Too Good For Use

"That is a rare old violin I hear you playing so often, is it not?" asked the next door neighbor.

"It is indeed," replied the owner of the instrument. "It cost over $500."

"Seems to me," rejoined the other wearily, "It's too valuable to be used like an ordinary fiddle. If it was mine, I would not touch it more than once a year."

Economy.

"What's the matter with Primly?"

"Why, he went home with a new hat the other day, and it didn't fit very well, and so his wife cut his hair away wherever it stuck."

The Genius.

"I am sorry that Miss Bankum is out. You won't forget to mention that I called?"

"No, indade, sor. Oi'll run roight up an' tell her now!"

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

"Do you think," he said, with much embarrassment, "that—er—that is to say—if we were married your father would be willing to assist us in any way?"

"He might," was the thoughtful reply. "He is getting to be ever so successful now in divorce cases."

Her Request.

"Edgar, love," said the bride as the train moved away with them on their wedding tour, "I want you to make me one solemn promise."

"Haven't I just done that, my own?" asked the bewildered bridegroom.

"But this is something else. I want you to promise that—that"—

"That I will never marry again if you should die?"

"No, indeed. That you will always be good to dear little Fido."

The bridegroom said something, but it was lost in the rattle of the train, and the recording angel forgot to put it down.

Remarkable.

He—I see that statisticians have found that men live longer than women do. This is almost beyond belief.

She—I don't see why you should take that view of it. Men are naturally stronger than women.

He—Yes; but, on the other hand, look at the risks of being talked to death that they are constantly running.

No Comparison.

Paterfamilias (walking the floor with son and heir)—Babies, they say, are such helpless things. But what do they think of me? Talk about helplessness!

CAUSE FOR DELIGHT.

"The Newriches seem delighted with their auto."

"Well, it's the first chance they've had to make a noise in the world."

ALMOST OUT.

Our preacher, grown quite old and glum,
No more a beacon bright,
Has dwindled so that he's become
A "dim religious light."

TOO MUCH LIKE WORK.

"Are you fond of golf, Mr. Winkletop?"
"Oh, yes, awfully! I send my valet to play every day."

A SECRET.

"I suppose your engagement to the millionairess is still a secret?"
"Yes; only my most intimate creditors know of it."

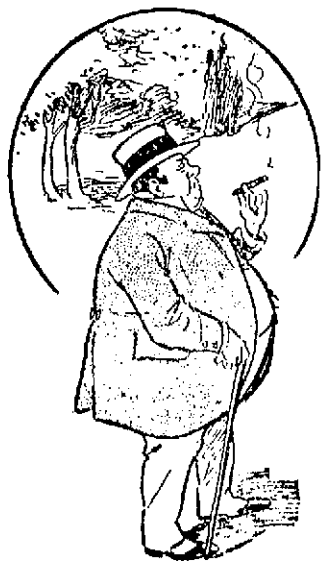

POSSESSED.

"I wonder what's the matter with Nellie this evening. She acts like one possessed."

"She probably is. I noticed a new ring on her finger when she came downstairs."

BUT HE DOESN'T LOOK IT.

Mr. Goodishlump—Oh, how small one feels in the presence of Nature!

A MATTER OF SEX.

She—At the conclusion of an argument between a man and a woman the man is silenced, if not convinced.

He—Yes, and the woman is convinced, but never silenced.

MATRIMONIAL JOYS.

Mr. J.: "The paper I was reading last evening says that a woman seldom achieves anything great."

Mrs. J.: "That article was written by a married woman."

Mr. J.: "How do you know?"

Mrs. J.: "Oh, because—and she was thinking of her husband when wrote it."

LOWELL POLICE

Playing for New England Championship

By Associated Press to The Sun

The baseball championship of New England, so far as the police are concerned, will be settled today, when the team from division 9, Boston, meets a team from the police department of Lowell on the Huntington avenue grounds.

Judging from the form exhibited by the Roxbury "coppers," in practice games, the team is fast enough to meet almost any of the semi-professional clubs in the state. The battery is very strong, considering that the men have very little opportunity to practice; the infield works well together and the men in the outfield cover a great deal of ground.

The pitching is done by "Tom" Smith, an old Louisville and Philadelphia National leaguer, and thus far this season his benders have been an enigma to the men who have faced him. "Jack" Conboy, who caught for the Warrens of Dorchester when that team was one of the strongest in the state, catches. Another star performer is George Mahoney, who plays second. Mahoney, who is one of the largest men in the department, played football for English high school some years ago, when the team was of championship quality. He went to Georgetown, where he caught on the team during its most succesful seasons. He also played with the Boston National league team some years ago.

The remainder of the team is made up of John J. Mullen 1b, Fred J. Swendemann 2b, Andrew T. Walsh ss, Thomas M. Towle cf, John J. Rooney lf, and Michael J. Mathews rf.

During the season the team has defeated teams from division 4 and the Press club and a team captained by Eugene O'Connor, an old Eastern league player. Much of its success is due to the efficient manner in which it has been managed by Patrolman John J. Coffey.

Among the players on the Lowell team are six former professionals. They claim that during the past few years, they have played 40 games, losing only one, and that to a New England league team. The game today is scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock.

BARN CONSUMED

Lively Blaze in Pawtucketville Last Night

IN BARN FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY ITALIANS

One Horse Burned in Its Stall

All Pawtucketville was aroused from its slumbers about midnight by a brilliant fire in the barn owned by David S. Clark, in the rear of 11 Woodward avenue.

The residents of the vicinity were thrown into a state of excitement not only by the brilliancy of the blaze but by a knowledge of the fact that for the past few months the barn has been occupied by 75 Italian laborers who left it only a few days ago.

The blaze was in progress fully 20 minutes before the alarm was sounded and the burning barn was only a stone's throw from the Pawtucketville fire house.

The blaze was first seen in the distance by passengers on the last Lowell-bound Pelham car and by the railroad employes at the power house 20 minutes before the alarm sounded. On the last car was Edward Commerford, residing on White street, who kept a horse and order wagon in the barn. Mr. Commerford arrived on the scene almost as soon as the first fire company, but too late to save his horse.

James Welch of Second avenue and some ladies residing on Third avenue discovered the flames when they shot through the roof. Mr. Welch ran to the barn and attempted to get the horse out but was driven back by the flames. The women woke up the firemen in the engine house while Officer Edward Fox rung in an alarm from box 127, at the corner of Mammoth road and Fourth avenue.

The building was a two story and a half barn with one story carriage shed adjoining and in a short time both were in ruins. The wind carried the sparks over the residence of Police Officer Henry Somers nearby, and for a time it was feared that this building would ignite, though it escaped without damage.

The barn was used by Mr. Commerford to keep his house and wagon in and by Edward H. Morse, a son-in-law of the owner, as a store house for vehicles. An order wagon and two old hacks were saved. The loss is estimated at $1500.

Just how the fire started is a mystery. It appears to have had its origin in the upper right hand corner of the building and the whole interior was in flames before the discovery was made.

The reflection of the blaze was seen for a great distance and considering the hour a large crowd gathered.

Fred C. Church held the insurance on the building.

THE BUTLER VETS

Did Not Make Record at Haverhill

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, July 31—Conditions were bad for the playout of hand tubs here yesterday.

The playout course at the Webster grounds was laid directly opposite from the usual course, the companies playing to the south, and unfortunately, for the greater part of the afternoon they had the wind dead against them. The element of luck in the work is seen by the fact that the Salem White Angels were unable to get on to the paper with their stream, and the City of Lowell and City of Somerville teams were equally unfortunate, while the Tigers of Newburyport, who were accounted a dark horse in the contest, won the first money by a long lead, their regular stream being 151 feet 7½ inches, after which a second trial was made, in which the drops increased the distance to 158 feet 8¾ inches. The order of the playout and the distance made were as follows:

	Ft.	In.
Neptune, Newburyport	150	8
L. Y. Spaulding, Haverhill	155	6½
White Angel, Salem	*	..

*No record.

First money was awarded to the Tigers, Columbia second, Torrent third and City of Lawrence fourth. The judges were Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell, ex-Chief S. C. Reed of Newburyport, Chief W. E. Cade of Wakefield, ex-Chief George H. Wilfred of Revere, Capt. E. H. Hooper of Peabody and C. N. Perkins of Lawrence. The prize awarded to the company coming the longest distance went to the Columbia's company of Winchendon, and for the company making the best appearance to the L. Y. Spaulding company of this city.

GIRL UNCONSCIOUS

LIGHTNING STRUCK A BARN IN ROCHESTER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 31.—The worst electrical storm of the season visited this section yesterday afternoon. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning struck in many places.

The barn of William McDuffee, about two miles out on the Farmington road, was badly shattered.

Miss Nellie McDuffee, daughter of Mr. McDuffee, who was in the barn at the time, was knocked down and rendered unconscious. She afterward regained consciousness and will, it is thought, recover.

A horse, a cow and a pig were also felled, the pig dying soon after. The barn was damaged to the extent of $300, covered by insurance.

This is the third time Mr. McDuffee buildings have been struck by lightning.

The lightning also shattered two shade trees at Gonic.

C. F. KEYES - Auctioneer
OFFICE, OLD BOSTON & MAINE STATION, GREEN STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AND 4498 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 313 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder, at public auction, this dwelling house of 12 rooms, sewing room, bath, pantry; large, fine cellar. At the present time it is occupied by two tenants, receiving $15 for down stairs and $13 for up stairs, making a yearly rental of about $336. It is very comfortably laid out for two tenements at present and for little money could be put in perfect two-tenement property. The location is all that could be desired, right at the junction of Pine and Westford streets, on the easterly side, on the best smooth-paved street and electric car service in the city; but five minutes' ride to the post office, and it is a thoroughly good prospect for either a residence or a two tenement purpose.

The lot contains about 4498 square feet of land with a frontage on Westford street of about 41 feet. The sale will be made at the premises, and if you are interested in such property, be sure and be there in attendance.

Terms: $350 must be secured to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. 10 per cent. of the selling price can remain on mortgage.

Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, C. F. Keyes, who is in charge.
